A large number of weavers, mostly young women from South-East Lancashire, are emigrating to Canada. Women agents acting in behalf of mill owners in Valleyfield and other manufacturing localities in Canada have been scouring Lancashire and Yorkshire in search of women weavers willing to emigrate to the Dominion. I believe passage money in some cases has been advanced.

A letter in the Evening Globe, signed "Canadian," referring to the contribution to the navy says: "I do not hesitate to say monies will be forthcoming from the people of Canada in spite of the Canadian press and the Canadian politicians who are not the real mouthpiece of Canadian opinion.

Several large apple shippers, writing to Mr. Griffiths, secretary of the High Commissioner, warns Canadian fruitmen to slacken the exports of apples by the fourteenth of December, as after that date the trade will be slack till early in January. Two cargoes, lately arrived, proved to be badly packed, and consequently poor prices were received. There is formidable competition for Canada in the Russian apple, which is now coming in in large quantities.

EVERYTHING

Depends on Food

How often the kind of food eaten determines a question of future health and happiness or even life or death.

"Our little girl when but five weeks old had to undergo a very severe operation which left her unable to take her nourishment in the natural way, that is by nursing, and of course she had to be fed. She was naturally frail and the food did not help her. At the age of eleven weeks she was subject to a second operation and from that time she continued to grow thinner and weaker until she was but a mere shadow," so writes a lady of Ohio.

"We tried many kinds of infant foods and then the doctor directed us to try Grape-Nuts. We did so and at the end of the first week noticed an improvement and after that she began to improve rapidly. As we continued to give her Grape-Nuts she kept gaining until she is now more than two years old and strong and healthy. Her main food has always been Grape-Nuts and to Grape-Nuts she owes her life. Naturally we are firm friends of the food and never lose an opportunity to speak a good word for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

HOTTENSOT TRIBE SLEW ALL THE GERMANS.

Captured English Families and Still Hold Them, Native Uprising is Feared.

Cape Town, Nov. 6.—The recent reports of massacre of the German garrison at Warmbad, South-west Africa, by the Bondelzwarts, a Hottentot tribe, have been confirmed. The situation looks ugly. The Bondelzwarts, numbering 10,000, rebelled, it is alleged, because German officers executed one of their chiefs, and learning of the approach of German reinforcements, they rushed to Warmbad and massacred all the Germans there. They also captured some English families, who are still held prisoners. Meanwhile, a severe fight occurred between the Germans marching to the relief of Warmbad and the remainder of the Hottentots. The result is not known.

A British surveying party, which reached Stinkfontein, on the Orange River found that the drift was strongly held by the Bondelzwarts, who threaten violence. The danger of the affair lies in the possibility of its developing into a native uprising.

JEWS ARE DIVIDED.

London, Nov. 6.—The Mail says that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's speech makes it clear that he has abandoned his earlier attitude of rigid Cobdenism, and nowis fast advancing behind Mr. Balfour.

The Standard says teh address ranks with those of Lord Goschen and Lord George Hamilton as an acute and vigorous criticism of the new protectionist projects.

The Post says. "We strongly urge on Sir Michael a study of the reciprocal movement between the United States and Canada before making another speech."

The News is glad that Sir Michael had the spirit to resent the intolerable insolence of Mr. Chamberlain's attack. It adds that his speech shows he cares for 250,000,000 Indians, not white, but still God's creatures."

"'Portia—Good sentences, and well pronounced.

"'Nerissa—They would do better if well followed.'"

The Times says the difference between Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is the difference in their more or less general effective use of a weapon which both regard as legitimate and necessary. Other free fooders besides Sir Michael are finding out that they will have to surrender the fundamental principle, and will learn that too grudging a surrender will hardly serve their turn.

The Electrophone's Triumph.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham was taken by reporters of The Daily Mail by means of the electrophone, which allowed them, sitting in the London office, 113 miles distant, to hear every word spoken. The speech was printed verbatim, and the paper was selling on the street 27 minutes after the speech was concluded. The electrophone beat the telegraph one hour and 27 minutes. The Mail claims that it has inaugurated a revolution in reporting.

HOW THE BOERS FEEL

A correspondent of the London Times has been traveling among the repatriated Boers in the Transvaal and trying to discover the true state of their feelings towards Great Britain. He says that he believes that most of them are friendly and grateful for what has been done for them, but that they feel considerable anxiety about the future. The great majority of them are in the government's debt; and it is the doubt as to how far their share of the free gift of £3,000,000 will get them out of debt which weighs upon their minds. The correspondent thinks that the hardest task is still in front, namely, the collection of debts, the just assessment of claims, and, above all, the fulfillment of promises made. It is the manner in which this work is carried out, he says, which will determine the attitude to be adopted by the greater proportion of the Boer population. There must be the most scrupulous fairness and the utmost tact, he declares, and no promise must remain unfulfilled. The Boers do not accept the new order of things without considerable misgiving, and the hurt to their national pride cannot be quickly healed; but he believes that for the most part they have confidence in their new government, and will be content so long as they are fairly treated. But, he adds, there are a considerable number of temporary irreconcilables who may be expected to make trouble as soon as government benefactions have been exhausted. Moreover, there are a body of permanent irreconcilables who still dream of a South African republic and are already busily sowing the seeds of discontent among the more peaceable inhabitants.

THE ATHLETIC GIRL IN A NEW LIGHT

The athletic girl has of recent years been the subject of much controversy. She has been commended by many and athletics for the fair sex strongly urged as increasing woman's bodily strength and making her more reliant and the better able to meet emergencies.

But often it has been claimed that athletics make girls unwomanly and banishes that tender, timid feeling, which some think should be characteristic of the entire sex.

Among the coaches on the train wrecked near Indianapolis, Ind., on Saturday was one containing a number of young women. As they were accompanying the large excursion of Purdue University to a foot-ball contest, it is natural to suppose that they were of the class known as athletic girls. Riding on a rear coach they were uninjured.

Were these athletic girls representatives of the American woman of which the nation can well be proud? Let the dispatches describing the accident speak for them. One report says:

"Immediately after the shock the passengers, men and women, began the frantic work of tearing away the wreckage and pulling out dead and dying classmates and fraternity brothers. The young women performed heroic work. Though the bodies were, in several instances, horribly mangled, one completely and one partially beheaded, they took upon their laps the heads of the dying and injured and soothed their sufferings as best they could, until the surgeons arrived. Their bloodstained and grimy garments were grim witnesses of their heroism."

There was no shrinking, no fainting among these heroines. Athletics had taught them to control the nerves, and, surrounded by gruesome sights, which would have caused many men to faint, they did not forget that in time of distress woman is the ministering angel.

Far better a race of such heroines than a class of nervous, timid, fainting females. Give us more athletic girls and humanity and the nation will be the better for it.

AS THE YANKEES SEE IT

An American banker who has just returned from Great Britain after an extensive tour of that land, states that England is rapidly drifting towards protection, and that in a short time the sentiment will force the rulers of that land to adopt it.

In a score of years Britain has seen America wrest from it the distinction of being the greatest manufacturing nation of the world. It has seen the powerful rival on this side of the Atlantic wrest from it many of its markets, and it has also witnessed the United States become the money power of the world.

The United States, under protection, has advanced as no other nation has ever done before. Britain, under free trade has steadily declined. No wonder, then that England is now ready to drop theory and to profit by the experience that America furnishes.

It is protection which has made America what it is.

DR. EMMERSON HONORED.

A Former Resident of Peterborough Very Popular.

The following has been handed to The Times for publication in these columns, and is taken from the Conservator, Brampton. Both Dr. and Mrs. Emmerson formerly resided in Peterborough:

Dr. A. T. Emmerson has sold his property and practice at Claude to Dr. H. Softley, late of Peterborough. Dr. Softley [illegible] On Tuesday evening, the [illegible] was filled with the many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Emmerson, representing Claude, Inglewood and vicinity. They had gathered together to show their regret at parting with, and their good will towards those who are leaving. Mr. D. Graham was chosen as chairman and called on W. P. Goodman to read the following address, and Mr. Arch. McGregor to make the presentations.

Address and presentation to Dr. A. T. and Mrs. Emmerson:

Dear Friends,—We have met this evening for the purpose of spending a social hour with you and of saying "good-bye to you." We are sorry that you have decided to leave our community to locate elsewhere, and we can truthfully say that "We will miss you." Outside of your professional duties you have been deeply interested in all things pertaining to the welfare of those around you, and the good advice and friendly counsel given will be long remembered. Your relationship with those of us with whom you came in contact in connection with the Public Library, and in your church and Sunday School work have been most pleasant, and your place in these departments of work it will be hard to fill. While we regret your leaving us, yet we know it is for your future benefit, and we hope and trust that you may be successful in whatever sphere you may labor. We would ask you to accept the accompanying watch as an expression of our good will and esteem towards you and that whenever you look at it you may remember the time spent among us. Those of us who have known Mrs. Emmerson best have found her to be a devoted Christian lady, a kind friend, and one who was ready to do anything to help those in need, and we would desire to express our regret at losing her also, and would ask her also to accept this bracelet in remembrance of her many friends here. In your removal we will also lose another kind friend from our midst in the person of Mrs. Coe, with whom we are sorry to part, and we pray that God's blessing may follow all of you through your future lives.

Signed on behalf of your many friends of Claude, Inglewood and vicinity.

ARCH. McGREGOR
DONALD SMITH,
DONALD GRAHAM

October 13, 1903.

Dr. Emmerson replied for himself and Mrs. Emmerson in a feeling manner thanking their many friends for the kindness shown. Short addresses suitable to the occasion were made by Revs. Cheyne and Balfour, and Messrs. J. McKechnie, W. J. Jamieson, M. Bracken, James Wiggins, and Dr. Softley. Mrs. R. Maxwell and Miss W. Chesser interspersed the addresses with instrumental music. Refreshments were served at the close of the programme. Dr. Emmerson and wife and Mrs. Coe will be much missed in Claude and vicinity and also in Inglewood. During his residence at Claude the Dr. has been very energetic in his work in connection with the Methodist church here, and especially so in the Sunday School, of which he is Superintendent.

On the evening previous to this the young ladies of Dr. Emmerson's class in the Methodist Sunday School met at his residence and presented him with a beautiful teacher's bible, and an address. The A.O.U.W., at their regular meeting also gave the Dr. a Pastmaster's Badge, and a complimentary address. He has been one of the most faithful workers in the lodge at Claude.

All the foregoing goes to show the high esteem in which Dr. Emmerson is held, and the regret all have in losing him from our midst.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

Toronto, Nov. 6—The past week has been uneventful in Stock Exchange circles. The market still keeps sagging, and it is now only a question of time when all interest in it will completely die out. A year ago the gallery of the local exchange was crowded daily; the only inhabitant of this charmed circle yesterday was a black cat, belonging to the caretaker of the building. The fact is that the public is tired of stocks—at least Canadian stocks. The banks are holding their purse strings tight, and it is hard, very hard to get a loan on even any gilt edge Canadian security. Where it is all going to end no one seems to be able to foretell. The brokers are not buying stocks for their clients on margin. One must either put up the full market value on their purchases or stay out of the game. There is no alternative. With a doubtful market in New York, tight money in Toronto, and very little of it, it is hard to see where the brokers and their clients are going to get enough money to buy their winter's coal. In fact there have during the past week been sinister rumours around town to the effect that more than one brokerage house was finding it hard to finance its deals. My advice to the readers of this column is to stay out of the local stocks until such time as conditions are more settled.

In connection with the Atlas loan mess the feature this week was the examination of Mr. A. E. Ames. I have no hesitation in voicing the opinion of the majority of the readers of the daily papers in saying that the evidence given by that gentleman was in all respects convincing and most satisfactory. Mr. Ames made a good witness and his testimony under oath must certainly have gone a long way towards clearing out the dark corners in this unfortunate affair. Mr. Ames' many friends feel satisfied that his firm's connection with the Atlas Loan Company was strictly in accordance with the upright business methods with which the firm of Ames and Company have always been associated.

The "Man in the Street" called on White & Company, Front street, yesterday and had an interesting talk with Mr. W. H. Despard of the firm. Mr. Despard is a young man, but probably knows more about the fruit and produce business than any man in Toronto. Mr. Despard in speaking of his business said: "The past season has been a very heavy one in local fruits and prices have been somewhat discouraging to the shipper. Peaches were in good supply all season at reasonable prices. Plums were a glut on the market. Grapes have been the strongest feature, having held up in price remarkably well, owing to the mild weather. The fruit market has closed and foreign importations are arriving. The orange situation promises to be an interesting one the coming season. The Florida crop is a large one, also California, which is in the hands of a combine to regulate and maintain prices. Those two rival states are making a large bid for supremacy in early oranges. The hurricane destroyed the greater portion of the crop. The Mexicans are in good supply this year, but growers are asking more money than in previous seasons. These latter oranges come in contact with Valencias for Xmas cheap oranges, and now that they are better known promise to outrival them, owing to their exceptional sweetness.

Almeria grapes are coming forward in good supply. The total crop in Spain is estimated at 2,000,000 barrels, of which North America will get about 400,000, an advance over last year of some 50,000 barrels, but as prices are 60 cents to one dollar less, consumption will be greatly increased." At time of writing White and Company were just unloading a shipment of 700 barrels.

Speaking of the poultry business Mr. Despard said: "The poultry business, owing to the recent mild weather, has been disappointing to shippers. The present cold wave will 'boost' prices again. The egg market is quiet but steady at ruling prices at about 21 to 22 cents for fresh gathered and cold storage offered freely at 19 to 20 cents. Holders are, however, willing to unload on the present market as the bitter experience of last season has evidently taught them a lesson, when prices went from 30 down to 8 cents for cold storage eggs."

YOUR MONEY WORKS WHILE YOU SLEEP

Our famous corps of track sharps are up at break of day, "clocking" the horses in their morning tryouts and while you sleep they spot the winners that bring you steady income.—Our method puts you on a level with the most successful plungers of the American turf.—We operate for you for 25 per cent. of weekly earnings.—We win only when you win.—Results obtained really "beyond dreams of avarice."

Again we scored heavily for all of our clients last month. Again we landed the money and landed it in chunks. Three years of organization, with the best facilities that money and brains can procure to make our service of picking and backing winners at the horse races the most accurate and profitable in the land, has had its natural sequence, and each week our showing demonstrates a good profit for every client.

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

WE PICK THE WINNERS

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co. representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds, day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible firm, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL TRIBUNE, March 1, 1903

Maxim & Gay, who have been so successful in selecting winners at the New Orleans races, are in a class by themselves and have no relation in their system of operation to the "get-rich-quick" schemes that have recently gone to pieces disastrously to those who patronized them. Maxim & Gay do not guarantee their clients profits nor against losses, but merely play the money of their subscribers and deduct a fixed percentage from winnings for placing the commissions. This point is made clear in all their announcements. What they guarantee to do is to confidentially handle all money forwarded them and place it on the races just as if it were their own. They have in their employ as "clockers" the most expert judges of track work in the country, and there is not a horse at the New Orleans meeting that they have not a record of. The information collected in this way is used to the benefit of their subscribers, and its reliable character is attested by the numerous winners they have picked in the past two weeks.

Maxim & Gay are the pioneers in this line of investment or speculation, they have been established three years; they conduct their business on straightforward business lines, their methods have been thoroughly investigated and are entirely different from those pursued by the "get-rich-quick" schemes, so called, which were but recently closed by the authorities. The transactions of Maxim & Gay are legal in every sense, and they do exactly what they advertise to do, that is, play the money of their subscribers on the horses they judge will win, and they usually win. Prompt and proper accounting is made of the result, but they guarantee no fixed profits, those who have continuously patronized them have not been losers.

ST. PAUL DISPATCH, February 26, 1903

An investigation of the methods of the Maxim & Gay Co. shows them to be conducting their business on straightforward business lines. They have been established nearly three years. They do not guarantee clients profits or against loss, but merely place subscribers' money on judgments of experts, charging a fee for information and deduct a fixed percentage from winnings for placing the commissions. They are the pioneers in this line of investment or speculation.

N. Y. MORNING TELEGRAPH, February 22, 1903.

Since the incorporation of the Maxim & Gay Co., the casual racegoer can possess himself of as much if not more knowledge of the comparative merits of the horses, and their chances of success, as the "regular" who burns the midnight oil studying form charts. He can secure through the company, which is incorporated under the laws of New York State, the expert knowledge and expert judgment of an experienced combination of horsemen whose duty it is to find out for him such things concerning the horses as he could not possibly find out for himself, unless he devoted his entire time and attention to the business. Even then, to do so well, he would have to possess a peculiar talent and be specially fitted by experience and natural ability.

CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, March 2, 1903.

The Maxim & Gay Company, well-known purveyors of turf information, should not be confounded with "get rich quick" turf investment or concerns of similar character. They have been established nearly three years. They place subscribers money on judgment of their experts, and deduct a fixed percentage from winnings for placing the commissions. They are the Napoleons in this line of investment or speculation.

MEMPHIS EVENING SCIMITAR, March 2, 1903

The advertisements that appear from time to time in the columns of various newspapers with reference to the turf plan of Maxim & Gay Company tell a story entirely different from the exploits of the defunct "get-rich-quick" concerns.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. MR. CHAMBERLAIN AT BIRMINGHAM

Given an Ovation by Nine Thousand Townsmen

Another Appeal to Britons, to Face Changed Conditions

London, Nov. [illegible].—Mr. Chamberlain achieved a new triumph at Birmingham last night when he addressed a gathering of 9,000 of his fellow-townsmen in Bingley Hall. It was by far the largest audience the former Colonial Secretary had faced during his fiscal campaign, the the enthusiasm naturally exceeded the remarkably scenes witnessed in the others, and was emphasized by the Chamberlainite victory at yesterday's municipal election in Birmingham.

The speech was marked throughout by tumultuous enthusiasm, especially at the end, when, with true dramatic instinct, he drew from a piece of brown paper two enormous, equal-sized loaves of bread representing a taxed and untaxed loaf, and, holding them at arm's length, laughingly asked, "Which is which?"

Pleads For Empire's Unity.

The gist of the speech was an appeal to the English people to lose no time in binding closer the units of the Empire. If Britain were out of sympathy with the colonies and refused their offers, if she could not co-operate in sustaining the Empire, she would lose her opportunity and it would never recur. Then there would never be the bond of commercial union which at one time was the ideal of Lord Rosebery, and without a commercial policy they would never secure the Imperial federation for which Lord Rosebery declared he was willing to die.

A large party in the country still regarded the colonies as a costly encumbrance. He was not quite sure whether the modern leaders of free trade shared these antiquated views, but, at any rate, instead of appreciating the importance of Imperial unity, all they thought of was the unity of the Radical party.

Continuing, Mr. Chamberlain said: "We reverence the glory in those family ties with the colonies, and no politician should induce us to do anything which would cause us to sacrifice them. I am not presumptuous enough to predict beforehand exactly what all these great States will do in return. I have full confidence however, that they will do right.

"In the meantime some facts are public property. We know that a preferential system has been worked for by all the colonies on three separate occasions, and asked for at two conferences over which I presided in London.

"When I remember how all the colonies responded to their allegiance and sent men by thousands, and paid out money during the recent war, I feel confident, that we could negotiate with them without any fear of the result, and that they will show us great generosity and patriotism."

Cobden's Unfilled Prediction.

After dealing with conditions during the past fifty years under free trade, and quoting figures to sustain his argument, Mr. Chamberlain quoted Cobden as saying that the United States would eventually abandon manufacturing, and that "their workmen would go back to the land and dig and delve for us." Americans, however, said Mr. Chamberlain, had not so conceived their national destiny. Behind the tariff wall they had built up their industries, until they had reached a stage where, unsatisfied with the extent of their own markets, they were invading those of the United Kingdom.

Reverting to the question of a preferential tariff for the colonies, Mr. Chamberlain charged those opposed to his plans with being "Little Englanders," lacking in the desire to bring the colonies closer to the Mother Country, and prefering to do more for strangers than for their own flesh and blood

Mr. Chamberlain spoke for nearly two hours in the main repeating his former arguments and appealing to the patriotism and self-interest of the people of the United Kingdom to sustain his fiscal project.

To Campaign For a Year.

Mr. Chamberlain writing to a correspondent says his crusade is likely to extend into the autumn of next year, and if there is time before the general election, he will consider places which he cannot visit during his present tour.

The Tariff Reform League has made an appeal for funds, which is signed by Mr. Chamberlain and the Duke of Sutherland. The manifesto sets forth that Cobden was supplied with £100,000 to pursue his campaign. The league hopes to find at least one hundred sympathizers who will contribute £1,000 in four equal sums of £250. Twenty subscribers have already subscribed to these conditions.

Comments On The Speech.

The Mail, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's speech, says Mr. Chamberlain is already sure of a place in British history beside Palmerston and Pitt. The growing trade of the colonies had been hidden, and he had showed the dwindling trade with the foreigner. "Grapple your friends with hooks of steel, and treat your friends better than those who would strip you of your trade," was the gist of his policy.

The Morning Post says the free fooders are quite willing to give preference to the United States and Germany, but not to Canada, Australia or New Zealand. It adds that Mr. Chamberlain's pitiless exposure of their position should be enough.

The Leader says: "It is noticeable that nothing was said about the schedule of forbidden colonial industries. The colonies have made it evident that they will not dig, delve, or plow for us. Like the Americans, they do not conceive this to be their national destiny."

The Times says: "Mr. Chamberlain demolished the fallacy of the free trade system last night. His fundamental propositions that our exports to protectionist countries are declining, while our trade with neutral countries is stationary, and that only the growth of our exports to the colonies and dependencies can save us from serious industrial depression, can no longer be denied."

The Daily Chronicle says: "Mr. Chamberlain, having broken up the Cabinet of the Unionist party, has made the Conservatives a protectionist party again, and compelled Mr. Balfour to limp along behind him for his glorification. This was the tenor of his speech last night."

The Daily News styles the speech an exhilarating music hall turn. The Empire Mr. Chamberlain would build would stand neither on freedom nor humanity, and a widely-scattered community of some eleven million souls would not for one moment accept the fetters which Mr. Chamberlain has forged for them." The paper challenges Mr. Chamberlain to publish a list of his financial backers, and says their names would damn the cause. One eminent millionaire Jew is continually mentioned in club gossip, and The News asks, "Who are the others?"

The Electrophone's Triumph.

Mr Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham was taken by reporters of The Daily Mail by means of the electrophone, which allowed them, sitting in the London office, 113 miles distant, to hear every word spoken. The speech was printed verbatim, and the paper was selling on the street 27 minutes after the speech was concluded. The electrophone beat the telegraph one hour and 27 minutes. The Mail claims that it has inaugurated a revolution in reporting.

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL

Easily Noticed by Her Blanched Cheeks, Bloodless Lips and Dull Eye

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength. Her beauty fades because her vitality is steadily decreasing. Dark circles appear under the eyes which become listless and dull. Her spirits droop, for no girl can be contented and happy in such condition.

This may be quickly corrected by taking Ferrozone. It supplies what is lacking in the blood, purifies and strengthens it, and keeps it in perfect order. Ferrozone makes plenty of red corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy ruddy complexion. It aids the stomach to do all its work; and creates a natural healthy relish for food.

Every organ of the body is benefited by Ferrozone. It rebuilds the entire system, makes new tissue, strengthens weak flabby muscles, makes thin people fat and sick people well.

No case of Anaemia is too chronic for Ferrozone. It may take time, but if persistently used will cure in the end. It will give you a well developed form, clear complexion, pure breath and will restore the bloom to faded cheeks and color to the lips more quickly than any other remedy.

Every woman who desire a vigorous constitution, and the good looks that come with good health, should take Ferrozone after each meal regularly. It is a wonderful tonic for the brain, the nerves and the blood, and acts also as an efficient but harmless regulator of the menstrual flow. In fact for all diseases peculiar to women and growing girls, Ferrozone has no equal as your druggist can tell you.

Three weeks treatment costs 50c., or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere, or sent by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Individualities.

Shortly before Napoleon III. appropriated the vacant throne of France he one day asked a great lady to explain the difference between "an accident" and "a misfortune." "If," she said, "you were to fall into the Seine, that would be an accident; if they pulled you out again, that would be a misfortune."

A little girl was writing a composition on the rabbit, and, never having seen a creature of any sort, enquired of her teacher whether the rabbit had a tail. "Yes, a small one. None to speak of," answered the teacher. This is the way the little girl introduced the matter in her composition: "The rabbit has a small tail—but you mustn't talk about it."

A newly-arrived Westerner was confronted in a street of New York late at night by a ruffian with leveled revolver, who made the stereotyped demand: "Give me your money or I'll blow your brains out." "Blow away," said the Westerner; "you can live in New York without brains, but you can't without money."

Recently a boating party, on the Boston Harbor, was passing Rainsford Island, upon which there is a farm school for wayward boys. It being a holiday, these young farmers had the freedom of the island and were apparently having a very jolly time on the shore. A lad of seven, who had been intently watching their sport from the deck of the boat, turned to his mother and said eagerly: "How bad do you have to be to get there, mamma?"

There was good talk at a tea party given once at the observatory of Cambridge, England. Sydney Smith was there, and although he took the wonderful work of the place seriously, he had a light manner of expressing himself. The party had been led up to look at Jupiter, and this was his comment: "Jupiter? If you hadn't told me, I should have taken it for a bad shilling." "Where is Sir John Herschel?" asked one of the guests. "He is at the Cape of Good Hope," said the astronomer, Airy. "He was ordered there to observe the stars of the southern hemisphere." "Ah," said Sydney Smith, "I suppose you astronomers, when you are ill, are advised to change your stars just as we ordinary mortals are told to change our air."

It is related that one evening last winter, at a dinner given in honor of Mrs. Pat Campbell, in New York, the English actress remarked, loftily: "They wanted me to play 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' in England, but I thought it a vulgar character, and I can't be gross, you know." This from the woman whose whole fame rested on her impersonations of women with malodorous pasts or notorious presents was astounding to all present, each one of whom had said something in extenuation of the sins of poor Tess and in admiration of Hardy's masterpiece as a dramatic character drawing. For a moment there was an embarrassed silence, and then Miss Warren, who is to star in the play this season, spoke up innocently: "It is dreadful to be so sensitive. I expect, Mrs. Campbell, you find it hard even to accept your share of the gross receipts."

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 500,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order, payable to the order of

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"I am not afraid," she said, "I do not think they will hurt me. I shall never be cruel to them, and with gentleness I may make them love me."

"Such things have been," Jim replied. "All you want is plenty of nerve and plenty of will—never show the white feather."

"I shall get on well enough," Rosalie answered. "What does it matter about the danger, so that I become famous? It is the kind of life I have always longed for, and I am not likely to spoil everything for lack of a little courage.

CHAPTER XIII.

Polly was delighted at the turn events had taken.

She felt, with Jim, that their fortune as well as Rosalie's, would be made if the girl would be guided by them.

"We'll put the house in the hands of an agent, and let it as it stands," she observed, thinking it best not to lose time over the matter. "You'll have a good home with us. Our place is a palace compared to this, and there's peace and plenty in it. We don't spend all we get, but we know how to make ourselves comfortable."

"I shall give you everything that was left to me," Rosalie said, her voice trembling, as she thought of Mrs. West. "I hope you will look upon it all as yours."

"You'll want it some day, my dear. Money is never in the way."

"Do you think Mrs. West would have wished me to leave the house and let it?"

"She would have wished everything that was for your good. She would have let you come to us before, only she couldn't bear to part with you. She wouldn't have liked to see you left here alone."

The next day was a busy one for Polly.

She passed the morning in interviewing lawyers and house agents, and, after coming to satisfactory arrangements with them, she devoted the rest of her time to Rosalie.

There were a few things the girl wanted to take away with her, things she had been taught to treasure in her childhood, as having once belonged to her mother.

There were a few articles, too, that Marc had given her—worthless in their way, yet dearly prized by their owner, a few crude sketches, a silk handkerchief, and a bunch of faded flowers.

Rosalie sighed as she laid these in the old trunk she was to take away with her.

She might never see Marc again—their lives had drifted apart: and she was now leaving every familiar scene with which he was associated.

With a sad heart, she looked her last on the dingy walls that had sheltered her all these years. The hour for her departure came sooner than she had anticipated, and, on the second day after her interview with Jim, she took her place in the cab which was to convey her to her new home.

She was too occupied with her own thoughts to make any remark to her companion as they were driven along.

Her heart ached, and she leaned back against the cushions, with closed eyes, her hands folded in her lap, a dull pain at her heart.

If only Marc had been near, if she could have seen him for a few moments, to be guided by him, to know the step she was taking was one he would have chosen for her!

Preparations had been made for her reception at Sunnyside—the name of which Polly was justly proud—a handsome residence close to Regent's Park, and within easy distance of the circus.

Rosalie roused herself, and gazed out of the cab window, as they were driven through the imposing gateway to the entrance. She had not expected such a grand-looking house as this, and her spirits rose as she alighted, and followed her companion up the broad flights of steps.

The door was opened by a woman, whose general appearance proclaimed her maid-of-all-work.

She had a good-tempered, smiling face, and as soon as the luggage was brought in, and the cabman had driven off, she took Rosilie up to the room prepared for her.

"This is where you'll sleep, miss," she said, drawing the rose-colored hangings back from the bed, "you'll find it nice and comfortable, for I've seen to everything that could be thought of. Master told me you were to have as much attention as a princess."

"That was very kind of him. What a lovely room! Is it really to be mine?"

"Yes, miss, and I hope you'll be happy in your new home."

"Thank you," Rosalie murmured, and then added: "What am I to call you?"

"Bess."

"Thank you, Bess. I shall try to be happy here."

"Those who try, are sure to succeed," the woman said, helping the girl to remove her hat.

"Can you get on now by yourself?" she added. "I think I can hear missis calling me. I expect she's anxious to have something ready for you to eat."

"I have no appetite," Rosalie replied putting her hand up to her hot temples. "I should be so glad if I could stay up here for a little while. I want to be alone—to think."

"[illegible] do as you like, Miss Rose, [illegible] sure to seem strange to you at first. I'll bring you up a cup of tea, and it'll give you time to get used to your room."

The woman hurried downstairs, leaving Rosalie sitting on the edge of the bed, as forlorn a figure as could be seen.

She sat there, thinking over the past and future, until Bess came in, carrying a tray.

"You'll feel better when you've eaten something," she said, placing the tray on a table. "Missis has gone straight off to the circus. She knew she was wanted there, and she thought I could look after you."

Rosalie partook of the repast brought to her, more to please Bess than because she felt any sense of hunger.

The tea refreshed her, and, making up her mind not to give way to sad thoughts, she bathed her face and hands, and commenced to unpack her trunk.

Bess had persuaded her not to sit up, and the girl had been glad to stretch her limbs on the downy bed and seek forgetfulness in sleep.

When she went down to breakfast the next morning, she found Jim in a state of wild excitement.

He had received a letter by the early post, and the open missive was in his hand.

"This is quick work!" he exclaimed, flourishing the letter triumphantly towards her. "Here's the very thing we wanted, all ready for us. I thought I could trust old Giles."

"Who is Giles?" Rosalie asked, wondering to what his words referred. "Somebody belonging to you?"

"Goodness me, no! Giles is the fellow I wrote to about the lions. He has secured a couple that have just arrived in England, as quiet as lambs, and fit to be trusted with a child. They appear to have been splendidly trained, and to have had a young girl performing with them. Nothing could have turned out more fortunately. I'll get the bills printed at once, and before the week's out, we shall have the best show in London."

Wee McPherson.

When Robert came home from the day's work Mary said solemnly: "Rubbert, I want ye to punish McPherson an' gie him a guid skelpin'."

"Dod, ay! The wean's fine. I'll no skelp him," replied Robert with a fond glance at wee McPherson, who was scissoring off small pieces of the cat's tail.

"He trun wee Mollie doon the well, an' she was sair drookit an' aboot drooned."

"He's the wean," said the father, though with a cautious admiration. "Whit dae ye want me to dae? I canna skelp him."

"Ye munna gie him ony curran'-cake the nicht; he disna deserve it. Tell him so, Rubbert. McPherson, stop mutilatin' the cat, an' dowkle to your paw."

"Aweel," said Robert, gloomily. "Come here, noo, McPherson."

Wee McPherson finished the cat's tail with one last snip and walked over cockily to his parent. "Whit wey do a cat greet when ye cut aff its tail, paw?"

"McPherson," said Robert, affecting severity, "yer maw is fair affrontit. Whit wey did ye trun wee Mollie doon the well? Didna ye ken she canna soom?"

"Whit wey canna she soom, paw?"

"Fine wean!" said Robert.

"Haud yer tongue!" spoke up Mary. "He's no fine."

"McPherson," said Robert, nerving himself for the blow, "yer maw says ye are no fine, an' ye are no to have ony curran'-cake the nicht."

"Boo-hoo!" bawled wee McPherson, and Robert wept with him. "Mary," he whispered, "I'm thinkin' the wean's been punished enough. He's unco tender of hairt, Dod, ay!"

"Hoots, mon! But aweel!" replied Mary. "Ye may gie him the curran'-cake now, Rubbert."

Wee McPherson seized the currant cake and retired triumphantly to a corner, followed by the fond glances of both parents.

"He's such a wee deevil!" murmured Mary, softly.

"Dod, ay!" said Robert.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., (166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

Pittsburg, Nov. 6—A large sale of steel at opening. Looks like market would go lower. Selling of steel stocks and currency shipments have demoralized the market. The immediate outlook seems to indicate lower prices.

Liverpool—Opening—Wheat, 1-8 higher, corn 1-8 higher. Close—Wheat 1-4 higher, corn 1-8 higher.

COMMERCIAL SUPREMACY

Over New York will be Secured by Montreal in Near Future

Montreal, Nov. 6—The citizens of New York are apprehensive that the commercial ascendancy of the metropolis may be snatched away in the not too remote future by Montreal.

The matter has been under serious consideration for some time past, and tables have been prepared showing the extent of the rivalry that exists between the two cities.

To overcome the danger it was proposed some time ago to improve the canal system of New York so as to divert a considerable portion of the grain trade from the St. Lawrence route to the canals.

Yesterday, in the elections throughout New York State, this proposal was submitted to the electors. The latest returns indicate that a big majority of those who voted favor the widening of the canals so as to admit of the passage of 1,000 ton barges from Lake Ontario to the sea.

A sum of $100,000,000 will therefore be appropriated by the New York Legislature wherewith to effect the improvement.

The railway that will be most benefited will be the well known Erie Canal. This will be deepened and widened, the locks will be enlarged, and adequate provision will be made for handling the big increase in traffic that the enlargement is expected to divert from the St. Lawrence route to the improved water highway of the state.

It is felt in this city, however, that the improvement will not seriously affect the shipping trade of the St. Lawrence. The Erie Canal, it is pointed out, has about reached its limit of usefulness. Under any circumstances it would be difficult for it—an artificial waterway to compete with such a natural and expansive waterway as the River St. Lawrence. Besides, it has a powerful rival, within the border of the State of New York, in the New York Central, a road which is at present increasing its grain-carrying capacity, and at the same time is improving its road-bed with a view of securing still further increases of that traffic in the near future. With the New York Central and the St. Lawrence, therefore, as competitors, it is felt that the Erie Canal will have small business, even when deepened and widened.

From May 1st to August 31st, of the present year, Montreal exported 16,040,214 bushels of wheat, corn, oats, rye, and barley while New York exported only 16,371,513 bushels. In the same period in 1902 Montreal was 400,000 bushels ahead of New York.

These figures published led to a demand for the improvement of the canal system of that state, a demand that was yesterday heeded by the electors. Over $100,000,000 will now be spent in an effort to make New York the largest export port for grain on the American continent.

An English baronet is notorious for his literal application of the proverb which recommends that particular care should be exercised over the hoarding of the pence, in order that the pounds may be loaned at sixty per cent. A few days ago he took a hansom at Piccadilly Circus, and told the man to drive him to Victoria Station, where he generously presented him with the sum of one shilling. "It's a long way for a bob," commented the disgusted Jehu. "It would have been shorter if you had come through the Park," politely suggested the baronet. "The Park's closed to-day," replied the cabby, gruffly. "Indeed!" said the baronet, incredulously. "And may I ask why?" "B'cause Sir ——— lost sixpence in there yesterday, and the gates are to be closed until it is found!" And the grin of the bystanding porters could be heard half way down Buckingham Palace road.

A Chicago millionaire, George T. Cline had an extraordinary hobby. He was a connoisseur of Irishmen, according to the local papers. Though on himself he would never spend more than 15 or 20 cents a day, he thought nothing of buying Irishmen sumptuous dinners, with champagne, in order to hear them talk in their musical brogue. An Irishman once played Colonel Cline false. He stole a pair of boots from him. Discovering the theft, the millionaire pursued the Irishman, overtaking him as he was about to enter a pawnshop with the boots in his hand. "Those are my boots; you have stolen them," said Colonel Cline. "Sure, it was only a joke," said the Irishman. But the inexorable millionaire haled the thief before a magistrate, and here again the man repeated: "It was only a joke, your honor." "Only a joke, hey?" said the magistrate. "Well, Mr. Cline, how far away from your house had he carried the boots when you overtook him?" "Over a mile, sir," replied the millionaire. "Hold for court," said the magistrate. "This is a case of carrying the joke too far."

THE EMPIRE'S UNITY

Future of the Empire Depends Upon the Verdict of British Electors

London, Nov. 6.—Hon. G. E. Foster, ex-Finance Minister of Canada, speaking at Newport, said the best thinkers of Britain's oversea dominions were agreed that on the decision of the fiscal question depended the future of the Empire.

Canada had determined on the development of her own industries. Canada could accomodate two hundred million people.

Was it well for the Mother Country to cut off the painter in the case of Canada, where lay the Empire of the future?

Sir William Harcourt, instead of asking the householder if he wanted to pay more for acticles than at present, should have asked, "Where are you going to get the wherewithal to pay for what you have?"

Canada and the other colonies were willing to give preferential treatment to England, and Mr. Chamberlain desired to reciprocate. It was thought in Canada that England should support Mr. Chamberlain.

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physicien, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arestra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;
Two partially developed quartz claims;
One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;
All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

There is Nothing on Earth

That Shows as much Profit for Work Done and—Money Spent as an OIL WELL.

A gold mine needs continual digging, but an oil well, if it does not flow of its own accord, needs to be pumped, and it supplies the fuel to run the pump.

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars, yes, Millions, have been made in the Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana oil fields, but these fields are on the decline, and the eyes of the world are turning to the Kentucky and Tennessee fields, where a mighty development has begun. Today Kentucky and Tennessee have over 500 producing wells, and is pumping thousands of barrels of oil. Money is flowing into the field from eastern financial centres as well as from the capital of Europe. It is believed by oil men that this will become the greatest oil field in America.

The Standard Oil Company is spending millions of dollars in laying the foundations of the most gigantic pipe line ever laid in any section. This shows that they have faith in Kentucky and Tennessee as the coming oil-producing section of America.

The American Oil Co.

Is one of the successful Companies operating over 2,000 acres of proven oil land in Kentucky and Tennessee located along the line of transportation. To push the wells and complete the development of this vast property, the Company offers 50,000 shares of treasury stock at 5 cents per share. This low offer is but for a short time, and may be withdrawn without further notice.

Are You Deaf?

Hundreds of perfect recoveries from impaired hearing and deafness are reported as a result of the use of Catarrhozone

This result of actual experience proves that ninety cases in every hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the regular use of Catarrhozone.

Among the many prominent business men whose hearing has been restored by Catarrhozone, might be mentioned Mr. Geo. W. Warner, of 263 Wellesley street, Toronto, and Mr. William Jones contractor, of Halifax, N. S. Both these gentlemen have testified to the merits of Catarrhozone as a valuable cure for deafness, and their statements prove beyond all question that Catarrhozone cures impaired hearing and even total deafness.

The efficiency of Catarrhozone is placed beyond dispute by its long list of successful cures, and on the highest authority we can recommend it to our readers. It is a very simple remedy to use, and never causes confusion or gets out of order.

Catarrhozone inhaler is beautifully polished and made of hard rubber. It is suitable to carry in the vest pocket and can be used in the church, theatre street car, at any time, in any place. SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

Held at Fowler's Corners by the Emily Orangemen

A very successful entertainment was held at Fowler's Corners, Emily, on Thursday evening, Nov. 5th, the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot. The chair was occupied by Bro. W. A charming programme of vocal and instrumental music, readings, etc., was rendered.

Mr. and Mrs. McBain will reside in Cavan.

A LABOR CANDIDATE

The Labor Organizations May Enter the Political Arena

The Times was yesterday informed that a movement is on foot to bring out a labor candidate at the approaching elections for the House of Commons. It is thought that organized labor in Peterborough is strong enough to sustain a candidate and probably elect him.

The only name which has been mentioned in connection with the candidature is Mr. John McCann, President of the Trades and Labour Council. It is understood that the matter has not yet fully developed, but enough is known to warrant the assumption that a labor candidate will likely appear when the time comes.

SIR GEORGE A. COX

The Doughty Senator to be Knighted by the King

It will be pleasing news for many in Peterborough to learn that Senator Cox is likely to receive the honor of Knighthood. The Mail and Empire says: Although the formal celebration of the King's birthday has been postponed both in England and in Canada until the 24th of May next, it is quite expected that there will be a batch of King's birthday honors announced next Monday. From all that can be learned in inner circles here the politicians are not to figure prominently in the favored list this year. On the contrary, the King's favors will be extended in other directions, principally to men prominent in the mercantile life of the country. It is said with absolute positiveness that K.C.M.G. will fall to Hon. George A. Drummond, vice-resident of the Bank of Montreal, and that a similar honor will be conferred upon the president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Hon. George A. Cox.

COUNTY POLICE COURT

Two Cases Before Magistrate Edmison Yesterday

At the County Police Court yesterday James Langdo, charged with assaulting his wife, was again remanded until Tuesday morning.

He was also found guilty of a charge of pointing a gun at his wife. Judgment in both cases was suspended until January 6th, 1904, Henry entering upon recognizance and bail to appear on that date. There was a further condition that he absolutely abstain from liquor until that date, and immediately supply his family with necessary clothing. He had to pay the costs, amounting to $16.

The case against Joseph Lynch, of Otonabee who was charged with stealing two chickens from John Heffernan, of the same township, was disposed of by Lynch paying into court $6.

IN HONOUR OF MR. BROWN

Mr. Robert Harrison Entertains a Number of Friends

On Thursday evening last Mr. Robert Harrison, Water street entertained a number of friends to tea in honor of Mr. A. A. Brown, of Silverton, Colorado, who spent a couple of days in town this week on his way east. Mr. Harrison returned a week ago from a delightful trip to Colorado, where he went on a special invitation from the Stony Pass Mining Company, of which Mr. Brown is the General Manager. While in Colorado Mr. Harrison was most hospitably entertained by the officers of the company, and the present gathering was intended as a slight response to the kindness shewn him by Mr. Brown and his associates. The following gentlemen sat down to tea: Messrs. A. A. Brown, General Manager of the Mining Company; Sheriff Hall, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. W. L. Armitage, Dr. Halliday, W. H. Robertson, Dr. Carmichael, J. A. Fife, Robert Fair, J. B. McWilliams, Geo. (El) Elliott, H. O. Fiske.

After a dainty supper, served in excellent style by the hostess, Mrs. Harrison, the cloth was removed, and the table covered with samples of crushed and uncrushed ore, taken personally from the Stony Pass Mine by Mr. Harrison. A delightful hour was spent in listening to the description of the Stony Pass property by Mr. Harrison, in which the marvellous wealth of the mine was vividly told. This was followed by a supplementary statement by Mr. Brown, in which the character and future resources were more fully described. That the mine is one of the richest in the State, and probably one of the richest in the world, Mr. Harrison firmly believes.

The party separated about ten o'clock after enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Harrison's genuine hospitality, and well pleased with having formed the acquaintance of a gentleman of Mr. Brown's high standing in the commercial circles of the great republic.

REV. MARK GUY PEARSE

Large Audience Greeted the Distinguished Preacher

Rev. Mark Guy Pearse's lecture last night in the George street Methodist church was well attended by hundreds from town and county. Those who were there were not disappointed in hearing one of the greatest treats of their lives. The lecture, if that it may be called, was a series of word pictures, painted on ones minds eye, as can only be pictured by Mr. Pearse in a manner so interesting and so impressive that one will never forget them. His rare gift of humor, his happy, jolly facial expressions, are characteristics possessed by few men. His most entertaining flood of his stories, anecdotes, mumicries, possess a humor and illumination which show the earnest purpose behind every sentence he utters.

The chair was occupied by Rev. J. P. Wilson pastor of the church, who introduced the distinguished speaker in a short but well chosen speech.

Under the tender touches of his master hand, "The Old Folks at Home," developed after the prefatory passages into a description of three personages who had come into this life, a trio to whom he gave more than a local habitation and a name, clothing them in very flesh and blood, whilst his audience followed with an absorption that hung on every word and gesture, "Old Rosie," the aged saint of God, whose prayers first turned his childhood's thoughts towards the ministry, came first, and those that heard him last night walked with that little band of boys and girls along the quiet English lanes, passed the fields of daffodils and butter-cups, past the three wee cottages that nestled in the little village and upstairs into the quaint room where "Old Rosie" lay, joined in the "Rock of Ages" hymn, felt the bitter pangs that assailed his breast when he learned that she must go to the workhouse, and rejoiced with him when in the morning they told him that she has passed peacefully during the night to her eternal home and would never need to wear the "workhouse blue." And of Anthony, the great, grim Cornish miner who in his homely way wrestled with the Almighty for the conversion of his wife, who won the victory after a six months fight that culminated amidst the weird, night-wrapt tombstones of the village church yard.

At the conclusion of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the reverend lecturer for his delightful address.

Filth on the Sidewalks

Talk of spitting on the sidewalks, about which so much has been said, and signs posted! What about the other forms of filth that are allowed to collect upon them? It is a common remark that never before were the sidewalks and gutters in so disgusting a condition, with ordinary street dirt, peanut shells and fruit peelings, all combined in a most offensive mixture. Especially has this been so of the principal street corners within the past few days. It seems as if no proper care were used toward the cleanliness of which the town has been wont to pride itself. The Times has received letters from citizens urging and better inspection of back yards, and the collection and disposal of garbage. It has been even suggested that the sickness prevailing, and for which special hospital accommodation have to be provided, is due to the lack of attention to the garbage heap. But one need go no farther back than the most prominent street corners for an example of the same carelessness.

A Coming Event

The exceptionally fine talent engaged by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. for the entertainment to be held in the Opera House on Thursday evening, 19th November, will assuredly secure a full house. The following artists have been secured: Harold Jarvis, the great tenor, in a programme of entirely new songs; Owen Smiley, elocutionist and musical entertainer, and Miss Alice Dean, a distinguished violinist. Reserved seats 75 and 50 cents, general admission 25 cents.

Increased Earning Power

The earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway during the month of October, show a total increase of $350,000, as compared with the same month of last year. This showing is naturally very gratifying to the management, especially as $101,000 of the increase occurred during the last ten days of the month. In fact of this marked improvement in business, the Canadian Pacific Railway officials are at a loss to understand the persistent rumors that the force is to be decreased as has been done on several American lines. It is true that a number of men have been laid off, but this is something which always takes place at this season of the year, when there is not so much work as during the summer. The number laid off is no larger than usual, and the company has no intention of making any unusual retrenchment. The increase in the earnings for the first four months of the fiscal year was $1,000,000.

St. Catharines Well.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

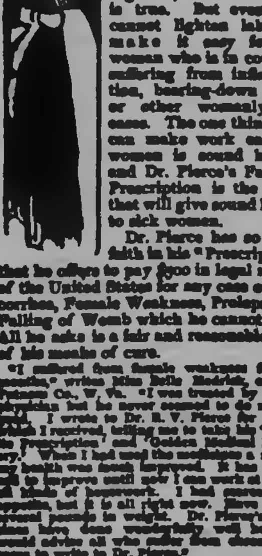
EASY WORK



"Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women.

Dr. Pierce has so much faith in his "Prescription" that he offers to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Hedrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he never seemed to do me any good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which I received, telling me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' When I had used the medicines a month, my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of housework. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonderfully well here. I would advise all who suffer from chronic diseases to write to Dr. Pierce."

FOR THIRTY YEARS

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, ex-Member of Congress.

Over fifty members of Congress endorse Peruna as a catarrhal tonic. Men of prominence the world over praise Peruna.

A TONIC is a medicine that gives tone to some part of the system. There are different kinds of tonics, but the tonic most needed in this country, where catarrh is so prevalent, is a tonic that operates on the mucous membranes.

Peruna is a tonic to the mucous membranes of the whole body. It gives tone to the capillary circulation which constitutes these delicate membranes.

Peruna is a specific in its operation upon the mucous membrane. It is a tonic that strikes at the root of all catarrhal affections. It gives tone to the minute blood vessels and the terminal nerve fibres. Catarrh cannot exist long where Peruna is used intelligently. Peruna seeks out catarrh in all the hidden parts of the body.

A. M. Ikerd, an employe of the C. B. & Q. R. R., West Burlington, Ia., writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief. Finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me, that I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was something awful. I could hardly stand it, it was so offensive. I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I got one of your books, and concluded I would try Peruna, and thank God, I found a relief and a cure for that dreadful disease. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle in my house all the time."—A. M. Ikerd.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually called dyspepsia. Catarrhal dyspepsia cannot be cured by pepsin powders or any other temporary relief. The only cure for real dyspepsia is a removal of the catarrh from the mucous membrane of the stomach. This Peruna will do. This Peruna has done thousands and thousands of times.

Congressman Botkin, of Kansas, was cured of catarrh of the stomach of many years' standing. Hundreds of other cases have been reported to us through unsolicited testimonials. Peruna is the only internal systemic remedy for catarrh yet devised. Every one afflicted with catarrh in the slightest degree ought to take a course of Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Hon. George E. Foster's Speeches Made Decided Impression

WOULD WELCOME TART

England Would Greet These Two Canadians as United Voice of Canada

London, Nov. 9—Hon. George E. Foster's speeches are making a decided impression especially as he is looked on as a representative of the political party opposed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government, and is mainly supported by the manufacturing vote.

The suggestion that Hon. J. I. Tarte, will also visit England is warmly received. Canada would then speak with practically one voice on behalf of the preferential policy. Mr. Foster is refusing in his speeches to take a narrow Colonial line, and appeals on the broadest grounds of Imperial patriotism

PORT HOPE MAKES STRONG PROTEST

Object to Expenditure on Trent North of Peterborough

THE CANAL BOOMERS MEET

Resolution Passed Opposing That Formulated by the Peterboro' Board of Trade

Port Hope, Ont., Nov. 9—A special and important meeting of the Trent Valley Canal Association was held in the Council Chamber Friday afternoon. The meeting was called for the express purpose of taking some action regarding two resolutions that had been passed by the Peterborough Board of Trade. The resolutions were as follows:—

"That, in the manufacturing interests of the Trent waters and in the interests of navigation, it is urgently demanded that a large and constant flow of waters be preserved in the Trent River (in its upper reaches named the Otonabee); that an intelligent control of the feed waters of the back lakes by the dams would effect this end, and the Ontario and Ottawa Governments are respectfully but urgently requested to secure such control and oversight of the dams on the backwaters, as will secure a larger and more constant flow in the dry season.

"That a deputation, consisting of delegates from the County Council, Town Council, Board of Trade, and manufacturers on the Trent waters, wait upon the Ontario and Dominion Governments to secure their efforts to complete a system which will secure a better preservation and more uniform flow of water in the Trent River."

After some discussion, in which J. Alexr. Culverwell took an important part, the following resolution was passed:—

"That, whereas by the Peterborough press we learn that the Board of Trade of that city have passed resolutions urging upon the Government the expenditure of large sums of money, estimated to be $100,000 for the purpose of conserving the water of the back lakes by dams, already in existence, and building others, and as from remarks made at that meeting, and our own observations, we know that the expenditure of Government money is not required in the interest of navigation.

"Therefore this meeting of the Port Hope Canal Association protest most strenuously against any expenditure of public money in improving the water powers of the Trent Valley waters, north of Peterborough, until the southern connection of the canal with Lake Ontario is located and completed, and that a memorial be prepared by the officers of this association, and forwarded to the Government, conveying such protest."

NORTH WEST GRAIN CROP HAS BEEN SPLENDIDLY HANDLED

The Canadian Pacific Railway has Done Its Work Well.

NO SHORTAGE OF ROLLING STOCK

Grain Has Been Rushed Forward as Rapidly as Needed

D. M'NICHOL, GENERAL MANAGER C. P. R.

Montreal, Nov. 9—The Canadian Pacific Railway has been most successful this year in coping with the grain transportation problem in Manitoba and the North West.

In fact, the present season has been the most successful in this respect in the history of the road.

Up to the present there has been no congestion whatever, and the grain has been brought forward as expeditiously as conditions required. The demand for cars has been met by the company in a way that few considered possible—there has been no shortage in cars, and the grain has been sent forward as rapidly as it was offered for shipment.

THIS YEAR'S SHIPMENTS

As compared with last year, the shipments this season show a decrease of over 3,000,000 bushels. This, however it is expected, will be more than made up before the close of the year.

Weather conditions in the North-West have, to a certain extent, militated against the farmers this year, in so far as the movement of grain has been concerned. The weather has been wet and disagreeable, and consequently, the farmers have not been as eager to get their grain to market as they were last year. A very considerable portion of this year's crop is held back, and it will probably be some time before it is brought to the great distributing centres on the C.P.R. for shipment to Fort William and other eastern points.

THE FORWARD MOVEMENT.

The forward movement in grain began about the middle of September. During that month upwards of between 300,000 and 400,000 bushels were brought to Fort William, Montreal and other eastern ports.

In October the shipments increased to 900,033 bushels, as compared with 296,000 bushels for the corresponding period last year.

The shipments for the present season that is, for the interim between September 15th and November 4th, totalled 13,000,000 bushels, as compared with 15,876,000 bushels for the corresponding period last year.

The decrease of 3,787,000 bushels is due to the fact that that the farmers in the North-West have not been getting their grain to the distributing centres of the C.P.R. as expeditiously as they did last year. The grain crop in Manitoba and the North-West is believed to be nearly as large as that of last year, and so the decrease is not to be attributed to any considerable falling-off in the crop.

To move this season's crop, the C.P.R. has had to utilize upwards of 7,300 cars thus far. During the first four days of the present month, 660 cars were requisitioned for the carrying of grain, a slight decrease over the number for the corresponding period last year, when 781 cars were in commission.

The carrying capacity of a car varies. Some are able to hold as many as 1,500 bushels while others, again, are full at 1,133 bushels. Last year 10,031 cars were used in transporting the grain offered for shipment between September 19th and November 4th. Then the grain was being rapidly pushed forward, and an extraordinary demand existed for cars. In some respects, owing to the inability of the company to provide cars as fast as they were needed, a congestion arose.

Nothing like that has occurred this year however. All demands have been met by the company, and much expedition has been shown in getting the grain forward.

MOST ENCOURAGING CONDITIONS.

Mr W. R. McInnes, freight traffic manager, has just returned from Manitoba, and he reports a most encouraging condition of things up there. He is greatly pleased at the fact that the company has been able to so satisfactorily cope with the grain transportation problem this year. Every facility, he says has been offered the farmers to move their grain forward, and so far the shipments have not taxed either the capacity of the rolling stock of the company or that of the elevators at Fort William.

The season, he states, has been a good one and he anticipates some heavy shipments this month.

RAINY SEASON ABOUT OVER.

Now that the rainy season is about over in Manitoba, farmers, he thinks, will be getting their crops to the railway centres with greater despatch than has been the case up to the present. Therefore, the forward movement in grain for the remainder of this month will be particularly heavy.

The grain shipments, he intimated, would be continued throughout the winter. After the cessation of traffic on the Great Lakes, the grain would be brought to Montreal, and then taken to St. John, N.B., for ocean shipment. With regard to the extent of this year's crop he said nothing definite would be known until the season's shipments had closed. At the present moment a very considerable proportion of the crop was in the barns of the farmers, awaiting transport to the C.P.R distributing centres.

Enquiry at the office of Mr. E. M. Bosworth, fourth vice-president elicited a confirmation of the report that the C.P.R. this year had been able to cope with grain transportation in the North-West in a thoroughly efficient and satisfactory manner.

Reduction in Railway Staff

Ottawa, Nov. 7—The Canada Atlantic Railway Company will join the procession in the matter of reducing the several staffs. The reduction, it is understood, will take place chiefly in the car shops, where on repair and construction 300 men are now employed. It is alleged that this step has been rendered necessary by the high wages, cost of fuel and supplies, and the lull in the production in the industrial centers.

Favors Retaliation

Liverpool, Nov. 7—Lord Goschen, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking yesterday, said he favored retaliation under extraordinary circumstances, requiring heroic legislation; but, he was opposed to giving the government a mandate authorizing retaliatory tariffs. The speaker added that Joseph Chamberlain's policy was dangerous, and that it was unstatesmanlike to criticize those who were not prepared to accept it as being unfriendly to the Colonies.

CHINA MAY JOIN THE JAPANESE IN STRUGGLE AGAINST RUSSIAN BEAR

War May be Declared Against Russia by the Chinese Empire

IF CHINA RESISTS JAPAN WILL GIVE HELP

The Micado for People, but the Country is for War to Death with Russia

London, Nov. 9—Late advices from the East state that China is being urged to declare war with Russia. It is urged that this will secure for the unfortunate country the co-operation and assistance of Japan. In fact Japan could not sit idly by while the great Russian bear would leisurely proceed to devour China.

Pekin, Nov. 9—Tuan Shi Kai, Viceroy of Chi Li province who was despatched to Mukden by the Dowager Empress to investigate affairs there and to arrange a settlement with the Russians, did not go any further than Tsin-Tsin. It is considered doubtful whether he will go to Mukden at all.

London, Nov. 9—If Russia and Japan manage to get through the winter without war, the fact will be due almost wholly to the pacific disposition of the Mikado and the self-restraint and diplomatic resourcefulness of Viscount Hayashi Japanese Minister to Great Britain. Of the two men the Viscount is perhaps the more important peace factor because the Mikado is known to attach exceptional weight to his advice and because he is daily under the steadying influence of the British Foreign Office

Viscount Hayashi is fifty-four years of age. He entered the diplomatic service of Japan when he was twenty-two and outranks ever Baron Komura, the Japanese Foreign Minister in respect to seniority. Hayashi was vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs at Tokio from 1891 to 1895, and has represented his country as Minister both at Pekin and St. Petersburg. In these positions he mastered the intricacies of oriental and semi-oriental politics, and his supreme fitness to handle Japan's case during the recent crisis was completed by his English education and his recent thorough initiation into European politics under the tutelage of British statesmen.

VISCOUNT HAYASHI'S EFFORTS.

Cologne, Nov. 9—Advices from Darmstadt where Count Von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor and Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Foreign Minister, will hold their conference, intimate that Viscount Hayashi, Japanese Minister to Great Britain with the sanction of the British Government is endeavoring to effect an understanding whereby the principal European powers would be definitely committed to moral support of Japanese claims in Corea in the event of Japan's consenting to withdraw its opposition to Russia's political and military plans in Manchuria.

So far as they would not involve its treaty and trade rights Russia is ready to give Japan any assurances it requires touching Corea. Viscount Hayashi, however, insists that Russian assurances in view of the eccentric construction sometimes put upon them by St. Petersburg, will satisfy Japan only if the chief nations for the sake of safeguarding peace offer the Mikado's empire something so that it will not be left naked to the Muscovite when the balance of power in the Far East has passed from the Japanese to the Russian flag.

Tried to Blow Up Gates.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 7—What is believed to have been an attempt to destroy the head gates of the water power canal in the American Soo was frustrated by the watchfulness of the man on guard last night. About midnight he heard some men about, and when he went to investigate they ran. The watchman fired a couple of shots at them in their flight, but neither took effect. The town police were notified, and in the search that followed three sticks of dynamite were found, presumably left by the men. This morning three more sticks of dynamite were discovered about the gates. The destruction of the head gates would be a terrible catastrophe, as the water would be allowed to rush through the canal in great force, and as the canal is built through the town, a large amount of damage would surely have been the result.

Men who were let go with the closing of the industries in the latter part of September have not yet received their back pay, and although it is not known, yet the alleged attempt might have been the work of some of them.

A POINTER FOR US

System of Savings Bank for the Public Schools

The town of Galt has a reputation for progressiveness that is equalled by few towns in Ontario. The latest evidence of this spirit is the introduction of a penny savings bank system in the public school. The board has arranged with one of the local banks to open a savings bank for the benefit of scholars. A deposit card is issued, similar to a savings bank book, to scholars, who see fit to deposit their earnings in the bank. Deposits are received each Monday morning by the teachers, and the principal of the school deposits the amount received. The lowest sum taken is five cents and when two dollars has been deposited the bank book is issued and the pupil thereafter takes his money to the bank. Interest is credited half-yearly at 3 per cent. and the bank book is kept by the teacher as long as the depositor is attending the school. In case he leaves school he is given possession of the book.

QUITS BRIDE FOR DEATH.

Groom Who Has Another Wife Blows Out His Brains Before Ceremony

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9—"Tell Lillie she will find my dead body in the bathroom and notify Worthington that he need not send the cab, as there will be no wedding tonight."

Having placed this on a piece of paper and placed it under the front door of his newly furnished house today, William Warren, aged 45 years, a newspaper man of Chester, went to the bathroom and blew out his brains with a revolver. Warren was to have been married to Miss Lillian Robertson of this city tonight. A sealed note addressed to Miss Robertson was found on Warren's body, but the coroner will not make public its contents.

The reason for Warren taking his life is not definitely known. He is said to have a wife in England, which country he left seventeen years ago. After his arrival in Chester he married a young woman, who died about three years ago.

MR. FOY TALKS POLITICS SAYS ROSS WILL FALL

The Opposition Leader's Dream of the Future

THE RENFREW VACANCY

Says Premier Ross is Afraid of the Verdict

Montreal, Nov. 9—Mr. J. J. Foy, the member for South Toronto in the Legislature, and one of the leaders of the Conservative party in that Province, was seen at the Windsor Hotel today.

When shown a despatch from Toronto that it was the intention of the Ontario Government to call a session of the Legislature within the course of a few weeks, Mr. Foy gave as his opinion that it was merely the beginning of the end, and that the Liberal administration felt it had not the confidence of the people of the province.

"It is usual," said the member, "to call a session of the Legislature towards the last of January. The session that is about to be called may, therefore be called a session, extraordinary, and sessions extraordinary are not so common in Ontario that they have no significance. It has been known, in the inner circles of the conservative party that a very early session would be called.

"Do you think Premier Ross will bring on North Renfrew before the extraordinary session meets?" was asked.

WILL POSTPONE ELECTION

"Today is the 536 day of the North Renfrew vacancy," replied Mr. Foy, "and you can depend upon it that if Mr. Ross thinks he can outrage the feelings of the people of the province any longer he will postpone the election in North Renfrew. There is unfortunately, no method of Parliamentary procedure that can compel the Premier of a province to bring on a bye-election within a reasonable time. The Lieutenant-Governor may interfere and command that the election be held, but in the case of North Renfrew such a case of procedure seems to be out of the question. The whole matter is an outrage, and one for which Mr. Ross will have to pay dearly. He dare not bring on an election in North Renfrew. He is fully aware of the jeopardy of his government, and a victory for the Conservative party in North Renfrew would spell defeat for an already discredited administration. I for one, do not look for the North Renfrew by-election before the strength of the two parties is again tested in a division in the Legislature. Many things may have happened since prorogation".

WILL GO CONSERVATIVE.

Mr. Foy was convinced that when the Federal elections are brought on in Ontario the province will go Conservative by a large majority. He spoke of the popularity of Mr. Borden in the province and the confidence the people had in his statesmanship and sound political judgment. Mr. Foy referred also to the recent by-elections in Ontario and the message that Muskoka had given to Mr. Ross. The Soo election had been delayed by the Government until they thought the time was ripe, and advantage had been taken of the position in that constituency.

In conclusion, Mr. Foy spoke of the large number of rising young Conservatives in the Ontario House. The party had many brilliant young men in its ranks and at the next opportunity the Conservatives of the Province would give a good account of themselves.

Mr. Foy will leave for Toronto. His visit to Montreal at the present time was in connection with the estate of the late Mrs Foy.

SENATOR CLARKE'S OFFER

He would Buy Over One Million Acres for Settlers

Billings, Montana, Nov. 7 — Senator Wm. A. Clarke, says if Congress passes the pending bill throwing open for settlement a portion of the Crow Indian reservation, he will buy 1,150,000 acres and present the land to whoever wants it. The land in question is as fine for agricultural and grazing purposes as any on the continent. The scheme would cost Clarke $2,000,000 but as he is worth $200,000,000 that amount would not be missed

An Early Session

The Toronto Mail and Empire says that it is the intention of the Ontario Government to call an early session of the Legislature. The exact date has not yet been fixed, but it will be, our contemporary understands, some time during January, or about four weeks earlier than the members are ordinarily summoned to transact the business of the Province.

CANNOT RETAIN FISCAL FREEDOM OF COLONIES

Reciprocal Privileges Could Not be Withdrawn Without Consent

London, Nov. 7.—The Ottawa correspondent of the Economist says: "Mr. Chamberlain has displayed singularly little knowledge of the trend of public opinion in Canada in regard to his project. Nowhere in Canada has separation from England entered the minds of the people." The Economist, referring to the correspondent's letter, says: "It is quite possible that an additional preference might be obtained from Canada, but it would operate over a very small part of the margin, and Canadian feeling would be altogether against any kind of undertaking to avoid starting new industries, which might compete with those existing in the Mother Country."

Fiscal Freedom.

The Spectator says that the fiscal freedom of the colonies must not be tampered with in any excess of windy rhetoric. Mr. Chamberlain's policy must in the end impair the fiscal freedom of the colonies. If, instead of keeping our markets open to all comers, we impede the access of the majority of our sellers to benefit them, and introduce a system of preference, we shall expect the colonies not only to give us certain privileges, but also not to withdraw those privileges without our consent.

MEMORIAL TO DEAD HEROES.

London, Nov. 7.—The memorial of the colonial troops who fell in South Africa is to be erected in the nave of St. Paul's Cathedral, the authorities of the Cathedral waiving the rule that no monuments shall be placed in the nave. The design is to be carried out in bronze, and represents "the triumph of sacrifice;" the idea is of death swallowed up in victory. The inscription for the tablet has not yet been decided upon but the names of the colonies which sent contingents will be recorded.

London, Nov. 7—Lord Goschen, propounding fiscal dilemmas for Mr. Chamberlain asks how an inter-imperial exchange of corn could be guaranteed if Canada found a better market in America than in England. An 80 per cent. tax on English tinplates did not keep them out of the States and a 5 per cent. tax on corn could not keep out American products and give rise to the cultivation of more corn in Canada. Trusts, by which many Americans became millionaires at the cost of the community are the children of protection, but he was not opposed to retaliation, so long as a corresponding disadvantage to the country taking such a step was not apparent. The leading idea of Lord Goschen's speech was an appeal to his opponents to show their hand.

Foster's Record.

R. Hawkin, writing to the Leader, attacks Mr. Chamberlain for importing Hon. George W. Foster, a statesman Canada had no use for. The Conservatives of Canada recommended him because of his unsuccess. Mr. Hawkin says he began his parliamentary career as an advocate of the temperance cause and when returned to Parliament told the deluded temperance folk that he advocated their cause in a moment of weakness.

Hon. Mr. Foster, speaking at Tonbridge yesterday, was enthusiastically cheered when he remarked that Canada had given England the preference treating her better than foreign countries do. Let England give the colonies a preference and treat them better than she treats foreigners. Canada certainly would be able to provide the surplus supplies of all food required.

Griffiths Boscawen, M.P., following said he was an ardent tariff reformer, and favored protection to the English against the foreigner. In America, the average wage was 60 shillings, and in England only 30.

ROOSEVELT RECOGNIZES NEW PANAMA GOVERNMENT

Secretary Hay Issues Statement That Action Was in Line with His Public Policy

Washington Nov. 7—The decision to recognize the de facto government of Panama was arrived at after a protracted session of the cabinet yesterday, at which every member was present, except Secretary Root and Secretary Wilson. No other subject was considered.

Secretary of State Hay made a statement, in which he says: The action of the President was not only in the strictest accordance with the principles of justice and equity, and in line with all the best precedents of public policy, but it was the only course he could have taken on compliance with the treaty rights and obligations.

Under the [illegible] instructions which he will receive to-day from President Roosevelt, United States Consul-General Gudger leaves here Sunday for Colon to assume command of the American consulate there. He will go on the U.S. S.S. Mayflower. On his arrival at Colon Mr. Gudger will make himself known at once to the "de facto government" and will do business directly with the Republic of Panama.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 506, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

RADIUM'S SECRET

Scientists have presented to them a problem which is even more interesting, if it does not transcend in importance the nature and utility of the electric fluid, in the comparatively new agent, radium. The extreme scarcity of this new substance is a great drawback to scientific research and application, although further discoveries may result in devising means to obtain a more plentiful supply. At present experiments are necessarily handicapped by reason of the minute quantities available.

The activity of radium is its most wonderful quality, but there are possibilities of other wonderful and highly useful properties. It is announced that the new metal—if it is a metal in the proper sense of the term—has certain curative powers analogous to the X-rays without the disintegrating effects observed by the use of the latter.

Whence comes the phenomenal activity of radium? What inherent force causes it to radiate heat even in the coldest surroundings? It is said to act in direct opposition to its environment and to radiate energy in almost inverse ratio to the degree of cold (or absence of heat, which amount to the same thing) and is tenfold more powerful at ten below zero than at zero itself.

It is a most extraordinary substance and we have to look for more information about it to those who are now engaged in conducting experiments with this rarest of wonders.

The suggestion that it is a cosmic substance analogous to that which goes in great part to make up the composition of the sun is a reasonable proposition and eminently plausible. The energy radium is not diminished nor its radio-activity reduced by the amount of heat diffused. Indeed, as we have seen, it acts contrary to the usual results we should look for in ordinary physical bodies.

The composition of the sun is a mystery and must ever remain so, except our scientific investigations are materially aided by highly developed optical and spectroscopic apparatus, of which, at the present outlook, there is only the faintest possibility.

We know of the sun that it is an intensely glowing mass of light; whether it is hot is a different question; whether light is possible without heat is debatable, but probably the truth lies in the affirmative. The sun's rays are not hot while passing through space, but only become heated by friction when they strike our atmosphere. But whether the sun's volume is heated or not, and whether this heat and light depend on combustion or radio-activity, are points on which our knowledge is extremely crude. In any event the sun's enormous energy goes on without apparent diminution of intensity or suggestion of waste, similar to the unfailing radio activity of radium.

TALK OF RECIPROCITY

An Interesting Conference to be Held at Chicago

Hon. C. Emory Smith Urges Closer Commercial Relations with the Dominion

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 6.—The Interstate Conference on reciprocity with Canada is to be held in Chicago on Saturday, November 14. Invitations to send delegates have been received by the following and commercial and industrial organizations in Buffalo:

Chamber of Commerce, Manufacturers Club, Lumber Exchange, Western Elevating Association, Live Stock Exchange Maisters' Association and Grain Dealers Association.

The business of the conference includes reorganization, change of headquarters to Chicago, and extending the campaign into Canada. Demand for the conference came principally from manufacturers and business men of the Northwest and West as a result of the organization work of Theodore M. Knappen secretary of the Minnesota branch of the National Reciprocity League. The result was Mr. Knappen was empowered to issue a call for an Interstate conference.

MR. EMORY SMITH TALKS.

Fitchburg Mass., Nov. 6.—Hon. Charles Emory Smith, formerly United States Postmaster-General, at a banquet of the Merchants Association last quet of the Merchants Association last night, said, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy in England:

"Mr. Chamberlain's plan proposes to put a ring fence around Great Britain and then to give a tariff preference to her colonies. We cannot be unmindful that this policy may have serious concern for us, but if we keep our rightful trade weapons in our hands we need not fear the issue. Canada is our third best customer. Mr. Chamberlain would detach her from this continent, and bind her more closely in Imperial bonds. But have we not stronger cards to play than England? Will Canada be content to sacrifice her own interests for the interests of English manufacturers? Will she be content to renounce her own right of independent action for the sake of an empty Imperial connection?

"For five years Canada has given a preferential rate to England. Yet in spite of it our exports to Canada have grown faster during that time than England's exports. We do not seek the annexation of Canada. If the two countries which stretch along side by side for 3,000 miles shall never come together it will be with free and full consent, and by the natural law of gravitation, but while politically distinct, the two American lands of kindred blood and law may well have close commercial relations. Why should they not in mutual interest have an intelligent and statesmanlike system of broad reciprocal agreement?

"There is another vital consideration. British imperialism has its burdens. If Canada is to divorce herself in both a political and commercial sense from her own consent and bind herself with England, she must pay the cost. She must contribute to fleets and armaments. She must accept the chances of Europe's conflicts. She must be prepared to fact attacks upon her invading outposts. But why should not Canada understand that so long as she keeps out of European wars, the United States will not permit any European war to be extended to this continent? We have drawn a circle around the Americas, and made the Monroe doctrine its dominant law. Herein lies the true safeguard of Canada in consulting and protecting her own independent interests, and it will be wise and well for her to understand and appreciate the broad American spirit."

An Early Session

The Toronto Mail and Empire says that it is the intention of the Ontario Government to call an early session of the Legislature. The exact date has not yet been fixed, but it will be, our contemporary understands, some time during January, or about four weeks earlier than the members are ordinarily summoned to transact the business of the province.

Lost Appetite Quickly Revived

A Fitful Appetite is generally associated with a general weakness of the system. Ferrozone the best tonic and appetiser should be taken after each meal and a rapid improvement is sure to follow

Diastase for food often follows La Grippe and fever, or is brought on by over excitement or worry. It is a dangerous condition and paves the way for more sickness. On this account it should be at once corrected by the regular use of Ferrozone.

A new and wonderful medicine is Ferrozone. It instantly imparts a real zest for food, and gives power to the stomach to digest and assimilate all that is eaten. Dyspepsia and indigestion are quite unknown to those who use Ferrozone, simply because it digests food so quickly, that it has no time to ferment or sour on the stomach.

Ferrozone regulates the bowels, quickly remedies urinal disorders and causes all the organs of the body to perform their functions with proper regularity. If the liver is torpid, or the kidneys not eliminating as they should, they are soon restored to normal action, and the poisons that might otherwise be retained in the body to cause disease and ill health, are carried off through natural channels.

The surest road to perfect health is Ferrozone. Young girls who have been accustomed to eat almost nothing at breakfast, soon get over the bad habit by using Ferrozone, and as a result grow into healthy vigorous womanhood. When people get up in years and lose the strength and vim of youth they need a good tonic and blood builder to enable them to resist the trials of our vigorous winter, and this is where Ferrozone can be used to great advantage.

Both the young and the old, the weak and the strong, male and female can derive untold benefit from Ferrozone. It is guaranteed to contain no opiates or injurious drugs, and will do just what is claimed for it.

Druggists recommend and sell it price 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

OUR LETTER-BOX

NOTE—The Times does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.

"CAVAN BLAZERS"

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—My attention has been called to an article in your issue of the 24th ult., headed as above, and on reading it carefully I do not know whether to be astonished most at the ignorance or inventive genius of your ill-informed informant. He certainly was not acquainted with the facts of the case, or he would not have made the gross misstatements he did.

The so-called Blazers originated in 1846 and continued until 1848 and never were an association or organization of any kind. The name "Blazers" was given them by an irritated farmer from whom the boys had borrowed three or four saddles, without the formality of asking for the loan, as they knew beforehand it would be refused.

Now the so-called Blazers were composed of a lot of farmer's sons living on the 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th concessions of Cavan, and the cause of their origin was as follows. In 1846 a fever, then called the "intermittent fever" prevailed to a great extent in the eastern part of Cavan then known locally as "Egipt" now "the Fraserville neighborhood." Hardly a house but had the fever in it, and a number died; as the sickness was at its height during the harvest, these poor sufferers could do nothing to save their crop, and a lot of the young men on the concessions above indicated, concluded to go down three nights in the week, as it was clear moonlight, and cut and stock the harvest of their sick neighbors, many of whom were then widows, and as the distance was from 3 to 6 miles from their respective dwellings, they could not walk, and those who did not have horses of their own, took any horse they could get, and also any saddle lying round loose, till the harvest was over, and then returned them in every case, unhurt.

Now these young men be it understood worked hard all day in their fathers' harvest fields, and in spending the night in saving their sick and dying neighbors crops, were doing a charitable act, and no one would have known it today, if a few goody, goody cranks had not done their utmost to make bad out of good, and lie about, and misrepresent men, a great deal better, and more charitable than themselves.

Your informant states that the "Cavan Blazers were at their zenith in 1850, and were extremely antagonistic to Roman Catholics." Both these statements are untrue; in 1850 there was no further use for their services, and as there never was an organization, they ceased to be, further, several of the leading spirits had left, and gone to do for themselves, and there were not now more that eight or ten left out of the twenty or twenty-five who acted together. These young men were the sons of the leading and oldest settlers in Cavan, and a more respectable and respected lot of men never lived in any part of Ontario. The fathers and mothers of these young men knew all about their doings and were quite satisfied.

He says "among the "Blazers" nicknames were always used. Now these young men, such of them as had nicknames had them from boyhood; they were known among their schoolmates and associates by them long before 1846. There never was a Robert Montgomery or two John Swains in the crowd and the knicknames of several are wrong, and he gives some that never existed.

The Blazers were not antagonistic to Catholics, nor had they anything to do with them. True, two families who called themselves Catholics, came to Cavanville in 1849, but conducted themselves so badly that the neighbors gave them notice to leave, not because they were so-called Catholics, but because they were drunken and did not try to do anything to support themselves.

If your informant knew as much as he thinks he does, he ought to know there were several Catholics in Cavan; one family on the 9th line, and the man was often a willing assistant at harvesting his sick neighbors crop. At the same time the largest and most popular merchant in Cavan was a Catholic; the Township Clerk was a Catholic, he was also among the oldest magistrates in the county, and was the Colonel commanding the local battalion; no man in Cavan was more respected. There were several Catholic families' farms in Cavan; our late neighbor, Joseph Redmond, was born and brought up in Cavan, and he and his father's family were highly respected by all the neighborhood. There were at least a dozen other Catholic families, and with not one of these people did the so-called "blazers" ever interfere, but exchanged words when necessary, with them, just as they did with other neighbors.

The "blazers" never had a swamp in which they held banquets. Some years after they had dispersed, or otherwise, ceased to exist, a lot of young lads held "chicken feeds" on two or three places on the 9th and 10th lines, but they had never been blazers, nor were the blazers in any way associated with the boys or the chicken feeds.

Your correspondent also says, "In 1862 the Cavan Blazers attended at 17th of March demonstration in Peterborough, &c." I must give this an unqualified denial. At that date there were only two of the originals living in Cavan, and neither of them was in Peterborough, consequently there was no "avowed determination" on their part in reference to this 17th of March; and further, the men, he alleges, who came from Mount Pleasant, were not, nor never had been "Blazers," and were not here as "Blazers," and there is no necessity for your correspondent to embellish his story by such assertions.

Of the so-called "Blazers" there are only about half a dozen living, and they are all old men, and will never see the article, but I don't like to see statements go out that are not by any means correct, and must have come to your correspondent by hearsay, or report, and were accepted by him, and retailed to you as the truth. A finer, more human, kind-hearted lot of young men never lived in any Township in Ontario.

I am, Sir,

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Reduction in Railway Staff

Ottawa, Nov. 7—The Canada Atlantic Railway Company will join the procession in the matter of reducing the several staffs. The reduction, it is understood, will take place chiefly in the car shops where on repair and construction 300 men are now employed. It is alleged that this step has been rendered necessary by the high wages, cost of fuel and supplies, and the lull in the production in the industrial centers.

MILLIONOIRE ABDUCTED

Bristol, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Edward L. Wentz, the young Philadelphia millionaire who mysteriously disappeared from his home at Big Stone Gap, Va., October 14 is alive and a captive in the Cumberland Mountains. A letter has been received from him, addressed to his parents, in which he states that he is well, and asks that the ransom of $100,000 demanded by his captors be at once paid so that he can get his freedom.

A strange well-dressed man appeared at Big Stone Gap last Friday and inquired for the Wentz offices, to which he was directed, and there had a talk with Dr. John S. Wentz, the father of the missing man, D. B. Wentz and the chief detective under whose directions the search was being carried on in the mountains of Southwest Virginia and Eastern Kentucky. The strange man told them that E. L. Wentz was still alive, and that for $100,000 he would be delivered to his family.

Dr. Wentz informed him that if he would bring back a letter from his son or some evidence that his son was still alive, he would then consider the proposition.

The man said he would do so, and that night left on a Louisville and Nashville train for Esserville, Va., from which place he went to Stony Mountains.

The stranger has just returned to Big Stone Gap, bringing a letter from young Wentz, who, in his own handwriting, assures his family that he is alive, is being held captive, and asks that they at once pay the ransom and effect his release.

J. S. Wentz left here last night for Philadelphia. When the negotiations are to be completed, and Edward L. Wentz returns to his family, cannot now be told, but it is known that he is still alive, and that negotiations for his release are being made.

YOUR MONEY WORKS WHILE YOU SLEEP

Our famous corps of track sharps are up at break of day, "clocking" the horses in their morning tryouts, and while you sleep they spot the winners that bring you steady income.—Our method puts you on a level with the most successful plungers of the American turf.—We operate for you for 25 per cent. of weekly earnings.—We win only when you win.—Results obtained really "beyond dreams of avarice."

Again we scored heavily for all of our clients last month. Again we landed the money and landed it in chunks. Three years of organization, with the best facilities that money and brains can procure to make our service of picking and backing winners at the horse races the most accurate and profitable in the land, has had its natural sequence, and each week our showing demonstrates a good profit for every client.

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co. representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible form, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our Discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. Money should be sent by bank draft, express money order, or currency in registered letter. Uncertified checks are not accepted.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"What became of the girl who used to perform with the lions?" Rosalie inquired, her eyes filling with momentary horror.

"I suppose she didn't care to come over with them., It is just as well, she wouldn't have stood much of a chance next to you."

Rosalie shivered, a cold dread creeping over her.

"I shall be affraid of the lions," she said. "They may turn on me and tear me to pieces. They do not know me as they did the other girl, and I shall not understand how to manage them."

Jim smiled, and tried to dispel her fears.

"They will have their keeper with them," he answered, "and there will be full instructions as to their training. It isn't likely I should let you run any risk. You have only to say you won't perform with them, and I will not have them sent on. But it would be a tremendous disappointment, and you might never have such a chance again.'

"The chance of being devoured by hungry lions?" she exclaimed, shuddering. "Would nothing else satisfy the public?"

"If you're going to talk like this, we may as well end the matter at once. Let a wild animal detect fear, and you're done for. It wants plenty of courage, and plenty of go, to insure success. If you encountered the beasts with that look in your eyes—I wouldn't give so much for your life."

He snapped his fingers, significantly, and, for and instant, her life seemed to tremble in the balance.

Only for an instant; then, shaking off the terror that had assailed her, she looked at him with flashing eyes.

"You think I am a coward!" she said, drawing herself to her full height, and throwing back her head. "You shall see what I can do. I will face the lions, and, they shall fear me—not I them. Have the bills printed and posted up all over London. I am ready, and I shall not fail!"

Jim looked at her in admiration.

Her eyes were glowing with life, her cheeks flushed, her hands clenched as though she longed even now to exercise her power.

He stepped back a pace, the better to take in the effect of her attitude.

"That will do!" he exclaimed, clapping his hands in applause. "With such a look on your face you could encounter a thousand lions! This will be a winning game, Mademoiselle Rosalie—one that will do us credit!"

He was not disappointed where his new protegee was concerned.

In her he found the apt pupil—one who scarcely needed any teaching; so quick was she to understand what was required of her.

She chose her dress, regardless of expense; she was not going to make her first appearance in trumpery stage finery; she had a correct idea of what the occasion required, and threatened not to perform at all if she could not have her own way.

Jim was not prepared for the dazzling vision that came before him one night when he had returned from the circus.

Rosalie had been putting the finishing touches to the costume, and she met him in the hall arrayed in full splendor.

She had learned from Marc how to blend colors, and the shiny folds of satin seemed to melt into a hundred soft shades.

CHAPTER XIV.

Gretchen had become Lady Errol

There had been a quiet ceremony in the little church adjoining Drayton Court, and afterwards Sir Felix had taken his bride to the south of France, arranging for their return at the end of a few weeks.

Marc had not been present at the ceremony.

He had been glad to get away notwithstanding the pressing invitation he had received to prolong his visit and make the Court his home during the absence of its master.

He had seen very little of Gretchen since the time when she had consented to this strange marriage; yet her face haunted him, and he could not think that she expected any happiness from the step she had taken.

True, he thought, she would have wealth and title; but would they be sufficient to fill the cravings of her passionate soul?

He had finished the two pictures: one of Gretchen, in her bridal veil; one of Sir Felix, decrepit, and wasted in body, beyond his years.

The portraits hung side by side in the long gallery with its stained glass windows and armorial bearings.

Marc had promised to be at Drayton Court to meet Sir Felix on his return, though it was with bitterness at his heart that he consented to this arrangement.

He had fought manfully against his growing love for Gretchen, and had almost persuaded himself he had overcome the folly.

She was the wife of Sir Felix now, had married him of her own free will, and cared nothing for Marc.

Why should he think of her with more than common friendship?

He went further into the country, making sketches whenever some piece of scenery struck him as being unusually rich in color.

He thought of her until his brain reeled, and he dared not trust himself to the solitude he had purposely sought.

He discarded his paints and brushes, and spent much of his time in riding about the open country.

He had drifted into a gloomy frame of mind, he told himself, and he needed rest; he had been working hard lately, and the close application had preyed upon his health.

He would not paint again until he could take up his brushes without thinking of Gretchen.

As the weeks passed he almost persuaded himself he had overcome his infatuation for her.

Notwithstanding his promise to Sir Felix, he would not have gone back to Drayton Court, had it not been for this conviction.

By looking steadily into the face of facts, Marc had so far controlled his feelings as to be able to think calmly of again meeting Gretchen.

A man can be master of himself when he so wills, he reflected, and his love for Gdetchen should darken neither her life nor his own.

Directly he knew Sir Felix had returned, he made his way back to the Court, too sure of the victory he had gained over his feelings to dread the ordeal in store for him.

If he had expected any change in Gretchen he was disappointed.

Perhaps there was a deeper sadness in her eyes—a more settled hopelessness in her voice. She was as pale and cold as a stone—pale and cold as she had been on the day she had become Sir Felix Errol's wife.

Marc started as he touched her hand in greeting. The words of congratulation he had been prepared to utter died on his lips. He dropped her hand in silence, and turned away from the look in her eyes.

"You have passed a pleasant time, I hope," he said at lenght, his voice sounding hoarse. "The long journey has tired you."

She smiled bitterly.

Dinner Gown in Peau de Crepe.

The rage for shirrings has called forth charming variations of designs, and very attractive is a reception or dinner gown on which this work is introduced. This is represented in old ivory peau de crepe, both bodice and skirt inset with Marechel Niel yellow flowers in applique. Mexican drawn work is introduced on the decollete bodice, and the ceinture of apricot velvet adds a rich, bold tone. Hand embroidery here finds expression, done in Corticelli wash embroidery silk. The effect is very beautiful.

Shirred costumes will be seen in the numerous crepes, and, indeed, there is nothing prettier than nun's grey crepe de chene fashioned in shirred effect, deep around the shoulders, hips and knees, with adjuncts of grey and white lace, the finishing touches being supplied in fringes, tassels and delicate cords.

On the 10th of July, 1653, Don Pantaleon Sa, a Portuguese nobleman, brother of the Ambassador from that country to England, and a Knight of Malta, was beheaded on Tower Hill. It happened that Don Pantaleon, in the November previous to his execution, was walking in the New Exchange with some of his countrymen when a quarrel arose between them and a young Englishman named Gerrard. Mr. Gerrard accused the Portuguese of speaking in French disparagingly of England, swords were drawn and passes exchanged. A few men, who were present, stopped the fray and hustled the Portuguese out into the street. The next day Pantaleon with fifty well-armed followers came to the Exchange to take revenge. Some four Englishmen were severely wounded, and a gentleman named Greenway, who was mistaken for Gerrard, while walking with his sister, was shot. The Portuguese retreated to the Embassy. A demand was made for the culprits, but the Ambassador insisted that the law of nations must be enforced, and his place protected. Cromwell sent a messenger in reply to say that if the criminals were not given up he would withdraw the guard and leave the mob to do as they pleased in the matter. Under this threat, Don Pantaleon and a few of his followers were surrendered and were confined in Newgate, where, after being found guilty of murder, Don Pantaleon was executed, as aforesaid, on Tower Hill. He had been condemned to be hanged, but his brother pleaded that he might be permitted to kill his brother with his own sword, and this strange request was granted. It is worthy of note that Gerrard, the cause of the unhappy incidents, was executed on the same day and at the same place for being concerned in a plot to assassinate Cromwell.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar —Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Mme. Bernhardt's Home.

Sarah Bernhardt seems to be the happiest woman in the world in her fortress home, perched high on the black, rugged rocks of this quaint island, Belle-Isle-en-Mer, a couple of leagues from the coast of Brittany. The stone house is built on the ruins of an old granite fort constructed by Vauban during the reign of Louis XIV. Sarah Bernhardt invariably passes the month of August in her sea-bound domain, and has this year bought a herd of little black Brittany cows, half a dozen big, mouse colored donkeys with white-tipped noses, and on smooth-haired fox terriers. The actress and her granddaughter, Mlle. Simone Bernhardt, now a charming young woman of seventeen, drink fresh milk, ride about the island on donkeys, play tennis and wade ankle deep in the sea in quest of shrimps. Corsets and fashionable gowns are absolutely tabooed. Sarah has built on her property a spacious studio, where she amuses herself painting seascapes and landscapes in pastel. Her son, Maurice Bernhardt, and his wife and their two children, Miles. Simone and Vicyiane Bernhardt, live in a nice, airy house a stone's throw distant from Sarah's fort, upon which waves a large white flag bearing in scarlet letters the well-known motto, "Quand Meme!" George Clairin, the painter, and a few literary and artistic friends are just now her guests. Life at Belle-Isle-en-Mer is simple and patriarchal. Large bowls of delicious coffee and milk, or chocolate, with fresh-laid eggs and rolls of rye bread, are served in the bedrooms from 7 o'clock to 10 in the morning. The morning costumes are decidedly pre-Raphaelite, consisting of ample, flowing mantles of Turkish toweling and sandals Sarah has four sturdy little Brittany horses in her stable, and her son Maurice has a couple of smart gray cobs upon which he and his friends canter over the plains and byroads which Sarah has had constructed over her property, and which command the sea somewhat as the famous Corniche road above Nice dominates the Mediterranean.

A few days ago Sarah met with a slight accident while playing tennis. She made a high jump in order to "smash" a swift ball, but in doing so sprained the cords of her left ankle. Ecchymosis ensued, and the surgeon of the 62nd Regiment of the line, quartered on the island, was sent for. Compresses were wound around the calf of the leg, and absolute rest was prescribed. This "absolute rest" is highly repugnant to Sarah and sadly interferes with her vacation. She is nevertheless bravely bearing with her misfortune, and, seated with leg extended in a long armchair, is borne about over the rocks and cliffs by two stout Brittany sailor lads with incredible rapidity. Sarah's Belle-Isle costume is simple, artistic and serviceable. Yesterday afternoon, as I happened to be sitting with her friends and her two granddaughters in the large hall which serves the double purpose of library and dining-room, Sarah was borne into the room on her armchair, which seems like a sort of throne. Her smile was bright and cheerful. The swell of the ocean after the severe south-westerly gale of the last few days was imposing, and she remarked: "You see, each wave that breaks on the rocks beneath my window comes to me as a friendly greeting from America—your country is my next-door neighbor." Sarah wore a most becoming cream-colored felt hat, with cream pongee pugree folded and draped over its broad brim. The waist was of cream-colored flannel, fitting loosely and gracefully to the body, unencumbered by corsets—articles of dress that Sarah detests. "Corsets!" she screamed, "I hate them! They have done more harm to women than any form of wearing apparel ever invented. I consider them hideous, unseemly, unhealthy and ridiculous."

Whereupon the graceful little Mlle. Simone chimed in with the remark: "Grandma is quite right; I hate them, too!" Sarah Bernhardt wore about her neck a plain golf tie of cream silk. Her skirt was of cream flannel, like the waist, and hung in loose folds, giving ample swing to the limbs, but was cut very short, and did not even reach the ankles. Cream-colored, hand-knit stockings were worn, and her feet were encased in dainty little white doeskin low-cut shoes without heels, provided with India rubber corrugated soles, and tied with white ribbons.

Sarah does a great deal of reading at Belle-Isle-en-Mer; her favorite authors this summer are Shakespeare, Voltaire and Paul Hervieu. Her secretary and her stage manager are with her, and she attends to business with them during an hour or so each evening. Sarah is enchanted with Belle-Isle-en-Mer, and the good-natured fisherfolk adore her as their island divinity.—C. I. B. in New York "Tribune."

A Queer Fee.

Mr. John Ball Osborne, while acting as Consul in picturesque and tranquil Ghent, had few exciting experiences, and duties which were not arduous. But he received one surprising fee.

A man came to him to secure the authentication of a document to be used in court in the United States, a service for which the regular fee is two dollars, which Mr. Osborne duly charged. But his client appeared troubled and admitted that he was "hard up." He was, he explained, by profession a glass-eater, but was temporarily out of employment after a series of performances at country fairs; and he had only expected to pay a quarter.

He fumbled in his pockets a moment in a distressed way, then brightened suddenly and suggested a compromise—he would not pay in money, but by giving his creditor a special performance.

Believing him to be one of the numerous fakirs who rely on sleight-of-hand in so-called glass-eating feats, Mr. Osborne expressed incredulity.

"Gimme a thin goblet," said he, "and I'll eat it all up."

The goblet was brought. The impecunious American grasped it firmly with both hands as a boy would a big apple, and munched off a great piece. The fragments crackled horribly under his large teeth, Mr. Osborne reports, and disappeared down his throat.

He was precisely what he claimed to be—a human ostrich; but it was not a pleasant way of receiving a notarial fee, and the Consul hastened to inform the glass-eater that his debt was discharged.

"The heart," exclaimed the poet, "is a casket which love alone can unlock." "M'yes," replied the cynic. "But money is the skeleton-key that's very apt to produce the same result."

Decayed German Fruit.

Since Friday last some twenty-three vanloads of condemned German plums have vanished into the courtyard of the Bermondsey Borough Council's destructor, says The London Express of Thursday, September 16, and they are destined a few weeks hence to start a useful career as paving stones. Yesterday several vans, with their evil-smelling contents, added to the quantity already waiting to be dealt with, but so heavy have the seizures been that they must wait for a day or two before passing through the processes that result in this wonderful transformation. The fruit must first be burnt, and wet plums would put out the fires of the furnaces unless used in small quantities and mixed with household refuse, which, when burnt, goes to form the "slag" used for the manufacture of Bermondsey flagstones. The slag is ground up into powder, mixed with cement, and pressed by hydraulic power into paving stones. In addition to plums, tins of condemned salmon, tomatoes, sardines and other things "unfit for human consumption" find their way into Bermondsey's flagstone factory. At present the amount of slag available is so great that the output of flagstones is larger than the authorities require. It is therefore proposed to sell the surplus blocks to other boroughs at 2s 6d each. Plums will form a considerable ingredient of the slag for some time to come, for the seizures have suddenly become large. In four working days some six batches of fruit have been condemned in Bermondsey, varying from thirty tons in five railway trucks to fifteen baskets on a costermonger's stall, the contents of which were being retailed at 1d. per lb. The Southwark Magistrate yesterday ordered the destruction of 36cwt. of German plums which had been seized at Cotton's Wharf, Tooley street. The Magistrate, after examining the fruit, remarked that it was hopelessly bad.

A Kindly Act.

Queen Alexandra has just sent a most sympathetic and encouraging letter, accompanied by a check for £50, to the Countess of Dudley, who, with the Lord Lieutenant, has just taken up her residence at Rockingham, in west Ireland. This, with a gift of £5,000 from a prominent landholder in the north of Ireland, Sir Hugh Smiley of Larne, on whom the King recently conferred a baronetcy, has been applied by the philanthropic Lady Dudley to her pet scheme, that of establishing district nurses throughout the locality of the Viceregal home. For some time past the one absorbing thought in Lady Dudley's mind, it seems, has been the assistance of these ministers to body and soul, and in her effort to help the poverty-stricken people among whom her lot has been cast. "I feel," she said, as quoted in The London Gentlewoman, "that it is not only the sick who would benefit by an organization of this kind, but the whole community. A tactful nurse, who, by kindness and attention in sickness, could gain the confidence of the people, would do more than anything else toward raising the standard of life in the districts where the most rudimentary knowledge of sanitary laws and the treatment of sickness does not exist, and cleanliness, cookery and domestic comfort are unknown. There is absolutely no standard of comfort; everything is far behind the times. In the poorest districts there are no maternity nurses, and though the babies more frequently than not struggle into existence, it is often at the expense of the mother's life. It is quite impossible for one dispensary doctor to attend some three or four thousand people scattered over a large area, especially in the mountainous localities, where locomotion is difficult, and in the winter weather often impossible; hence it is only by means of district nurses that we can hope to check the suffering and mortality. It may be," she continued, very earnestly, "I hope it may be my privilege to carry out this plan, but to establish the scheme on a permanent basis I need generous—very generous—support. The initial expenses can be met by the donations already received, but a self-respecting subscription list or a substantial sum capitalized will be necessary to carry on the work, otherwise the movement will only have aroused a need and awakened a hope that we shall not be able to fulfil. So far we are only justified in starting two nurses, who will begin their work at once" (in August), "one at Geesala and the other at Carracoe, both pitiably poor districts, which I have personally visited, selecting and furnishing the tiny houses in which the nurses are to live. Something like £100 a year—is necessary for the maintenance of each nurse, and the Queen Victoria Jubilee Fund has voted an annual sum of £100 to form the nucleus of a special endowment fund.

"I feel that as the scheme becomes better known people will respond more generously to my appeal, which has already called forth some very liberal contributions, which will, I hope, enable us to start two more nurses on October 1. There will be no fear of overlapping, as we only purpose dealing with the very destitute districts, where no nurse of any kind exists. Here," she said, opening a large book of photographs, mostly her own snapshots, "here are pictures of some of the places where I hope we shall establish nurses. Can you conceive greater misery? They have nothing out of which to make a living, or, as they pathetically express it themselves, 'Sure, we have nothing, glory be to God, only the air and the water.' And, indeed," Lady Dudley added, "the beautiful pure air of the west is the one blessing they enjoy."

To Destroy Mosquitos.

That warfare against the mosquito may be successful, if it is waged thoroughly and relentlessly, seems to be shown by the results attained on the Isthmus of Suez, where the Canal Company has been trying for several months to exterminate the insects. A contributor to Cosmos, according to a translation made for The Literary Digest, says of this isthmian mosquito war: "A special service has been organized for the purpose. All cisterns have been given a thin coating of oil, which prevents the mosquitoes from breeding; and all marshes and ditches where stagnant water might accumulate have been drained. At the same time, medicine has been distributed, which, by curing the fever, diminishes the poisoned sources whence the mosquitoes obtain their virus. Owing to this, since last December the number of cases of fever has sensibly diminished from month to month, as compared with the numbers in corresponding months of previous years. These operations have gone on for only a few months, and, of course, the anopheles has not completely disappeared; but the examination of specimens captured for this purpose shows that none were infected, which is doubtless to be attributed to the fact that the number of malarial patients has been reduced by proper medical treatment. The oiling of the cisterns and the active surveillance of all the places where the mosquitoes can breed have had another happy result—the anopheles are not the only ones that have suffered; these measures have also caused the culex to disappear so completely that even on the hottest days of the season it has not been necessary to use mosquito nets. The month of August is the malarial season at Ismaila, and only after this period can we tell whether the efforts that have been made are fully successful. It is to be hoped that they are. Besides the immense advantage that will be gained for the region itself, this experiment will show what can be done in this line and with what chances of success. A war of the same kind is being waged in Havana, but we do not yet know its results."

A Sharp Retort.

A student noted for his carelessness in dress approached Prof. Simon Newcomb of Johns Hopkins University for advice says The Yale Review. He was thinking of leaving college and going into business, having had a flattering offer.

"Now, you know my case, Professor," he said, "and if you were in my shoes what would you do?"

The Professor looked very serious and replied:

"Black them, of course!"

Only a Copper.

When a ruling passion gets tyrannical it is time for it in turn to be overruled. "Lippincott's Magazine" says that a pompous old gentleman in a New York railway station was buying his ticket for Chicago, when he dropped a cent. "Didn't you lose some of your change?" asked the ticket agent.

"Yes, it was only a copper, but —"

He adjusted his glasses and bent over in search of the missing coin. One or two of the bystanders joined him.

"How much did you drop?" asked one.

"Oh, only a copper, still —"

He bent lower and peered under a seat.

"Curious how money will disappear," he said. "Of course a copper is only a trifle— Excuse me, sir, may I trouble you to move your satchels? Possibly the coin may have rolled behind them. It was only —"

"I think it rolled under that seat over there!" called a man near by.

"Oh, did it? Thank you."

He dropped to his knees and peered under the seat. His glasses fell off, and he readjusted them, struck a match, burrowed under the seat, and then rose to his feet, wiped the dust from his trousers, and said to a lady:—

"Excuse me, madam, but I think the coin may have rolled in this direction. Would you take the trouble to rise? It was only a copper, but —"

The woman changed her seat and he resumed his peering. Then a man said:—

"I don't think it rolled in this direction. Isn't that it over there against the baseboard?"

"Ah, perhaps it is! I'll see. No, this is just a brass button. Of course a copper is the merest trifle, but —"

He pulled out his watch, glanced at it and then at the clock on the wall. Then he hurried to the window and asked the ticket-seller, "When did you say that train went to Chicago?"

"Four fifteen, sir. Went just a moment ago."

"It did? Then I'm left, and all on account of— Still, a copper's a copper. It isn't very much, but —"

And he began to search for it again.

A "Straight" Multiple.

"I see," said the stranger, stirring something in a glass, "that on the strength of the names in the new city directory you claim a population here of over two million three hundred thousand."

"I guess that's about right," observed the man in the battered Panama hat, who was leaning against the bar and smoking a cigar.

"What multiple do you use?"

"Well," replied the other, throwing away his cigar and wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, "I generally take it straight—if it's all the same to you."—Chicago "Tribune."

Logical.

An Irishman entered a country inn and called for a glass of the best Irish whiskey. After being supplied he drank it, and was about to walk out when the following conversation took place:

Landlord—Here, sir, you haven't paid for that whiskey you ordered.

Irishman—What's that you say?

Landlord—I said you haven't paid for that whiskey you ordered.

Irishman—Did you pay for it?

Landlord—Of course I did.

Irishman—Well, thin, what's the good of both of us paying for it?—"Tit-Bits."

"And you don't see Reggie any more?"
"No; he has ceased to interest me."
"Dear, dear! And how does he take it?"
"That's what I'm dying to know."

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Nov. 7—The weakness was continued throughout the general list, with the principal declines U.S.S. and pfd which got down to 53, while the common stock sold at 10 1-2. Our prediction that the common would go down to 7 and the preferred near 40 will surely be fulfilled, in fact we would not be surprised if the common went to 32 a share and the preferred to 35; should the preferred rally to about 56 again sell it. Sugar declined to 114 1-2 and those who sold it around 117 1-2 should have covered as advised in last night's letter, if it rallies again to 117 sell it moderately.

The general list made low prices around noon and according to last night's letter should have been taken on, stocks sold around Wednesday's high prices these sales would have shown a profit of from 3 to 7 points. There was a moderate rally in the afternoon which may be carried a trifle further to-morrow morning. On any further strength tomorrow morning we advise you to sell some P.O., Mo. P., B.R.T, R.I, Steels, L. N., T.C.I., St Paul, N.Y.C, B. O, Atch, R.G., A.L.O., pfd, and S.J. Be sure and sell them only when they look strong and don't go in too heavy, so that you could sell more if they should rally a little further which is unlikely. On any quick three point break a few more, profits may be taken.

Wall Street Information Bureau.

New York, Nov. 7—Would not be surprised if there was a good rally in U.S.S. Market will be dull until after the bank statement. What ever the bank statement is we don't expect the market to be turned over to the bears. Would advise buying good stocks on any break.

OPPOSED TO THE POLICY

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach Says Preference is Injurious

London, Nov. 6.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, in his speech at Manchester yesterday, in reply to Mr. Chamberlain, said that the immense prosperity of the country from 1848 to 1872 was due in part to other causes than free trade. The trade of the country was enormously increased, and the condition of the working classes enormously improved, and the wealth of the country grew. This growth was largely due to the development of steam and electricity, to great discoveries in science, and the production of gold.

He asked, if the preferential proposal was to be so beneficial even to the colonies as was represented, why were there rival interests in those great States?

Canada was not composed wholly of farmers, and Canadian lumber would receive no advantage under the proposed tariff. He said he was a wider imperialist than Mr. Chamberlain, and he believed that the interests of 40,000,000 of people were more important than the mistaken policy of 11,000,000 colonials.

The duty he had imposed upon corn had, contrary to his opinion, increased the price of bread.

ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

A Young Defendant Charged with Stabbing

Montreal, Nov. 7—Probably the youngest prisoner ever before the Court of King's Bench here, faced Mr. Justice Hall yesterday.

He is Adelard Forget, a fourteen-year-old, who is charged with stabbing Aaron Goldstein. The case, as outlined by the Crown, is that, on the Day of Atonement, last month, Goldstein was at his home, 303 Cadieux street, and with several boys was standing around the front doorstep, when the accused, with friends passed. There was a little jostling done, and Goldstein got a cuff in the neck which did not hurt him. When the boys had gone away he felt a sharp pain in his left side, and upon examination it was found that he had received a slight stab. He was taken to the General Hospital, where the wound was treated. The case is being heard in English, French, and Hebrew. The addresses to the jury are being made this afternoon.

SCOTCH IRON FOUNDER'S VIEW

Chamberlain Will Succeed; Perhaps at Next Election but One

New York, Nov. 6.—I, Finlay MacLaren of Glasgow, Scotland, is a guest at the Holland House. He is a Scotch iron founder, who employs 500 men in the establishment his father began more than sixty years ago. Asked concerning Mr. Chamberlain's campaign and its chances of success, Mr. MacLaren said "Mr. Chamberlain made his now famous speech in Glasgow the night I left home. I read it from the Liverpool papers after I boarded the steamer for New York. Of course, I could not report the reception it received from observation, but I have no doubt his proposals will succeed, perhaps not at the next election, but at the one following. I believe in free trade, but we haven't free trade in Great Britain; we have merely free imports, with a tariff against us in countries to which we would sell our products. We now extend favored nation privileges, and get nothing in return. We are now so situated that we have nothing more to give. Mr. Chamberlain proposes an average tariff of 10 per cent. on manufactured articles, free raw materials and an abatement of the tax on tea, sugar and tobacco, against a two shilling tax on wheat. He makes it clear that the cost of food for each household would be less under the readjustment than under the conditions that now exist. It will be remembered that when the war tax of one penny per quarter on wheat was removed, the price of wheat and flour actually advanced, and no one seems to know who paid the tax. I think Mr. Chamberlain is impressing his views upon the people. He is a business man and a statesman. He is too old to be flying kites, and his sincerity is not to be doubted."

Individualities.

Shortly before Napoleon III. appropriated the vacant throne of France he one day asked a great lady to explain the difference between "an accident" and "a misfortune." "If," she said, "you were to fall into the Seine, that would be an accident; if they pulled you out again, that would be a misfortune."

A little girl was writing a composition on the rabbit, and, never having seen a creature of any sort, enquired of her teacher whether the rabbit had a tail. "Yes, a small one. None to speak of," answered the teacher. This is the way the little girl introduced the matter in her composition: "The rabbit has a small tail—but you mustn't talk about it."

A newly-arrived Westerner was confronted in a street of New York late at night by a ruffian with leveled revolver, who made the stereotyped demand: "Give me your money or I'll blow your brains out." "Blow away," said the Westerner; "you can live in New York without brains, but you can't without money."

Recently a boating party, on the Boston Harbor, was passing Rainsford Island, upon which there is a farm school for wayward boys. It being a holiday, these young farmers had the freedom of the island and were apparently having a very jolly time on the shore. A lad of seven, who had been intently watching their sport from the deck of the boat, turned to his mother and said eagerly: "How bad do you have to be to get there, mamma?"

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non-assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Cold Mining Co. is to make some money "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;
Two partially developed quartz claims;
One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;
All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

There is Nothing on Earth

That Shows as much Profit for Work Done and Money Spent as an OIL WELL.

A gold mine needs continual digging, but an oil well, if it does not flow of its own accord, needs to be pumped, and it supplies the fuel to run the pump.

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars, yes, Millions, have been made in the Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana oil fields, but these fields are on the decline, and the eyes of the world are turning to the Kentucky and Tennessee fields, where a mighty development has begun. Today Kentucky and Tennessee have over 500 producing wells, and is pumping thousands of barrels of oil. Money is flowing into the field from eastern financial centres as well as from the capital of Europe. It is believed by oil men that this will become the greatest oil field in America.

The Standard Oil Company is spending millions of dollars in laying the foundations of the most gigantic pipe line ever laid in any section. This shows that they have faith in Kentucky and Tennessee as the coming oil-producing section of America.

The American Oil Co.

Is one of the successful Companies operating over 3,000 acres of proven oil land in Kentucky and Tennessee located along the line of transportation. To push the wells and complete the development of this vast property, the Company offers 50,000 shares of treasury stock at 5 cents per share. This low offer is but for a short time, and may be withdrawn without further notice.

BRONCHITIS

A Remarkable Case

"I feel it my duty," writes Mrs. Boyd, of Lansdowne, N.B., "to let you know that I have been cured of bronchitis of three years' standing by Catarrhozone.

"With the least change in temperature or exposure to inclement weather, I was attacked with bronchial discomfort, wheezing in the chest, hoarseness, sore throat, partial loss of voice and stuffiness of the head. I consulted four doctors and was treated by them all without any benefit.

"Catarrhozone was strongly recommended to me by several persons whom it had benefited, and was induced to give it a good trial."

"It quickly relieved my difficult breathing, so I got the complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, etc., and I began systematically the Catarrhozone treatment.

"In a few days the huskiness and hoarseness disappeared, and my voice became stronger. The running of the nose, and 'stuffiness of the head,' feverishness, difficult breathing, were all done away with before I had been using Catarrhozone very long.

"About six weeks' treatment was sufficient to do more for me than four doctors failed to do in three years' time. It cured me and I don't believe there is another such a remedy on earth. Its action is speedy, pleasant, and permanent."

Catarrhozone is a new, scientific treatment, and is guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Cold, etc., or money refunded. It contains nothing injurious and can be used by the infant as well as by the adult.

It is both a local and a constitutional remedy. The inhaler supplies abundance of medicated air, which spreads through all the air passages, killing germ life, and healing sore spots as it goes.

The impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone tablets which strengthen and build up the system to such a healthy condition that disease simply can't exist.

Catarrhozone is recommended by doctors and druggists for all respiratory diseases. It relieves quickly and cures permanently. Complete outfit costs $1.00; trial size 25c. At Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

THE LORD'S DAY ACT.

Charge Made Against the Cereal Company.

The Matter to be Laid Before the Attorney General—Work of Necessity

The local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance have taken action against the American Cereal Company for alleged violation of the Lord's Day Act.

It appears that the Alliance laid the matter before Chief Roszel, who visited the works on Sunday, October 18th. He was, it is said, denied admission. To the Chief's enquiry, "What are you doing?" the answer was returned that the wheels were running in order to keep down the head of water at the new dam, so that work could be resumed on Monday without interruption. The Chief was politely given to understand that it was none of his business, as the Company were running that concern just then.

The matter was reported to the Alliance, who sent Mr. Robert Harrison to Toronto to lay the case before the Executive of the Provincial Alliance. This was done on Friday last, and the Secretary Rev. T. Albert Moore, was instructed by the Executive to bring the matter to the attention of the Attorney-General.

It is further alleged that the Cereal Company operate their mills up to six o'clock Sunday mornings commencing work again Sunday evenings at seven.

The Cereal people claim that their work is one of necessity. They do not operate their mills on the Sabbath, except when necessary to regulate the water so as to facilitate work in the new dam.

PETERBOROUGH 15 WELLESLEYS 11

The Wellesleys lost a good game on Saturday in the Intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. to the Peterboros, and all on account of not kicking in the last half when they had the wind. The score at half time was Peterboro 11, Wellesleys 4, and the final score was 15 to 11 in favor of the visitors. For Peterboro Burnham distinguished himself by his long punts, but Crowley was the star performer, and gained more by his runs than any other player, Dooley and Carey being the only ones who could bring him down. Hurtubise, as snap-back played a strong game. For the Wellesleys the tackling and following up of Marsh was a feature, and also the tackling and bucking of Dooley and Carey, two players from St. Michael's College. Dr. Wood proved an impartial and satisfactory referee, his decisions not being questioned at any time. The game was clean all through. Foreman of the Wellesleys was hurt in the last half, and Cameron retired. The teams:

Wellesleys (11) —Back, Suckling; half-backs, Johnston, Carey, Dooley; snap-back, Harris; quarter, Matthews; wings, Marsh, Matthews, Painter, Foreman, Cook, Gibson.

Kingston, Nov. 7—Molson of McGill refereed and McDonald of McGill umpired the Varsity-Queen's game to-day.

Half time—Score: Queens 7, Varsity 2.

Varsity made a touchdown in the second half. Score: Varsity 7, Queens 7. The game was called on account of darkness with the score a tie.

Change of Business

The grocery and meat business, heretofore carried on by Mr. C. Moore, Ashburnham, has been disposed of to Mr. J. J. Cain, of Peterborough. Mr. Cain is a practical man, and will no doubt conduct a very successful business.

Customs Returns

The customs returns of Peterborough for the month of October were $14,500.00, while the corresponding amount for October, 1902, was $16,800.63, a deficit of $2,384.63. The returns for the fiscal year June 30th 1902, to June 30th, 1903 were $213,836.24, an average per month of $17,800.00.

THE NEW DRAINAGE SEWER

Is Being Built Along the North Side of Hunter St. to the Creek

Mr. Richard Sheehy, contractor, has begun work on the new drainage and surface water sewer for Hunter street. The new sewer will enter the small creek that runs beneath the bridge on Hunter street and its purpose is to carry off the surface and drainage water, which otherwise would wash into the George street sewer. On several occasions the latter has been choked from this cause and damage resulted to property adjoining.

The new sewer will be of 15-inch pipe, and is to run from the east side of George street or Macdonald's corner, where considerable surface and drainage water now accumulates, along the north side of Hunter street, to the creek.

HARD ARGUMENTS

Coffee Uses Them Whether One Likes or Not

The ill effects of coffee are present in many coffee drinkers but some people pay no attention to the warning signals, like dyspepsia, insomnia, nervousness, fluttering of the heart, etc., until coffee finally uses a knock down argument which means collapse on the part of the coffee drinker.

"I am 30 years old and have drank coffee since I can remember until four years ago when I broke down completely with nervous prostration and indigestion. I simply cannot describe the agony I suffered.

"Doctor told me he could not help me if I did not leave coffee alone, so I bought some Postum to give it a trial. At first I did not know how to make it and was disappointed in the taste, but after reading the directions on the package carefully, made it right, and then I weigh 165 pounds, that's quite a gain isn't it? I never have indigestion now and the headaches are all gone and I am otherwise entirely well and strong.

"I never had any troubles that were not due to drinking coffee and these disappeared and health came in their place when I shut off coffee and drank Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

DEER ARE PLENTIFUL

One Sportsman Bagged His Limit Within Fifteen Minutes

"Deer are unusually plentiful," a railway man said to The Times Saturday morning. "Why, yesterday I saw a man who bagged two fine specimens in his first fifteen minutes in the woods. He wasn't altogether satisfied with his performance, though a record, for he had reached the limit, and would have to content himself with birds. However, while most Nimrods will get their share, the case I have mentioned is likely to be a stimulating example for many moons to come."

Capt. Cottingham, of the Eagle Lake Hunting Club, reports great luck this season. Up to Saturday noon the party had secured 14 fine deer, with still two men and three dogs to hear from. Little Tommy Parker bagged the first deer with his small cannon. The members of the party are reported all well with the exception of Mr. T. C. Westlake who was compelled to return on account of illness.

One of Mr. Harold Snowden's carrier pigeons arrived home from the north country at 2.55 o'clock yesterday afternoon with the following message from the Hunters:

Gold Lake Camp,
Nov. 8th, 11.45 a.m.

"Eight deer, one buck weighing 250 pounds. All well. Six men fined for missing deer. Tell liverymen to send good strong rigs and horses on Friday, 13th."

MR. JACKSON'S ENTERPRISE

Mr. R. Jackson, the genial proprietor of the Crown Hotel, is gradually improving this splendid hostelry, and it is now one of the most complete hotels in town.

The main entrance on Water street has been enlarged and greatly beautified, adding to the fine appearance of the building. The upper part of the entrance is filled with a fine, large light, in which appears the name "Crown Hotel" in large letters in brilliant hues, surrounded with a border of red, white and blue, the whole having a striking affect and completing the scheme, commenced by the glowing crown in the windows. At the same time the office and waiting room has been handsomely redecorated, the rich paper of crimson and gold, the lattice pattern of the ceiling, and the cornice and centre piece picked out with bright colors and gold, uniting produce a very harmonious and pleasing effect.

Much credit is due to Mr. Hailey, who has the contract of decorating, his work showing both good taste and excellence of workmanship.

A new entrance has also been made to the bar, the wooden steps having been removed.

A WOLF STORY.

Mr. Barclay Parker Encountered One, but He Had His Gun

The North Harvey correspondent to the Bobcaygeon Independent, has the following:—"Mr. Barclay Parker was in the woods last week doing a bit of bush ranging as he and his brothers have a job cutting logs for the Gilmours, and he had his rifle along. It is just as well that he did for he might have had more excitement than he was looking for. He was on a little ridge, inspecting the timber, when he heard a crackling in the brush behind him on another ridge a short distance away. Turning around he saw two wolves coming helter skelter along his track. He saw that the front one was the largest, and waiting for a moment or two to get his opportunity he levelled at the point of the shoulder, and pulled the trigger. The rifle made a vicious crack and the fatal lead hit the mark, riddling through the heart. The wolf gave a yelp and a spring in the air, and fell to the ground like a hundred of brick. The mate disappeared on the crack of the rifle, as if the ground had opened and swallowed it. Barclay never saw a glimpse of it. On reaching the wolf he found it was one of the largest he had ever seen. It must have weighed over a hundred pounds, and as it was no use trying to carry it, he took out his jackknife and skinned it right there. The skin measures from tip to tip just six feet, and is in prime condition. It will be worth $2.50, and the bounty is $15, so that Barclay hit a prize package with his little gun."

The strongest castle could be reduced by siege if the garrison could be starved out. The strongest body has to give up the fight when starvation weakens it. There are more deaths from starvation than the world dreams of. When the stomach is diseased and the food eaten is not digested and assimilated, then the strength of the body begins to fail because of lack of nutrition, and the weak body falls an easy victim to the microbes of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores physical strength in the only possible way, by enabling the assimilation of the nutrition contained in food.

"I was sick for over three years with a complication of stomach troubles," writes Mr. John B. Cantone, residing at 2945 Arch St., Chicago, Illinois. "Had tried every good physician I knew of, as well as many patent medicines, but received only temporary relief. One day a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I immediately procured some and began its use. Commenced to gain the first week, and after I had taken only one bottle I could eat as well as any one without experiencing ill effects. I took five bottles, and to-day am happy to announce that I am as well and healthy as any one could be. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

POWERS WILL NOW BRING THE SULTAN TO TERMS

Turkey will Certainly Now be Compelled to Yield or Fight

IT IS A BITTER DOSE FOR ABDUL HAMID

Turkey's Disposition Not to Accept Proposals Regarded as Being Very Serious

Vienna, Nov. 10.—Count Goluchowski, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and his associates have all along expected that the Sultan would take exception to some of the features of the Austro-Russian policy for Macedonia, but they were scarcely prepared for the broadside The Porte has directed against the whole scheme. It is impossible to forecast the details of the reply the mandatory powers purpose to make, but the Austrian officials have no doubt that the Porte's verbiage will be rather summarily swept aside and the Sultan warned to abstain from further efforts to defeat the will of Europe.

Should measures of compulsion become necessary, it is believed the powers will be equally represented in order to avoid suspicion, jealousy and possible dissension. However, it is said in some quarters that the powers may extend the mandate already given Russia and Austria to cover naval and military action requisite to enforce the acceptance of the reforms. The opinion is generally held, despite some uneasiness on this point, that Turkey will not risk open rupture with the powers.

MACEDONIA'S SATISFACTION.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 10.—Macedonia is evincing lively satisfaction at the prospect of a brush between Turkey and the six great powers. It is hoped that events will so shape themselves as to compel Europe to assume the burden that has so long bent the back of Macedonia.

Bulgarian officials regard the outlook with anxiety, since they feel that a general war between Turkey and Europe might result in changes in the political map of the Balkans. However, this uneasiness is lessened by the promise of mitigation of the sufferings of the Bulgarian and other Christians in Macedonia. Clear headed observers do not believe that the Sultan will be so made as to precipitate a war.

AT ISSUE OVER VITAL PROPOSALS.

Constantinople, Nov. 10.—Europe and Turkey stand face to face on opposite sides of the vital proposals for reform of the Government of Macedonia. This is the burning question of the hour, on which representatives of the powers say Europe cannot and high Turkish officials declare Turkey will not yield. Meanwhile a state of general nervousness prevails. Russia and Austria are apparently determined to demand acceptance of their program.

SULTAN WILL YIELD.

London, November 10.—It is admitted in Downing street that Turkey's rejection of practically the whole new program of Macedonian reform creates a highly critical situation. "We can only hope," said an official to a press correspondent this morning, "that the Ottoman Government will ultimately yield to the united moral forces of Europe. The concert of the powers is remarkably compact, and the extreme gravity of independent action is likely to keep it so.

"Great Britain is pledged both by words and acts to aid in rescuing Macedonia from the present situation and is ready to take part in any prudent joint procedure to that end."

COLOMBIA APPEALS TO THE GERMANS.

Rumor That the Kaiser will be Asked to Interfere Regarding Panama--Offers of Land in Return

New York, Nov. 9—Arturo De Brigard, Consul-General for Colombia in this city, said to-day that he heard it had been proposed to his Government to appeal to Germany for protection in regard to Panama, offering in return certain territorial concessions. Mr. De Brigard said:

"I have no official advices from Colombia. From an official source, however, I learn that the people in the interior have appealed to our Government to send a delegation to Germany to offer the Emperor certain pieces of land on both seas in return for Germany's protection. Of course I do not know whether this will be done, but if it is, I imagine the land conceded to Germany will be that lying next to the Panama border on both sides of the Isthmus.

New York, Nov. 7—The Alaskan boundary dispute has been settled satisfactorily. There is now no reason why an equally satisfactory trade treaty with Canada should not be negotiated.

That is the complacent spirit and the calm hope of the press and the politicians of "these United States." Lord Alverstone's decision is accepted as proof that Canada did not have a case which even a partial judge could consider seriously. And Mr. Hay is applauded for having refused consistently to arbitrate the claims except before a tribunal which could not decide against him. It is even hinted that the Canadian Government knew it had no evidence to support its arguments, and got all it expected—and more than it had a right to—when it got Wales Island. And one of the newspapers goes so far as to surmise that all this complaint from Canada is a cry of "Stop theif," that has been cleverely raised by the authorities at Ottawa to cover their own escape with their coveted plunder, Portland Channel.

However, the international dispute is considered at an end so far as this country is concerned. The Joint High Commission may now proceed with its consideration of reciprocal trade relations. And, in the meantime, the Reciprocity Leagues of New England and the border States have been busily spreading campaign literature, supplying arguments and information to the newspapers, organizing political influence, and in all other ways, "molding public opinion" for the coming discussion. The American people are solemnly warned that the industrial development of Canada is making it independent of the American manufacturer. After Great Britain, Canada has been this country's best customer. It is acknowledged that unless something is done at once the customer will be lost. And it is announced that the thing to be done is to allow the free entrance of certain Canadian farm products, and of all the raw materials which the American manufacturer needs in his business, in exchange for a "favored nation" treatment of American manufacturers in the Canadian market. In other words, the avowed object of the Reciprocity League is to bribe the Canadian farmer into permitting the suppression of the Canadian manufacturer.

It does not seem to have occurred to the propagandists of the leagues that such a treaty would be considered by the Canadian farmer as something of a gold brick. Neither has it been remarked that the outcome of the Alaskan arbitration may have left Canadians with a suspicion of "confidence games." It is even plausibly argued that on account of the Canadian irritation at the decision of the Alverstone tribunal, a "trade concession would be all the more gratefully received as a salve to the sore.

The bitter remarks from across the border—on the "greed of the neighboring republic"—have not aroused any noticeable resentment. It is not considered the habit of any nation to be unselfish, and the American believes that in international arbitrations, as in horse trading, neither party considers it more blessed to give than receive the best of the bargain. In the coming negotiations the Americans most assuredly intend to get as much as they can for as little as they can. And, if the Canadians go into the bargaining with any other hope, they will come out of it as they came out of the Alaskan boundary affair, with the small end of nothing.

In New York city itself, the Alaskan settlement has been a faint note of news in the uproar of an election campaign. And now even the question of reciprocity is a small problem compared to the one which Father Knickerbocker has on his sheet for the new year. The most honest and efficient government that this city has ever had has just been overwhelmed with defeat. The unregenerate Tammany bosses, with their following of thieves and grafters, have been "triumphantly vindicated." After a vigorous campaign, in which the electors were given plain choice between good government and an administration for the purposes of public plunder, they voted for the latter, not half-heartedly and by implication, but eagerly, after an unusually large registration, with malice aforethought, on a straight ticket.

That is the appalling first appearance of the result of last Tuesday's voting. It is taken as evidence that the "plain people" are not as "honest and intelligent" as they have been so often and so eloquently assured by the reformers. It is even taken as proof that the "plain people" of New York city are not fit for self-government.

Happily, the case is not quite so bad as that. Tuesday's vote was not for bad government; it was for partisan government. The majority did not vote for Tammany; they voted for the Democratic party.

TORPEDO ATTACK ASTOUNDED THE NAVY OFFICERS

The Power of This Destructive Engine is Vastly Underestimated--A Menace Hard to Meet

London, Nov. 9.—What a terrible thing the next sea war will be is shown by the results of the recent torpedo attack on the old battleship Belleisle. That the power of the torpedo has been far underestimated is the opinion of high officials of the Admiralty.

The official report of the experiments has not yet been published, but enough is known to show that a revolution in naval construction will be one outcome of the torpedoing of the Belleisle, for the damage sustained by the vessel was far in excess of that anticipated by the Admiralty. Cruisers can torpedo one another with unerring aim 3,000 yards apart, and with what results the Belleisle experiments emphatically show.

The problem that now confronts the naval constructor is how to cope with the deadly menace. Admiral Fremantle is one of those who say that the power of the torpedo has been too greatly underestimated in the past, but it must be remembered that the Belleisle was at anchor, and that the charge was carefully laid. The great difficulty would be to hit a vessel under similar conditions in actual warfare.

THREE SMALL CHILDREN LOST IN MID-OCEAN.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9—"Lost at sea" is the only explanation given of the disappearance in mid-ocean of three passengers on the Hamburg-American line steamship Arcadia, which has arrived here.

The Arcadia left Hamburg with 450 steerage passengers, among them the From family, including the father, mother, and five children, of whom Anna and Otto were the oldest. Anna and Otto From and young Rona were promenading the deck one morning, and they were never again seen. That they hav been carried overboard was the conclusion reached by the ship's officers, who are unable to explain why they made no outcry. If they had cried for help it is believed some one would have heard them.

New York, Nov. 9—There were several names on Murphy's slate for Police Commissioner, among them that is General Nelson A. Miles.

Rome, Nov. 9—The first secret consistory of the new Pontificate was held today. No American Cardinal was appointed.

SOME NEW LIGHT ON THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY AWARD

Mr. R. E. Gosnell an Expert Gives His Views on the Subject

CANADA NOT A HEAVY LOSER

Thinks Great Britain Made a Mistake in Not Buying the Territory from Russia

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Mr. R. E. Gosnell, of the Bureau of Provincial Information at Victoria, B.C., has made a study of the Alaskan boundary question for some years. His articles on the subject were quoted extensively in both America and Great Britain. In regard to the award of the commissioners in London recently, Mr. Gosnell is of the opinion that the great majority of Canadians will be very much disappointed at the outcome of the Alaska arbitration; and that largely because they had been led to believe that Canada's case was impregnable, and that the United States was trying to bluff them out of the disputed territory. The great mass of the people on both sides of the line had never studied this question for themselves—indeed, could not for lack of access to the necessary documents and depended upon the expression of opinion in the newspapers to guide them. Naturally their sympathies, as in a political fight, were on their own side and now that the case has gone against us, Canadians are indignant and inclined to blame Great Britain for sacrificing our interests in order to conciliate the Americans. Without hearing all that is to be said on both sides, this is a hazardous view to take. It is a somewhat serious thing to practically insinuate, or charge, the Chief Justice of England with a derogation of his judicial duties.

ABLE ARGUMENTS.

Canada's case on the main contention, though the arrangements were prepared with ability and great ingenuity, was not essentially a strong one. Historically considered, it was weak. There was, in other words, no great certainty of victory on the merits of the case. In order that I may not be accused of saying; "I told you so," without proof of the assertion, on March 12th I wrote a private letter to a friend, who had asked for certain information—about the time of the public meeting in Victoria to discuss the boundary question—from which the following are extracts;

'I am more or less familiar with the subject, having read nearly all that had been written on it for years, and have done some digging on my own account. I wrote an article in the Canadian Magazine some years The basis of my article and that of Gregg and many others, so far as the Portland channel is concerned, is the order in council published in the (B. C.) Sessional Papers of 1888, and understood to have been written by the late Hon. Mr. Justice Gary. However, I do not think the present accepted boundary there will be disturbed. You will see by the Dominion maps that the Government of Canada does not lay claim to that territory lying between Prince of Wales island and Portland channel. The only dispute there will be is in regard to the two islands at the mouth of Portland channel—Wales and Pearse.

WHERE CASE WAS WEAK.

It is impossible now to get away from the fact that Portland channel is mentioned in the treaty, and there is absolutely nothing in Begg's contention that Portland channel of the treaty is not the Portland Canal of Vancouver's charts. Canal and channel is used there as simply two forms of the same word. (N. B.—The correspondence leading up to the treaty shows that the English commissioners were thoroughly familiar with Portland channel, having Vancouver's charts before them, the word being used over and over again.) The only way to get around it plainly and honestly, is to adopt the principle of construction well established in international jurisprudence, and that is to show that the other provisions of the treaty are so consistent with the repugnant to a line running north through Portland channel or canal—either one you choose to call it—that it could not have been the channel of the treaty.

"The weakness of the Government case, to my mind, exists in the fact that it did not long ago set up that plea. After publishing maps for years conceding this territory and allowing American settlement without protest, I am afraid it is too late to reopen the question on those lines.

'After all we must get back to what was the original intention of the powers of the treaty in order to know whether in the event of our losing our contention we are really being sacrificed. The conditions of the time and the historical circumstances surrounding the treaty must be considered carefully.'

NORTH OF PORTLAND CHANNEL.

In regard to the other part of the question affecting the line north of Portland channel, this was the most important to Canada because it involved an outlet from the Canadian Yukon through Canadian territory, if Canada could have secured the heads of one of two inlets. The terms of the treaty in respect to this are somewhat ambiguous and depended upon uncertain physical data, which it was very difficult to determine absolutely. It was always, in my opinion, at least, a gambling chance, for Canada, which would have no doubt been improved if the board of arbitration had been differently constituted, that is, with an independent umpire; but in any event, a gambling chance. The result depended on what might be construed to be the "coast" and to be the "ocean," and whether there was a sufficiently well defined range of mountains near enough to the coast to prove the contention. Without all the evidence before us, at this distance, it is quite unwise to come to a conclusion for ourselves as to whether the decision is meritorious or otherwise. So far we have heard only the side of the Canadian commissioners, and though sincere they may be mistaken in judgment. As I have said, where there is grave doubt as to the true interpretation of the terms of the treaty recourse must be had to what was, if possible, to ascertain, originally intended, and from a historical point of view, I have no doubt in my own mind as to what the Yukon through Canadian territory;

CANADA NOT SACRIFICED.

It is a popular thing to say that in the matter of boundaries Canada in the past has always been sacrificed to British interests in order to avoid friction with the United States. The Oregon treaty is given as a notable instance. Undoubtedly Great Britain did make blunders, which cost her part of the Oregon territory; but those blunders, which were irreparable at any subsequent date, were made a hundred years, when nobody could possibly appreciate the value of the Pacific coast; and were not made in the more modern stages of dispute. I refer to the terms of the Nootka convention of 1790 and of the treaty at the close of the war of 1812. The story about the country having been practically abandoned to the Americans as worthless because salmon would not rise to a fly of a British commissioner is an interesting fiction.

The great mistake that Britain made in regard to Alaska was in not purchasing it from the Russians when there was an opportunity, prior to the United States obtaining possession.

RAPS AT THE TRUSTS

A Chicago Judge Denounces the Combines

Method by which the Public is Worsted—No Money Required

Pittsburg, Nov. 9.—"Little by little safeguards are let down. Three or five gentlemen can assemble, lay down a silver dollar, call it assets, capitalize at $1,000,000, get a State seal on a charter, pocket the dollar, and go about the enterprise," said Judge Peter S. Grosscup, of Chicago, Judge of the United States Court of Appeals, in an address here last night on "The Moral Side of Our Corporation Policy." Continuing, he said:

"Five gentlemen meet to consolidate their properties, each place an estimate on his own concern, each is suspicious of the other. Each places an estimate on his property which will not fall below that of the other. This is called actual assets. Times of great profit, savings by consolidation, are called assets, and all is made the basis of capitalization.

Cites an Example.

"Until a few weeks ago there were corporations in this country capitalized at perhaps fifty times the value any honest set of assessors could have fixed as their capitalization. Corporate policy now debars instead of inviting the ordinary man to invest in the actual proprietorship in the country's industries. The great middle public belongs neither to labor nor to corporate organizations.

"The instinct to own property, if prevented from taking its course in the legitimate proprietorship of the country, will be turned into the sluices of speculation; the people, more lenders of money to corporations will lose interest in private ownership and favor Government ownership. A political party in New York incorporated a plank in its platform favoring the Government ownership of coal mines.

'Socialism has elected mayor after is a danger that is coming through mayor in Massachusetts. Socialism corporate policy. The tendency should be arrested, but it cannot be disposed of in a single campaign.

"But I believe the day will come," added Judge Grosscup, "when some great political party, voicing the mandate of the American people, will reduce corporate policies to a basis where a corporation cannot, any more than a national bank, or a savings bank of the country, be dishonest without it being known before hand that dishonesty was in the air."

Picks Gray for President.

Speaking of the political outlook, Judge Grosscup said in an interview:

'The Democratic party is in a quandry. It must have a middle-aged man, a man who has been connected to a great extent with public affairs, and who has been politically born since 1896. In my opinion Judge Gray of Delaware. He is a gold man, but he did nothing to hurt the feelings of the silver people. He is well known, and by reason of his decision in the coal strike cases has endeared himself greatly to the majority of the labor people."

Omitted India.

Mr. Chamberlain, writing Sir M. M. Bhownagree, M.P., as to the position of India in regard to the proposed fiscal reforms, says he omitted India because he had no opportunity of acquainting himself with Indian opinion. He thought India would greatly benefit by preferential arrangements as to tea, indigo and wheat, but as she has not joined the self-governing colonies in asking for a preference it was not necessary to deal with the matter at present.

Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, speaking at Meigle, Scotland, called on the government to give a definite statement as to its attitude on the question whether it was for or against Chamberlain. He declared Mr. Chamberlain's word was not security enough that the cost of living would not be increased by the food tax.

Not Seceding.

The London secretary of the Free Food League denies the secession of members, and states that the meeting of Nov. 24th will be presided over by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and Lord Goschen.

Faith In Joe.

That the English have faith in Mr. Chamberlain's scheme as a cure-all was shown at yesterday's meeting of the South Australian Land Mortgage Company.

The company has been suffering for want of water in Australia, but the shareholders proposed an adjournment of the meeting until after Mr. Chamberlain had spoken.

Hostile Demonstration.

Birmingham is stirred over the occasion of the meeting of Winston Churchill and Lord Cecil on Wednesday, and a hostile demonstration is expected.

Honors for Canadians.

It is rumored that the Canadian commissioners on the Alaskan case will receive honors on the King's birthday.

Killed by a Cow

Listowel, Nov. 7—Robert Code, of Trowbridge, who was injured on Monday evening, while bringing a cow to town, died yesterday morning. The animal knocked him out of the wagon, and fell on him, crushing him badly.

Pulp Mills to Start

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 7— The pulp mills here will be started as soon as enough men can be secured to operate it. This, it is expected, will be about Wednesday next. Many of the former employes are out of town and are being telegraphed for. This arrangement was made by J. S. Frankenthal to-day, but he cannot say whether any of the other mills will be re-opened.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Short Session Yesterday Afternoon—The Matter of Wells

A meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon. There were present Messrs. R. Neill, chairman, W. Eyres, A. Parker, D. McNulty, Dr. Burnham and G. Schneider.

After reading the minutes Dr. Pigeon reported regarding a case of scarlet fever at 103 Albert street. He said that there were three of the children at school, and one at home besides the patient, who was four years old. Dr. Bingham has the matter in hand and will take every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease.

A communication was received from E. Flaherty, stating that he had been waiting for two years to get city water, but it could not be given him. He asked if the board could enlighten him as to how to proceed.—Referred to committee appointed to confer with Water Commissioners.

Mr. T. A. S. Hay reported regarding the plumbing at 543 George street.

After some discussion with regard to wells it was moved and seconded that the inspector be instructed to instigate proceedings against those owners of wells who have not complied with the order to close wells by November 5th and that others who have been ordered to close and have not closed their wells be notified that if the wells are not filled up or applications made for town water before Nov. 15th, proceedings would be taken.—Carried.

Upon motion it was decided that the secretary be instructed to ask the Nicholls Hospital re a statement of terms for taking infectious disease patients and upon receiving such, it be presented, together with the statement from the St. Joseph's Hospital, to the Council.

The Board adjourned until next

St. Catharines Well.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A. Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal. Canada. N30

Disease In the Air

In Hamilton the Board of Health has taken an important step in regard to the sale of meat. It has passed a by-law—and the Council has given its concurrence—to the effect that meat shall not be carried or carted through the city without a covering. The idea is that the germs of disease, in the dust, are wafted about by the breeze and that the articles of food should be protected from them. The meat, especially, should be covered in the street, and kept away from any opening in shop or building which the dust may penetrate. The argument that such laws and other precautions did not exist in other days and that our ancestors were a hardy race will not do. The world is advancing, and knowledge and discovery are advancing with it. It is clear that germs of disease are in the air. Such being the case, the legislation of cities which makes for the public health should be radical and progressive. Hamilton has led in a very commendable way in one respect.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address.

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, [illegible] Woodward Ave., Room [illegible], Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

THOSE ISLANDS NO MENACE

There was some talk that the Grand Trunk Pacific would have to leave off thinking of Port Simpson as a terminus for their railway since the Alaska decision. But that was only an air bubble, which is pricked by the fact that the new line has been put further away than the disputed line, which was the centre of the Portland channel. Bute Inlet, the other terminus suggested, is one hundred miles north of Vancouver, and a greater distance south of Port Simpson. It is a mile wide, like the Portland Channel, and running forty miles inland between steep shores, with water so deep as not to afford anchorage. Port Simpson is regarded as not only safe from menace, but as being the most available point of departure for another line of railway running to the Klondike. In reality, the two small islands that we do not get in the Portland Channel are no menace to Port Simpson as strategical points. Port Simpson commands them as well, as also do the two larger islands that have been awarded to us. On this point the Mail pertinently remarks that "It does not matter where a boundary is placed, it always "commands" the territory of the country adjacent to it. If we had been allowed the two islands the mainland of the United States would have commanded them. And the command would have been the more searching because of the closer proximity of the islands to Port Simpson, fourteen miles distant. If the map is examined it will be noted that we are the only people whose territory and navigable channels are commanded by another power. Vancouver Island commands the Juan de Fuca Strait, which is the only entrance the United States has to the Puget Sound ports."

RIGID PARTISANSHIP

The Rev. Dr. Carman and the Rev. Dr. Chown have issued a manifesto to the Methodist Church on the subject of the corruption which prevails in Canadian politics. One of the most suggestive paragraphs in the manifesto, and which may well commend itself to the thoughtful consideration of every honest elector, is the following;

"The stiff partisanship of the moral and upright elector is an element in the success of the degenerate politician almost as decisive as the moral weakness of the corrupt elector, and when the policy of the party is not in harmony with public welfare as surely contributes to the undoing of the country.

"Rigid partisanship is always unpatriotic, for it consents to leave in abeyance matters of national importance when they do not serve the exigencies of party success. So long as Christians consent to follow party lines with moral issues left out, we cannot expect those who are most concerned about getting into or keeping in power to take up questions that will antagonize the vicious or purchaseable voters."

This is the root of the whole matter; corruption would be powerless were not the forces for good crippled by rigid partisanship which, as the manifesto says is "always unpatriotic."

THE ERIE vs TRENT CANAL

New York City, thrown in a panic by seeing the trade of the continent passing into other hands, carried at the late elections a bylaw permitting the expenditure of $101,000,000 in improving the Erie Canal. New York State voted against the project; but the overwhelming majority in the city, with the sidetracked port, gave the bylaw an effective majority.

If this money is spent, it will hardly do for Canada to assume that her natural advantages as the owner of the St. Lawrence route justify her in regarding the improvement of the Erie with indifference. Montreal now has New York badly beaten as a grain-exporting point; and it is vitally interested in maintaining that position.

Now is the time for the Canadian Government to offset the Erie by the completion of the Trent Canal. No matter how much money may be spent on the former, it can never become a menace to the Trent waterway, which will afford a grain route to the sea hundreds of miles shorter than by the Erie.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The great drought cycle in Australia is over. Everywhere, even in the most remote districts, the rains have been abundant, and throughout the Commonwealth agriculturists are anticipating a succession of good seasons which will enable them to recoup their losses. According to the departmental reports, the whole of the inland districts has undergone a marvellous transformation. Where, but a little while before, not a blade of grass was to be seen, it is now growing luxuriantly from nine to fifteen inches in height and will soon be sufficiently high to enable the live stock to be lost in it.

A London cable letter says of the coming into force of the Ireland Land Act, that several agreements already have been made by tenants, financed by the Imperial Exchequer, to buy out the landlords. All over Ireland tenants and landlords are conferring in the most friendly way. The sale of the Leinster estate, which will involve an advance of over five million dollars to the trustees of the Duke of Leinster, who is a minor, will be one of the first completed transactions. The tenants will repay the advance in yearly instalments, each much less than their present rent, and in sixty-eight years the tenants will own their holdings in fee simple, free of rent forever.

There was good talk at a tea party given once at the observatory of Cambridge, England. Sydney Smith was there, and although he took the wonderful work of the place seriously, he had a light manner of expressing himself. The party had been led up to look at Jupiter, and this was his comment: "Jupiter? If you hadn't told me, I should have taken it for a bad shilling." "Where is Sir John Herschel?" asked one of the guests. "He is at the Cape of Good Hope," said the astronomer, Airy. "He was ordered there to observe the stars of the southern hemisphere." "Ah," said Sydney Smith, "I suppose you astronomers, when you are ill, are advised to change your stars just as we ordinary mortals are told to change our air."

It is related that one evening last winter, at a dinner given in honor of Mrs. Pat Campbell, in New York, the English actress remarked, loftily: "They wanted me to play 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' in England, but I thought it a vulgar character, and I can't be gross, you know." This from the woman whose whole fame rested on her impersonations of women with malodorous pasts or notorious presents was astounding to all present, each one of whom had said something in extenuation of the sins of poor Tess and in admiration of Hardy's masterpiece as a dramatic character drawing. For a moment there was an embarrassed silence, and then Miss Warren, who is to star in the play this season, spoke up innocently: "It is dreadful to be so sensitive. I expect, Mrs. Campbell, you find it hard even to accept your share of the gross receipts."

THE TURN-OVER IN NEW YORK

How Tammany Won—Harvey J. O'Higgins Writes of the Election—Views on the Alaskan Award

New York, Nov. 7—The Alaskan boundary dispute has been settled satisfactorily. There is now no reason why an equally satisfactory trade treaty with Canada should not be negotiated.

That is the complacent spirit and the calm hope of the press and the politicians of "these United States." Lord Alverstone's decision is accepted as proof that Canada did not have a case which even a partial judge could consider seriously. And Mr. Hay is applauded for having refused consistently to arbitrate the claims except before a tribunal which could not decide against him. It is even hinted that the Canadian Government knew it had no evidence to support its arguments, and got all it expected—and more than it had a right to—when it got Wales Island. And one of the newspapers goes so far as to surmise that all this complaint from Canada is a cry of "Stop thief," that has been cleverly raised by the authorities at Ottawa to cover their own escape with their coveted plunder, Portland Channel.

However, the international dispute is considered at an end so far as this country is concerned. The Joint High Commission may now proceed with its consideration of reciprocal trade relations. And, in the meantime, the Reciprocity Leagues of New England and the border States have been busily spreading campaign literature, supplying arguments and information to the newspapers, organizing political influence, and in all other ways "molding public opinion" for the coming discussion. The American people are solemnly warned that the industrial development of Canada is making it independent of the American manufacturer. After Great Britain, Canada has been this country's best customer. It is acknowledged that unless something is done at once the customer will be lost. And it is announced that the thing to be done is to allow the free entrance of certain Canadian farm products, and of all the raw materials which the American manufacturer needs in his business, in exchange for a "favored nation" treatment of American manufacturers in the Canadian market. In other words, the avowed object of the Reciprocity League is to bribe the Canadian farmer into permitting the suppression of the Canadian manufacturer.

It does not seem to have occurred to the propagandists of the leagues that such a treaty would be considered by the Canadian farmer as something of a gold brick. Neither has it been remarked that the outcome of the Alaskan arbitration may have left Canadians with a suspicion of "confidence games." It is even plausibly argued that on account of the Canadian irritation at the decision of the Alverstone tribunal, a "trade concession would be all the more gratefully received as a salve to the sore.

The bitter remarks from across the border—on the "greed of the neighboring republic"—have not aroused any noticeable resentment. It is not considered the habit of any nation to be unselfish and the American believes that in international arbitrations, as in horse trading, neither party considers it more blessed to give than receive the best of the bargain. In the coming negotiations the Americans most assuredly intend to get as much as they can for as little as they can. And, if the Canadians go into the bargaining with any other hope, they will come out of it as they came out of the Alaskan boundary affair, with the small end of nothing.

In New York city itself, the Alaskan settlement has been a faint note of news in the uproar of an election campaign. And now even the question of reciprocity is a small problem compared to the one which Father Knickerbocker has on his sheet for the new year. The most honest and efficient government that this city has ever had has just been overwhelmed with defeat. The unregenerate Tammany bosses, with their following of thieves and grafters, have been "triumphantly vindicated." After a vigorous campaign, in which the electors were given plain choice between good government and an administration for the purposes of public plunder, they voted for the latter, not half-heartedly and by implication, but eagerly, after an unusually large registration, with malice aforethought, on a straight ticket.

That is the appalling first appearance of the result of last Tuesday's voting. It is taken as evidence that the "plain people" are not as "honest and intelligent" as they have been so often and so eloquently assured by the reformers. It is even taken as proof that the "plain people" of New York city are not fit for self-government.

Happily, the case is not quite so bad as that. Tuesday's vote was not for bad government; it was for partisan government. The majority did not vote for Tammany; they voted for the Democratic party.

To Secure Farm Laborers

The Ontario Government has decided to send Mr. H. E. Kyle, of Oakville, to England on November 14th to obtain farm laborers for next summer. He went over last March and obtained about one hundred, most of whom brought their families. He undertakes when sending out laborers that the Government will find situations for them on farms immediately upon their arrival here. The Government does not assist them in any financial way. They pay their own regular fare.

YOUR MONEY WORKS WHILE YOU SLEEP

Our famous corps of track sharps are up at break of day, "clocking" the horses in their morning tryouts, and while you sleep they spot the winners that bring you steady income.—Our method puts you on a level with the most successful plungers of the American turf.—We operate for you for 25 per cent. of weekly earnings.—We win only when you win.—Results obtained really "beyond dreams of avarice,"

Again we scored heavily for all of our clients last month. Again we landed the money and landed it in chunks. Three years of organization, with the best facilities that money and brains can procure to make our service of picking and backing winners at the horse races the most accurate and profitable in the land, has had its natural sequence, and each week our showing demonstrates a good profit for every client.

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co., representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds, day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible form, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. Money should be sent by bank draft, express money order, or currency in registered letter. Uncertified checks are not accepted.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"Was the journey so long?" she replied. "I had not noticed—I forgot to take count of time."

There was such a weariness in her voice that Marc could not mistake her meaning.

What was her secret?

No common sorrow could have brought her to this despair.

The days were getting wintry—the evening was drawing in cold and cheerless, and in the room where she had received him the lamps had not yet been lit.

The firelight cast fitful gleams about her as she stood in her somber black dress—a strange garb for a young wife to wear on her homecoming; it seemed to add a more death-like pallor to her face, and Marc thought he had never seen her look so hollow-eyed as now.

"I trust Sir Felix is well," he remarked to break the silence.

Gretchen smiled again—that bitter, mocking smile, the meaning of which Marc found it so hard to define.

"He is in his room," she replied. "He has gone back to his old habits, and spends most of his time alone."

"Shall I have to go up stairs to see him?" Marc asked, surprised at her words; "I did not know he had had a relapse."

"He is expecting you," she answered; "at least, so his valet informed me a few moments ago. You will find the staircase lighted, and you know the way to his room."

She added the last words in a tone that seemed to dismiss him from her presence.

Without looking at him, she sank into a chair, and leaned her head on her hand.

Marc stood for a few minutes gazing at her bowed form; then, feeling that Gretchen did not wish this interview prolonged, he went from the room and made his way upstairs to Sir Felix.

The Baronet was alone, and looking weaker than usual.

He was half lying in an invalid chair, drawn near the fire, his wasted form sunk in the cushions so that scarcely any part of him was visible.

Marc closed the door after entering the room, and went towards what seemed little more than a heap of shawls and pillows.

"I hope I am not disturbing you, Sir Felix," he said, as the baronet made a feeble movement.

Sir Felix started up, looking vacantly at Marc for a few moments, then clutched the young artist's hand in both his own.

"Where is she?" he asked. "Where is she? Keep her away, Marc, keep her away! Hide me from her! I'm afraid of her—afraid of her dreadful eyes and silent lips!"

"Afraid of whom?" Marc questioned, adopting a soothing tone towards the man whose reason he knew to be so enfeebled.

"Of Gretchen!" Sir Felix whispered, huskily. "Don't let her come near me; you are strong, and can keep her back. She's like a ghost come from the grave to haunt me."

Marc quieted the baronet.

His deep, gentle tones had a calming effect on the strained nerves, and Sir Felix lay back in his chair again, a sense of protection driving away his fears.

"You'll stay with me?" he said, when he suddenly remembered Marc might leave him. "I don't want to be left with her. I'm afraid of her—afraid of what she may do to me with her terrible eyes."

"You cannot mean Lady Errol," Marc replied. "She has been so good to you. There was a time when you would have nobody else near, and now she is your wife surely she must be dearer still to you."

"Not so!" Sir Felix hissed. "She duped me into the marriage, she let me think she loved me, and now she terrifies me whenever she looks at me. I am in her power; she can make me do just what she wills, as though she were a witch. I dare not tell her how I fear her; if I did, she would only hate me more."

Marc thought it best to change the conversation.

He turned the lamp up higher, and stirred the fire into a blaze, then commenced to discuss a few general topics—the weather, the latest elections, and, finally, the advisibility of renovating some of the farms on the estate.

This last subject irritated Sir Felix.

"It's too late to think of that now," he said. "I should be dead before the alterations were completed; and it would only be for her. Everything will be for her—for Lady Errol! I shall soon be in my grave, and she will live here all alone. You'll keep her away from me; you won't let her haunt me, then?"

"You mustn't think of these things," Marc said, his soul sickening at thought of Gretchen, tied down to this feeble man, who had ceased to look upon her with tenderness. "By the way," he added, glancing round as though in search of something. "I left my portfolio in this room last time I was here. I brought it up, thinking you would like to see some of the sketches. Here it is, just where I put it," he added, getting up and going over to a sideboard. "There are a few pictures I think may interest you, and which I shall be pleased to place at your disposal if you will accept them."

He resumed his seat beside Sir Felix, placing the portfolio on the table, and turning over some of the sketches.

The pictures did not excite any interest in Sir Felix. He glanced at them with eyes that did not seem to comprehend the subjects before him.

It was not until the last sketch had been lifted from its place that his curiosity was roused.

"What does this picture represent?" he asked, as Marc was about to lay it aside with the others, without exposing it.

"It is an unfinished sketch, and of no value, save as a study," the artist replied, "I do not think it would interest you."

Sir Felix held out his hand for the picture, and Marc at once displayed it—a sketch of Rosalie, painted, a few days before he left Lilac Villa.

It was only a girl's head in a shower of golden hair, but in the deep blue eyes looking out from the pictured face, there was a power which arrested the baronet's attention. He took the sketch in his hand, drawing it closer, and closer, his sight made keen by some emotion that had swept over him.

"Who is this?" he asked, suddenly, his gaze riveted on the picture.

Marc looked puzzled for a moment, and then said—

"My model. I have made a good many sketches from her; and, oddly enough, her name is Errol."

"Errol!" Sir Felix repeated, his hand trembling as he held the picture. "She is dead—Bertha Errol is dead!"

His mind seemed to be wandering; Marc thought so, and humored him.

"This is not Bertha Errol," he said, "this is only a child—"

"Rosalie," Marc said, believing the name would be strange to the baronet, and change the drift of his thoughts.

Sir Felix gave a start, and then his form sank together in a huddled heap, his face almost hidden on his breast.

"Rosalie!" he muttered, his mind going back to a time he had heard that

More American Enterprise.

"She rented two rooms on the first floor of a 95th street house," said the woman. "I occupied the floor above. I had seen her sign in the window for several weeks before I saw her. One day I met her in the hall. Two days later she called at my apartment.

"'I am in an awful pickle,' she said, 'and I am going to ask you to help me out. There are two women down stairs who want some dresses made, but before they give me the order they want to see some samples of my work. With the exception of my own clothes—and you could put all of them in a bandbox—I have nothing to show them. I find it awfully hard to drum up trade here. I haven't had a customer since I moved into this house, and I will lose those two women if I cannot make the raise of a few nice gowns to show them. Would you mind letting me have three or four of yours for a few minutes? I will return them as soon as the women go away.'

"The pure nerve of the girl staggered me. 'But you didn't make my gowns,' I said. 'They were made by a dressmaker who runs a very fashionable shop.'

"'So I suppose,' said my neighbor. 'Are they marked with her name?'

"'No,' said I, 'that woman's style is her trademark, and I ought not to give another the benefit of it.'

"The girl just stood there and looked at me, and the pitiful drooping of her eyes and mouth appealed to me more effectually than any words. The upshot of the matter was I loaned her five of my newest, best gowns. Naturally, the callers were delighted with them, and gave the girl a large order for summer clothes. I worried myself sick over the affair."

"'What will you do?' I said, 'if you turn out poorly-made garments? How will you square yourself?'"

"'I shall not need to square myself,' she said, confidently.

"And she did not need to. Her work, instead of being botchy, as I had expected it to be, was beautiful. All she needed was an introduction, and after she got that, through gowns made by a swell dressmaker, her reputation and a good income were easily made."

Importance of Cleanliness.

We do not intend to repeat any further how essential a feature of successful dairying is the observance of proper cleanliness, but at the last meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen Dr. Connell gave forth some fresh figures on the question which afford further confirmation of the position held by all progressive dairy workers.

The doctor gave the results of analysis of milk taken from cows under the different conditions as to cleanliness. In one case—where the cow was brushed before milking, the udders wiped, the stable kept in a thoroughly sanitary condition, and the person of the milker was also clean—the milk still showed 4,300 bacteria to sixteen drops of milk. In another case milk was taken from cows the udders of which had been wiped, which were kept in a fairly clean barn, that were milked into clean pails (but pails that had not been scalded), and by men whose hands had been wiped, but not washed. In this case the number of bacteria was 15,500. In another case, where cows were milked under ordinary conditions which prevailed on the ordinary farm, the number of bacteria was 30,000 to sixteen drops. The bacteria found in the milk taken from cows under the best possible conditions as to cleanliness were, it is believed, for the most part just inside the teat before milking began. The old practice of squirting the first stream of milk outside the pail has a scientific basis to rest upon.

Absolute cleanliness in the stable, cooling of the milk after milking, sterilization of utensils by scalding, cool curing of cheese, and no more sending home of whey in milk cans, are pointers which may also be strongly insisted upon.

In touching on the question of water supply, it was stated that no factory should be considered properly equipped that is without pure water.—The Maritime Farmer.

Husband—Well, you were a pretty good pretender yourself. You pretended that you preferred to sit on a chair.—Chicago News.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

The Treasure of Laguna Cave

The Story of Jennie Ratcher's Luck.

By Charles Fleming Embree

WHERE a canyon opens out half bowl-like to the sea is Laguna, a tiny place far from a railroad. There the beach is terminated on either hand by rocks, and on them the wild Pacific rends its breast; or here lies purring on warm sand like a cat upon a hearth.

From El Toro the stage came rattling through the canyon at dusk, and deposited Harrison Ratcher and wife at the largest of those wooden houses that face the beach. On the porch was a sign "Rooms for Rent."

They, an eager young couple, entered a large living apartment; and Mrs. Miggs sat there knitting. In a corner, bent over a table, whereupon were cards which told the hours of high and low tide, sat a very old man.

"Here we are again!" cried Jennie Ratcher. "Just as last year, and ready for another vacation. How is the crop of abalones?"

She gave Mrs. Miggs an enthusiastic kiss.

"You see," said Ratcher, "we're so glad to get out of Los Angeles and the curio store, that we want to jump right into the sea. We'll gather abalones. The demand for shells is big at the store."

Plump, placid Mrs. Miggs pointed a thumb to her pile of abalone shells under a window. She had sharks' eggs in a bowl, starfish on the wall, and barnacles and things all over the house.

"See," she said, "how many old Mr. Jones has got for me."

Old Jones was mumbling in his beard: "9.43 a.m., December the third. Lowest in sixty-two years. Two more days."

Some of the shells had been ground, and glowed with the light and coloring that have made California shells famous.

"If they are so plentiful," cried Jennie, "we can make our vacation expenses out of abalones. Oh, Mrs. Miggs, how we have slaved! And poor Harrison half sick! We are building up a trade; and in a few years, maybe, we shall be out of debt!"

Old Jones here arose and faced Jennie, who was a picture of optimism and health. There was a wide smile on his countenance, which was haggard and startling.

"Come here!" said Jones, and toddled to a window. The Ratchers stared out where he pointed. His voice was like the rustling of damp papers. "Down that way there ain't none." He swept his hand to the south. His eye on them dilated. "Don't go that way. Go up this way!" He swept his bony hand to the north.

"Oh, thanks!" said Jennie, inclined to edge away from him. And Ratcher laughed big base gratitude at the information.

"How old are you?" shouted Ratcher.

"Oh, don't yell," said Jones. "Ninety-five. I'll go to bed."

He mumbled, and went up the stairs. His old legs wobbled. He was saying to himself: "9.43, December the third. Lowest in sixty-two."

Up he climbed; now his head disappeared; now his withered trunk; now his rickety legs. They heard his footfalls, soft and strange, along an upper hall. Old Jones had left a chill behind.

"Who is that peculiar person?" Jennie whispered to Mrs. Miggs.

"Some old sailor," was the Miggs' reply. "He came two years ago, and was always studying the tides, just as now; and seemed to be watching for something that didn't occur; and then of a sudden he dropped out of sight. A week ago here he was again, toddling in."

Next day the winter sun was warm. Mrs. Ratcher was an inspiring thing in her bathing suit, running down over the sand like an antelope, more health in her than in three ordinary men. And into the sea she plunged shouting, her jolly, big, hollow-chested husband after. When they emerged, yonder was old Jones gazing at them through a window.

"He makes me cold," shuddered Jennie, stopping in a laugh.

Then Jones's peculiar head was thrust far out over the roof of Mrs. Miggs's porch, and while the haggard face smiled widely bland, the head wagged three times to the north. Jones shut one eye as he wagged.

"Horrors! what does the creature mean?" said she.

But Ratcher roared with merriment.

"He means to hunt to the north. He said that there are no abalones to the south."

"Mercy! let's do it, and get out of his sight," she said; and went skimming the sand and leaping the rocks, he after, in the search for abalones.

After an hour, when she had been felled by a billow, she poked her glowing head up through its crest and—behold! the eye of old Jones. Old Jones was seated on a crag seventy feet high.

"Horrors!" she said; "look at him."

Ratcher paused with a mammoth yellow abalone in his hand, and stood in four feet of water, gazing up as though Jones had been a comet. Old Jones's horrible head was thrust out further over the uneven edge of his precipice, and wagged three times, majestic, yet ghastly, to the north. He shut one eye as he wagged.

"What a lugubrious mortal!" said she.

That night old Jones seemed feebler as he sat in Mrs. Miggs's house, mumbling over his tide-cards. Now and then his old eye gazed at Jennie, suspicious and uneasy. She was so alarmingly healthy, no wonder she got upon the nerves of anybody so near his grave as old Jones. Mrs. Miggs was stringing limpet shells from the hanging-lamp. Mrs. Miggs had big, red crawfish in a pan. Old Jones went up to bed in a ramshackle way; his head disappeared; his trunk; his legs. They heard his rustling footfalls grow faint in the hall above.

The walls of that house were very thin. In the night, Jennie Ratcher awoke from her vigorous sleep with a sense of queerness. But all she heard was old Jones in a distant room mumble and ramble in wakefulness, and saying "Two more days. Oh, me."

Had Mrs. Ratcher not been one of the most extraordinarily healthy women that ever drew breath, she would have slept no more. But she did sleep—shades! how Mrs. Harrison Ratcher could sleep!

The following afternoon, again in bathing suit and gamboling beyond all reason, she went over the rocks with her husband, who grinned, half-stupefied at her vim. To the rear she saw old Jones creeping out of the house with his eye fastened on her.

"Harrison," she whispered, where Mr. Ratcher stood poised on a crag, and hugged him in the sight of gossiping seagulls, "that old thing yonder—he's fooling us. I see right through him. Ugh! See his bad eye! I know that there must be oodles of abalones under those southern rocks, and what that old specimen says is intended to deceive. I'm going to slip down and go to that very place."

And she rubbed her nose on Mr. Ratcher's cheek, as though she were whetting it, then charged down jagged places to the sea. When she was hid down there she crept southward to the spot where the rocks end and the beach begins. Away across the sand she flew.

Yonder across the gap the southern rocks rose, and Ratcher saw her disappear among them; then perceived old Jones, fifty yards behind him, stare, wag his head, and grow agitated. Of a sudden, down over the rocks and out across the sand to the south, queer Jones, with rickety haste, eyes ablaze, went toddling. And Ratcher sat down on the rocks and shook with laughter, but later followed Jones.

"That shameless old codger!" cried she, and stood gazing round at the wild spot wherein she found herself, or sticking her toe into the sea-anemones to see them shut up round it and squirt. Then she felt a chill, and turned quickly to look up. Over a rock that hung above her, projected the ragged head of Jones, twelve feet distant, against the unfathomable California sky.

"Mercy! Get away," said Mrs. Ratcher.

"Say, come out," rustled old Jones. His countenance had a dreadful look. "Come north, along of me, to where your husband is. I'll tell you about Dana."

"About what?"

"I sailed with Dana," cried the old man, hoarsely, over the rock. "With Richard Henry Dana in the 'Pilgrim' away back in the thirties. You read 'Two Years Before the Mast'?"

"Oh, surely!" cried Mrs. Ratcher, making such a jump to the shore that Jones rubbed his eyes.

"Come away; I'll show you where we threw the hides down," he said.

"Hurrah!" cried Mrs. Ratcher; and sprinted on the sands to meet Ratcher. "What do you think! This old exhibit was with Dana."

The exhibit came toddling along. "Here," he mumbled, excited, pulling them by the clothes. "You can't see the place unless you come away to the north."

Old Jones could make pretty fair time himself when he had a mind to.

Ratcher was laughing, to Jennie's disgust, and she hit him on the back. But it was all tragic to Jones. The sweat stood out on his brow.

When they came to the summit of the northern rocks, he stood wind-shaken and dilapidated under the circling gulls and pointed to a distant cliff.

"Yonder," he said, "we threw them down. The ship was gathering hides from the Mexicans to sell in Boston. To every old mission up and down the coast we went. Oh, me. Queer days. The captain was a tough one. At San Juan Capistrano, behind that mountain, they collected many, and brought 'em yonder. We climbed up there, and threw them to the beach. Oh, how they would skim and fly like birds! Oh, me! And right in the middle of that cliff they let Dana down by a rope for one that stuck. Seems yesterday. Dana was a bosee stripling, but he had a mean streak."

"What?" cried Jennie, rebelling.

"Yes," said Jones, "he done me dirt."

The old man would say no more. Watchful, feeble, he clung to Ratcher and wife all day like a leech. They agreed to go south no more till they could do it secretly. They felt sorry for the wobbling old codger.

At night Mrs. Ratcher ate dozens of slices of bacon, not to mention eggs.

"Oh, Mrs. Miggs!" she whispered, "I know we can pay for our vacation with abalones. The sea is so good for Harrison! In three years we will be out of debt, and maybe build a house of our own."

And Mrs. Miggs rattled a new kind of clams that she had in her pocket, and laughed her easy laugh.

Jennie slept like a top, an extraordinary, a miraculous, slumber, till 2 a.m. And then up she woke of a sudden as though she meant business for certain. She heard a rustling outside her door. Ah—to be sure. But two things in the world rustled like that: old Jones's feet. She was going to see, was Mrs. Ratcher and creeping to the door, opened it a crack. At the end of a corridor was a gable window over the sea, and through it moonshine fell. She came close, and found Jones with his head sticking out in the moonshine, staring at the Pacific. He seemed to be crazy and in pain. He wept piteously.

"I will not live to find it," he said. "I am dead. Oh, the tides! You white lunatic moon, you make them. I see the 'Pilgrim' now. Captain, we'll get them down. Oh, captain, don't flog me no more, I'm old. I never done no harm to you. Don't beat me no more. I can't see where the place is in the rocks; it was in that direction; the tide has never been low enough. These modern houses bother me. But it will be low enough. Why couldn't it have been to-night?"

He put his head down and sobbed. Jennie Ratcher picked him right up and bundled him to bed; just hustled him right along. Then she slept like a top till ten minutes of eight, and Mrs. Miggs's ham rose through the whole house on the breezy wings of the morning.

This day Jones was too feeble to get up, a fact which crazed him the more; when they went out to hunt for abalones they left him raving. Mrs. Miggs, scared, was sending off for the doctor.

"I'm going right where he said not to go," said Jennie. "There's some mystery about that. Anyhow, there are oodles of abalones."

They went, free of old Jones and his eye at last. Everybody in Laguna had remarked on the tide to-day, lowest in sixty-two years, when Mrs. Ratcher plunged into the sea under the southern rocks. It enabled one to hunt abalones to the best advantage, and the sea was as smooth as a new Los Angeles cement sidewalk.

"Mercy me!" cried she. "What's this?"

Ratcher floundered there, and saw a hole in the rock which the falling tide had partially disclosed.

"A cave!" carolled Mrs. Ratcher, and waded in water nearly to her neck, only to return in glee and send Ratcher for a candle. Ratcher was back in a minute with that article.

"Old Jones is in a horrible way," said Ratcher. "Yelling at the top of his voice that he will die. Just screeching it!"

"I don't believe him," said Jennie. "Here goes."

And they floundered in. This cave was short, and led up out of water to the center of those rocks, and there stopped. It was an ugly place, with scarcely a thing worth seeing.

"Shoot," said Jennie; "who cares for a stupid old cave?"

"What's this?" cried Ratcher, holding the candle to a rock. She came and found a little lead box, and tried to open it. It would not open. She lifted it, and bit the clasp with her teeth; literally chewed the clasp off. Oh, Jennie was somewhat of a wonder.

A gap in the narrative, like a nick in an old blue soup-plate. The Ratchers have prohibited the disclosure of the nature of that treasure. But it was splendid!

They stared at those things; and at each other.

"Golly," said Jennie; "we'll just take these, thank you."

"But here's a paper," he said.

"Let's get out, the tide will get us!" cried Mrs. Ratcher. They looked the old hole pretty well over first, and then waded out in the water up to her glowing neck. Outside, they sat and read the paper, she stowing those splendid things somewhere in the neighborhood of her bosom. Here are the contents:

"Keep out. Git away. These things is charmed. The devil will foller him who takes I stole these here things me and Bill when we went to get hides from a Mexican named Juan Carrillado. We were getting them hid in the ship when Dana found it out. Dana made a row he says if we didn't take them back he'd do it. We thought he was going to give us away, and when the tide was low we come and hid them in this here cave what Bill found when he went huntin' abalones with the cook. . . . We told Dana we took them back to Carrillado. The ship sail to-night but she'll be back here in a month and me and the devils will git you. Hands off! This is to warn anybody that finds these here things that they are charmed and the devil will eternal foller him who takes."

They sat and pondered for some time.

"That knocks the bottom out of it," said Jennie. "We'll have to hunt Juan and turn them over."

"Doubtless he's dead," said Ratcher.

"Why, there'll be some children or something. Why, Harrison, you wouldn't steal?"

"I never have yet," snorted Ratcher.

They hurried back to Mrs. Miggs's.

"How's Jones?" they asked.

"Dead," she said, cool.

"Oh," they replied; and, of course everybody was solemn till after the funeral. Poor old Jones, who cared? Oh, ninety-five years! Oh, progress of the human race while old Jones wandered! What matter his coffin, his unloved remains, his grave upon a hill?

On a gray day, Mr. and Mrs. Ratcher visited an old cemetery at San Juan Capistrano, accompanied by a priest.

"I am told," said the priest, scratching in the dust upon a stone, "that the last of the Carrillados lies here."

They looked; they could just make out:

FALLECIO,
1883.

And Jennie, having an uncontrollable vision of a possible house of her own said, slowly, with scandalous levity repressed: "R.—I.—P.!"—San Francisco "Argonaut."

"Young man," said the stern parent to the applicant for a job as son-in-law, "I want you to know that I spent five thousand dollars on my daughter's education." "Thanks," rejoined the youth who was trying to break into the family circle; "then I won't have to send her to a school again."—Chicago "Daily News."

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure the gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Nov. 9.—The stock market displayed firmness in early session. The money market situation was the subject of a great deal of comment, in that 29 banks Saturday reported less than 25 per cent. reserves. The railroad news was without fresh feature. The advices regarding the steel and iron industries continue mixed. Renewed currency shipments to the interior had a rather unfavorable effect on sentiment and served to bring about considerable selling in the latter part of the day. The Boston and lower Wall street elements were good buyers of sugar. The better classes of stocks were well absorbed. Outside stocks were dull and easy, while bonds were irregular in the extreme. The world's shipments, today were liberal. The visible increased moderately, while the primary movement was bullish. The market on oats was dull and narrow. Provisions was quiet. There was a small cash trade the the movement of the product was moderate. We do not look for any great burst of speed, but the improvement that started Saturday should continue on account of very short interest in railroad stocks, if for no other reason.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The trade in wheat was of small proportions. Bearish interests were disposed to work hard to uphold their conviction. On the decline there was good buying for scattered interests. There is talk of manipulation in the December option and the Armour crowd was credited wiht buying December here. At St. Louis and Minneapolis the visible supply increased, but this was expected. The clearances were only fair. There was a mixed feeling on the close. Corn was sold freely at times. Cables were bearish. The Government report due Tuesday was figured to be bearish.

The G. F. J. and Radium

When radium was first discovered in 1898, just five short years ago, it was sold as high as $5,000,000 a pound. As time rolls around it becomes cheaper; and now it is valued at $2,721,555.90 a pound. T[illegible] great family journal will not lay [illegible] its winter's supply of radium just yet, but will patiently wait till it drops a few cents a pound in price. As long as job works keeps up this g. f. j. will try and scrub along in the old way without the scintillations and warmth afforded by the use of the new metal.

Difference of Opinion.

At Edgware recently, says The London Star, a Harlesden gentleman was summoned for interfering with the comfort of passengers on the London & North-Western Railway by fighting in a first-class carriage. It appeared from the evidence that the defendant and another man were passengers by a train from Euston to Watford. A discussion arose as to the merits of Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal proposals. Defendant, who is said to have taken a pro-Chamberlain line, lost his temper and struck the other man, who retaliated, the other passengers being forced to stand upon the seats to escape injury from the blows. Eventually the train was pulled up by the emergency cord just before reaching Harrow, the guard arriving on the scene while the heated politicians were belaboring each other. The defendant admitted that he lost his temper, and the Bench fined him 20s and costs.

"Bay Retaliation."—London Star.

W. P. Goodman of Inglewood, Ont. writes that he picked a fine bunch of ripe strawberries in his garden on Oct 25th. They were well developed. As an offset to this he adds that the next morning there were a couple of inches of snow on the ground.

Many are prone to allow their horses to run out through all kinds of weather until late in the fall, and until their coats become rough and shaggy. This is wrong. Frosty grass is not good for horses that have been used to dry feed and must yet do hard work. They should be stabled as soon as the nights become uncomfortably cool, and then they may be turned out to grass again after the sun has dispelled the frost.

The King's Approval.

The King has approved the issue of letters creating the Seychelles (hitherto a dependency of Mauritius) a separate colony. The formal ceremony of publication has been postponed until November 7, when Sir C. Bruce, Governor of Mauritius, arrives. Mr. E. B. Sweet-Escott, the present Administrator of the group, will be the first Governor of the new colony. The Seychelles are among the hundred or more islands scattered over the Indian Ocean, which have hitherto been dependencies of Mauritius. They are between the parallels of S. lat. 4 deg. and 5 deg., 934 miles from Mauritius, 600 from Madagascar, and 970 from Zanzibar. Their total area is 50,120 acres and the population is nearly 20,000, the largest and most populous island being Mahe, which is about seventeen miles long and four to seven miles broad. Mahe was originally captured from the French in 1794, and on the capture of Mauritius in 1810 the whole group was formally taken possession of. The finances of the Seychelles were separated from those of the Mauritius in 1872 and in 1888 they were given a separate Administrator and Council, while in 1897 the Administrator was given the full powers of a Governor.

Mr. Balfour's Gallantry.

London Answers is responsible for the following:—Mr. Balfour has a gallant way of paying pretty compliments to ladies. Driving through Kingston one day, he passed a huge red motor car that stood before an imposing mansion of grey stone. A young girl in a white gown sat in the car, and as the Premier glided by she bowed to him, and smiled. But the Premier did not appear to see her.

The young girl looked embarrassed, vexed. She bit her lip. She thought a moment. Then she took hold of the wheel of her machine, pressed with her small foot the bulb that made the horn toot gruffly, and swiftly she shot after Mr. Balfour.

Soon the great car overtook the carriage, and halted. The young girl, an old friend of Mr. Balfour's, extended her hand, and, as he took it, she said reproachfully:

"You passed me a while ago without looking at me."

With a gallant smile and inclination of the head, the Premier answered:

"If I had looked at you I couldn't have passed you."

Praise for the Germans.

A special correspondent of The Times, who is making a tour of German commercial and industrial centres, and is writing a series of letters thereon, says in one of them:—The Germans appear to have grasped the fact that work is better done in a good than in a bad light, and great care is taken to secure it. Ventilation is also well managed. But the most striking feature of German factories is their clean, orderly, and well-kept condition. These qualities seem to be universal, and they extend to the dirtiest and most untidy departments. Outside the rooms German factories are well provided with sanitary washing and dressing accommodation. Baths are common, particularly shower baths with hot and cold water; and in summer they are much used. German employers certainly do a great deal more for their people than ours, or rather I should say that the practice of providing comforts and conveniences for them is commoner in Germany.

A Shorter and Faster Route.

On the coast of North Pembrokeshire the Great Western Railway Company are quietly carrying out a scheme with the intention of creating a shorter and faster route to Ireland. The scheme includes the construction of a breakwater 2,000 feet long. The material is obtained from the Clogwen rock, which shelters Fishguard Bay from the west, and the removal of this rock is necessary for the carrying out of the superintendent engineer's plans. As the result of one monster blast alone over 100,000 tons of rock were displaced. To receive the charge of 14,320 pounds of Chilworth gunpowder a T-shaped tunnel was bored into the base of the rock by means of drills worked by compressed air. The report of the explosion was comparatively feeble, but the upheaval of such an immense quantity of rock provided a magnificent spectacle, which was witnessed by hundreds of people.

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H. N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited dumber of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO, Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong

There is Nothing on Earth That Shows as much Profit for Work Done and Money Spent as an OIL WELL.

A gold mine needs continual digging, but an oil well, if it does not flow of its own accord, needs to be pumped, and it supplies the fuel to run the pump.

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars, yes, Millions, have been made in the Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana oil fields, but those fields are on the decline, and the eyes of the world are turning to the Kentucky and Tennessee fields, where a mighty development has begun. Today Kentucky and Tennessee have over 100 producing wells, and is pumping thousands of barrels of oil. Money is flowing into the field from eastern financial centres as well as from the capital of Europe. It is believed by oil men that this will become the greatest oil field in America.

The Standard Oil Company is spending millions of dollars in laying the foundations of the most gigantic pipe line ever laid in any section. This shows that they have faith in Kentucky and Tennessee as the coming oil-producing section of America.

The American Oil Co.

Is one of the successful Companies operating over 2,000 acres of proven oil land in Kentucky and Tennessee located along the line of transportation. To push the wells and complete the development of this vast property, the Company offers 50,000 shares of treasury stock at 5 cents per share. This last offer is but for a short time, and may be withdrawn without further notice.

An Old Resident Gone

On Sunday afternoon Michael Walsh a well known resident of Peterborough died after a lingering illness caused by rheumatism. He was sixty-five years of age, and was unmarried. The funeral will take place from the residence of his nephew, Mr. Michael O'Brien, 76 Gilmour street this morning at 8.30 o'clock and proceed to the Douro Roman Catholic Cemetery.

A Correction

In our remarks regarding the Cereal Company in yesterday's issue, we were in error in stating that the Chief of Police was denied admission to the works on Sunday. That officer did not ask to be admitted, so therefore he could not have been denied; or was he told that it was none of his business. He saw a man at the door of the elevator, who told him, in answer to the Chief's enquiry, as to what was going on, that the work was one of necessity.

Imprisoned in a Mine

Virginia City, Mont., Nov. 7— Seven are dead, a number more burned and perhaps scores lost in the underground workings of the Kearsarge mines at Summit in a fire which started early to-day. The known dead are Supt. R. B. Turner, a miner named Tobin, and five other miners too badly burned to be identified. Their bodies have been recovered. From 50 to 75 men are still down in the mine, and may have perished from flame or smoke. The plant employed 200 men.

A Lady Missionary

Public attention is called to the union meeting to be held in Murray street church tomorrow afternoon at 3.45, to be addressed by Miss McKinney, for some years connected with Zenana work in India so successfully carried on by the London Missionary Society. Miss McKinney comes very highly and warmly recommended as a forceful and telling speaker. It is Miss McKinney's desire to meet and speak to all the churches. The meeting is entirely a union one the meeting having been arranged for by the Ministerial Association. During her stay in town Miss McKinney will be the guest of the Rev. Dr. Torrance and will address prayer meeting in St. Paul's tomorrow evening.

No Strike Probable

The rumor which has been in circulation in town for several days that the Grand Trunk telegraph operators are likely to strike, is not likely to prove correct. There is a committee of operators in Toronto negotiating with the railway officials, and the outcome will be, we believe, satisfactory to both parties. A slight increase was granted the men last year. The question of extra pay for Sundays and a rearrangement of the hours of work is also before the conference, the men desiring the same hours as exist on other roads, where, it is claimed, the telegraphers are entitled to a regular vacation every year while no such provision exists in the agreement between the Grand Trunk and its telegraphers. The committee of the latter will probably remain in Toronto till some arrangement is arrived at.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—Dust was flying in clouds yesterday. Where are the water carts?

—Yesterday was the King's birthday. King Edward is 62 years of age.

—It is understood that Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, who spends her summers in Cobourg, will succeed Mrs. James L. Blair as President of the Board of Lady Managers of the St. Louis Fair.

—There is said to be a shortage of young men in society in Peterborough. Why not try a Times want ad? It brings out everything else in the range of human need or desire.

HAPPY DAYS

When Friends Say "How Well You Look."

What happy days are those when all our friends say "How well you look."

We can bring those days by a little care in the selection of food just as this young man did.

"I had suffered from dyspepsia for three years, and last summer was so bad I was unable to attend school," he says; "I was very thin and my appetite at times was poor while again it was craving. I was dizzy and my food always used to ferment instead of digesting. Crossness, unhappiness and nervousness were very prominent symptoms.

"Late in the summer I went to visit a sister and there I saw and used Grape-Nuts. I had heard of this famous food before, but never was interested enough to try it, for I never knew how really good it was. But when I came home we used Grape-Nuts all the time, and I soon began to note a change in my health. I improved steadily and am now strong and well in every way and am back at school able to get my lessons with ease and pleasure and can remember them too, for the improvement in my mental power is very noticeable, and I get good marks in my studies, which always seemed difficult before.

"I have no more of the bad symptoms given above, but feel fine and strong and happy, and it is mighty pleasant to hear my friends say; 'How well you look.'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Sad Fatality Near Pontypool in Manvers

Son of Mr. Isaac Fallis Loses His Life—Daughter Also Badly Burned

On Saturday night a horrible fatality occurred in Manvers, near Pontypool station. On the night in question the little son and daughter—James Newton, aged six, and Maria, aged seven—of Mr Isaac Fallis went out to the stable to do some chores. It was about nine o'clock in the evening, and the children had a lantern with them. It is supposed that the lantern in some way caught fire or exploded, setting fire to the inflammable material in the barn. The little boy was unable to escape and was burned to death. In trying to save him the sister was so badly burned that she may not survive. Medical aid was summoned and every thing possible done to allay her sufferings.

Dr. Gray, coroner, upon learning the circumstances, considered an inquest unnecessary.

A SUCCESSFUL SMOKER

Held at the Albany Club Rooms Last Night

A very successful smoker was given last night by the Albany Club in their rooms on George street. There was a large attendance, and a very pleasant evening was spent. The splendid orchestra connected with the Club, under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon furnished a choice programme of instrumental music, which was punctuated with a number of happy vocal selections by members of the club and others.

The Albany Club has become quite an institution, having a membership of about 125. The Club is preparing to enlarge its present premises by taking in the entire suite of rooms under the Opera House which face on George street.

THE MOCK PARLIAMENT

The First Session to be Held, This Evening

The first session of the Mock Parliament of the George Street Guild will be held this evening, when Premier Jeffries will introduce legislation of a radical nature. It is expected the leader of the opposition will make a dead set on the Government in reference to their policy regarding the size of the atmosphere. Hon. A. W. Cressman is preparing a bill to regulate the quantity of air consumed in breathing, in order to save it up for future generations. It is understood that this bill is directly antagonistic to the policy of the Opposition.

There is no doubt about it that a great deal of air is being wasted by men who run after office, street cars and women. The government propose to put a stop to this extravagance. This great family journal backs up the administration in its herculean efforts for the betterment of mankind.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks.

By the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

"I am pleased to give my testimony and wish I could find words strong enough to induce other sufferers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Wesley Guy, of Kemptville, Ont., Box 6. "For eight years after my little boy was born I suffered with female weakness, also soreness in ovaries, especially on my right side, and pain in back. Was so miserable sometimes did not know what I was going to do. Tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Had only used four bottles, also some of Dr. Pierce's Antiseptic and Healing Suppositories, when I felt like another person. I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all my friends. If anyone wishes to write me I will gladly answer."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

To Secure Farm Laborers

The Ontario Government has decided to send Mr. H. B. Kyle, of Oakville, to England on November 14th to obtain farm laborers for next summer. He went over last March and obtained about one hundred, most of whom brought their families. He undertakes when sending out laborers that the Government will find situations for them on farms immediately upon their arrival here. The Government does not assist them in any financial way. They pay their own regular fare.

I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. JAPAN AND RUSSIA HAVE NO MONEY

The Real Reason Why the Two Great Powers Have Not Begun Hostilites

London, Nov. 11.—If the Russo-Japanese negotiations end satisfactorily, as is now expected, it will be due in great measure to the British Government's pledge of its good offices toward raising another large Japanese loan in London. It appears that the question of finance has been almost a deciding factor in the dramatic chapter of recent events in the far east.

The understanding arrived at between M. Delcasse, the French Foreign Minister, and Lord Lansdowne, the British Foreign Secretary, prior to the signing of the Anglo-French arbitration treaty, regarding their respective far eastern allies, apparently had even a more important material basis than was indicated when the understanding was first announced.

NEITHER SIDE HAS MONEY.

Upon excellent diplomatic and official authority it can be stated that Russian and Japan, between whom rumor made war imminent, were negotiating for more money, Japan in London and Russia in Paris. Using this as a lever, Lord Lansdowne and M. Delcasse worked vigorously for peace. Exactly how far M. Delcasse was able to go with Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Foreign Minister, in this direction for the sake of averting a war which would seriously endanger the newly formed Anglo-French entente is not known here but there is no doubt that Sir Ernest Satow, the British Foreign Minister to Japan, at Lord Lansdowne's instigation, threatened Japan that Gerat Britain would not give her any financial help should she unnecessarily precipitate hostilities.

The result of this interesting chapter in diplomacy, which in its entirety will probably never be revealed in published dispatches, is that in the event of a satisfactory conclusion of the Russo-Japanese negotiations Japan will, shortly after signing a treaty, endeavor to float another loan in London having the full unofficial support of the British Government. All that the Foreign Office will say for publication in this connection is that it is extremely probable that Japan will need more money.

RUSSIA WILL LET COREA ALONE.

From one of the leading embassies here however, it is learned that even in signing a treaty under which Russia will agree to give up all claim to commercial and political privileges in Corea, which is now conceded to be the basis of the forthcoming agreement, Japan will feel constrained to keep up its present defensive strength, at any rate until the spring of 1904. Hence the British Government's unofficial guaranty that upon the successful conclusion of a treaty with Russia Japan shall have adequate financial resources to maintain forces as a safeguard.

TO BE AN OPEN PORT.

Yokohama, Nov. 11.—It is reported semi-officially at Tokio that Admiral Alexieff, the Russian viceroy of the far east will shortly remove his headquarters from Port Arthur to Vladivostock and resign the viceroyalty in favor of a Russian prince and that Vladivostok will be made an open port.

THE PARK'S CASE

Parks Says His Case is a Warning to Labour Men

New York Nov. 11.—After he was placed in Sing Sing for the second time Friday evening, Walking Delegate Parks said. "Every laboring man of this country should remember me for years to come. It should be a warning to them. I am the victim of a custom that is older than I am, and that is the habit of having money transactions with employers. That put me here. I tell you, and I want the boys to know it, that the salvation of the unions lies in stopping that practice at once. They must give up their back pay for strikes and everything like that. That is the the loophole through which this "grafting," as they call it, creeps in. If they don't, in years to come many a good fellow will be where I am."

THE LUMBER TRADE

Lumbermen are Not Cutting to Much as Last Year.

A canvass by The News of the large lumber wholesalers, whose head offices are in Toronto, has elicited the information that the total cut of lumber in the Georgian Bay district this year, will, in all probability, be about one-third less than that of last year. For this there are two reasons. The first is scarcity of labor In August and September, when the companies were sending their men to the shanties, the greatest difficulty was found in getting enough men. There are at present about 8,000 men working in the bush, or an average of about 100 for each firm, as compared with an approximate of from 11,000 to 12,000 in ordinary years.

The other reason for a smaller cut of lumber this year is the fact that the lumbermen are proceeding cautiously, in view of an impending industrial depression in the United States, which is their chief foreign market. This, of course, does not apply to the lumber sent to the English market from the Ottawa Valley, but the English trade is comparatively small, being only about one-eighth the size of the American trade. The total amount sent to the United States is about 40,000,000 feet annually. At the present time the lumbermen are looking forward with real apprehension to the future of this trade, and are awaiting developments, trimming their sails in the meantime.

As to prices in Canada the lumbermen say that their soaring tendency has not enabled them to make higher profits owing to increased cost of labor and supplies.

PANAMA AFFAIR MAY DEFEAT ROOSEVELT

The Matter Becomes at Once the Dominating Issue of the Presidential Campaign, President's Friends Stand Agast

Washington, Nov. 11.—The Panama episode cannot escape becoming the dominating issue not only for the forthcoming session of Congress, but of next year's political campaign. Republicans are regretfully admitting that the President has finally furnished the democratic party with a tangible asset upon which it can realize. They are sure that in the end the truth about the alleged revolution will come out and that it is bound to besmirch everybody concerned.

Thoughtful and conservative republicans deplore the whole thing. They say that the American people will never condone it; that it is too Russian in its aspect to meet the American sense of fair play.

CAREFULLY PLANNED.

It is a curious fact that President Roosevelt did not act upon impulse in promoting the Panama revolution. On the contrary, he had the advice and support of the ablest republicans in the United States Senate. Secretary Hay, notwithstanding his usual conservatism, made no objection to the deal being consummated.

The President's friends in and out of Congress are assuming that because the un-named republican senators advised the fomenting of the Panama revolution the President's position is unassailable. This, however, is not the view of the rank and file of the republican party in Congress.

All existing canal legislation and treaties will have to be made over again. That will involve the reopening of the canal question and enable a discussion of all its phases. Such discussion, it is conceded, cannot be beneficial to the political cause of the President.

MUST HAVE NEW TREATY.

In the first place, a new treaty will have to be negotiated. It requires a two-thirds vote to ratify the treaty, and there are grave doubts about the willingness of two-thirds of the present members of the United States Senate to vote to ratify a treaty negotiated with a government set up by outside intrigue and force. Moreover it will be equally necessary for Congress to appropriate the sum of money which it is proposed to pay Panama for the right to cross the Isthmus. Such a bill would have to pass both houses.

Republicans, regardless of their feeling about the course of the administration, are not expected to join in the hostilities against the President, but it can be put down as a fact that scores of them will bear no grudge against the democrats for telling the whole truth about the conspiracy.

WORST BLUNDER OF HIS CAREER.

The concensus of opinion is that the President has made the most serious and irretrievable blunder of his career. All of his party followers in Congress admit that he has made other blunders, that he blundered in taking up the Kishineff petition and threatening to send it to the Czar; that he blundered again when he ordered a squadron of American ships to a Turkish port upon an uncorroborated telegram which was subsequently discovered to be inaccurate.

His most serious blunder in the eyes of everybody who has followed his recent career—regarded as serious because it betrays an unrestrained desire to provoke a foreign war—was his calling the north Atlantic squadron to Oyster Bay and celebrating the occasion by making war-lord speeches to the jackies.

PLOT LAID IN NEW YORK---HOW THE NEWEST "REPUBLIC" WAS EVOLVED.

Washington's Example of Recognizing New Republic Followed by France

Paris, Nov. 10—The French Government has recognized the de facto government of the Republic of Panama.

The instructions forwarded by the Foreign Minister, M. Delcasse, to the French Consul at Panama, authorize him to have relations with the new Government, and will have the effect of giving the same recognition of the new regime as the United States has already given. A formal recognition will follow later, when the new Government is fully organized; but, the instructions of the Consul definitely establish the attitude of France toward the new Republic.

The United States Recognition

Washington, Nov. 10— The United States Government having "entered into relations with the de facto Government at Panama, and taken the initial step in the ultimate formal recognition of the new sovereignty of the new Isthmian Republic, it has also served notice on the Government of Colombia, which in meaning, if not in terms, was equivalent to a declaration that the Isthmus should not again come under the authority of that Government. By the attitude of the Washington administration, the independence of the Isthmus, and, it is pretty safe to say, the building of the Panama Canal, are assured. This far-reaching, map-changing policy the most strenuous in the history of a strenuous administration, was announced to the country and the world through the publication of two telegrams signed by Secretary of State Hay, in one of which the United States Consul at Panama was told:

"The people of Panama have, by an apparently unanimous movement, dissolved their political connection with the Republic of Colombia and resumed their independence. When you are satisfied that a de facto Government, republican in form, and without substantial opposition from its own people has been established in the State of Panama, you will enter into relations with it as the responsible Government of the territory, and look to it for all due action to protect the persons and property of citizens of the United States, and to keep open the Isthmian transit, in accordance with the obligations of existing treaties governing the relations of the United States to that territory." The second message to the United States Minister at Bagota states that the President holds that he "is bound not merely by treaty obligations, but by the interests of civilization, to see that the peaceable traffic of the world across the Isthmus of Panama shall no longer be disturbed by a constant succession of unnecessary and wasteful civil wars."

The Government does not expect that Colombia will resort to arms to regain the Isthmus. If it should attempt to send troops there, the naval forces of the United States will prevent them from landing. The Administration has made up its mind to that. The new Republic must be left severely alone, under the protecting arm of the United States.

The action of the United States is openly admitted to be the cause for a declaration of war by Colombia. That Government, however, is powerless to engage in hostilities with the United States. She has 60,000 troops under arms in the interior of the country, but they cannot get to the Isthmus overland, and the American fleet is there to stop procedure by sea.

Plot Hatched in New York.

New York, Nov. 10—The Evening Post asserts that the plot for the Panama revolution was hatched in New York city. It charges that Phillippe Varilla, a Frenchman, who has arrived in Washington from the Waldorf-Astoria with credentials naming him Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the inchoate Republica del Ismo, is by all accounts the man who brought the new State into being. He had been in the old De Lesseps Canal Company; he denies that he is in the new Panama Canal Company; but he, at any rate had been lecturing upon the superiority of the Panama over the Nicaragua route in this country and otherwise taking persuasive part in the campaign to determine which route the American Congress should approve.

He was here in New York all summer It was to his apartment, apparently, that Dr. Manual Amador, new Minister of Finance in the de facto government, and Jose Gabriel Duque, chief of the editorial supporters of the revolution, came for consultation. Both returned within the month, and at once the secession of the Department of Panama from Columbia took place. There were others Isthmian visitors, whose names are not divulged, and they all had business at the Waldorf-Astoria. They had business with American citizens elsewhere, too no doubt, as to whom details yet are lacking. They and M. Bonau-Varilla, "could not, of course" one is assured, "get official sanction or recognizance for their scheme." But all except M. Bonau-Varilla went back to the Isthmus and unhesitatingly executed the secession. There was a small bombardment from a Colombian warship, which hurt two Chinese, but the Colombian army allowed its generals to be arrested, and the Isthmian revolters designed a flag and ran it up.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR OPENS BRITAIN'S EYES

Army Reform is to be Complete and Radical

London, Nov. 11.—The King's hand is generally traced in the latest measure of War Office reform. Lord Esher, who is the civilian on the new Reforming Committee, has the King's confidence in an especial measure. The King pressed him to accept Mr. Balfour's offer of the War Ministership, when Mr. Brodrick was forced to resign, but recognized and accepted Lord Esher's plea that he could do more effective work outside the ranks of any party. The first business of this committee of three picked experts, one a civilian, one a naval, and one a military officer, is to make a really scientific provision of the work by departments, providing the army with a board of administrators under the supreme control of the political minister, such as has brought the British Navy to such a state of efficiency. There is little doubt that the committee will abolish what the Times calls "the extraordinary anomaly of an executive commander-in-chief in the War Office sandwiched between a Secretary of State and the heads of the administrative departments." The anomaly provokes only chaos and deadlock. The committee will spend the next three months in preparing a scheme for Parliament, Mr. Arnold Forster being in the meanwhile left free to carry on the government of the army.

LAURIER'S DEMAND RE TREATY MAKING

Ottawa Despatch to London Gives it Semi-Official Report

THE VIEW OF THE GAZETTE

Problem is One Where We Must Look Far Before We Leap

London, Nov. 11.—The Standard publishes a special Ottawa despatch, which has the appearance of official inspiration, in which it is claimed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's demand for treaty-making powers has the support of almost the entire people of Canada, and that, only by virtue of the King's power of veto will British authority be recognized in any treaty the British Ministry have no part in negotiating. The despatch declares Canada has no desire to do anything to interfere with British interests abroad, instances the Dominion veto of the British Columbian anti-Japanese legislation and adds: "History has shown that the finer the silken thread uniting the Dominion to the Motherland, the stronger is British sentiment, and it is sentiment that makes the Empire, not trade bickering."

The St. James' Gazette expresses widely-felt British opinion when it says: "The matter is one in which for the common interest of the whole Empire, it is very necessary to look far before we leap."

WILL EUROPE RETALIATE?

Probable Attitude to British Protection--Will Erect Factories in England

One of the turning points in the discussion in England on Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy is the question as to what would be the attitude of foreign countries to Great Britain if such a policy were carried out? The opponents of a protectionist policy fear that it would provoke a general tariff war in which Great Britain would come out at the short end of the horn. On this question much light is thrown by Mr. P. H. Burton, of Toronto, in an interview with a press representative yesterday, touching three of the European nations, Germany, France, and Switzerland, the commercial pulse of which countries he had occasion to sound on this question on his recent annual visit to the Continent. Mr. Burton's opinion is that of a business man who for thirty years has been doing business with manufacturers in Europe, and is, therefore, in close touch with the trend of opinion there on commercial matters.

As to Germany.

Respecting Germany, Mr. Burton said: "German manufacturers are regarding Mr. Chamberlain's proposals with genuine alarm. I talked with several of them, and, naturally, they were not at all pleased with the prospect for trade with the British Empire. I was asked, what was the matter with Canada that she had imposed the surtax on German goods? I replied that the matter was with themselves, for while the United States practically barred out their goods with a high tariff Germany granted them the benefit of the most favored nation clause and charged them only 3s duty a quarter for their wheat, while they charged Canada with her comparatively low tariff 11s a quarter. To this they had no answer. Nor when I pointed out that Chamberlain was simply doing the work of consolidating the British Empire, which Bismarch did of consolidating the German Empire, though unpopular to foreign countries, could they dispute the justice of it. In fact, German manufacturers look upon the Chamberlain proposals as inevitable, and they are preparing to meet them. Perhaps a concrete example will explain how. A manufacturer of mantles, one of the chief industries of Germany, said to me that if Great Britain put on a duty of 10 per cent, he would immediately erect a factory in England for the British trade. While there is competition in England in the manufacture of those lines which are made in Germany, a duty of 10 per cent, would turn the balance at which it would be profitable for German manufacturers to ship to England against them, and they would be compelled to build factories in England or lose the trade altogether. Undoubtedly that is what will happen.

As to France.

"In France the case is similar. There is one particular industry there that may be mentioned—the woolen industry in the North of France. As you know the manufacture of woolen cloth in Europe is specialized into different departments, as the spinning, weaving, and dyeing, each of which requires a separate plant, and is sometimes subdivided again. There is a certain kind of short wool which comes from South America, which requires a special kind of plant for combing, and this industry the manufacturers in the North of France have practically secured the whole control of, and are shipping large quantities of this kind of cloth to England. At the same time, talking to one of these French manufacturers, I learned that if Chamberlain succeeded in putting on a duty of 5 per cent, it would almost shut off the possibility of profit to them in shipping to England, and if 10 per cent. were put on they would have to move their plants to England for the British trade.

Switzerland's Attitude.

"The attitude of Switzerland is interesting, even though that country does not rank very important, either as a competitor of a market for foreign trade. It shows the selfishness of nations when Germany grants to the United States, with its prohibitive tariff, the benefit of this most favored nation clause, but no concession whatever to the little nation of 3 wise, whose average rate of tariff is only 11 1-2 per cent. The people of Switzerland are naturally sore at this treatment, and they welcome Chamberlain's policy, as they think that the protectionist nations will now receive a dose of their own medicine.

Cost to the Consumer.

"Another question raised in connection with Chamberlain's policy is whether a tariff would increase the cost to the consumer. That depends on the relative positions of the exporting and importing countries. When McKinley put on the duty of 30 per cent. against Canadian barley, the price dropped about 25 cents in Canada, but it rose only about 5 cents in the United States, for the reason that the exports from Canada did not cut much figure in the total consumption. Or, take another case. British manufacturers were at one time doing a very large trade with the United States, running up into the hundreds of thousands of pounds, in a certain kind of cloth which netted them 4s 6d. a yard laid down in New York. McKinley put on a tariff which reduced their net price to 3s. 7d., and cleared away their profit. This was a serious matter to the English manufacturer on account of the size of the trade, and rather than lose it, the manufacturers of the different parts making up this cloth, got together, and by taking off some of the cost of each part managed to get the price down to 3s. 7d. This was a case where the duty was not paid by the consumer, and it is argument from concrete facts of this kind that is telling in England."

Russia's Great Preparations.

London, Nov. 11.—The Post's special from Pekin says: A feature of Russia's Manchurian preparations which it is well to bear in mind is the anxious haste with which she is strengthening the professional and technical departments in her big Pacific fleet. As fast as her naval establishments can train them, she is hurrying out naval officers and engineers and engine room artificers. She has been building new battleships faster than she has been training officers and engineers to man them, and as the new vessels have been completed they have been hurried off with more or less scratch staffs. Admiral Alexieff is stated repeatedly to have urged the necessity of strengthening the quarterdeck and engine room complements of the squadron. The Japanese navy has had a more harmonious development, and its officers and men are believed to stand well in the regard of the British Navy. The chances are that the Japanese ships, though fewer than the Russian, would be better handled.

THE ARMENIANS ARE IN A DESPERATE MOOD

Resist Confiscation of Their Church Property---A Dangerous Agitation is Now Going On

London, Nov. 10— Russian correspondents of The Times says that a systematic agitation has been organized in the Russian provinces of Armenia, where the confiscation of the church property has converted the whole of the native population into rebels Enormous crowds assemble at the churches, and violent speeches are made, followed by the singing of revolutionary hymns. At Achalkalsky, in the Tiflis Government, after midnight Mass was celebrated a young woman delivered a fiery harangue, and the proceedings were concluded by solemn maledictions upon the Russian Government. At a village near Erivan the villagers were summoned to give up the church property, and the Commissioner of Police, in order to terrorize the crowd, struck the Mayor in the face. The Mayor replied by knocking down the Commissioner and tramping upon him. It was all the police could do to rescue their chief.

Discontent in Russia.

London, Nov. 10—The Times prints a communication from a correspondent in Russia declaring that two phases of discontent are manifest among the Russian peasants. The first is a sort of agricultural terrorist movement, spontaneous, disorganized, violent, and not considered dangerous, as the mass of the peasantry is sufficiently intelligent to understand what incendiarism will not improve their position. The second movement which is far more dangerous, and does not approve of violence consists in forming "fraternal unions" among the peasants for political purposes. The peasants contrive to meet and discuss economic questions and read revolutionary pamphlets, and in this they are assisted by the revolutionary Socialist party. In order to discredit the movement, the authorities strive to impute to the fraternal unions acts of incendiarism. The correspondent then describes the trial of nine peasants for incendiarism at Petrovsk. All were acquitted. The public prosecutor made the damaging admission that the propaganda of militant socialism "has penetrated right down to the depths of the masses of the peasant class, and reaches the most distant and obscure parts of the empire."

FIELD AND STREAM FOR NOVEMBER

Field and Stream for November is another good issue for this popular monthly "by sportsmen for sportsmen." Indian Animal Worship, by Bourdon Wilkes, is a selection from folk lore of the American aborigines. A Whopper, the Story of a Trout, is a real good tale of a boy and his successful capture of the giant of the millpond. It will do for readers of all ages. For the scientific fisherman William C. Harris's article on The American Salmon will command attention. There is an amusing adventure of a cowboy with a bear, and B. W. Mitchell ends his Cruise of the "Mullein Leaf" very nicely. A touch of early life in the far west is to be found in Reminiscences of Frontier Life, with no drawing of the long bow. Among the articles on Sports afield there are A Deer Hunt in the Adirondacks, one in Southern Alaska and two in Michigan, all well told and true to actual experiences. There is a trenchant editorial on a recent exploitation of the wholesale market game slaughter. For the dreamer with the evening pipe, read "El Comancho," In the Moon of the Falling Leaves." The kennel section has a good illustrated article on The Merry Beagles and a valuable critique on recent dog shows. Bromide enlarging at home by Francois Veltier contains some excellent hints for the amateur photographer.

A Coming Event

The exceptionally fine talent engaged by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. for the entertainment to be held in the Opera House on Thursday evening, 19th November, will assuredly secure a full house. The following artists have been secured: Harold Jarvis, the great tenor, in a programme of entirely new songs; Owen Smiley, elocutionist and musical entertainer, and Miss Alice Dunn, a distinguished violinist. Reserved seats 75 and 50 cents, general admission 25 cents.

—A jolly load, composed of three ladies and two gentlemen drove to Lakefield yesterday in one of Mr. Leary's swell turnouts, and were right royally entertained at the Craig House.

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 808, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

ROCKEFELLER'S PIETY

The recent advance in the price of oil, will, it is stated, add about $11,000,000 a year to the income of John J. Rockfeller. In the early part of last month, before the Standard Oil Company had raised the price of its product, Mr. Rockfeller took one of his Cleveland friends into his confidence and told him that "the personal comfort religion has been to me such that sometimes I feel that I would like to go upon the platform and tell the people about it. Now that the oil king's piety has been rewarded by an $11,000,000 increase to his income, it will probably be impossible for him to keep off the lecture platform. It may not be impious to suggest, however, that the "personal comforts" which his religion brings to him tend to shake the faith of a great many people whose piety is not forfeited by Standard Oil stocks.

WAR IN THE SPRING

The war in Macedonia is over until next spring, the troops having gone into winter quarters. Life is described in a letter from one of the leaders as unbearable in the mountains when they are ice and snow bound; and there is nothing for it, accordingly, but to live in the valleys under Turkish rule with as much fortitude as may be. Accounts from time to time in the last few months have pictured scenes of dreadful slaughter. Villages were described as deluged with blood, shed on both sides. The poor peasants have long been case-hardened to such scenes which now make but a light impression. The letter quoted says that next year if Europe does not interfere, the slaughter will be renewed against the Turkish boa constrictor. But European powers have troubles of their own, and are willing to let the Turks and Balkan provincials fight out their family concerns in their own way. Meanwhile if the peasants ground down by the tax-farmers, were worth their salt, they would emigrate to some free country and learn how to live in peace and plenty. But Canada is not hankering for such.

ARE HARD TIMES COMING?

A London paper, says the Free Press, philosophizing upon the hard times in prospect, upon the late commercial crisis in Germany caused by over-production, the crisis of the same kind coming down the pike in the United States, etc., consoles us in Canada with the thought that so long as population pours as at the present, filling up the prairies, there need be no fear of any crisis here from over-production in our factories. All of them are kept busy filling orders for the North-West. That would certainly be astonishing if the population of Ontario did not keep pouring out as it did during the last decennial, whereby Western Ontario lost 60,000 souls, and also if the Yankee manufacturers would keep their surplus outputs at home, and refrain from dumping them on our land. This, however, they are said by the Globe and Montreal Times to be doing at a disturbing rate.

THE PATRIOTIC FUND

Within a few dollars, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars still remained in the treasury of the Canadian Patriotic Fund on November 1st, says the Ottawa Journal.

To this fund, collected for the men who had been hurt or wounded in South Africa, the generous heart of Canada gave freely, and the administration of the fund has, to the present time, been worthy of the givers and the cause.

But is it not pretty nearly time that the balance of one-tenth of a million be wiped off the slate?

In some quarters it is freely stated that a proposal is to be made that this fund should not be further drawn upon for South African claims, but should be kept intact for patriotic emergencies of the future.

This would be the greatest possible mistake for reasons more than one.

In the first place, whatever the future may bring forth, Canada can be trusted to provide what necessity demands, and this money was given by the Canadian people for the sufferers of South Africa alone, and it is to them that every cent should go.

And in the second place, almost every one knows of at least one or two cases of men crippled or partially broken in health through the South African campaign, men whose earning powers are less than formerly because of their service to Britain. If the patriotic fund has covered all these cases—and its work has been very thorough—then let the remaining money be pensioned between them in ratio to their necessities, and thus in some degree make up for privations bravely endured.

The great war has passed into history, and it is about time the final compensations to those who have suffered shall be apportioned, and the ledger closed.

A Canadian Commissioned.

The Canadian Gazette says:—Lieut. Gordon B. Johnson, Royal Engineers, has been ordered on foreign service—Ceylon. Lieut. Johnson is a graduate (1900) of the Royal Military College, Kingston. A few months after leaving that institution he was offered a commission in the Royal Engineers, which was accepted. After taking the usual course at Chatham, he was transferred to the mounted company stationed at Colchester. He is a son of Mr. J. W. Johnson, Belleville, Ont. On January 1st last the Royal Military College, Kingston, was represented in the army numerically as follows:—Commissions in the cavalry, 1; Royal Artillery, 37; Royal Engineers, 40; infantry, 36; Army Service Corps, 10; India Staff Corps, 7.

FOR THE EMPIRE

The Colonies Share in Imperial Defence

London, Nov. 11.—Premier Seddon, in introducing the naval agreement bill which passed the New Zealand Legislature unanimously, amid cheers, declared that the present contributions of Australia and New Zealand were only the beginning of colonial recognition of their responsibilities, especially in view of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals and the Empire's absolute independence on alien nations for food supplies.

Mr. Richard McCallum

A Remarkable Case Exciting Great Interest in Stirling, which, if Possible adds to the Popularity of Catarrhozone as a cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Throat Trouble

Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable and at the same time hardest to cure diseases. This has been Mr. McCallum's experience.

"For many years," he writes, "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicines did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of, and tried a sample, and it really benefitted me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit from the sample size I got the complete outfit, large, Hard Rubber Inhaler, etc., and but a few weeks of its use completely cured me of Catarrh and throat trouble.

"I recommend Catarrhozone as the most satisfactory Catarrh remedy on the market. Every word said about it is true.

(Signed) "Richard McCallum."

Now perhaps you need a remedy like Catarrhozone. It is the only treatment that is applied locally as well as constitutionally. The Inhaler clears the air passages, stops hawking and spitting, and purifies the breath.

The Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler, drive all the poisons from the blood and build up the system to a healthy, vigorous condition.

The complete outfit costs $1, at all druggists; trial size 25c., by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

An Interesting Relic.

The Novelty, one of the three locomotives constructed over seventy years ago as the result of a competition promoted by the Liverpool & Manchester Railway Company, has just been discovered at Rainhill, Lancashire. The three engines which took part in the 1829 trials were the Rocket, constructed by Stephenson, the Sans Pareil, by Harkworth, and the Novelty by Messrs. Braithwaite & Ericsson. The Rocket obtained the premium of £500 as the most suitable locomotive to run on the line, having attained a speed of twenty-nine miles per hour. The greatest speed of the Sans Pareil was less than twenty-three miles, and the Novelty had only covered three miles, when the joints of the boiler gave way. At that time the Rainhill Gas & Water Company's premises, which adjoin the railway at Rainhill station, were occupied by Mr. Melling as engineering works, Ericsson & Melling being friends. The former left the Novelty there after its failure to gain the prize. The Rocket and the Sans Pareil are both in South Kensington Museum, but the whereabouts of the Novelty could not be traced until recently, when it was found still working as a stationary engine, the wheels having been removed. This interesting relic will, in all probability, be placed side by side with its contemporaries at South Kensington.

A New Experiment.

The hull of the old battleship Belleisle, which has rested for five weeks on the mud in Portsmouth Harbor, was raised yesterday, says The Graphic of October 9, and taken into dock. Experiments were conducted on September 4 with the object of testing the resisting qualities of a new celluloid preparation against torpedo attack. A torpedo was attached to the hull and fired by electricity, inflicting such extensive injury that the vessel had to be run ashore on the mud immediately. Since then efforts have continuously been made to raise the Belleisle and bring her in for examination. It was, however, found to be almost impossible to deal with the mud that oozed through the rent in the vessel's side. Yesterday morning a new experiment was tried, compressed air being pumped between the ship's bottom and the mud on which the Belleisle lay. The experiment had the desired effect, and the vessel was raised and carefully towed into the dockyard, being placed in the south dock. Yesterday afternoon the water was run out of the dock, and it was seen that the torpedo explosion had done very considerable damage, many plates having been bodily torn away.

Celluloid Toilet Articles.

Attention to the dangers attending the use of celluloid toilet articles is again called by a contributor to The Medical Press and Circular. He writes as follows:—"It has long been known that dressing combs and other articles of like nature have been manufactured from a modification of gun-cotton. From time to time we have pointed out the possibility of accident from the use of an article containing such an ingredient, but comparatively few cases of accident have hitherto been recorded. Now it appears that, the original patent having expired, a vast number of imitation processes have sprung up, and the public are flooded with combs made from gun-cotton compounds by methods which render them more dangerous than those prepared under the original patent. That some restriction should be placed on its indiscriminate use was proved by the recent case of a girl twenty-two years of age, who was suffering from cellulitis of the scalp, accompanied by a marked degree of nervous shock. It appeared that her head had been set on fire by the sudden combustion of a comb which she wore in her hair. Cooking her father's dinner one Sunday, she happened to bend down before the fire, when the comb suddenly ignited, and she became enveloped in flames. Her life was only spared through the presence of mind of her father, who immediately enveloped her with the hearth rug, and so extinguished the conflagration. Obviously seeing that the mere storage of gun-cotton is restricted by heavy penalties, it is not fair or safe that makers should be permitted to place a slightly modified but actively dangerous modification on the market, to be used by a section of the public who have not the slightest notion of its composition and dangers."

A Weird Gathering.

Midnight on a recent Saturday witnessed a weird and, in many respects, pathetic gathering in Cloudesley square, Islington. A mission had been announced in connection with the Holy Trinity Church, and the invitation was addressed to "the homeless, destitute, despairing and sorrowful," and they came in their scores. If there was a slight infusion of some others who had sought a palliative to their despair and sorrow, and hence made their way into the mission hall somewhat unsteady of gait, says The London Express, it was tactfully permitted to pass unnoticed. Most of the midnight comers were men, but there were some women, too—pale and haggard women who seemed eligible under all four heads of the invitation. On entering the hall each visitor was handed a cup of coffee and some cake, to an accompaniment of Moody and Sankey's hymns, sung by a party of ladies. Hymn books were then given out, and the guests were asked to call for any hymn they wanted to hear. The vicar, the Rev. T. Lancaster, rose to sing a solo, and they all wanted to help him. "What's the number, guv'nor?" they shouted. "Never mind the number," said the cheery vicar, "you'll know it when I come to the chorus." It was "Meet Me There," and they sang it with refreshing enthusiasm. At one in the morning the vicar gave them a short address homely, cheerful and earnest, and when he had finished the early morning air echoed with shouts of "Bravo, guv'nor bravo!" Half an hour later the strange party broke up, and each visitor was given a little nosegay as a memento. Mr Robert Graham, the missioner, is hopeful of great results from these midnight meetings.

Wide Predictions.

Public Opinion (New York) views the question in this manner:—Russia and Japan are now face to face in the disputed regions of Manchuria and Corea. One has a wide choice of predictions as to what is going to happen next. London's opinion is that war between the two powers is merely a question of a few weeks, from Port Arthur comes a despatch saying that Japan is making no preparations for a war with Russia, while the continental opinion is that Russia will continue to nag Japan until she is forced to appear to be the aggressor. Of course, Russia did not evacuate Manchuria on the scheduled date, October 8. It was not expected that she would do so, and all the powers are grieved over this new evidence of Russian duplicity. No one proposes to do anything, however, except the United States, which has secured the opening of two ports to American trade. That these ports can only be entered by row-boats detracts a trifle from this latest diplomatic triumph of our State Department.

YOUR MONEY WORKS WHILE YOU SLEEP

Our famous corps of track sharps are up at break of day, "clocking" the horses in their morning tryouts, and while you sleep they spot the winners that bring you steady income.—Our method puts you on a level with the most successful plungers of the American turf.—We operate for you for 25 per cent. of weekly earnings.—We win only when you win.—Results obtained really "beyond dreams of avarice."

Again we scored heavily for all of our clients last month. Again we landed the money and landed it in chunks. Three years of organization, with the best facilities that money and brains can procure to make our service of picking and backing winners at the horse races the most accurate and profitable in the land, has had its natural sequence, and each week our showing demonstrates a good profit for every client.

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, found to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co., representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds, day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible form, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our Discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. PRAYER.

CHARLES E. JEFFERSON, D. D., Broadway Tabernacle Church, New York City.

And he said unto them, when ye pray say, Our Father.—Luke, xi., 2.

Jesus took it for granted that men were going to pray. He always prayed Himself. It was His habit, His nature, His life. The Evangelists fail to tell us many things which He said and did, but they make large room for His prayers. His praying was one of the outstanding and awe-inspiring features of His life. He was found praying before every important step in His career.

And what He did He expects all men to do. To lift His eyes to heaven and say "Father" was natural and easy, but it is not so easy to many of us, and some of us have doubts as to its reasonableness and value. We are living in an age when men are determined to get if possible to the bottom of things. Everything is subjected to analysis, investigation, criticism. Prayer, as all admit, has roots which run down into the realms of mystery, and it is not surprising that earnest people should be asking many questions about it.

They want to study the psychology and chemistry of prayer. This is entirely proper, but the study of chemistry must be kept in its right place. The chemistry of bread is both interesting and important, but the chemist should eat his breakfast before he enters on his studies. He will then be better fitted for his work. Eating comes first and chemistry afterward. The psychology of sleep is a most fascinating study, but before all the problems have been explored it is necessary for a man to sleep. After one has enjoyed a good night's sleep he is in better humor for psychological investigations. And so it is with prayer. Prayer is one of the natural appetites of the soul. In prayer the soul finds food with which it nourishes its life.

Before prayer is studied in its scientific aspects let the soul commune long with God. Prayer is an instinct, a deep-seated instinct in every unspoiled heart. If it is safe to follow the hint given by a falling eyelid and postpone all study until the mind has been refreshed by sleep, so also is it safe to follow the instinct which at certain times impels us to throw a passionate wish Godward. If, then, you have your questions, pray first and face your questions afterwards. If you have your doubts, pray first, then deal with them one by one. The chemistry of prayer is interesting, but it is demoralizing if the study of it is made a substitute for lifting one's eyes to heaven and saying, "Father." In the words of Emerson, "As well might a child live without its mother's milk as a soul without prayer."

One reason why many persons have lost faith in the efficacy of prayer is because they and others have made their prayers too small. Let us discard the notion that prayer is simply asking for things. Prayer is, first of all, adoration, pouring out the soul in the presence of manifested greatness and beauty. When in the Scriptures we catch glimpses of the worship which goes on behind the veil we do not hear angel or archangel or saint asking for things. The burden of the prayer is, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty." Surely we violate no law of the universe when we adore.

Prayer is thanksgiving; it is giving something to God. It is the glory of man to be able to return thanks. Animals do not know how to feel or to say "I thank you." But to feel gratitude is human and to give expression to it is always becoming. We will not allow a boy to pick up our handkerchief for us in the street without some vocal recognition of his kindness; what shall we say of men and women who take the good things which the great God offers to them daily and turn away without ever once saying in heart or by lip, "I thank Thee"? Surely there is no law in God's universe which is transgressed by the expression of glad and genuine gratitude.

Prayer is also confession. We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God. There is none righteous—no, not one. We have all broken the commandments of the Heavenly Father, and modern science has discovered nothing which renders it unreasonable for a man to say to God:—"I have sinned. I am sorry." The man who tramples on us in the street and hurries on without so much as "I beg your pardon" is put down instantly as a boor, and where does a man belong who, sinning against his Creator, never asks to be forgiven? Many a man is discontented, sour and ill at ease because he carries in his heart a load of unforgiven sins.

But may we not ask for anything at all? Certainly. But we should ask for large things. Follow the prayer which the Master gave to His disciples. It has in it but one petition for an earthly good, and that petition is swallowed up in the music of the great cries that go before and that come after—the longing for the establishment of God's kingdom on the earth and the pleading for sufficient strength to come off victorious over temptation and evil.

"Darling," whispered the young bridegroom, "we are about to enter a tunnel."

"Then won't you please go and get a drink of water for me, Harold?" said the young bride, observing that the other passengers were watching them expectantly.—Chicago Tribune.

Farming as a Business.

We often hear men say that they are going to stop farming and go into business. They do not know what they say. This expression is very common, and can be heard every day. Why is farming not a business, and why should it not be classed as such? I go further and say that farming should be classed as a profession, and one of the highest and most honorable in the professional line.

Some time ago I told some of my friends and neighbors that I was going to an agricultural college, and you know what followed. You know how I was laughed at and how they ridiculed the idea. But I was not discouraged at this ; for all good things have been strongly talked against. If I can leave I will take a short course this winter. I would like to know more of my business. This country needs farmers who are more highly educated and prepared for the work.

Farming as a business is the highest occupation that a man can fill, and every farmer should think so. He should know that farming is the most independent of all trades. The farmer feeds the whole population of the globe, and so all are depending upon him for food ; and if agriculture supplies food for all the vast number of people in the large cities, is it not worthy of being called a business?

Many times the farmers themselves give their business a low name, and then the people of the city are not going to praise it when the farmers are running it down. We farmers should know that we are engaged in the most important work and business on the earth, and while we are farming we should not say, "We have no business, we are only farming." By this some might be led to believe that farming is a sort of slavery, as it is when done as many farmers manage it. When done in an up-to-date way and by the latest methods and improved machinery it is a pleasure. Why do we consider ourselves so low? Let us look a little higher and know that we have a business which is worthy of the highest honor. Above all, let us consider our work as a business. It is a business, and we should know and realize it.—E. J. Waterstripe in N. Y. Tribune.

Molasses for Cattle Fatting.

In a translation from the French of a brochure on the use of molasses for cattle feeding the following particulars are given of an experiment carried out at Guhrau Sugar Works, Silesia, in 1895-96 :—

The value of cake molasses having been proved, 1 kilogramme (2.2 lbs.) per head of molassine meal was fed to the working cattle daily, gradually increased to 2.50 kilogrammes (5.50 lbs.) ; but this quantity did not agree with them, and had to be reduced to 2 kilogrammes (4.40 lbs.). The animals, which were then at work both at the plough and harrow did well on it, and their skins greatly improved in condition.

Young stock—Young animals from two to three years old that were fattening were profitably fed on 1.50 kilogrammes (3.30 lbs.) per diem of molassine meal. The use of crude molasses with beetroot leaves is not advisable on account of the large quantity of salts contained, but the admixture of peat-moss decreases cases of diarrhoea. The quantity of from 250 to 350 grammes (1-2 lb. to 3-4 lb.) can be given to young stock with profit.

Milch cows—Since November cows that have calved have been kept separate, and, in addition to their ordinary feed, have for the last two years been getting 2 kilogrammes (4.40 lbs.) of molassine meal. The quantity of the milk was increased, and the quality improved, and the animals were in perfect health and condition.

M. P. Hoppe has made an exhaustive series of experiments at the University of Leipsic into the value of molasses in feeding milking cows. Those used for the purpose were fed 2.50 kilogrammes (5.50 lbs.) per head per diem. It was found to increase the quantity of milk, but if 2.50 kilogrammes were exceeded the quantity of butter was diminished, but not the percentage of casein, and the taste of both milk and butter was not affected in any way.

M. A. Guttman says : "Last year I fattened 945 bullocks for the Moscow market on 5 kilogrammes (about 11 lbs.) of molasses per head per diem in an average of ninety days."

M. Miserez, who was deputed by the Agricultural Society of Herzele, East Flanders, to report on the matter, has arrived at the following conclusions :

(1) Molasses is a most wholesome food, greatly relished by cattle ; it increases the quantity of milk and improves its quality.

(2) The use of molasses has allowed the food to be increased in a ratio of 1 : 5, without any detrimental effects either to the milk or butter.

To Start a Balky Horse.

Says a horseshoer : "When a horse balks, no matter how badly he sulks or how ugly he is, do not beat him ; don't throw sand in his ears; don't use a rope on his forelegs or even burn straw under him.

"Quietly go and pat him on the head a moment; take a hammer or even pick up a stone in the street ; tell the driver to sit still, take his lines and hold them quietly, while you lift up either front foot, give each nail a light tap and a good smart tap on the frog ; drop the foot quickly, and then chirp to him to go.

"In 99 cases out of 100 the horse will go right on about his business, but the driver must keep his lines taut and not pull or jerk him back. If I have tried this once I have tried it 500 times.

"This may make you smile, but a horse has more common sense than most people are willing to give him credit for. The secret of this little trick is simply diversion. I am a firm believer that with kindness and proper treatment a horse can be driven with a string."

An Interesting Letter.

The Globe recently had a brief quotation from a letter written to The London Times by a citizen of the United States visiting his country after several years' absence. Following are lengthier extracts from the communication, a decidedly interesting one in its way. In minutely analyzing America's future in the world of trade the writer says :—

"In the matter of foreign trade, the manufacturer in America has definite aspirations instead of concrete ambitions. He would like to trade with all the world. He could not explain this aspiration, but he might fall back upon his belief in destiny, which is as strong in him as it is in a Mahommedan soldier, whom death in battle carries into paradise. The American has come to have the strongest faith in his gift for direction. He is convinced that other people, somehow, are losing that power, and he is convinced that it is only a question of time when the financial centre will be shifted to New York or Chicago. He does not take into account the fact that he has not yet developed a banking system flexible enough to adjust itself to a commercial crisis."

Trades unionism, the writer declares, has weakened the United States, and while the wages in skilled trades advance those in unskilled trades decline.

Replying to a question as to how long the present period of prosperity is likely to continue, the writer says the general feeling in the United States predicts it will last "until the next Presidential election is settled." He concludes with the following remarks anent foreign trade :—

To my mind nothing is clearer than that whatever chances Americans had at one time of getting slowly but surely a paying foreign trade in manufactured products have been lost for the present:

(1) Through ignorance in not knowing and not learning the conditions existing in foreign countries.

(2) By trying to make a place for their products in crowded communities, whose peoples have great experience and ample capital, instead of in outside or neutral markets.

(3) By inability to seek or take the advice of those who knew or who had the chance to know.

(4) By inopportuneness of effort, and, as if these were not enough—

(5) By rushing blindly into combinations, many of which are purely speculative, and then proceeding to advertise all over the world their intention to take everything and leave nothing for anybody else. This thundering in index has not left much for the text to say or threaten, and little for the authors to do.

These, however, are mistakes that will be overcome in time. When the home demand declines, when prices and profits both in America and everywhere else have come down to their natural level, when half or three-fourths of the so-called trusts have gone to the wall like other speculative companies, and, finally, when the overweening desire for publicity and advertising has given way to a careful study of the conditions in the four quarters of the globe, then will American competition become profitable to itself without being of necessity hurtful or dangerous to the industries of other countries.

More Scandals.

[illegible] postal scandal, we are told by a [illegible] Washington correspondent, will pale into insignificance in comparison with the new Indian scandal, both in the amount of money and the importance of the officials involved, if the charges made by Special Agent Brosius of the Indian Rights Association are corroborated. Twenty million acres of land, millions of dollars in money, and the interests of some four hundred thousand Indians are said to be affected. The charges are, in brief, that some of the Government officials whose particular business it is to protect the Indians from land "sharks" have themselves formed land and oil companies, and used their official positions to despoil the red men of their land. As one paper puts it, "the watch-dogs have joined the wolves." Mr. Brosius names about half a dozen land companies in his charges, and names a United States internal revenue inspector, a United States district attorney, an Indian inspector, a clerk of a United States Court, an assistant district attorney, and the Chairman and another member of the Dawes Indian Commission as officers and promoters of these concerns. These land companies, it is charged, induce the Indians by the temptation of cash payment, or by delays at the office of the Dawes Commission, or by the exhausting and expensive delays of litigation, to part with valuable land for next to nothing—often, indeed, when the Indian has no right to sell his land, and the entire transaction is illegal. Complaints of these frauds, it now appears, have been coming in to the Departments of the Interior and the Department of Justice for a long time, but by the interesting workings of department machinery the charges have been turned over for investigation to the very men who were to be investigated, so that no great strenuousness has marked the prosecution of the charges hitherto. Now that the allegations have been made public, however, more activity is expected.—From the Literary Digest.

Time to Complain.

Has not the time come when the Canadian Government should take cognizance of the persistent habit into which London Magistrates and Police Court officials seem to have fallen of regarding Canada as a suitable dumping ground for criminals? The latest case of the kind came before the Westminster Police Magistrate on Monday last. A young man was charged with disorderly conduct, and it appeared from the evidence that the prisoner had been charged sixteen times at this one court with assault, begging, drunkenness and disorderliness. Yet arrangements had actually been made by the Police Court missionary through a philanthropic society to send this young scamp to Canada. Indeed, the prisoner's passage was booked, and every preparation completed, but happily, when Liverpool was reached, he refused to go on board ship, and was soon back in his old haunts. No thanks are due to the Westminster Magistrate or to the Police Court missionary if Canada has been spared the attentions of this confirmed criminal. He is now put out of harm's way for six months in one of his Majesty's prisons, but the opportunity will, we hope, be seized to tell British Magistrates and public officials quite plainly that this is not the sort of human material Canada desires, or, indeed, will receive.—Canadian Gazette, Oct. 1.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure the gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

name breathed over a little child. "Rosalie! Yes it was a girl, and she called it Rosalie. What became of the child? It did not die. Rosalie—Errol! Where is she now?"

No suspicion of the truth dawned into Marc's mind. He had seen Sir Felix too often in this excited state to attach any importance to his words, and, thinking to please him, he told him Rosalie's story as far as he knew it.

Sir Felix listened in silence, his head bent, his hands clenched on the arm of the chair.

"She has no relatives living then?" he said, when Marc had finished.

"Not to her knowledge. There are so many Errols; her name scarcely gives her any clue to work upon."

"Quite true, quite true," the baronet said. "It would not do for her to claim kinship with the first one she met of the name of Errol—not with me, for instance."

He was looking askance at Marc, an undefinable expression in his eyes.

The young man smiled.

"No," he replied; "I do not suppose anybody would dream of connecting your family with Rosalie's. It is a pity there were no letters by which the child's relatives could have been traced."

Sir Felix was silent for a long while—so long that he seemed to have fallen asleep.

With one of those sudden movements peculiar to him he lifted his head at last, and asked—

"Where is she? Still with the woman who adopted her?"

"Yes," Marc replied, not knowing Mrs. West was dead. "The woman was like a mother to her; more devoted than if the child had been her own daughter."

Sir Felix winced.

"And nobody wondered at the real mother's death?" he inquired, after a pause.

"No; she died of heart disease. You seem interested in the girl's story. Would you like to see her? She is an odd little creature, but far prettier than any picture has represented her."

"I—see her?" Sir Felix muttered, in a dazed sort of a way. "How?"

"Easily. The woman would bring her down if you wished; they would enjoy the change, and could spend a day or two at one of the farms."

"No!" Sir Felix exclaimed, a look of agony on his face. "She must not come. She would tell me about her dead mother, and ask for her father! What could I say to her? She would never let me forget, never—never!"

Once more he crouched back in his chair, trembling from head to foot, his face distorted with terror, great beads of perspiration starting out on his brow.

Marc remained silent, waiting for this paroxysm to pass. When, after a few moments, he would have replaced the picture in the portfolio, Sir Felix grasped it tighter.

"I want this sketch," he said, making an effort to regain composure; "I cannot give it up. Ask what price you like; at any cost it must be mine."

"I had not meant to part with the sketch," Marc replied, "but since you desire it, the picture is yours. There need be no price set upon it. I shall be happy for you to accept it as a gift. Do you prefer it in its present state, or shall I put a few finishing touches?"

"Leave it as it is," Sir Felix answered; then, in a husky whisper, he added: "Don't tell Gretchen; she would take it away from me; she mustn't know anything about it. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly," Marc said, seeing the pitiful distress on the baronet's face; "I will not mention the subject to Lady Errol."

Soon after this, Sir Felix desired to be left alone, and Marc went down stairs to the room where he had left Gretchen. She was not there, and, almost glad not to face her at this moment, he stepped out on to the balcony and lit a cigar.

* * * * *

Marc left Drayton Court that same night.

He had dined alone with Gretchen, and during the repast very few words had passed between them.

At times it had seemed to him Gretchen was scarcely concious of his presence; more than once he had addressed a remark to her without receiving any response, and when the time came for him to take his leave, he felt a weight of depression at his heart, and longed for power to avert the evil which would come of his ill-assorted match.

CHAPTER XV.

All his life Jim West had been successful in his undertakings, but never had achieved such a triumph as that which attended his latest venture.

"Mademoiselle Rosalie, the Wonderful Lion Tamer! Beauty in the Lion' Den! A Dream of Loveliness! Every Night! The Rose of the Ring!" This announcement was posted up in great letters all over London, and Jim's circus drew a larger audience than any show of the kind had ever before done.

In her part Rosalie was simply bewitching.

The life, too suited her.

The glittering pageant, in which she herself was the chief attraction, had a fascination for her; she revelled in the light and splendor of the scenes, and the admiration lavished upon her filled her with triumph.

She had overcome her first terror of the lions—she seemed to possess some power over the beasts, or, at least, she thought she did, and that consciousness gave her nerve and courage to go into their midst each night.

Polly, to use her own words, never breathed freely until the performance was over, and Rosalie was safe out of the gilded den.

She was not sure of the savage-looking beasts, whose every roar sent a chill through her, and she, herself, would have no more thought of approaching them, than of giving herself up to instant death.

"She'd do just as well without the lions," she said to Jim, one night, before the performance commenced. "It's the beauty that attracts, and her graceful movements, and her singing. I should send away those wild beasts, Jim—the risk is too great."

He shook his head.

"It's the lions that attracts first," he replied. "The show would not have half the dash without them, and everybody isn't troubled with your fears."

"I don't fear for myself, Jim; I take care to keep out of their way, so there's no danger for me; but I can't bear Rosalie, night after night, going, as I might say, into the very jaws of death! Who knows how it may end? Those lions might turn on her at any moment, and who could save her then?"

"She's always armed," Jim answered. "She's got plenty of pluck, and she wouldn't lose her presence of mind."

Polly shuddered, as she pictured all his words implied.

"It is not right,' she said. "It is horrible to think of the risk. I shall never have another happy moment till the lions are sent away."

"Nonsense, Polly; you must get this fad out of your head. If Mademoiselle Rosalie"—Jim always called her Mademoiselle Rosalie now—"parts with the lions, she would give up her greatest triumph. It is the danger, and her beauty, which fascinates the audience. I've seen some of the swells, in the boxes, half mad with suspence, and wiping perspiration from their foreheads, while she's been going through her performance, smiling and fearless."

Australian Military Forces.

The Melbourne correspondent of The Chronicle writes regarding the unification of the Australian military forces that what General Hutton has obtained the Government's assent to is practically this: The complete organization of (1) a mobile field force capable of being sent anywhere in Australia at short notice, and (2) a garrison force designed to defend the vulnerable spots in each State. Both these forces are composed of volunteers or militia acting under the instructions of some 1,500 professional soldiers who form the nucleus of artillery and garrisons required for fixed defences, the technical direction of forts and mines and a military tuition staff. The Australian field force will consist on a peace footing of [illegible] men and sixty guns, capable of expansion in time of war to [illegible] men and eighty-four guns. The garrison force will be composed of [illegible] men and twenty-six guns, exclusive of the rifle clubs, which now total over 30,000 men. Taking the two forces and the rifle clubs together it will be possible for Australia to put in the field or at her forts in time of war at least 68,000 trained men, made up, approximately, as follows:—

Field force	26,500
Garrison force	11,500
Rifle clubs	30,000
	68,000

With a physically fit manhood population of 700,000 to draw upon, the 68,000 trained men would become the backbone of an army of half a million men should invasion actually occur.

For the purposes of broad generalization the Federal army now stands divided into eighteen regiments of Australian Light Horse, thirteen batteries of Australian artillery, three field companies of Australian Engineers, and twelve regiments (three brigades) of Australian Infantry. Each arm is given an excess of officers in proportion to the peace establishment of privates. Peace cadres, with their full complement of trained officers and non-commissioned officers can therefore on mobilization in time of national emergency be expanded to war requirements without any danger of crisis through lack of efficient leaders.

A Physical Evil.

A recent number of Medical Talk has an article on the evil physical effects of "whining." Complaints, says the writer, are invariably made in a minor key. This monotony rasps the vocal chords, taxes nasal nerves and muscles that should not be brought into play at all in speaking, and tends to shallow, uneven breathing. The whiner, too, is almost without exception a more or less idle, lazy person. The habit of whining itself tends to sap initiative impulse and increase phlegmatic tendencies. Habitual whining, not healthy, vigorous fault-finding where fault really exists, but the [illegible] complaining of a narrow [illegible] indolent to make any effort to stop the causes of complaint, has a definite deleterious physical effect on the whole constitution. Add to this the fact that eternal fault-finding is more than likely to wear out the stanchest friendship and take the light from the levellest countenance, and the full effects of this insidious and prevalent habit will be better appreciated. "Get the whine out of your voice or it will stop the development and growth of your body. It will narrow and shrink your mind. It will drive away your friends; it will make you unpopular. Quit your whining, brace up; go to work; be something; stand for something; fill your place in the universe. Instead of whining around, exciting only pity and contempt, face about and make something of yourself. Reach up to the stature of a strong, ennobling manhood, to the beauty and strength of a superb womanhood. There is nothing the matter with you. Just quit your whining and go to work."

The Profit in Eggs.

Cornell University Bulletin No. 211 affords some valuable suggestions on hens and eggs. It mentions one White Leghorn flock which averaged for the year 116.9 eggs per hen; another 137.4, and the third 134.8; the average of all being 129.7. It will be seen that the average number of eggs produced per hen is much less than that often claimed. Records of 200 eggs and more per hen have been frequently published in the agricultural press and elsewhere. Inasmuch as these flocks represent the better class of poultrymen, the fowl were in all probability much better fed and cared for than average flocks, it would seem that all claimed records of more than 150 eggs per hen per year should be abundantly verified before being accepted.

The average food cost of the eggs produced ranged from 5.9 cents per dozen in April and May to 49.1 cents per dozen in December, and the average per year was 9.2 cents per dozen. The average selling price of the eggs varied from 16.8 cents per dozen in April to 31.25 cents per dozen in January, with an average of 21.4 cents for the whole year. There were 1,200 fowl in the three flocks, and it cost an average of just about a dollar a year per pen for their food. Under the prices at which food and eggs were figured, the food cost 44 per cent. of the value of the eggs produced, leaving 56 per cent. to provide for labor, interest on investment and equipment, depreciation in value of hens and profits.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations.

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 10.—Steel stocks made new low records today, also did Pennsylvania. The news was mixed, money firm, but advance in interest rates was ascribed to the shifting of loans. The bank statement Saturday indicated that a good many banks were under the line. The weakness in Pennsylvania brought out a great deal of talk. It was stated that there would be a mass meeting of the steel stock holders in the near future to protect their investments. On the close there was a weak feeling. Outside stocks were weak and lower.

New York, Nov. 10.—Interest today will converge on the Steel stocks, and the tendency of the railroad list to decline in sympathy with the steel shares is expected to become more pronounced. The dividend on U. S. Q. is offered at 1 1-4 and at the meeting to be held to-day it is expected that further reductions will be made in prices of finished material. Sentiment is very bearish on the steel stocks and last night predictions were made that the preferred would have a very large decline from the present level; money continues firm, and London is holding fast on to its gold, but gold imports are merely delayed thereby. We look for somewhat lower prices, especially for the iron and steel stocks, and for considerable selling of Pennsylvania, N. Y. C., Missouri Pacific, U. P., and Atchison.

The London early market was dull, and prices for all stocks were practically at parity with yesterday's closing here. U. S. Q. being one eighth higher.

New York, Nov. 10.—The buying of traction is of the best quality. On any dips take on Pennsylvania. Buy L. N. around par Average on sugar on dips.

Boxes For Apples.

In view of the scarcity and high price of apple barrels this season and of the fact that in some district farmers find it impossible to procure barrels at any price, the fruit division recommends the general use of boxes. These can be had knocked down at almost any sawmill for about eight cents each, and they should not cost more than ten cents each made up. As three boxes hold about as many apples as a barrel, they will be found much cheaper than barrels at fifty cents and upwards. The boxes should be well and strongly nailed, and should hold about forty pounds of fruit. The dimensions of the boxes used by the Grimsby shippers are nine by twelve by eighteen inches, while the British Columbia standard box is ten by eleven by eighteen inches, these being inside measurements in both cases. The boxes should be made of strong material, not less than five-eighths of an inch thick for the ends, and not less than three-eighths of an inch for the sides. The tops should have strips across the ends to prevent the weight of other packages piled on top from bearing directly on the fruit. It is also usual to leave open corners at the top and bottom for ventilation. Little or no packing material should be used, as purchasers like to find the package quite full of fruit. A sheet of cardboard at the top and bottom will materially reduce the amount of injury from bruises. But it should be remembered that even in this year of scarcity of barrels it will not do to ship anything but first-class fruit in boxes, as the reputation of the Canadian box and of the Canadian trade in general will greatly suffer if inferior or common fruit is exported in the box or any fancy package.—Agricultural Department, Ottawa.

Humor of the Hour.

"What is your idea of a popular tune?"

"A popular tune," said the man who takes music seriously, "is one that gets to be universally disliked."—Washington Star.

At an agricultural show a pompous member of Parliament, who arrived late, found himself on the outskirts of a huge crowd.

Being anxious to obtain a good view for himself and some women who accompanied him, and, presuming that he was well known to the spectators, he tapped a burly coal porter on the shoulder and peremptorily ordered:

"Make way there!"

"Garn! Who are ye pushin'?" was the unexpected response.

"Do you know who I am, sir?" cried the indignant M.P. "I'm a representative of the people!"

"Yah!" growled the porter; "but we're the people themselves!"—Chums.

Care of the Dairy Herd.

Much has been said and written about the care of the dairy herd, but the following, by a prominent dairyman, gives in concise form the important points to be looked after in maintaining a dairy herd:—

The bull is half the herd.

Raise the calves from your best cows.

Sell or fatten all your poor cows.

Keep your herds in a healthy condition.

Feed and milk regularly.

Feed only wholesome food and look carefully to the drinking water

Poor food and dirty water give tainted milk and impair the health of the cow.

Keep your calves growing.

Don't feed warm milk one day and cold the next.

If you want a good dairy cow for your calf, get a good long body with well-sprung ribs on your calf.

The coat of an animal is a good indication of its condition.

Try to have some of your cows "come in" in fall and winter.

Try to raise all the feed for your herd.

Make the most out of skimmilk.

New Apple Diseases.

Last season, 1902, was one prolific in apple troubles. Frost blister, spray injury, scab, pink rot and the ordinary rots all proved too well-known sources of loss to growers and buyers. In Bulletin 235 of the station at Geneva we are told that two other new, or unusual, rots developed late in the season. These are (1) a rot very similar to pink rot, and (2) a core rot of Baldwins.

The first rot differs from pink rot in showing no white or pink growth on the spots under ordinary conditions; in working quite deeply into the tissues, while pink rot is a shallow decay; and in giving little or no taste to the affected tissues, pink rot making the spots very bitter. Like pink rot, it can enter the fruit only through broken skin, so prevention of scab will prevent this rot.

For the core rot, no cause and no remedy have, as yet, been discovered.

Green Bone and Poultry Profits.

My experience with cut bone as a food for fowls extends over two years only with a flock of one hundred hens, writes W. F. Adams, in Farmer's Voice. Prior to that time I had not used cut bone, and my article is based on the percentage of gain in the growth, health and eggs of fowls over the two years previous, when I did not use cut bone; all other conditions for the four years being about the same.

I get a soup bone of the butcher, shave off the meat (a little meat won't hurt if you intend feeding as soon as cut) and I feed the same day it is cut.

Some people make the mistake of using bones that have been boiled or lain out and sun-bleached. Some of the most essential feeding value of the bone has thus been lost, especially as feed for growing chicks.

For growing chickens, after two weeks old, I mix the bone meal with corn chops, dampened with curd milk (water will do), so that each bird gets from half to one teaspoonful of the bone meal, according to age.

Extra large and quick growth bone in fowls means more meat, and more meat means seven to ten cents per pound.

For laying hens I feed mixed as above, only that each hen gets one tablespoonful twice or three times a week, according as I think they may need an extra allowance. They need more when they are laying regularly or moulting.

Taking every advantage gained by feeding bone—i.e., general health of flock, quick growth of broilers, increase in amount of eggs, etc., over the two years bone was fed, I figure it—and I keep close accounts—that the profit derived is fifteen per cent. over the profits of the two preceding years. This fifteen per cent. is attributed to the bone feed, and the other increase in profits was credited to the source from which they came.

Now don't feed any overdose at first, or at any time for that matter; feed regularly.

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non-assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO., Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong

FERROZONE

Will give you an Appetite and with Appetite and good digestion comes health and strength

Ferrozone will in one week give you a splendid apetite, and will so improve digestion and assimilation that full benefit will be derived from everything eaten.

There is nothing like Ferrozone to create a keen healthy relish for food for the brain, and a tonic for the nerves and brain. To those leading a sedentary life it is a perfect boon.

The reverend Dennis O'Brien, D.D., the well known Evangelist says of Ferrozone: "I have pleasure in saying that I have found Ferrozone a remarkably good preparation. It keeps up one's appetite, cures nervousness and sleeplessness, and perhaps the very best tonic I have used. Being in the form of chocolate coated tablet, it is both pleasant and convenient to take and is well worthy of my highest recommendations."

This is an example of the way people speak of Ferrozone who have used it, and should be convincing evidence of its unusual merit. It is warranted to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Lost Appetite, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Catarrh, and all other diseases arising from impairment of blood or nerve tone.

Refuse to accept a substitute for Ferrozone. Every druggist sells it 50c. per box, or three for $1.25. Prepared by N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., and Kingston, Ont.

No Strike Coming

The rumor that a strike of the locomotive engineers on the C.P.R. was probable is incorrect. General Manager McNicholl said that he anticipated reaching a satisfactory conclusion in the near future, and that in his opinion there was not the slightest possibility of any trouble.

A Worthy Example

The Harry Winch hunting party have decided to grant the sum of $25 annually to the struggling churches in the north country. This sum has been placed in the hands of Mrs. John Westlake, at Ketchecoma to be disposed off as designated. This is an example worthy of imitation.

An Interesting Meeting

Small Pox in Hastings

A case of smallpox is reported from Hungerford Township, in Hastings County. A case was reported last week in a neighboring township in Addington County, and the two are thought to have had a common origin. Hungerford Township is the scene of a historic outbreak of smallpox in 1884, which spread with great rapidity, until vaccination was adopted generally, when it was all stamped out in a short time. There were 200 cases during the outbreak and 65 deaths. Of the people vaccinated 31 took the disease, and only two died.

An Interesting Lecture

On Monday evening Rev. Dr. O'Brien gave a very interesting and instructive lecture before a large audience in the T.A.S. hall on a trip through northern Italy. The address proved a rare treat to those who were fortunate enough to be present. After the scenes of northern Italy, had been shown, Mr. Roy threw on the canvas several pictures taken in the north country with the deer hunters. A short programme was rendered at intervals. It consisted of a selection by the orchestra, a vocal solo by Miss Clancy, song by Jas. Brown, who was encored, and a vocal solo by Miss Young.

At present there are about 25 men in each camp, but this number will be increased to 60 in the near future. The limits are being stripped of everything save beech and maple.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Mother of Mr. Robert Fair Meets with Bad Accident

A very painful accident befel Mrs. Wm Fair, of Millbrook, on Monday afternoon. It appears that she was out driving with her daughter, and in alighting she slipped and fell fracturing her leg near the hip. Her injuries were attended to by Dr. Turner, and she is doing as well as can be expected. Mrs. Fair is 70 years of age and great anxiety is therefore felt for her by her relatives and many friends. Mrs. Fair is the mother of Mr. Robert Fair of town, who will also have much sympathy.

—The Times has been requested to state that in order that the members of the Mark street Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society may hear Miss McKinney on Wednesday afternoon, their meeting is postponed till Friday at three p.m.

DRIED UP

Coffee Was Drying Up Her Blood

"Coffee had the peculiar effect on me of thickening the blood and lessening it in quality, in other words drying it up" says a young lady of Shelton, Neb., "and so long as I used the drug, coffee, I had terrific headaches frequently accompanied by sour stomach and a very bad breath.

"My condition was serious and I knew something had to be done so I decided to quit coffee and drink Postum.

"A few days after I quit drinking coffee and shifted to Postum I felt much better and continued to improve on the Postum until I am now entirely free from headaches, and stomach troubles, and steadily gaining in flesh and health and feel happy and full of rich, pure blood.

"My parents were ailing as long as they were coffee drinkers. They were certainly great coffee fiends and claimed that they could not get coffee strong enough for them, and my father in particular was a regular slave to coffee, drinking many cups of it daily although he had terrific headaches about once a week, while my mother complained of her liver and took different "sure" remedies, but all to no avail.

"Then I persuaded them to quit coffee and drink Postum Food Coffee and the result was all that I had hoped for and both are now hearty eaters and are strong and well. I know of many other cases where leaving of coffee and drinking Postum has resulted in wonderful changes in health." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

EFFICIENT SERVICE

Of Lighting Installed in Peter Hamilton Company's Works.

Mr. Cryille Wilhelmy who recently opened the new electrical supply store in the Dolan Block, has just completed a contract of wiring the Peter Hamilton Co's Works.

The service consists of 140 incandescent lamps and was installed by first class wiremen. Much credit is due them for the competent manner in which the work is done. Each flat has its own fuse block and switch which makes it very safe and convenient, while the whole service is managed by a large triple switch near the main entrance.

Mr Wilhelmy may well feel proud of his work.

Buttermilk tank still in good order, notwithstanding the fact that it has been working overtime. Weather fine, but rather warm. Home Saturday. Keep this out of The Times."

A Romantic Story.

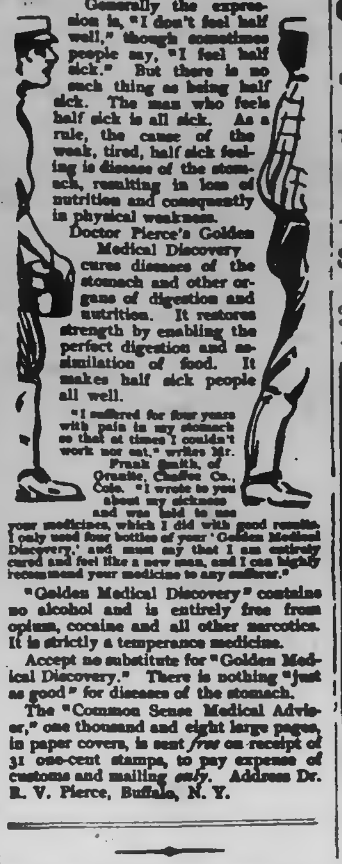
The romantic story of Rajah Brooke has been often told, says The London Chronicle, but what the Baroness Burdett-Coutts once did in saving the Brooke dynasty is of interest now that attention is being directed to Borneo. The first Rajah (Sir James Brooke, who died in 1868) was the subject of a violent attack in Parliament on account of alleged acts in the suppression of piracy and head-hunting. His character was eventually vindicated, but the knowledge of the attack made upon him seriously affected his prestige and position at Sarawak. This was the most trying and critical period of his life, when he saw the result of all his work in jeopardy. His money was all spent. He was in England, after the Parliamentary inquiry, and in his despondency only cried out for a steamer to enable him to go out again and restore order and authority by expelling the Chinese from his coasts. In this dark hour he met a friend, who saved his kingdom for him. That friend was the Baroness Burdett-Coutts (then Miss Burdett-Coutts). Brooke got his steamer and went off again with a light heart. From the same generous hand he afterwards received another steamer, and his authority and the stability of his little kingdom were saved by the Baroness' liberal support. The Imperial importance of a position like Sarawak, on the highway to Australia and the far east, was recognised by that large-minded lady as well as by Sir James Brooke

Sir James Brooke made a will, giving the sovereignty to his generous friend the Baroness. He was subsequently led to modify a disposition not, perhaps, exactly desirable in itself by bequeathing the State to his nephew (the present Rajah, Sir Charles Johnson Brooke, G.C.M.G.), and appointing the Baroness and another friend (since deceased) trustees to secure the sovereignty to the Queen, her heirs and successors, failing male heirs to his nephew. Recently the Baroness, it is understood, as the sole surviving trustee of the sovereignty under the Rajah's will, executed and handed over to the Foreign Office a formal deed, appointing as trustees for the purpose Earl Grey, Sir Spenser St. John (formerly Consul at Sarawak, and the friend and biographer of Sir James Brooke), and Mr. Burdett-Coutts, M.P.

Fruit-growers in eastern Canada will have to bestir themselves if they wish to hold their share of the trade with Manitoba and the Territories. British Columbia is a formidable competitor, and only the best quality of fruit put up in proper packages will be found salable in Winnipeg and other western cities and towns.

Cabbages make one of the best poultry supplies for early winter. The soft heads are useless for market, but make good hen food. Kale, rape, beet leaves are good, also beets. Sweet apples are suitable, but sour ones in too large quantities have a bad effect. Second-crop clover hay chopped and mixed with dough is the best winter substitute.

HALF SICK



Generally the expression is, "I don't feel half well," though sometimes people say, "I feel half sick." But there is no such thing as being half sick. The man who feels half sick is all sick. As a rule, the cause of the weak, tired, half sick feeling is disease of the stomach, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequently in physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It makes half sick people all well.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicines, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," one thousand and eight large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

St. Catharines Well.

In St. Catherines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. HAD NO DEALINGS WITH MR. W. H. CALLAGHAN

Mr. Crossin Refers to Later's Affidavit---The Latest Charge.

Following up Mr. Edward Crossin's atement some three weeks ago that he ade his famous affidavit against R. R. amey, M.P.P., at a time when he had get capital for his business, Mr. W. . Callaghan has come forward with an ffidavit charging that the capital as obtained after negotiation with Hon. R. Stratton and his counsel, Mr. E. F. Johnston, K.C. Mr. Callaghan is a ture decorator at 40 Winchester street. e expected, it is alleged, to profit by e negotiations, but failing to do so, e has made his present affidavit to et even,' he declares. Mr. Stratton d Mr. Johnston deny the allegation at they had anything to do with putg money into the Crossin business. e money, it appears, was paid in'o concern by Mr. Alex. Gibb, formerly oprietor of the St. Charles Saloon. The m he is alleged to have paid was $4,-; $3,000 for the purchase of Gamey's ock, $700 to meet current liabilities, and $46 new capital.

Mr. Crossin's Denial.

Mr. Edward Crossin, when interview- this morning by the press at his ctory on Adelaide street west, concern- the Callaghan affidavit, strongly de- d that he had any connection whatsoever with Callaghan in the manner eged in the affidavit. Mr. Crossin's guage regarding Callaghan could not published so long as the present libel remains in force.

"But how did you have any connec- with Mr. Callaghan?" quired the orter.

"I knew his brother who is in a no firm in Vancouver, B.C., many rs ago, and I knew Callaghan slight- The company made arrangements h him to sell a piano, which he did, we have not received the money the company."

Mr. Crossin said, further, that yesterday afternoon, shortly after five o'clock "a dirty-looking little urchin" had come into his place and told him that a Mr. Game wanted to see him. He (Mr. Crossin) thought it must be Mr. R. R. Gamey, and when he asked the boy if it was a Mr. Gamey, he replied that it was, and that Mr. Gamey wanted to see him that night at 10 o'clock at the Walker House. Mr. Crossin said that he told the boy that he could not see him, as he had another engagement. "Anyway," said Mr. Crossin, "if Mr. Gamey desired to speak to me he knew where to come to talk business; that was my office."

"I asked the boy where he was going," continued Mr. Crossin, "and he said that he had to meet the person who sent him on the corner of King and Yonge streets, and that he was to get a quarter for coming on the message."

As to Mr. Gibb.

"Is Mr. Gibb, who is said to have supplied you with the money with which to pay Mr. Gamey for his stock, a member of your company?" he was asked.

"Certainly, said Mr. Crossin; "Mr. Gibb is a member of the company." He declined, however, to speak of the manner in which the money had been received.

Mr. Crossin said in conclusion that he had met Mr. James A. Macdonald barrister, upon Yonge street, near King street, last Saturday, and that he believed Macdonald had tried to draw him out. He also called on him last Sunday at the Russell House for the same purpose, he thought, but Mr. Macdonald had not asked him any pointed questions.

Mr. Macdonald's Statement.

Barrister Macdonald, when seen, said it was from Mr. Crossin that he learned that Alex. Gibb had given him the money He—Mr. Macdonald—had met Mr. Crossin on Saturday, and Mr. Crossin had volunteered the information, otherwise "the man from Mexico" would have still been unknown. Mr. Crossin had said further that Gibb had told him that the sum given was "trust money."

Speaking of Callaghan, Mr. Macdonald said that he had known him for years, and that Mr. Callaghan had of his own free will and accord given him the information about his difficulties with Crossin Fritz and Joe. "Further," said Mr. Macdonald, "Crossin admitted to me that Callaghan was in the deal with him to reorganize the company."

Warrant Issued.

Mr Edward Crossin stated to a reporter this afternoon that he had sworn out a warrant for the arrest of W. J. Callaghan, on a charge of the theft of $150 the proceeds of a piano sale.

HARVEST A COMPLETE FAILURE.

The harvest was a complete failure large areas of the central and east- provinces. THE OTONABEE DAMS

Statement That Peterborough Has Been Misrepresented

A despatch to The Globe from Port Hope published on Monday, reporting a meeting in reference to the Trent Valley waters says,—"Mr. Culverwell stated Peterborough is doing all in her power to have the completion of the Trent Canal to Lake Ontario delayed."

On the contrary Peterborough is exerting all her influence to secure its completion. The object of the Board of Trade meeting here was misrepresented at Port Hope by Mr. Culverwell, who is promoting a power scheme in competition with Peterborough enterprise of a similar kind. The object was to provide for the adequate regulation of the flow of water from the lakes and streams tributary to the Trent waterway, in order that water might be conserved for both power and navigation purposes, the two being so intimately related that they cannot be separated. Thus any expenditure made upon the repair or erection of dams or other works will be of equal advantage, for there is abundant water for both if it were properly husbanded. At present the dams which create the reservoirs are defective, leaking badly and allowing water to go to waste. Hence the necessity of expenditure for the repair of these dams and the construction of others. By such expenditure, if sufficient, the waters will be effectually conserved and released as needed, and will provide abundant flow for navigation purposes and incidentally for power purposes. Peterborough is very anxious for the completion of the Trent waterway not only to Lake Ontario, but to Georgian Bay, because it will afford a shorter water outlet for the wheat of the northwest and promote the industrial and commercial development of the resources of a rich district along its whole route.

General Sports

Mr. W. A. Hewitt, sporting editor of The Toronto Daily Star, has been nominated for the secretaryship of the Ontario Hockey Association, made vacant by the retirement of Mr. W. A. Buchanan. The election will take place at the annual meeting of the association, to be held at Toronto on Saturday, December 5. Mr. Hewitt is well versed in hockey matters, and would, no doubt, prove a worthy successor to Mr. Buchanan. His candidature has the support of a large number of clubs throughout the Province.

GERMAN TROOPS ON MARCH

War in Southwest Africa will Not Require Reinforcements

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The German Colonial Office today was without any further news of the massacre by the Bondelzwart tribesmen at Warmbad, Damaraland, German South-West Africa. It regards the matter as not being serious. The government does not intend to send reenforcements to Africa. It is pointed out that the country between Windhoek and Warmbad is easy for marching, and there is plenty of water.

The Imperial governor of German South-West Africa reports as follows from Windhoek; "The largest part of the colonial troops are now on the march, including a mountain battery. The Witbois garrison, numbering 300 men, is also on the march. There is no news from the seat of war."

RUSSIA AND GERMANY

Report of a Russo-German Alliance Reiterated

London, Nov. 12.—Only today Europe learns on practically official authority of the agreement for German co-operation with Russia in the Far East an event of the first importance. The virtual alliance was not made at the official version has it at the meeting of the Czar and the Kaiser at Wiesbaden. It was agreed to during the summer and has been known in inner diplomatic circles since early in September. Japan has known it and her policy has been of necessity seriously affected by it. France became aware of its existence, and the knowledge had such a disturbing effect on her relations with her predominant partner that Count Lamsdorff's visit to Paris became necessary in order to soothe the susceptibilities which had obviously been outraged.

COLORADO COAL STRIKE

Ten Thousand Men Quit Work on Monday

Denver, Col., Nov. 12.—More than 10,000 coal miners in Colorado struck yesterday for an eight hour day, increased wages and other concessions as the result of an order from the United Mine Workers after the coal companies refused to confer with union representatives concerning the demands of the men.

One hundred mines have been closed down. A few independent properties have agreed to an eight hour day and increased wages, the principal demand, and will continue in operation, but in these works less than 1,000 men are employed.

Efforts are being made to continue operations under a strong guard. There are about fourteen coal mines in the State, with an output of 5,000,000 tons of coal a year and 1,000,000 tons coke.

The United Mine Workers will attempt, it is said, to depopulate the coal districts by sending idle men to other States. The storm centre will be about Trinidad in the Southern fields, where there are about 7,000 miners.

WILD RUMORS OF MASSACRE

Unconfirmed Report That Americans in Bogota are Slain

Colon, Nov. 12.—Wild rumors are in circulation here that the American and other foreign residents of Bogota are being massacred. The rumors are not confirmed, and are looked upon as altogether improbable.

Up to tonight no news has been received from Bocas del Toro. The United States cruiser Atlanta sailed for there last night. The steam launch, which was sent to Bocas del Toro Thursday night, to capture that place in the interest of the new republic, has not returned. It is reported that the United States gunboat Nashville has gone to Cartagena.

MEXICAN DESPATCHES ALARM WASHINGTON

Immense Influx of Chinese Into the Southern Republic

SURE TO CAUSE TROUBLE

May be a Pretext for Uncle Sam to Annex That Country Also

Washington, D.C. Nov. 12.—The news which comes from Mexico, to the effect that the Mexican Government contemplates the wholesale importation of Chinamen, is causing great concern here among the officials upon whom is the responsibility of the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act. One of them said to-day;

"We are having trouble enough with the Chinamen as it is now,. if Diaz goes into the wholesale importation of the Asiatics it means that the United States will have to establish a cordon along the Texas-Mexican border from Brownsville to the Gulf of California or the whole south-western country will be flooded with Chinamen who have no right here. On the Canadian border we can keep a pretty close watch on them because of the railroad situation but at that a great many of them slip through Conditions are different on the Texas border. It is not half a dozen principal points we will have to watch, but the entire border. I do not see what the United States can do in the premises. Mexico has a right to encourage Chinese immigration if she wants to and I am not sure but that she needs the coolie labor to develop her resources, but it certainly will be rough on the United States."

It is said that the Chinese smugglers are already perfecting plans to take advantage of the Mexican situation and to inaugurate a wholesale system of smuggling into Texas. The main depot in this country, it is said, will be New Orleans, and from there the Chinamen will be distributed throughout the country. The officials having in charge the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act are now planning to defeat this game.

New York, Nov. 12.—The Journal's Washington correspondent says the Chinese invasion of Mexico may lead to serious trouble with Mexico. The United States cannot permit Mexico to be used as a back door for the coolies to enter the country.

WILL SERVE TIME FIRST

Windsor Hotelkeepers will Balk Indians of Informant's Fees

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 12.—"Those Indians will never get a cent of my money, said one of the four Essex hotelkeepers who were fined $50 for selling liquor to Indians. "I'll go to gaol for a month first."

The law touching the sale of liquor to Indians entitles the Indian informants to half the fine inflicted on the hotel men. As the fines amounted to $262 in this case, it means that the three Indians get $100 between them, and the saloon men have agreed to serve time rather than pay the money.

THINK RUSSIA IS WEAKENING

Japan Encouraged Over Condition of Affairs in Far East

Yokohama, Nov. 12.—It is said in official circles at Tokio that the rumor that negotiations between the Russian and Japanese Governments had come to the verge of a final settlement is misleading, but that the Tokio Government is now awaiting Russia's reply, which is due at any moment, but which will only advance the question of the far eastern difficulty to another stage.

The reports of the resignation of Viceroy Alexieff, his change of headquarters from Port Arthur to Vladivostok and the dismantling of the fort at Yongampho are all believed to indicate a temporary weakening of the Russian war party, but those incidents will also further delay a final settlement.

The new tonnage dues promulgated by Viceroy Alexieff provide that non-Russians must pay twelve times the dues charged to Russian vessels.

A NOVEMBER WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Gertrude McCabe and Mr. Wm. Wheeler

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening at St. Luke's Church when Miss Gertrude Marie McCabe, daughter of the late Ernest McCabe, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Wheeler of town. The bride was handsomely attired in a pink gown and was assisted by Miss Alexandra Law, of town, while Mr. Harold McCabe supported the bridegroom. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. W. Watkins, of Toronto. The wedding march was splendidly rendered on the organ by Miss Bullen.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's mother, 29 Division street. Among the beautiful wedding presents was a silver chafing dish and spoon from Mrs. Wheeler's co-employes at the Cordage Company.

MONROE DOCTRINE KILLED WILL APPEAL TO GERMANY

Killed by the Action of the United States in Panama, Declares Senor Perez, of Colombia

New York, Nov. 11—"The interference by the United States in the trouble between Colombia and Panama puts an end to the Monroe Doctrine."

This declaration was made by Senor Raul Perez, a member of the Liberal party in Colombia, who fought against the Government in the recent rebellion, but who is now heartily in sympathy with the authorities at Bogota. Senor Perez is a nephew of a former President of Colombia, and was private secretary to General Uribe-Uribe. He says that all parties have buried their differences and stand united against the revolution in Panama.

Senor Perez is a man whose word is regarded highly in his country and is also well known in the United States. In the July number of The North American Review he wrote of "The Panama Canal Question from a Colombian Standpoint."

Will Appeal to Germany.

His interview was given in the office of Senor Arture de Brigard, the Colombian Consul-General, 17 State street. As he finished Senor de Brigard nodded his head in approval, and then volunteered the information that Colombia would send a delegation of statesmen to Germany and try to gain the support of Emperor William by offering him valuable tracts of territory on either side of the Isthmus.

Both men were deeply in earnest and freely expressed their disappointment at the action of President Roosevelt in so soon recognizing the new Republic.

"Give Colombia fifteen days," they said, "and we will put down the rebellion without a shot and without loss of a single life."

After asserting that the Monroe Doctrine would no longer stand, Senor Perez continued:

A Precedent for Europe.

"No more will the United States be able to direct European Powers to keep their hands off the South American continent. The Governments of Europe are watching with silent satisfaction the conduct of the United States in the Panama affair. There is nothing now to prevent Great Britain from stepping in and helping herself to the coveted territory at the mouth of Orinoco River. And Germany, after this, will not hesitate in following a similar course in regard to certain portions of Maracaibo (in Venezuela), and in South Brazil, on which she has her eyes.

"Should the "United States raise its voice these countries would then say: 'Why! We applauded you when you took Panama from Colombia. By that act you lost your right to tell us to keep your hands off!'"

"The Greatest Grabber of All."

"All of Europe has for years been waiting this opportunity. She already gets 95 per cent. of the trade of Colombia because the high tariff of the United States keeps it out of your ports. And the small 5 per cent. will now go abroad.

"Heretofore the South American countries have looked upon the European countries as the grabbers. But from now on we will regard as the greatest grabber of them all, the United States, which we have always called our sister Republic and protector until the rape of Panama."

What the Monroe Doctrine is.

In 1823, when the countries of South America gained their independence from Spain and Portugal, President Monroe, in his message to Congress, warned other European Governments to keep hands off in the following words:

"We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety.

It is still the policy of the United States to leave the parties to themselves in the hope that other powers will pursue the same course."

THE SEPARATIST VIEW GROWS IN CANADA.

Chronicle Discusses Publication of Sentiments Hostile to British Rule.

London, Nov. 11—The Daily Chronicle asks: "Is there a separatist party growing up in Canada?" The question is suggested by the frequency with which sentiments of "passive hostility" to British rule find expression, directly or covertly, in certain sections of the Canadian press, in the propaganda of some Canadian organizations, and in the utterances of some public men of the Dominion.

The Chronicle publishes a communication from the president of the Canadian National League, extolling the rebels of 1837, but the Chronicle does not believe the extreme opinion of the league would receive endorsement from any large number of Canadians.

ANNEXATION IS DEAD.

London, Nov. 11—Archdeacon Madden, who has just returned from Canada, says he found that politically the Dominion of Canada is strongly loyalist. Leading citizens, he found, realized that the British Government, as represented by Lord Alverstone would not sacrifice the interests of a British colony for the sake of gaining popularity with the United States. Few newspapers talked about independence; some spoke about annexation with the United States but the annexation cry is dead, and no sensible statesman thought independence within the sphere of practical politics.

The educational system of the Dominion impressed him with its thoroughness The complaint he heard on every side was that there was no religious teaching in the schools. One Minister of Education informed him that the Bible is not only practically unrecognized in the schools, but it was practically an unknown book in the houses of the present generation, regarding its religious aspect. Canadians, he believes, are most religious and earnestly, all British subjects.

The Presbyterian clergy were well paid and housed comfortably. The Methodist clergy came next, and the Church of England only third.

GREAT DEVELOPMENT.

London, Nov. 11—Hon. T. A. Brassey, speaking in the Rye division of Sussex said that anyone who visited Canada this year must have returned convinced of the great Canadian development which would take place in the near future if Mr. Chamberlain's policy was carried through.

THE BANKERS MUST PAY.

London Nov. 11—Truth complains that the Canadian Government, while granting a remission of the duty charged on made-up clothing imported from England by officers, charge the full duty on clothes imported by soldiers of the lower rank.

WANT BALED STRAW.

London, Nov. 11—Enquiries are being made for straw baled in a similar way to hay. One firm requires 1,000 tons. Large orders can be obtained in Birmingham, for oats, beans and barley for malting and grinding.

THE ISLAND WINS.

London, Nov. 11—The Judicial Privy Council today gave special leave to appeal in the case of the Attorney-General of Prince Edward Island against the Attorney-General of the Dominion of Canada.

BIRMINGHAM MEN ARE VERY MUCH EXCITED

The Police Are Preparing for a Riot at an Anti-Chamberlain Meeting

London, Nov. 11.—Birmingham is all in a ferment over to-night's promised attack by Lord Cecil and Mr. Winston Churchill upon Mr. Chamberlain's trade policy. Hundreds of sandwich-men are parading the streets, carrying such inscriptions as, "Shall he Radicals be allowed to oppose our Joe?" "Come in thousands!". The square in which the Town Hall stands will be barricaded, and a large cordon of police will be held in readiness to prevent a riot. Mr. Moore Bayley, who will preside, adds irritation to the case by his anti-Chamberlain views. The Duke of Devonshire has appealed for fair play in a city represented for so many years by John Bright.

The London Times, in commenting upon the prospects of the meeting, tonight, says the Free Food League has allowed itself to be captured by the Free Trade Union, and the meeting will be practically a Liberal demonstration against the Unionist Government.

The Times goes on to advise Mr. Chamberlain to take an early opportunity to develop his proposals on their Indian side.

Agricultural Failure.

The Home Secretary, speaking at an agriculture meeting at Dover last night, dwelt upon the deplorable condition of agriculture, and said that during the past twenty-five years the number of laborers employed in the land has decreased by 550,000.

The Belshill district miners, by unanimous vote, decided in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy.

Unique Prize Offer.

The Daily Express is offering $125 to the owner of the first parrot able to say distinctly, "Your food will cost you more" (one of the Express pet phrases in its attack on the free traders). Phonographs and gramophones may be used to teach the birds.

Foster's Question.

Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at Fleetwood, last night, said there was no doubt of the position of the colonies. "Will the British people," he asked, "put themselves in the position of returning the preference?"

This was greeted with cries of "Yes!" and laud applause.

At a meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute, held at the Hotel Metropole last night, Sir George Goldie, the chairman, declared that no recent movement was more far-reaching than Canada's plea to make her own treaties. The proposal meant that one-tenth of the white population of the Empire might commit the unconsulted nine-tenths to tremendous hazard and the costs of war.

GALWAY IS DISAPPOINTED.

Ottawa, Nov. 11—A despatch from London says that Galway has been chosen by the Canadian authorities as a port of call for the vessels to be employed in the proposed fast service between Great Britain and Canadian ports. Enquiry in an official quarter goes to show that the report is without foundation. There will be no fast service from Canada till the turbine vessels have been tested.

THEY WANT RECIPROCITY.

Chicago, Nov. 11—At the banquet of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association last night, John Charlton, M.P., of North Norfolk, Ont., made the principal address, dealing chiefly with relations between Canada and the United States.

After listening to Mr. Charlton's address, the association declared unanimously for reciprocity with Canada, and passed resolutions asking the Government to bring this about.

INSURE AGAINST FROST.

London, Nov. 11—A French company will shortly be started in London to insure against frost. Branches exist in Germany Austria, Italy, Spain, Holland and Belgium and the directors now intend to extend the business to Britain and her colonies. The company is only interested in the insurance of agricultural produce Canadian grain will be insured.

COLOMBIA IS POWERLESS

Uncle Sam will Not Let Her Interfere with Panama Republic

Colon, Nov. 12—A coasting vessel left yesterday for Porto Bello, carrying a few troops, who will hoist the flag of the new Republic of Panama there. A cablegram says that the steam launch which went to Bocas del Toro, to capture that place, in the name of the Republic of Panama, left yesterday for Colon. Local exchange is dropping Newport News, Va., Nov. 12.—Under rush orders to proceed to Colon, the United States battleship Maine left here yesterday afternoon. The big ship was coaled during last night.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12.—The United States cruiser Prairie left the League Island navy yard yesterday under sealed orders for Newport News, where she will coal. From there it is expected the cruiser will proceed to the Isthmus. The Prairie has on board a battalion of marines.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Embarking of Colombian troops from Buena Ventura or any other Colombian port for the Isthmus will not be permitted by the Washington Government, and American warships will be ordered to any port upon the receipt of an intimation that Colombian troops will attempt to sail for the Isthmus. The Washington Government holds that this policy is in the interests of the general good.

St. Catharines Well.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave, Room [illegible] Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

CHECKING THE TRAMPS

The brutal murders in the west—the shocking mutilation of little children by tramps of brutal instincts, and in the apparent concealment of their awful crimes—has suggested the advisability of registering all members of this leisure class. The Toronto News argues that the tramps should be compelled to hand in their names and addresses to the police department as the travellers are disposed to give their addresses as they present themselves at the hotels. Our contemporary goes further and says the tramps should be compelled to keep the police informed of their movements, or else be severely punished. "It cannot," says the News, "be much of a task for an idle man to notify the police when he proposes to leave one municipality for another, and then to announce his arrival to the police of the favored district to which he goes. Failure to attend to this could be regarded as prima facie evidence of an intention to do something clandestinely, and could be dealt with accordingly. Those who registered could, of course, always be kept track of by police co-operation, and a crime would be followed by an instant review of the tramps known to be in the neighborhood. Any there unregistered at such a time would find themselves in a particularly awkward position." As a matter of fact most of the tramps are registered, as lodgers in the police stations, and their pedegrees are pretty well known. It is their movements that require checking by a system of passport.

THE FLAG AGAIN

Minstrel men are usually pretty careful in their methods of amusing the public but the Billy West party showed a rather dense appreciation of current affairs in Vancouver the other night when "Old Glory" was revealed in fiery illuminations to "The Star-spangled Banner," sung by the company. It was like the proverbial "red rag to a bull" so soon after the Alaskan settlement, and the feelings excited thereanent, rightly or wrongly, on this side of the boundary. The act was received with hisses, it seemed to the audience so much like "rubbing in." The company were surprised and indignant, and talked of giving the money back at the door, but eventually calmed down and went on with the show. The incident suggests that, boundary questions being in issue or not, the flaunting of their national emblems by show people in another country is bad taste and not "good business." Both flags of equal size entwined leave little or no room for remark. The case is different when, while one party is smarting under a sense of injury, such a display as that reported from Vancouver is made by the dispute. Show people ought to haev business sense enough to avoid snags of the kind.

BALFOUR ON THE AWARD

Prime Minister Sees Great Reason to Rejoice at Conclusion Reached

British Judges Not Called Upon to Justify Decisions

London, Nov. 10—Premier Balfour, Lord Alverstone, and others referred to the decision of the majority of the Alaskan tribunal at the banquet given in the historic Guild Hall by the new Lord Mayor, Sir James Ritchie, last night. About 1,200 guests were present.

In his opening remarks Premier Balfour, referring to the Far Eastern situation, said there was every reason to feel sanguine that it would not have a serious outcome.

Mr. Balfour said that the Macedonian question raises issues more difficult and more complicated, but he was convinced that the question must be ultimately settled by the concert of Europe.

He spoke of the Franco-British treaty as one certain to promote international peace.

Must Loyally Accept.

Referring to the Alaska award, the Premier said: "The dangers arising from the uncertain and disputed frontiers in the case between the British Empire and the United States has been decided for all time.

"I regret that the decision has not been favorable to the claims of this country, but with the two small islands, the loss of which to Canada has aroused such great feeling, are really valueless from a strategic and military point of view. We regret the exact tenor of the decision, but, however, the balance of advantage went, the gain to the United States or the loss to Canada is nothing compared with the final removal of this subject of dispute between the two great countries.

"The decision must be loyally accepted, for the removal of so serious a controversy is an inestimable boon.

"I read only a few hours ago a telegraphic summary of Mr. Aylesworth's speech. I cannot pretend to judge a speech from a telegraphic summary, but I can guess that it was expressed in terms as eloquent as the sentiments dealt with seemed to me to be just."

ABSURD TO SULK.

London, November 10—The Standard, referring to Mr. Balfour's Guildhall speech, says, "It is absurd to sulk about the Alaskan award. No doubt in whatever respect the Canadian contention failed, it was due to the inability of their advocates to prove their case before the eminent jurist presiding over the tribunal. Lord Alverstone's speech is the only vindication of his judgment needed.

"Mr. Balfour has been assured by the military advisers of the Government that the small islands lost are not of real strategic value. Canadians for the moment seem to think they would fare better in such negotiations without the softening influence, experience, and authority which the Imperial Government can bring to bear on the Republic.

"Mr. Choate's conciliatory words may do something to assuage the mortification of the Dominion; and when they look at the peak to be named Mount Herbert they will think not unkindly of the statesmanship which closed the dispute."

NEURALGIA

THIS DISTRESSING COMPLAINT IS DUE TO IMPOVERISHED BLOOD

When the blood becomes thin and watery, as a matter of course, you become weak, vitality gets down low, and there is but little power in the system to ward off disease and pain.

Neuralgia hunts out a weak spot, and makes a home there, so secure that it is hard to drive it out, but by using the proper remedies it can be driven from the system, never to return. To obtain immeditate relief, first apply to the painful parts, a good quantity of Polson's Nerviline, and then bind on a hot flannel cloth.

This local treatment will be found very efficacious, but must be followed by a course of Ferrozone treatment. Ferrozone is a blood food, and a blood purifier, and quickly strengthens the system so that further attacks may never be feared. It makes the rich red kind of blood, that gives strength and vigor to weak constitutions and puts them in good shape to resist neuralgic attacks.

This combined treatment of Nerviline and Ferrozone in Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Rheumatism, is marvelously effective and cures after all else has failed. Because of the unique success of these remedies we have no hesitancy in endorsing their use to our readers. All druggists sell them.

Engaging Frankness.

Commenting upon the performance of the new United States battleship Missouri, which on her test before being taken over by the Government, developed 18½ knots an hour, and was forthwith heralded throughout the republic as "the naval wonder of the world," "a record-breaker," "the Queen of the Seas," "Pride of the Ocean," "the Incomparable Missouri," and "the Gem of the Navy," and other things besides, The New York Tribune dares to say editorially: "To obtain a correct idea of the merits of the Missouri, which has just had her speed trial, a few comparisons are necessary. When it is announced that she is the best battleship of her class in the world it needs to be remembered that there are a good many other classes, and that the one which the Missouri represents contains only three vessels. . . . . . Great Britain, too, has several classes of heavily-armored vessels, and none of them exactly corresponds in either size or armament to those of this country. During the last few months at least four battleships of an entirely new group have been launched. The Commonwealth was set afloat in May, the King Edward VII. in July, and the Dominion and the Hindustan each at later dates. These are monsters, displacing no less than 16,350 tons, and are expected to develop eighteen and a half knots. None of them having been tried as yet, it is not possible to say how nearly the expectations of their designers will be realized, but there is little reason for entertaining doubt on that point. Moreover, the British Government already has in commission much faster battleships than these. Vessels of the class to which the Russell, now, or recently, in the Mediterranean, belongs displace 14,-000 tons, and achieve no less than nineteen and a half knots! It is pleasant, when contemplating these figures, to think of the friendly relations which exist between this country and England."

Such engaging frankness, even in so generally fair a paper as The New York Tribune, is about enough to warrant the people of the United States in demanding that The Tribune immediately cease publication, on the ground that it is unpatriotic.

Our Apples in England.

Under the title "Apples from Canada" The London Grocer has the following appreciative note concerning the influence of the fruit marks act on the quality of Canadian appples exported to Great Britain.

"The great development in the Canadian apple trade is one of the features in the recent history of the empire's progress, and it is safe to prophesy that as the twentieth century grows older far vaster quantities of lucious fruit of many kinds will be drawn hither from the kindly slopes of southern Canada—a sunny region, where to our personal knowledge, 'Our Lady of the Snows' is a ludicrous misnomer. In the present issue we note an announcement by Mesrs. George Vipond & Co., of Montreal, an old established firm of packers, who start the season with 20,000 barrels of the finest shipping apples, Canadian Government Standard XXX. Many of our readers are aware that Professor Robertson and his energetic colleagues of the Canadian Department of Agriculture, and the heads of the Government itself, have been giving special attention to the apple trade as one of Canada's staples for export business. This is most satisfactory to distributors here, and the strict regard now paid to grading and selecting the fruit so far as to ensure honesty in the trade, and the proper transport by rail and steamer according to the most scientific methods cannot but have as a result the rapid development of a most satisfactory trade."

Ping-pong on the Decline.

The London Daily Express declares that ping-pong is on the decline, and even suburban champions are becoming weary of it. To take its place a new parlor game, called "hocker-ball," has been invented. Hocker-ball is distinctly a sociable game, inasmuch as it can be played by four, six or eight people seated comfortably around the family dining-table.

There are goals and goalkeepers at the end of the table, which is divided into courts marked out by tapes on a green cloth. The miniature hockey clubs, painted red and blue, are held between the thumb and forefinger, and the cork-and rubber ball is driven into the goals as in hockey.

Many other parlor games have been invented. As a variation of bridge, a game of cards entitled "varique" is now on the market. "Ascot" is a new racing game, which suggests the "petits chevaux" of the continental casinos. The new "automaton" cricket board is an indoor game so constructed that the various strokes in cricket are reproduced. "Snakes and ladders," an Oriental game, has become a popular drawing-room amusement. "Kalipha," or the game of the forty thieves, is listed as "the coming craze." The other new parlor games are "Hook-it," "Aunt Sally," "Tournament," "Devil on Two Sticks," "Pilfkins," "Flitterkins," "Wheeling" and "Enfield Skittles."

An Accomplished Resolution.

Half-starved and clad in rags, a boy of seven one day wandered about the lowest quarters of Glasgow. He saw that other urchins were in the same plight as himself, and he vowed in after life to brighten the lives of such children. That vow was fulfilled. The boy, says The London Daily Mail, was William Quarrier, the founder of the Scottish Orphan Homes, who died on Oct. 16. His career was a long record of noble unselfishness and broad-minded philanthropy. Thirty years ago he inaugurated a scheme of orphan homes, and since then nearly 11,000 destitute children have received free board and education and have been taught trades. Mr Quarrier also sent about 5,000 children to Canada, and was instrumental in erecting the first consumptive sanatorium in Scotland. Mr Quarrier's early struggles form a grim chapter in his life. He was born at Greenock in 1829, and at the age of five his father died leaving a widow to keep a family of three. William brought in a shilling a week by punching heads upon pins, and later was apprenticed to a shoemaker. At twelve he qualified as a "journeyman," and found employment with a Mrs. Hunter, of Glasgow. He was twenty-three when he started business on his own account, and at twenty seven he married the daughter of his late employer. Within a few years his business was thriving and extensive. Then he began to put into practice the philanthropic ambitions of his boyhood, and, aided by the donations of others, he eminently succeeded. Since 1872 he had in all the stewardship of over £447,000.

An apple shipper calls the attention of the fruit division, Ottawa, to the desirability of having apple barrels clean and in nice condition. Some farmers, he says, would as soon roll them through a mud puddle as not. This is one of the minor points which many people are inclined to overlook, but which are well worthy of attention. All our food products will prove more salable and fetch higher prices if put up in neat, clean, attractive packages.

Praised Lord Alverstone.

The result, United States Ambassador Choate said, was due more than anything else to the good sense, justice, courage, and devotion to duty of Lord Chief Justice Alverstone. The speaker paid a tribute to the magnanimity of the Canadians.

Lord Chief Alverstone declined to justify or explain his conduct because, "such a course would be a death blow to the confidence reposed in the British Bench."

YOUR MONEY WORKS WHILE YOU SLEEP

Our famous corps of track sharps are up at break of day, "clocking" the horses in their morning tryouts, and while you sleep they spot the winners that bring you steady income.—Our method puts you on a level with the most successful plungers of the American turf.—We operate for you for 25 per cent. of weekly earnings.—We win only when you win.—Results obtained really "beyond dreams of avarice."

Again we scored heavily for all of our clients last month. Again we landed the money and landed it in chunks. Three years of organization, with the best facilities that money and brains can procure to make our service of picking and backing winners at the horse races the most accurate and profitable in the land, has had its natural sequence, and each week our showing demonstrates a good profit for every client.

How $50 netted $201.75 in less than a month.

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co. representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible form, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. Money should be sent by bank draft, express money order, or currency in registered letter. Uncertified checks are not accepted.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"I don't like it," Polly said. "If it was anybody but Rosalie, I wouldn't mind so much. I'm sure harm will come of it. I wish the idea had never come into your head!"

"Think of the money it brings in," Jim remarked. "It's a fortune to Mademoiselle Rosalie. She'll be as rich as any heiress in England before long—to say nothing of our profits. It's worth her while to go on as she's begun and if she's not afraid of the lions, why should you be?"

"She's too young, and too venturesome, to feel the danger. Nobody knows what I suffer while she's going through her part. We can't tell from one moment to another that she won't be torn to pieces by those wild beasts It would be better for us to be poor, and for her to share our poverty, than to gain wealth at such a hazzard."

Jim got impatient.

He was fond of his wife, and scarcely ever thwarted her in anything, but he did not like this view she was taking of Rosalie's performance, and was afraid of the effect such fears would produce upon the girl.

"Remember one thing," he said, his voice almost stern. "If you say aught like this to mademoiselle before she goes into the ring to-night, her life wont be worth a straw. Her fearlessness gives her courage, and strength of will, to keep those beasts in subjection Let her hesitate and draw back—let her utter a cry of terror, and she will be lost!"

Polly burried her face in her hands and burst into tears.

"I wouldn't have done it with a child of my own," she said; "and it's not right we should have led her to it. If anything happens to her, God will punish us for our wickedness."

"There's no harm done yet, and none likely to be," he returned. "She's got plenty of will, and plenty of nerve, and as long as she's not afraid, nobody else need be."

Jim went off to see that everything was ready for the night's performance, and before Polly had dried her tears, the door of Rosalie's dressing-room was thrown open, and the girl bounded out—a glorious vision, with a glittering crown on her head, and a cloud of silken gossamer floating about her.

"I have had to dress all by myself to-night," she said, tossing her golden curls over her shoulders. "What have you and Mr. West been talking about all this time? I heard your voices, and wondered if anything had gone wrong. Why, you have been crying!" she exclaimed, going nearer to the woman, and putting her soft white arms round her neck. "Is anything the matter?"

Polly drew the girl to her, and kissed her passionately.

"No; nothing, my darling," she answered, remembering Jim's warning. "I felt a bit lowspirited—I think it's the weather, and the sprain I gave my ankle the other day."

"But we don't notice the bad weather here," Rosalie said, breaking into a laugh—such a mery laugh it was, echoing along the corridors of the great building, "and as for your ankle—why, you told me it was well. Come, you mustn't be low-spirited any more. I want you to go among the audience and see me perform to-night. You have missed it every time, and I should like you to hear what people say about me."

"No, no," Polly answered, quickly; "I'll wait for you here. I know just what people say, and how you look when you've got all that limelight on you. I've seen enough of the circus in my time, and I like best to be away from it."

"But there are the lions. Don't you want to see me perform with them? You haven't always had them in the circus. Hark! Do you hear the noise they are making? I believe they know it is nearly time for their performance, and they are impatient for me to go to them."

Rosalie went into the green-room, wondering at the emotion Polly had displayed.

She knew Jim to be too good-natured to suspect him of scolding his wife; but she had an idea something untoward must have happened, and sincerely hoped they would soon come to an understanding.

Glancing up suddenly, she caught sight of Polly's white face.

"I believe you are afraid of the lions!" Rosalie exclaimed, with an amused smile. "As if they could hurt you all that way off! I do not know what you would do if you had to go in with them as I do. When I call them, and they obey me, I have a horrible suspicion that they are coming to eat me up. Of course I always wrong them, but one never knows what they mean when they come forward with their great mouths opened wide."

A sick feeling came over Polly, and she felt a cold moisture on her brow.

"Don't tell me any more she murmured. "God protects the innocent and helpless; may He protect you this night and ever more!"

She kissed the girl, then pushed her gently from her, and hurried away.

She did not dare trust herself to hear more. Jim's words rang in her ears, and she was terrified lest she should rob Rosalie of the courage upon which her life depended.

She was sitting in the green-room thinking about Polly, when Jim entered, accompanied by a stranger.

"This gentleman wishes to speak to you, Mademoiselle Rosalie," he said, bringing the stranger forward. "can you spare him a few moments?"

"I have not to go on just yet," she replied, wondering why he had put the question. "I have a few minutes to spare."

It did not surprise her that a stranger should have sought an interview.

It was a frequent occurrence for gentlemen to gather round her after the performance, and for one to have stolen a march on the others, and seized an opportunity before it, seemed only natural.

She looked up at him with a smile. He did not carry the usual offering of flowers, and she noticed, too, that he was not in evening dress.

"I believe I have the honor of addressing Miss Errol?" he said.

Rosalie inclined her head, marvelling why he should call her by any name other than the one by which she was professionally known.

"I am Mademoiselle Rosalie here," she answered. "I do not know why you should call me by another name."

"I hope I have not offended you," he said, gravely. "I was only anxious to decide whether or no you were the Rosalie Errol adopted by Mrs. West, of Licae Villa?"

"Yes, I am the same," Rosalie replied, becoming more and more perplexed. "Why did you want to make that discovery?"

"For several reasons, mademoiselle."

"Will you tell me one?"

"I was interested in your history, so much as I had heard of it, and I wanted to gather more from your own lips."

"My history?"

"Pardon me, mademoiselle, I heard of the circumstances under which the late Mrs. West adopted you, and I am anxious to know if any effort has been made to trace your relatives?"

"Not since I was a child. I have no prospect of ever tracing my family—if I have one to trace."

"Why do you say 'if'?"

"Because I think that, if I had any near relatives alive, my whereabouts would have been discovered long ago, and I should not have been allowed to grow up amongst strangers."

Overcoming the Obstacle.

"Yes," said the young man who was taking the young woman for an auto ride, "the auto has its advantages; but still there is a great difference between it and the good old horse."

"Oh, yes; I suppose there is," answered the young woman.

"For instance," went on the young man, "with the horse, when one was driving with the pretty girl, he could hold the lines in one hand, or wrap them about the whip, and—and—and hug the girl."

"Oh-h-h! you awful thing!" exclaimed the blushing young woman.

They sped along in silence for several miles. At last the timid young thing said:

"But I should think that difficulty could be easily overcome."

"What difficulty?" asked the young man.

"Why, that—what you said about the times when the men took the girls driving behind a horse, and—and when they wrapped the lines about the whip, and when they—they—oh, when they did what you say they did."

"I don't see how it could be overcome," said the youth. "If you stop the auto it's liable to start up of itself and upset you in the ditch, and a fellow simply has to keep both hands busy while it is in motion."

"I know," faltered the girl; "but—but it seems to me there would be a way."

"I'd like to know what it is."

"Well, couldn't the girl—couldn't she hug—hug the man?"

In England two-and-sixpence is equivalent to half a crown.

There will be seven days in next week. Roughly speaking there are twenty-four hours to every day. Statistics show that three hundred and sixty-five of these days go to make up a year.

In North street, Kentish Town, there are only five lamp-posts and five lamps. This is not unlike a street in Bishop Auckland, where there are six lamp-posts and six lamps.

In connection with the Stockbrokers' walk to Brighton it may be noted that there are 1,760 yards in a mile. A mile is one of our accepted standards of measurement.

Decimal coinage is accepted in France. The English value of a franc is slightly under tenpence. Our own shilling is, of course, worth rather over two-pence more.

Their Great Sorrow.

"I am so worried about baby," says the fond young mother to the proud young father. "What's the matter? He isn't sick, is he?" asked the husband, with some natural alarm showing itself on his countenance. "No, but he is beginning to talk, and——" "And what? Does he have an impediment in his speech?" "No. Worse than that. He says things that don't sound any more sensible than the choruses to the popular songs!" That night, with strained, tearless eyes, a man and woman sat by a little crib, wondering why this great sorrow should come upon them.—Chicago "Tribune."

Effect of Wind Upon Trains.

The American correspondent of Page's Magazine calls attention to a series of experiments which have been made by the Pacific Electric Railway Company of Los Angeles, California, on the effectiveness of wind brakes in increasing the efficiency of its long-distance inter-urban cars. The tests were made on the Long Beach division of the system, extending from Los Angeles to the ocean, where a stiff wind is encountered, and were attended with results of a most remarkable character. Among the different shaped windbreaks that were tried was one which resembled the cow-catcher of a locomotive, its base being on a level with the floor of the car, and the knife-edged backbone extending upward at an angle of 45 degrees to the top of the car, while the sides rounded off in a convex curve till they coincided with the sides of the car. Eventually the forward part of the structure will be constructed of glass, so that the motorman may sit within the shelter of this hood and control the car without being disturbed. It was found that with this shield it required but 200 h. p. to make a speed of sixty miles per hour, whereas without it 220 h. p. was necessary—a saving of about 24 per cent. in power. Also at a speed of fifty miles per hour the result in favor of the hood was 137 as against 179 h.p. Mr. R. S. Masson, the consulting engineer of the company, under whose directions the tests were made, declares that in the face of these highly satisfactory results there can be no doubt that the windbreak will soon be adopted on all long-distance cars.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

THE JOY OF A GOOD CONSCIENCE.

Rev. A. P. Doyle, of the Paulist Fathers, New York City.

Tribulation and anguish upon the soul of every man that worketh evil. —Romans, ii.

A good conscience that is at peace with God surpasseth every joy. It comes to a man when he has loyally and faithfully kept the whole law in his heart and has stoutly resisted even unto blood the allurements of evil.

There are many incentives in this life of ours impelling one to wander away from the paths of rectitude. It is far easier to indulge one's self amid the soft cushions of a pleasure-loving life than to struggle with a soldier spirit to abide by the discipline of the law. It is much more agreeable to float with the tide of easy-going friendships, to yield to every inordinate desire of physical and social voluptuousness, than it is to stem the currents by stern resolve and harsh self-denial.

One way, however, leads to moral destruction; the other leads to the pastures of a peaceful conscience, where prosperity and plenty abound. John the Baptist in his prison is happy; Herod on his throne is miserable. How good it is to serve God! What pleasure and tranquility there are in loving Him! He is benign and merciful to those whose hearts are right before Him. He is terrible to those who offend and deny Him. A good conscience is calm and at rest; a bad conscience is turbulent and agitated. Peace and repose reign in a soul which belongs to God; trouble and inquietude distract the soul of the wicked.

An hour ago I said Mass at the House of Calvary and about me were a score of women in all stages of incurable cancer. I could hear above the lispings of prayer the suppressed moans of pain. The cold finger of death had touched the physical frame of each, but the warm fire of a divine love glowed in their hearts of devotion. The excruciating agony of decaying tissue wrenched from them an involuntary groan, but the pleasure and peace of a good conscience wreathed their wan faces into lines of joy. The certainty of impending death and the severing of all ties that bound them to home and lifelong friendships were little less than a daily martyrdom, but over it all was the glow of a westering sun, that touched the landscape of their lives with infinite beauty and brought their hearts into sympathy with the joys of a life beyond the grave.

The conscience of the just man is a type of heaven because he is at peace with God and God dwells in his heart; that of a sinner is a type of hell because it can find no rest and is governed by the spirit of evil. Good men fear nothing; the wicked fear everything. The just are good in themselves because their lives are governed by the inspirations of God; the secret motives and the hidden life of the sinner are corrupt and constantly at war with God. The just enter readily into themselves because all therein is peace and consolation; the wicked dare not enter into themselves because, like the seething of the witches' caldron, their hearts are a turbulent mass of vicious desires and unrestrained baseness. "Know thou and see that it is a fearful and bitter thing for thee to have left the Lord thy God." "What hast thou to do in the land of Egypt but to drink the troubled waters?" The just live well amid the pains and anguish of life and die with joy; the wicked live amid pleasures and enjoyments and die in bitter pain and anguish.

A life in conformity with the commandments of God is even from a temporal point of view the more desirable. It writes its history in the beaming face; it shows itself in the sprightly step of those who are glad of heart; it touches with a dash of sunshine the thoughts, and it lights up with a heavenly glow the desires of a soul that experiences the friendship of God. "A good conscience is a continual feast." —Proverbs, xv.

The joy of a good conscience being so precious, it is to be sought at any cost, it must be secured at all hazards. The first step is through repentance. "But Thou hast mercy upon all because Thou canst do all things, and overlookest the sins of men for the sake of repentance."—Wisdom, xi. The baptism of water washes away from the souls of children the stain of original sin; the baptism of blood washes away every stain from the souls of the martyrs; the baptism of the heart cleanses the souls of all penitents. It is impossible for any one to be saved unless he does penance, and the measure of repentance must be according to the extent of the guilt. "And now, therefore, saith the Lord, be converted to me with all your heart in fasting, and in weeping, and in mourning; and rend your hearts and not your garments, and turn to the Lord your God, for He is gracious and merciful, patient and rich in mercy and ready to forgive."—Joel, ii.

But while repentance is the key that opens the door to the joys of a good conscience a settled purpose to keep the commandments is the means to maintain one in their possession. When Jesus Christ enters into a man's heart to become its master He brings with Him a foretaste of the pleasures of paradise. "I have found Him whom my soul loveth and I will not let Him go." The essence of a good conscience is to possess God, and there is no sweeter joy on earth than this, nor is there any higher bliss in heaven.

A Groom's Voluntary.

Sir Frederick Bridge, the English musician, is a good story teller, according to T.A.T., and has a fund of amusing personal experiences to draw upon. One of the great musician's best stories is about a provincial church organist, who was once a pupil of his. This young man was appointed to an important church in the Midlands. In course of time he married. During his absence his voluntaries were much missed by the congregation. They had always been appreciated, and their renewal was looked forward to. "Imagine," says Sir Frederick Bridge, "the intense amusement of the people when the newly-married organist gave as his first voluntary, upon his return, Handel's 'Waft Her, Angels, to the Skies.'"

To Build Cruisers.

As a result of the recent naval manoeuvres the British authorities are considering the advisability of building some "dogging" cruisers, to pursue battleship fleets of the enemy and pounce on those which are forced to fall behind. The Bacchante and the Aboukir "dogged" Lord Charles Beresford's fleet in this way almost to the Azores. The flagship Majestic had something the matter with her engines. She was frequently compelled to slow down. Then the big, heavily armed cruisers of the pursuing fleet would swoop down on her. It was necessary to slow down the entire squadron several times for her protection.

"Another point of much interest is that of speed in battleships," writes a British naval authority. "Those who have been engaged in the manoeuvres would have done much better with a few knots more in hand. There are experienced flag officers who say that high speed in battleships is not essential. Yet if gun powder and protection go before it, speed is, in nine cases out of ten, the only thing that can enable a strong fleet to bring a weak one to action. It is the factor that enforces victory and will enable the British fleet to carry on its old policy of seeking out the enemy to destroy him wherever he may be found."

The Wrong Man.

They had been married only a few months, and the wife stood by the side of her husband looking into one of the department store windows. A handsome tailor-made dress took her fancy, and she left her husband to examine it more closely. Then she went back to him, still talking.

"You never look at anything I want to look at any more," she complained. "You don't care how I dress. You don't care for me any more. Why, you haven't kissed me for two weeks."

"Indeed, I am sorry, but it is not my fault," said the man.

Turning, the lady looked at him and gasped. She had taken the arm of the wrong man.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Baloon Trip.

There is nothing exciting about a balloon voyage. You take your place in a shallow wicker basket; decide to take a picture of the crowd as you leave the earth; hear the order "let go," and before you can press the button the crowd has evaporated—sunk out of sight—and the rest is a moving picture show, with no sense of motion, the air delightfully cool and absolute silence. Presently a voice, apparently from another balloon a long way off, asks how you like the journey. You have exactly the same trouble with your hearing you had while in the caisson, but from an opposite cause—there pressure, here rarefaction. In this case, too, the act of swallowing brings relief. A balloon trip is for all the world like sitting in a dentist's chair and taking a whiff of gas, followed by a pleasant dream. But, of course, instead of taking gas, gas is taking you. Photography under these conditions is a very simple matter—pointing the lens over the edge of the basket, waiting until the desired object comes into view, and the snapshot is taken.—W. N. Jennings, in Booklovers' Magazine.

A Quiet Village.

It seems hardly credible, says The London Telegraph, that not more than thirty minutes from all the noise and bustle of Paris there lies a village that is so quiet, so peaceful and so old-fashioned that one would imagine one's self at least one hundred miles away from the gay capital. Here at this village, La Frette by name, and about fifteen minutes' walk from Cormeilles, preparations for midday and evening repasts have to be made very early in the morning, for no such thing as a good shop is anywhere near, and the walk to Cormeilles is one which one considers twice before taking, for it is up steep and rough roads. So daily butcher, baker and greengrocer pass this quaint little place, and the villagers gather round the various tradesmen and make their purchases for the day. They also buy their clothes in this way, and may often be seen trying on bonnets, dresses and boots in the middle of the street. From a scenic point of view, all artists have agreed that there is no place to equal La Frette between Paris and Havre. To the left of the village is the park of Maisons Laffitte, and facing the park is Sartrouville, while opposite lies the forest of St. Germain, in all its green splendor. To the right is Herblay, quite an important place, whose church is visible for miles along the Seine. La Frette itself has the quaintest villagers possible. Many of them speak worse French than those of the Midi, and it is an event indeed when one takes a journey up to the capital. They are thriftiest of the thrifty. Only a short time ago one of the peasants gave his daughter no less a sum than 350,000 francs on her wedding day, and another is to receive the same amount on her approaching marriage. And yet this man, who must be worth 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 francs at least, lives in a patched-up old house and digs in the fields from early morning till late at night.

Be Regular in Milking.

The cow is a creature of habit, and therefore the time and manner of milking should vary as little as possible from day to day. The yield of milk will sometimes vary by reason of matters of such small moment that we fail to reckon them. From our results a change in milkers showed a small average loss in yield. Some cows were not affected at all, while others gave a slightly reduced yield. This will depend, however, upon the ability of the milker. Carlyle found no appreciable difference in the frequent changing of milkers. Tracy found by a good milker following a careless one an increase with five cows of 244 pounds of milk in two weeks.

Cows fed at milking time are apt to hold their milk when the customary feed is withheld. This may occur even when the animals have access to abundant pasture. This is so noticeable with some of the station cows that it is advisable to give them a little grain through the summer season to induce them to give down their milk. Emery notes that a cow that gave over seven pounds of milk gave only two pounds when her customary feed was withheld at milking time.

Allowing cows to miss a milking has a tendency to dry them up, and is liable to cause an injury to the udder, some cows being affected much more than others in this respect.—(Bulletin No. 106, Kentucky Agricultural College.)

Some Clever Epigrams.

One of the epigrams mentioned by Professor Brander Matthews, in an article on "American Epigrams," in Harper's for November, is the following by Walter Learned:—

"You say, when I kissed you, you are sure I must quite
Have forgotten myself. So I did; you are right.
No, I'm not such an egotist, dear, it is true,
As to think of myself when I'm looking at you."

Many examples are also given of epigrams by Holmes, Lowell, Aldrich, and other of our poets, among them this, adapted by Fitz-Greene Halleck from Goethe:

"All honor to woman, the sweetheart, the wife,
The delight of our homesteads by night and by day,
The darling who never does harm in her life—
Except when determined to have her own way."

"Ragtime" Hear to Stay.

Recently The New York Sun published an interview with John Philip Sousa in Chicago, in which he asserted that ragtime will last as long as the great operas. "Ragtime," says the famous bandmaster, "is an established feature of American music; it will never die, any more than "Faust" and the great operas will die. Of course, I don't mean to compare them musically, but ragtime has become as firmly established as the others, and can no longer be classed as a craze in music. Nearly everybody likes ragtime. King Edward VII. liked it so well that he asked us to play more of it, and we gave him 'Smoky Mokes' and 'Georgia Camp Meeting.' Emperor William and the Czar were also converted to ragtime. It is just as popular everywhere as ever it was, and I see no reason why it should not remain in favor so long as music is played."

The New York Times, commenting on this latter assertion, remarks:—"Well, why not? One of the most important functions of music is to give pleasure, and if ragtime pleases, why should it not last and give pleasure to future generations? Those who prefer what the east side critic of the park concerts characterized as 'misery music' can usually get it, and doubtless will continue to prefer it to the more popular varieties of song and dance music."

Incomes and Expenditures.

Statistics of the income and expenditures of the British people were presented recently by Sir Robert Giffen before the members of the British Association. The total income of the British Empire reaches the enormous sum of £3,130,000,000, from a capital of £22,250,000,000. For the United Kingdom the income is £1,750,000,000, from a capital of £15,000,000,000. The only nation that rivals the empire is the United States, with an income of £3,000,000,000. The leading figures as to expenditure in the United Kingdom are as follows:—Food and drink, £400,000,000, or 24 per cent. of the total; dress, £187,000,000, or 13 per cent.; house, £220,000,000, or 16 per cent.; national services (exclusive of education), £180,000,000, or 12 per cent.; miscellaneous (including £30,000,000 for education, £25,000,000 for church, £30,000,000 for locomotion, etc.), £120,000,000, or 9 per cent., and cost of distribution, £200,000,000, or 15 per cent.

Lord Dalmeny Selected.

The Executive Committee of the Midlothian Liberal Association on September 30 selected Lord Dalmeny, elder son of Lord Rosebery, as Liberal candidate for the county, the Master of Elibank, the present member, having intimated that he will retire at the end of the present Parliament. Lord Dalmeny addressed the committee, giving an outline of his political views. He declared himself to be a Gladstone free trader, not a Chamberlain free trader.

He was unalterably opposed to a food tax; was in favor of licensing reform on the broad lines of Lord Peel's minority report; was in favor of a miners' eight hours bill, and thought it should be one of the first duties of a Liberal Government to reverse the injustice inflicted on English Nonconformists by the two education acts.

Trying His Nerve.

Joseph Wootton, who was charged at the Southwestern Police Court, London, recently, with stealing fowls, which were found inside his clothing, put forward a decidedly novel defence. He stole the fowls, he explained, in order to try his nerves. He wanted to see if he could pass a policeman with the fowls about him without trembling from fear.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., (106 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 11.—Condition affecting stock market today continued rather mixed. The foreign advices indicated that foreigners were working against further gold shipments to this country. The railroad news was without new features. Industria stocks were rather nervous. Commission house business was somewhat more active, and outsiders bought stocks on a fair scale. The late trade was slow. A few important interests were inclined to hold off for fresh advices. The outside stocks were quiet and steady, while the bond market was quiet.

DOES NOT MEAN WHAT HE SAYS

Correspondent Calms Fears Regarding Sir Wilfrid's Request

London, Nov. 11—S. W. Royse, a Manchester delegate to the Chambers of Commerce Congress at Montreal has received a letter from a correspondent in Canada dealing with Canadian opinions on the Alaskan boundary award. The letter, which fills two and a half columns of The Courier, says that many Canadians regret that the Canadian representatives did not sign, for as the case was going against Canada it would have been a good thing for the cause of Anglo-American unity had the pronouncement been unanimous. Referring to the African war, the letter says, "A great wave of Imperialism swept over Canada. Had the iron been struck then Canada would have entered a scheme of Imperial defence. Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's demand for treaty-making powers, the writer says: "Sir Wilfrid is much given to oratorical flights, of which he does not pause to consider the meaning, so his remarks need not have been taken seriously, in fact, they may be dismissed in much the same way as those of Hughes and Gourley.

Referring to Lord Alverstone not replying to the charge of Sir Louis Jette and Mr. Aylesworth, the letter says "Probably wisdom lies in silence. The French-Canadians are not bothered with dreams of federation of the British Empire. They will do whatever they can to prevent its realization, for Chamberlain is not popular with them."

The Liverpool Post says that Premier Balfour scarcely appreciates the keenness of disappointment and dissatisfaction produced in Canada by the terms of the award. Mr. Balfour's remark that two islands lost of no strategical importance are nothing in comparison with the final removal of a dispute between two great countries will be seized upon by Canadians as an example of the easy, almost flippant way, in which the Mother Country surrenders colonial territory, in the hope of securing the goodwill of the United States. If the demand for more treaty-making power is seriously pressed it will be the most momentous and difficult colonial constitutional problem with which the British Government has been confronted since self-government was conferred upon Canada.

Color Rooms.

It is quite the fad nowadays to have rooms where one color predominates, green rooms, red rooms, blue rooms, etc., says Public Opinion. In view of this fad it is interesting to read an article which appears in the October number of Medical Talk for the Home on the peculiar influence of different colors upon the body through the mind. "Purple," it is stated, "is the most dangerous color, having a fatal effect upon the mind. If a person were confined for a month in a room with purple walls, with no color but purple around him, by the end of the month he would be a madman. Scarlet is as bad, but has a different effect. It produces a madness that drives a person to kill his friends, especially his nearest relatives. Scarlet has something of this effect on animals. It will drive a bull or a tiger to desperation, causing them to fight till death. Blue has a drug-like effect on th brain. It stimulates the brain and excites the imagination, but if you get too much of it and cannot get away from it, its effect is terrible. Green is the king of colors. It is soothing in its effect, preserves and strengthens the eyesight, and no amount of it can do any harm. The sky, which appears to be blue, is really white, tinged with green, and it is only the distance and clearness that make it appear blue. Green is so soothing that it helps the system to fight disease, and, therefore, all sick rooms and hospital wards should have everything possible about them colored green. Sage green is the most soothing tint of all. Yellow is one of the healthiest and cheeriest colors there is, and will make a dark room bright where even green would be cold and depressing. But solitary confinement within a yellow cell for a month or six weeks would hopelessly weaken the system and produce chronic hysteria. Sheer, dead-white walls will destroy the eyesight in a short time, while the effect on the brain is so maddening that blindness is almost a relief. An example of this is found in the Arctic explorers, who have to wear green-tinted glasses to avoid snow blindness, which is really white blindness."

The late Mr. William E. Dodge left $20,000 to be distributed among the servants of his household in proportion to their length of service.

English Hard Luck.

English patriotism excuses everything. Every defeat is called merely bad luck, and English faults and shortcomings—everything English in fact—are stubbornly defended for the sole reason that they are English. Nobody grumbles less at official incompetence than the good English citizen. He will defend his compatriots and institutions as a father defends his family; and it is owing to this spirit of devotion to his country, its customs, institutions, achievements and shortcomings that the Englishman has attained a certain greatness that helps him over many a defeat in war, or in the domain of science or life.—Die Zeit, Vienna.

The Professor's Advice.

Tit-Bits says that a venerable professor of a noted medical college was addressing the graduating class. "Gentlemen," he said, "you are going out into the world of action. You will likely follow in some degree the example of those who have preceded you. Among other things you may marry. Let me entreat you to be kind to your wives. Be patient with them. Do not fret under petty domestic trials. When one of you asks your wife to go driving, do not worry if she is not ready at the appointed time. Have a treatise on your specialty always with you. Read it while you wait, and I assure you, gentlemen," and the professor's kindly smile seemed to show a trace of irony, "you will be astonished at the vast amount of information you will acquire in this way."

Further Experiences.

Major Powell Cotton, Northumberland Fusiliers, details of whose adventures in hitherto unexplored parts of Central Africa have already been given in The Daily Mail, has related some further experiences to a representative of Reuter's Agency. "While elephant-hunting on the southwest slope of Kenia," said the major, "we were lost for a time in the almost impenetrable forests, and while descending a bamboo slope an elephant, of whose presence we were quite unaware, and which was not visible until we saw him charging down on us at eight paces distance, fell shot through the brain at seven paces." The party eventually struck the route followed by the Macdonald expedition. In one village some stores left in two huts by Major Macdonald, in charge of the local chiefs, had been defended against would-be marauders for years, though much of the flour, etc., must long since have become decomposed. Hundreds of the defenders had lost their lives in the fighting. Halfway between Lakes Rudolf and Albert a race of people locally regarded as magicians were met. They lived in two-story houses, the upper floor being approached by a dormer window reached by a rude ladder. These natives, though held in awe by their warlike neighbors, were quite friendly. At the foot of a mountain range hundreds of elephant skeletons were found. The guides said that this was known as "the place where the elephants came to die," and that the natives regularly came to cut the ivory from the dead beasts.

An Interesting Presentation.

The German Emperor has just made an interesting presentation to the Hohenzollern Museum. It consists of the "death-dice," by the help of which one of the Emperor's ancestors decided a difficult case in the seventeenth century. How they came to be known as the "death-dice" is thus related by The London Tatler:—A beautiful young girl had been murdered, and suspicion fell on two soldiers, Ralph and Alfred, who were rival suitors for her hand. As both prisoners denied their guilt, and even torture failed to extract a confession from either, Prince Frederick William, the Kaiser's ancestor, decided to cut the Gordian knot with the dice-box. The two soldiers should throw for their lives, the loser to be executed as the murderer. The event was celebrated with great pomp and solemnity, and the Prince himself assisted at this appeal to divine intervention, as it was considered by everybody, including the accused themselves. Ralph was given the first throw, and he threw sixes, the highest possible number, and no doubt felt jubilant. The dice-box was then given to Alfred, who fell on his knees and prayed aloud: "Almighty God, Thou knowest I am innocent. Protect me, I beseech Thee!" Rising to his feet, he threw the dice with such force that one of them broke in two. The unbroken one showed six; the broken one also showed six on the larger portion, and the bit that had been split off showed one, giving a total of thirteen, or one more than the throw of Ralph. The whole audience thrilled with astonishment, while the Prince exclaimed, "God has spoken!" Ralph, regarding the miracle as a sign from heaven, confessed his guilt, and was sentenced to death. It is probable that Alfred ever after did not number himself among those who look upon thirteen as an unlucky number.

A Wise Boy.

Johnnie had been out in the back yard playing with his ball, and suddenly came in and sat down to read. His father looked up, and seeing that he had his Sunday school book in his hand, thought it was time to question him.

"What did you do with the ball?"

"It went over the fence into Mr. Brown's yard."

"Did you go after it?"

"No, papa."

"Why not?"

"Because it went through the window!"

Prospectus

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

MONEY NO OBJECT

When People are seeking health or relief from any disease the price never counts.

It is a fact that not less than a million is spent every year by people seeking a satisfactory cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Probably the best and most highly recommended preparation is Catarrhozone, which treats the local symptoms very affectually by means of medicated air supplied through a convenient hard rubber inhaler. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone Tablets, which are taken after each meal. They promote appetite, aid digestion, and make the blood rich and pure, so that it will nourish all parts of the body.

This combined local and constitutional treatment in catarrhal diseases has met with wonderful success and can be relied upon to cure every time. The inhaler stops sneezing, coughing, droppings in the throat, and brings quick relief and cure to all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.

Mrs. James Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, says: "For years my daughter doctored unsuccessfully for Catarrh. She had droppings in the throat, hawkings, nausea, and could not sleep at night. The first day's use of Catarrhozone benefited and ultimately cured my daughter so that Catarrh has never returned. I can recommend Catarrhozone as a grand remedy for Catarrh."

Thousands of strong letters could be given like the above if necessary, but all that is required to prove the merit of Catarrhozone is a fair trial. It is sure as death to cure and if it fails your money will be refunded. Catarrhozone cured lots of cases worse than yours and can do it again.

Judging from the success of the choir boy's concert given last June, there should be a large audience to hear them.

New Magistrate for Lindsay

An order in Council was passed accepting the resignation of Police Magistrate, William Steers, of Lindsay, and appointing Alexander Jackson in his place. Magistrate Steers resigned his position because he alleged that the police force of Lindsay was not sufficient to enable him to carry out the law. He had to chase a prisoner who escaped from the courtroom and ran down a public street. His resignation was accompanied by letters to the Attorney-General and to Mayor Beotheran, of Lindsay, explaining his reasons as above.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL

Mr. Richard Crowe, Warden of the County of Peterborough

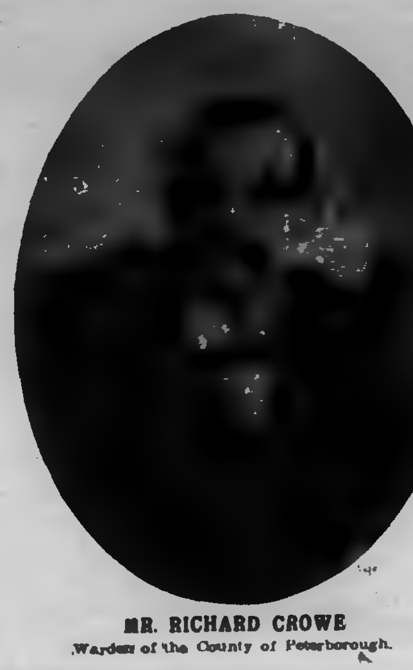
Mr. Richard Crowe, the present Warden of the County of Peterborough, was born in the Township of Dummer 62 years ago, and is well and favorably known throughout the county.

His cheerful, kindly spirit, and great cordiality of manner, combine to make him one of the most welcome guests in the home of his constituents. His manly bearing, honesty of speech and purpose soon made him so popular with his people that in 1882 he was given a seat at the council board of his native township where his administrative ability soon asserted itself. He continued in this office until 1897 when he was chosen from amongst a group of very capable and worthy colleagues to represent the township in the County Council, which honorable position he has held ever since (except one short session) with interest to himself, satisfaction to his friends, and profits to his constituency.

Mr. Crowe lays no claim on being a public speaker, but his natural administrative qualities added to his long municipal experience make him one of the most valued members of the County Council. It must be a matter of much satisfaction to himself and pleasure to his friends that he has been a member of the Council for a much longer period than any of his esteemed colleagues.

He, in some degree at least, inherits his "gift of ruling" from his father, the late Mr. Francis Crowe, who was elected the first Reeve of the same township 63 years ago, and continued in the confidence of his people in this capacity for 12 successive years.

It is thought by many that Mr. Crowe will be the Liberal candidate for East Peterborough at the approaching Dominion election, but we are sorry to state that his health is in such a precarious condition that it is doubtful whether his freinds could persuade him to enter upon such laborious duties as falls to a candidate in a Federal election.



MR. RICHARD CROWE

Warden of the County of Peterborough.

We hope that the present Warden may be spared to represent his township in the County Coulcil for many years to come.

The last installment for the payment of taxes terminates on the 15th November. After that date 5 per cent. will be added to all unpaid

Dust and Disease

The condition of the streets is again causing bitter complaints by merchants business men, and all who have to be out on the streets. For about three or four weeks the dust has been very bad. Several medical men assert that the present increase of diphtheria and throat complaints, is due to the failure of the civic authorities to water and clean the streets thoroughly. Yesterday the dust and filth was unbearable. It is surely the duty of the Council to see that the streets are watered, and well watered, especially in the business section.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. George Buchan, which occurred yesterday morning. The deceased had been a sufferer from heart trouble, and had been confined to his bed for about six weeks. Deceased was 48 years of age and came from Hamilton 18 years ago. He was employed as foreman in the Review pressroom. He leaves to mourn his demise a wife and one daughter, besides a brother, Charles Buchan, of Toronto. The death of Mr. Buchan will cause much regret among his many friends in town. The funeral will take place from 343 1-2 George street, tomorrow afternoon, and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

LOOKED INTO IT

Found What Coffee was Quietly Doing

A man made certain that coffee was the real cause of his kidney trouble and severe backaches. He says: "For 15 years I have been a coffee drinker and finally I proved to my own satisfaction that the abominable stuff not only started my kidney disease, but was rapidly making me sick all over.

"My back used to pain and ache terribly and my wife was affected much the same way. A short time ago I became very ill. I ordered coffee banished from the house and began to drink Postum in its place.

"We all began to improve immediately and to feel as though we had taken a new lease on life. We kept on improving until Postum has made us well and healthy where coffee made us sick. Our backaches are gone and other troubles too, thanks to Postum in place of coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Coffee is a strong diuretic irritant, and affects the kidneys in a great many cases where it is not even suspected. If you value health and a sound body the wise thing to do would be to quit coffee and give Postum a fair trial of say two weeks. There's a reason.

Thousands of women who have suffered from backache, headache, and other consequences of womanly disease, have been made well women by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as it has done me so much good," writes Mrs. Henry Harrell, of Tarboro, N. C., Box 109. "I was swollen so I could hardly walk when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription.' I also had uterine trouble and could neither eat nor sleep only as I took morphine. Tried four different doctors and they all failed to do me any good, so one of my friends recommended your 'Favorite Prescription' to me and I took only three bottles and am now well and hearty. Can do almost any kind of work."

THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. THE CRISIS IN THE FAR EAST WAR CLOUD BECOMING DARKER

THE RUSSIAN BEAR NO IS LONGER TRUSTED

Japan Would Want Guarantee From Powers That Bear would Stick to Bargain

London, Nov. 13—Although Mr. Balfour declared in his recent Guildhall speech that the crisis in the far east did not justify any overpowering anxiety on the part of the Government, the Premier and certain of his colleagues, obviously proceeding on the theory that the Russo-Japanese collision is approaching, have had frequent conferences on the situation, and the chiefs of the army and navy have been instructed to perfect arrangements to meet any obligation events may impose on Great Britain in Eastern Asia. These preparations are not necessarily inconsistent with Mr. Balfour's expressed belief that the Czar and the Mikado will ultimately discover a peaceful solution of their differences. They know, however, what well informed diplomats know it to be the fact, that Viscount Harashi, the Japanese Minister to Great Britain, is unable to speak reassuringly to the Government concerning the outlook.

SITUATION CRITICAL.

Tokio Nov. 13—Viscount Kateoura's declaration that the Russo-Japanese situation is "most critical," merely verifies the opinion of the intelligent classes of Japan that the negotiations between Tokio and St. Petersburg thus far yield practically no promise of peace. Japan's efforts to prevent further augmentation and consolidation of Russian power in Manchuria are wholly due to the menace contained therein primarily to Corea and finally to the Island Empire itself. All faith in Russian agreements and conventions has vanished, and the Emperor and his Cabinet are deeply persuaded that once the Muscovite is intrenched in Manchuria, no paper bulwarks will prevent him from forging onward through the Corean straits. It is increasingly probable that nothing short of an international guaranty of Corean independence will lull Japan to repose while it sees the strength of its perfidious and over-bearing neighbor receiving daily accessions by land and sea. It should surprise nobody if the Government in a short time, assuming that Russia will continue unyielding, order the Japanese army to seize strategic positions for the defence of Corea.

TROOPS AT MUKDEN.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—A despatch from Port Arthur received here says in reference to the statement on the subject published in the foreign press:

"It is declared here that the 400 troops ordered to Mukden were sent there solely for the purpose of restoring order. No other measures have been taken.

Japan's demand that the Russianization of Manchuria cease seems peremptory, and therefore, even the most pacific of the Czar's advisors despair of a peaceful issue of the pending negotiation.

HAS LAMSDORFF RESIGNED ?

London, Nov. 13.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent says it is rumored that Count Lamsdorff, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, has resigned on account of his dissatisfaction with the Czar's policy in the Far East.

—Mr. C. B. McAllister, of Peterborough made a business trip to Lakefield on Monday.

—Two of our young men recently had a rather interesting experience while returning from a drive to a neighboring town. Though the moon was bright, they were so unfortunate as to lose their way. The horse wanted to take one turn but the driver chose the other. They had gone about four miles of their course when, after holding a council of war they decided to rouse a nearby farmer. After the enquirer had knocked repeatedly, he heard someone light a lamp, and then creep cautiously forward. The door was flung open, and a double-barrelled shot gun stared the intruder in the face. To run was out of the question. So our young man assumed his far-famed sunny smile, and soon succeeded in mollifying the angry farmer who then sent them on their way rejoicing.

—The second annual assembly under the auspices of Brass Workers Union, No. 288 was held on Wednesday evening in Forester's Hall, Simcoe street, and proved a great success, about 70 couples being present.

LIGHT OF THE COMING AGE

Mercury is Heated to Incandescence by Electricity

The new vaporized mercury light is being experimented with considerably in Boston. A remarkable attribute of the new illuminant is that it casts no shadow! Imagine that, ye devotees of physics, who have always believed as firmly that there could be no light without a shadow as that there would be two mountains without an intervening valley. The light is called the Hewitt because it is backed by New York moneyed men of that name who expect wonders from its future development.

The lamp consists of a 36-inch glass tube containing mercury, which by electrical current is heated to incandescence. It is 10 times as efficient as an incandescent for giving candle power. The actinic quality of the light is far superior to any other form of artificial light.

Photo engravers find that better work is obtained by the use of these lamps in one-half the time and for one-seventh the current consumption of arc lamps.

The lamps are also useful for photographers and all forms of printing. They are especially adapted for machine shops drafting rooms, offices and the like, because of the pleasing quality of the light. Lord Kelvin, of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, has said that it is the most important electrical discovery of the past decade.

A NOVEMBER WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Gertrude McCabe and and Mr. Wm. Wheeler

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening at All Saint's Church when Miss Gertrude Marie McCabe, daughter of the late Ernest McCabe, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Wheeler of town, by Rev. Mr. Armitage. The bride was handsomely attired in a pink gown, and was assisted by Miss Alexandra Law, of town, while Mr. Harold McCabe supported the bridegroom. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. W. Watkins, of Toronto. The wedding march was splendidly rendered on the organ by Miss Bullen.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's mother, 29 Division street. Among the beautiful wedding presents was a silver chafing dish and spoon from Mrs. Wheeler's co-employees at the Cordage Company.

DUCAL WEDDING WAS MOBBED

Disgraceful Exhibition by Hundreds of Women

Not Satisfied with Annoying the Wedding Party They Stole Decorations

New York, Nov. 11—The wedding of Miss May Wilson Goelet and the Duke of Roxburghe yesterday afternoon was the occasion of a disgraceful exhibition. The scenes at the wedding both at the church and outside the house were never equalled in any similar event in this city. The witnesses of the actual ceremony were restricted to some 200 men and women. They struggled to their places in the church through a mob estimated at 10,000 persons, for the most part women wearing expensive clothing.

The crowd swept away the police lines, mobbed the bride in her carriage and fought and scrambled in a vain effort to get, by any way, and every means, within hearing or sight of the nuptial ceremony.

What Curiosity Will Do.

Fifteen female compatriots of the bride were hauled out of a coal hole leading into the cellar beneath the chancel. More were turned out of the church itself—some were hidden in dark corners of the gallery; some were lying flat under the seats of the pews. Still more tried to peep through a letter-box slit in the door. Not one got a sight of the marriage ceremony.

A stream of curiosity seekers in carriages, hired or owned, mingled with the carriages of the guests and made a jam that will ever be remembered. In the vast crowd men were scarcer than hen's teeth, but the crowd of women made trouble. The police detail was inadequate, and the reinforcements sent did not arrive until the worst was over.

For the principals the crowd had no respect whatever. The carriage conveying the bride and her brother was caught almost a block from the church and well-dressed women tried to precipitate themselves through the door, one getting in so far as to be able to catch and hold on for one brief moment to Miss Goelet's veil.

Shortly before noon, 2 1-2 hours before the wedding, one of the sexton's assistants happened to go up in the church gallery. He was astonished to see a score or more women huddled in dark corners. Many of them looked as though they had been dressed for the occasion, and some of them would not budge. The police had to be called to clear them out.

In the pews they found more women concealed, some of them lying flat down to escape detection. The church had been open all the morning to the decorators and the women must have stolen in, some of them hours before.

The Bride Was Mobbed.

Around on the 53rd street side, where the rectory and choirhouse are, the women swarmed into the churchyard. There leading down to the cellar, some of them spied an open coal hole. In a second one and then another vanished in. Fully fifteen went down there and were underneath the chancel when a sexton spied them. One by one the women were hauled out again. The women stormed the church on all sides, but none got in. The crowd in Fifth avenue blocked the carriages of the bridal party. When the bride's carriage appeared it had to come to a dead stop at the corner of 53rd street.

That was what the women, apparently, had been looking for. There was only one policeman at hand. Over him woman seemed to fairly jump. The windows were down, and inside Miss Goelet could be seen adjusting her veil with the aid of a small hand mirror.

"It is the bride," went up in a chorus, and with common impulse the women made for the carriage. A woman climbed on each step.

Miss Goelet looked frightened, especially when she saw a hand thrust in from the window on her side. Robert Goelet, her brother, was having all he could do on his. The carriage could not budge. Finally, Mr. Goelet ruthlessly cast one woman from the step and put his head out.

"Can't you help us, officer?" he said.

His sister could be seen edging away from the window and holding on to her veil. The one mounted policeman finally came up, but only the danger of being trampled under foot made the women let up. More policemen arrived and surrounded the carriage until it could move on.

When the carriage drew up at the awning women on all sides of this got down on their hands and knees and began to crawl under it. Inspector McLaughlin ordered policemen to drag them out. He took a hand himself and grabbed the tail of a woman's skirt. When he had got all of her outside she was found to be somewhere in the neighborhood of 60.

"All I wanted was just a peek," she said, tearfully.

The Decorations Rifled.

There was more trouble after the wedding service. After most of the guests had left the church it was decided to admit the public to see the decorations. Those responsible for that decision were sorry a minute afterwards. Through every door the crowd surged in and made a rush to the chancel, bearing away flowers and leaves of palms.

The police were hastily called in then to clear the church of the despoilers, but the decorations were wrecked. Fifth avenue outside looked like a calm Sunday.

Four hours after the ceremony Fifth avenue was still crowded with curious women, many of whom were laden with spoils from the church decorations. After the invited guests had left, the mob crowded into the church and proceeded at once to tear the chrysanthemums and lilies down. Before they could be stopped the church was despoiled of many of its decorations.

A British Comment.

London, Nov. 11—The Daily Mail, moralizing upon the Roxburghe-Goelet wedding, says;

"We may congratulate ourselves that the barbaric debauch of color, perfume and expensiveness did not take place in this country. Everything emblematic of mere religion seems to have been obliterated under the sensuous garment of materialized wealth. It is in moments like this that the Americans surpass the civilized and barbaric world. The supposable overpowering presence of money compensates them for any slight defects in good taste and restraint. The Duke of Roxburge, with his simple English bringing up, makes an odd figure in the crowd, almost a pathetic one, lacking even the reassuring consciousness of ante-nuptial settlements."

SUGAR BEET FARMER IS HAPPY

Western Crop Large and Prices Show Good Profits Per Acre

Omaha, Nov. 12.—In a year the sugar beet acreage has increased remarkably. For the four months the campaign lasts the factories pay to the producer a little more than $150,000 a month for beets, and the output of the factories is nearly 24,000,000 pounds of granulated sugar annually. This is in Nebraska alone. The industry in Minnesota is considerably more extensive, and Colorado and South Dakota are rivalling Nebraska in progress.

The factory experts have discovered that with each year's yield the fields produce a sweeter beet. They call the beets better "quality." From experience this fall, when the heavy rains damaged the corn crop, these experts found also that the water will not harm a sugar beet that is growing, but imparts a sweeter flavor, the more moist the soil becomes, but there is a disadvantage in the weeding, because the ground is too moist for the workers to run over it and exterminate the weeds and foreign growths that creep in among the beet plants.

Three factories in Nebraska —Ames, Norfolk and Grand Island—are running at full capacity, and will produce more sugar this year than in previous years. The result will be that farmers next season will cut down on the acreage given to cereals and grow sugar beets.

It is estimated that an acre of beets brings the grower this fall a little more than $55. Last year the acreage yield of an acre was $54.55. The experimental stage is passed now, and there is no longer risk of a loss by crop failure.

But what appeals to the farmer more than any other consideration is that this fall, while his grain lies drying on the farm, waiting for railroads to furnish cars to haul it to the markets, his more progressive neighbors, who devoted land to beet growing, are hauling the products to the home factories in wagons and getting paid for the work. The beet grower receives pay not only for his crops, and that at a good big figure, $4 a ton, but he gets the railroads profits, too. By arrangement with the factories, when beets are above what is called a 14 per cent. quality, for every 1 per cent. an additional 25 cents is paid, and the pulp of the beet, the best cattle fattener known to feeders, is returned to the farmers who furnished the beets. The packing companies have tried for years by the offer of enormous sums, to buy the pulp of the factories for cattle-fattening purposes, but because the factories want to encourage the farmers to grow the beets and do not care at this time so much for revenues, only the men who grow the beets can have the pulp.

—Complaints of scarcity of apple barrels are still being heard from points throughout Ontario. Farmers state that it is almost impossible to secure barrels and in many cases apples are being given away which are sufficiently good for export. Coopers state that they cannot secure hoops, American firms having bought up all the available supply early in the season. Apples in most localities are more than usually plentiful.

FUTURE OF CANADA, NO DESIRE FOR SEPARATION

Free Food Demonstration at Birmingham Shows That District of Colonies is Not Dead

Montreal, Nov. 12—A London cable to the Montreal Star says -

Mr. Chamberlain has made an extension in his preferential scheme of the highest importance to Canada. He originally contemplated an average duty of ten per cent. on all British imports of manufactured and semi-manufactured goods. Calculating on £143,000,000 of trade, this would bring £16,000,000 into the British exchequer. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach in a recent speech seized upon this fact to illustrate the "inevitable Canadian friction," and pictured the chagrin of all interested in the Canadian lumber trade when they were specially taxed, while Canadian wheat-growers were given a special preference.

Mr. Chamberlain, now writing to a friend shows that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach quite misapprehended the proposal and states that the ten per cent duty will be upon foreign manufactures only colonial manufactures being exempt. The latter will account for £16,000,000 out of the £143,000,000.

Mr Chamberlain adds- "All these matters will be, of course, the subjects of friendly bargain between the British and Colonial Ministers, when the British electorate authorize negotiations. Our object will be to affect a fair give-and-take arrangement."

The Birmingham Meeting.

London, Nov. 13—The expected trouble at the "Free Fooders" meeting in the town hall at Birmingham did not materialize, although a crowd, estimated at 40,000, assembled outside the town hall. A few stones were thrown and some windows broken, but it is believed that the prevention of more serious disorders was due to the earnest appeal of the supporters of Mr. Chamberlain, supplemented by the advice of the local newspapers to give the "Free Fooders" a fair hearing, as well as to the excellent police arrangements.

Winston Churchill's Speech.

The meeting was attended by 5,000 persons. Mr. Winston Churchill devoted his speech to the denunciation of Mr. Chamberlain's propoganda, and urged the continuation of the free trade policy of Great Britain, which, he said, had done more to maintain the peace of the world than had been done by all the Prime Ministers and Colonial Secretaries during the past half century. Every mention by Mr. Churchill of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's name was greeted with cheers and counter-cheers. His statement that Great Britain was prosperous and her trade good was received with both hisses and cheers. He believed that Mr. Chamberlain was doing what he thought was best for the Empire but what about the motives of some of those who were supporting him, and what about the manufacturers and company promoters who poured their checks, in strict secrecy, into the offices of Mr. Vince, who is managing Mr. Chamberlain's campaign?

The gossamer threads of Empire were pliant, elastic, and at the same time as tense as steel. We were told that those children States who came to aid us in our need would fall away for ever unless Canadian loyalty was purchased at two shillings a quarter and Australian allegiance at one penny a pound. To increase the happiness of the people took more social reform than fiscal more temperance than tariffs, more schoolmasters than tax-gatherers and custom houses. (Deafening applause).

Lord Hugh Cecil's Fears.

Lord Hugh Cecil said- Do not let us think that the Empire is merely a great cake in possession of a greedy, though affectionate family, something to be cut up into slices, and divided for the benefit of the while. The result of that would be that unity and co-operation would be endangered. If we divert the corn trade from the United States to Canada Britain's exports to the United States would have to be given up, and there would be an increase in exports of manufactured goods to Canada. The Canadian manufacturer would not like trade coming in and spoiling his home market. If German imports are evil to Britain, why will not British imports be evil to Canada? Is it fair to impose on Canada our imports or to coax her into taking larger quantities of our imports, and at the same time we are saying we won't have foreign imports ourselves, because they are harmful to us? If I had the tongue of a great orator I would draw a picture of the Canadian artisan, laboring for the manufacturers of the eastern parts of Canada, driven out of his employment by the incoming flood of British manufactured goods. Have not the colonies grown closer to us without a preference? (Cries of "Thanks to Joe.") Lord Cecil said Mr. Chamberlain had done much, but this was due to appeals to Imperial sentiment, and not to appeals to motives of gain.

The following resolution was then carried - "That this meeting, while recognizing the right of the British Government to propose Parliamentary retaliatory duties in special cases, believes the establishment of a general tariff, including protective taxation of foodstuffs will be disintegrating to the Empire, impose a burden on some of the poor, and be harmful to the welfare and prosperity of the country."

At the close of the meeting the great crowd outside the Town Hall dispersed good-naturedly, singing national songs and cheering for Joseph Chamberlain.

Distrust of Colonies Remains.

The Times, referring to the Birmingham meeting, says - "We are forced to the conclusion that back of all economic objections to Mr. Chamberlain's schemes is a profound distrust of imperial consolidation and a lingering remnant of the old antagonism to the colonies. The colonies are doing their best to further the imperial connection. Canada has shown in the most practical way that she is ready to do her part in promoting the interests of the United Kingdom. In the hope of promoting the interests of the Empire New Zealand will introduce a tariff on the lines adopted in Canada, and it remains with this country to decide whether she will accept the imperial greatness offered her."

The Mail, referring to Mr. Churchill's speech says he asks England to sit still and rejoice in the free trade in which she and Turkey are the only believers left in this twentieth century world.

Prof Ashley, of Birmingham University, formerly of the University of Toronto speaking at the banquet of the London Chamber of Commerce last night expressed the belief that things went on as at present, Canada was bound to sever her connection with the Motherland and become either independent, or, in reality or name, part of the United States. (Cries of "Oh, oh," and 'Hear hear."). American emigration to the Northwest Territories, he declared, was accelerating this tendency, and the drift of Australia towards separation from the Mother County was equally clear. The tendency towards separation had for a time been checked by the enthusiasm aroused by the Boer War, and the preferential tariff had somewhat increased the previously diminishing commercial intercourse between the Dominion and Great Britain. If the opportunity for unity were missed, all the old forces of the geographical separation from Great Britain and the contiguity of the United States would resume and complete the work. Canadians would then be sure to renew the old agitation for commercial union with the United States, and with new backing that agitation would be certain to be successful.

No Desire For Separation.

Sir William Henry Holland M.P., said he had lately visited Canada, and not on any occasion had he observed the slightest desire for separation; on the contrary, he met everywhere the most pronounced loyalty. A dose of protection might act as a stimulant to some industries, but would be a sleeping draught to others.

PUBLISHED LIBEL

English Woman Criticises the Canadian Girls

London, Nov. 11— An Englishwoman in Canada writes to the Leader in a caustic strain upon the taste and appearance of Canadian women. She says that no English girl who lets her liver go to Canada to make a home for her need fear that he will fall a victim to the charms of Canadian girls.

At Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal, the typical face if hard-featured and sallow, and frequently muddy complexioned, no doubt the result of overheated rooms pastry and candy. One can seldom see the pink and white skin of the English girl.

The Canadian girls have long, thick hair dressed in the "Gibson Girl" fashion. The girls are well set up and neat, but have no idea of softening their hard features by a less hard style of dress.

In Toronto, when a woman is over 30, she wears her hair dragged up behind and tight in front, surmounted by a hard-looking felt hat, which only serves to intensify her plainness. Royal blue or pure white, the two fall colors usually worn, least accord with the Canadian girl's complexion.

A Lindsay Deputation

A deputation from Lindsay arrived in town yesterday and inspected the Dan Spence ambulance, the object being to obtain a similar vehicle in connection with the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay. The deputation consisted of Messrs. R Bryans, J. D. Flavelle, of the Ross Memorial Hospital Board, Mr. J. R. McNeil'le, the secretary-treasurer, and Mr. R Kylie. The gentlemen were met by Mr. Richard Hall, chairman of the Nichol's Hospital Board, and Mr. S. R. Armstrong town clerk, who accompanied them to where the ambulance is kept. Before returning the gentlemen visited the lift-lock and the Nicholl's Hospital.

RIOTERS PUNISHED

The Men who Caused Trouble at Niagara Have to Pay

Niagara Falls Ont., Nov. 11. —The trial of the fifteen men arrested during the strike riots last week took place this morning before Police Magistrate Cruikshank, and Mr. Alex. Gray, J.P.

Nine men were fined $10 for rioting and four $15 each, as leaders of the rioters. One was discharged. The costs in each case are very heavy, making the penalty severe. All the men are foreigners and in most cases unaware of the gravity of the offence committed. One was fined twenty-five dollars additional for carrying arms. The men were defended by W. M German, K.C., M.P.; F. W Griffiths, Alex. Fraser and Stanley Fraser, and the prosecution was conducted by County Crown Attorney Cowper.

WANTED OWN FLAG

Stars and Stripes Hissed in a Montreal Theatre

Montreal Nov. 11—Those writers in the United States press who are constantly attempting to demonstrate the existence in Canada of a pronounced annexation feeling should have been at the Academy of Music last evening to secure data for future efforts in the same line. That all feeling over the Alaskan boundary award has not died out was proven in a most unexpected manner by the usually decorous audience that frequents this play-house. When the American flag was brought on the stage toward the latter part of the final act, the audience all over the house jeered and hooted and hissed until pandemonium reigned. Quiet was only gained when a British flag was placed in the foreground and the emblem of the United States lost to view.

CANADA SHOWED HOW TO DO A FEW THINGS.

The Lessons We Have Taught to the Mother Country in Its Trade Policy

London, Nov. 13—At a meeting of the Birmingham Debating Society, Mr. Vince —Mr Chamberlain's organizer—said that Canadians, as members of the Empire, were potentially far vaster, greater, and wealthier than the federation of the United States of America, but from the membership in that Empire they derived no commercial advantage whatever.

They knew that the States would be ready to-morrow, if they would be disloyal to the English flag, to admit them to the advantage of the American commercial system.

Could it be wondered that Canada had been calling for preferential trade, that in impatience they had not waited for us to set the example, but had shown us how to do it?

What was wanted from Canadians was such a preference for our manufacturers as would be sufficient to counterbalance the advantages which the manufacturers in the States had their proximity.

What Canada wanted was an absolutely secure market for her wheat. A two shilling preference would be sufficient to secure the English market for years to come for Canadian wheat.

A Straw of the Times

At a meeting of the Central Committee of the Manchester Conservative Association, Sir. W. Houldsworth, M.P., said they were always being told that the colonies, being protectionist, would went to add to their tariffs instead of giving a preference, but the address of Lord Strathcona and the Agents-General for the colonies presented to Hon. Alfred Lyttleton, was one of the straws indicating which way the wind was blowing.

L. G. Chiozza-Money has a long article in the Leader on "Is Colonial Manufacturers' Produce to be Taxed, and says that if Mr. Chamberlain grants a preference to Canadian manufacturers he makes a policy of retaliation impossible.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 503, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

A TANGLE OF TREATIES

If Japan and Russia should go to war over Manchuria, not the least interesting phase of the conflict would be the test it would apply to the strength of the various known or surmised treaties between the great European powers.

The last of such treaties, concerning which rumor is busy, is supposed to exist between Germany and Russia as an offset to the Anglo-Japanese treaty. England and Japan have agreed that if either of them is attacked by two great powers together the other will come to its ally's assistance. Germany is now said to have agreed to side with Russia in case England should join Japan in actual war.

Germany is known, however, to have a treaty with England concerning the Chinese situation, by which they agree "to direct their policy to maintaining undiminished the territorial condition of the Chinese Empire." When this treaty was signed it was interpreted as an alliance of the two powers against Russia. Later, however, it appeared that Manchuria was not included in the scope of the treaty. Nevertheless, if Germany has now entered into a new treaty with Russia her old treaty with England must appear more farcial than ever.

Moreover, the position of France is not so clear as it might be. It is generally believed that the Franco-Russian alliance is one of the strongest in existence between European powers. But France and England have recently been entering into the most friendly relations, which are marked, though not "cemented," by the new Anglo-French arbitration treaty.

The relations of the powers in the immediate future may or may not have shaped themselves clearly in the minds of the foreign ministers at the European capitals, but they present nothing better than a diplomatic jungle to the observer from without.

A WONDERFUL RECORD

Sir Frederick Treves, the King's surgeon who has recently retired from the active practice of his profession has a record of which any man might well feel proud. He has to his credit one thousand operations for appendicitis, without the loss of a single case. Such a result is rendered possible only by early operative measures, conducted with the greatest skill and under perfectly aseptic conditions. It is a triumph of surgery that bears testimony to the great advance in science within recent years. The world owes much to anaesthetics and to a knowledge of the germ theory. Sir Joseph Lister, an associate of Sir Frederick Treves, was the pioneer in practically recognizing the importance of antiseptics in surgery, and his system was known for many years as "Listerism." By its use the mortality of surgical operations was wonderfully reduced, and the scope of the work was widened. Wonders are now performed daily in surgery that a few years ago would have been impossible: but even now few surgeons can hope to make such records as that of Sir Frederick.

Surgeons make mistakes, too. A short time ago we read of one who related that in operating on a woman, who had been sent to him in a very low condition following an operation by another physician some time previously, he found in the abdominal cavity a four-foot towel bedded in a slough of pus. The patient died in a few hours. Another case has been reported in which the patient had to be reopened in order to recover some surgical instruments inadvertently left inside, and which the owner needed for other operations. A few years ago a surgeon removed from a patient under chloroform the healthy eye, leaving him the sightless one. A similar case of removing a sound kidney, leaving a diseased one, and entailing the death of the patient in a few hours, has been known. But perhaps the mistakes of surgery are as few as those of any calling where the factors to be considered are so many and so important, and where the stake is so great. It calls for great skill, judgment and nerve, and these have to be exercised sometimes under conditions which make a happy outcome all the greater triumph for the science.

WANTED OWN FLAG

Stars and Stripes Hissed in a Montreal Theatre

Montreal Nov. 11—Those writers in the United States press who are constantly attempting to demonstrate the existence in Canada of a pronounced annexation feeling should have been at the Academy of Music last evening to secure data for future efforts in the same line. That all feeling over the Alaskan boundary award has not died out was proven in a most unexpected manner by the usually decorous audience that frequents this play-house. When the American flag was brought on the stage toward the latter part of the final act, the audience all over the house jeered and hooted and hissed until pandemonium reigned. Quiet was only gained when a British flag was placed in the foreground and the emblem of the United States lost to view.

PUBLISHED LIBEL

English Woman Criticizes the Canadian Girls

London, Nov. 11—An Englishwoman in Canada writes to the Leader in a caustic strain upon the taste and appearance of Canadian women. She says that no English girl who lets her liver go to Canada to make a home for her need fear that he will fall a victim to the charms of Canadian girls.

At Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal, the typical face is hard-featured and sallow, and frequently muddy complexioned, no doubt the result of overheated rooms pastry and candy. One can seldom see the pink and white skin of the English girl.

The Canadian girls have long, thick hair dressed in the "Gibson girl" fashion. The girls are well set up and neat, but have no idea of softening their hard features by a less hard style of dress.

In Toronto, when a woman is over 20, she wears her hair dragged up behind and tight in front, surmounted by a hard-looking felt hat, which only serves to intensify her plainness. Royal blue or pure white, the two fall colors usually worn, least accord with the Canadian girl's complexion.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal. Canada.

Vincenzo Cirioma, charged with stabbing Joseph Hamilton, was committed for trial.

All the men are foreigners and in most cases unaware of the gravity of the offence committed. One was fined twenty-five dollars additional for carrying arms. The men were defended by W. M German, K.C., M.P.; F. W Griffiths, Alex. Fraser and Stanley Fraser, and the prosecution was conducted by County Crown Attorney Cowper.

Slowly Dying

Thousands are Slowly dying from catarrh, but don't know their danger

A CASE IN POINT

Mr. Ulric Barault, a young gentleman who lived for years in Sweetsburg, Quebec, inherited Catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Barault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

Every organ of my body seemed affected and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone, and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Every one in town knows I was just about dead with Catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

(Signed) Ulric Barault."

Catarrhozone beyond question is the proper remedy for catarrhal and bronchial troubles. The medicated air goes all through the air passages of the head, throat and lungs. It kills the germs, heals the sore spots, allays irritation and keeps the breath pure.

Headache, tired feelings across the eyes, nausea, all these well-known disagreeable symptoms are overcome by the medicated air of Catarrhozone.

Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler drive all the poisonous secretions of catarrh from the blood. One taken after each meal creates new appetite and digestion, strengthens the stomach, revitalizes and invigorates the entire system.

Catarrhozone is quite unsurpassed as a cure for Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis and Asthma.

Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00; trial size 25 cts. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

WIN AT NEW ORLEANS

No greater opportunity has ever been afforded the American racing public to earn a steady income with a small capital than does the Maxim & Gay Co. offer you at New Orleans, beginning Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26.

Everybody conversant with the history of the Maxim & Gay Co. knows that at New Orleans it has scored those sensational successes which have made its name a household word among patrons of the turf. No record approaches ours for the number of winners named at long prices at the Crescent City. Our experts are already on the ground preparing for the opening. Every indication points to us surpassing our best efforts in furnishing information from that track, and we are again certain we will enable patrons of the Company to win steady incomes on small investments there.

$50 netted $201.75

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co. representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds, day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible form, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our Discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. Money should be sent by bank draft, express money order, or currency in registered letter. Uncertified checks are not accepted.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than $80,000,000 in Gold.

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. THE ROSE OF THE RING

"You are under the impression you have no near relatives living?"

"Yes. My father must be dead, otherwise he would have traced me after my mother's death. Why are you so interested in my story?"

"Because it is not a common one but one which allows a wide scope for speculation. Have you anything in your possession that belonged to your mother?"

"A few things; but not here."

"May I see them some day? I promise you I will not harm them, and to me everything connected with the early part of your story is of interest."

Rosalie looked at him curiously.

"I can't make you out," she said, doubtfully. "Do you know more of my story than I have been able to understand?"

"It is not for me to say, mademoiselle. I have made a request, which I hope you will not refuse—merely to show me the articles you have that belonged to your mother."

"And you can tell me nothing?" she asked, a wishful expression coming to her eyes.

He shook his head.

"Will you answer me two more questions?" he asked. "I want to know your mother's Christian name."

"It was Bertha."

"And your father's?"

"I do not know—I have never heard anything of my father."

Jim had left the room almost directly he had ushered in the stranger.

He returned now, and cast a hurried glance towards Rosalie.

"Times up," he said, "the lions are being put in their places. Are you ready?"

"Quite," she said, standing up, and shaking out the soft folds of her dress.

Then, at the sound of a little bell outside the room, she hurried away to take up her position with the lions.

A deafening clamor of applause announced her appearance in the ring.

"I shall be back presently," said Jim to the stranger; "if you want to see Mademoiselle Rosalie during the first interval, you'd better wait here."

The other would have answered that he would call again some time when Rosalie would be disengaged.

Jim, however, did not give him an opportunity of replying: he hurried away, and the stranger sank into a chair, listening with a feeling of dread to the ominous roaring of the lions.

Presently, Polly entered, pressing her hands over her ears.

"Do you hear?" she asked, looking with terrified eyes at the stranger. "They say there's no harm likely to come to her; but how can she be safe amongst those savage beasts?"

He got up, and placed a chair for her.

"It is horrible work," he said. "Does Miss Errol like such a life?"

"Yes, that's the most dreadful part of it; the performance seems to have a sort of fascination for her."

"I suppose she has been brought up to it, and is more at home in the ring that she would be in a drawing-room."

Polly shook her head.

"She's only lately taken to it; though she always had a talent in that direction."

Then, remembering he had come on some errand, she took from a table the card bearing his name and address—

"Mr. David Monckton,
Solicitor,
Lincoln's Inn."

"We've had a lot to do with lawyers lately," she said, laying down the card. "May I ask what you want to see Mademoiselle Rosalie so praticularly about?"

"I have already informed Miss Errol what I desire of her. Perhaps you can help us both by telling me as much of her history as you can call to mind."

Polly went as far as possible into detail, and Mr. Monckton listened without interrupting her.

He had taken a memorandum-book from his breast-pocket, and every now and then he jotted down some part of her speech.

When she had finished, he replaced the pocket-book, and quietly thanked her.

"I will wait to see Mademoiselle Rosalie," he said. "After a few words with her I will take my departure. I dare-say my presence is rather an intrusion."

"Not at all," Polly replied, greatly impressed by his courteous manner towards her. "I'm glad to have met anybody so interested in mademoiselle's story. I only wish I knew what had first induced you to find her out."

Mr. Monckton hesitated, looked keenly at the woman, and then leaned back in his chair, as though he had formed some resolution.

"Mademoiselle Rosalie's fame has traveled far and wide," he said, "and there are many whom circumstances prevent from coming to London, who would give much to hear her sing, and see her go through her performance. Is her time fully engaged?"

"Fully, sir," Polly answered, immediately on the defensive. "My husband has brought her out, and she's not likely to perform for anybody but him."

"I quite understand. I mentioned the matter because I have a friend—an invalid—living in the country, who is anxious to see her. It may be a curious whim on his part, but he is not in a state of health to be denied a wish on which he has set his heart.

"He is wealthy—a nobleman, and would not care to what expense he went if Mademoiselle Rosalie would honor him with a visit."

"She wouldn't have time to think of paying visits, excepting of a Sunday," Polly said, turning the subject slowly over in her mind. "Here she comes, to speak for herself; but I don't think she'll be able to comply with the gentleman's request."

"Why not?" Rosalie asked, coming into the room in time to hear the last part of the conversation. "What is the wish that I may not have power to gratify?"

Mr. Monckton told her in as few words as he could—regarding her earnestly the while, watching every expression that crossed the bright, young face, every movement of the graceful form.

"Is he so ill?" she said, her lips growing grave. "I am sorry for that. Does he really wish to see me?"

"Nothing would give him greater pleasure. Invalids take strange fancies into their heads sometimes, and this one will not give himself rest until his hope of seeing you is gratified."

"I am sorry," she said, again, her voice very soft and low. "Would it be far to go?"

"The journey would take several hours; but believe me, mademoiselle, you would be fully repaid for any trouble you might put yourself to on my friend's account."

"You couldn't bother yourself with a journey that would take hours," Polly remarked; "and that for the sake of an invalid's crochet. It's better for you to stay at home and go to church on Sundays. If a young girl is in the ring, it's no reason why she should live like a heathen."

Rosalie gave an impatient little frown.

Humor of the Hour

"I assure you, madam," said he, "that I would not be begging my board from door to door if I could but procure employment at my profession."

He made the statement that in a certain family in Arkansas there were three pairs of twins. "It's called 'A Model Man,' and I think it's awfully stupid."

A Pet Dog.

The really smart pet dog to-day, according to The Daily Mail, wears whiskers or moustaches. As yet he does not wax the ends, but probably that will come. For great occasions his valet ties ribbon bows round them, and sends him to patter about the world like a tiny Dundreary with art trimmings. The much-admired adornments at present droop. They are, in fact, literally the "Piccadilly weepers" which aforetime artists loved to caricature, but doubtless new styles will be introduced. The upturned Kaiser moustache, for instance, seems to offer possibilities, while in fancy we may picture a French poodle waddling into a Bond street barber's shop, and emerging therefrom with beard trimmed a l'Imperial. The portrait here shown was sketched at the recent Crystal Palace Dog Show.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations.

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Oats a Safe Hen Food.

It is strange what fool theories men of good common sense will allow themselves to believe. Listen to this, which comes from one of our veterinary writers: "Oats in the hull will so injure and inflame the lining of the crop of the fowl as to cause death." As a theory, this is bad enough, but when we are told by some poultry editor that we must give up feeding oats because the practice is dangerous, then is becomes ridiculous. As a matter of fact, the hull of the oat is not of an inflammatory nature, and contains nothing that can possibly lead to an inflamed condition. Oats fed whole are not even irritating, as the hull is neither stiff nor sharp, and when moistened in the crop of the fowl becomes soft and pliable.

I have fed oats to hens and to growing chicks for years, and have never had one die from this cause. On the contrary, I believe oats to be not only a stimulating and energy-making food, but a very wholesome one as well. From my experience, which is by no means limited, I have come to believe that oats are one of the best egg-making foods we have; that they are productive of growth when fed to chicks, and that they go a great way toward keeping up the energy and health of the flock. The hull of the oat may not contain much nourishment, but it has some food value and is harmless.

Hens need some bulk to their food, and the oat hulls will keep the food from becoming too compact in the crop and digestive organs. There is no need to resort to the expense of feeding hulled or ground oats, whole oats are better and cheaper.

My flock of laying hens has eaten an average of one-half bushel each during the year—I have sometimes fed more—and the results have been satisfactory. Not a case of crop disease of any kind. —E. C. Dow, Belfast, Me., in N. Y. Tribune.

Devonshire Cream.

What is known as Devonshire cream is a species of pasteurized cream and is made as follows:—

"The milk must be taken direct from the cow and strained into the pans in the usual way. It should set in a cool dairy, and I believe for want of this cool apartment many a good housewife has failed to turn out the genuine article. Good, sound pans must be used, as they have to bear constant heating. There is an objectionable plan in some establishments of leaving the milk in the sheds for a time after it is drawn from the cow. Clotted cream made from such milk will not turn out a good flavor, as there is sure to have been more or less tainting of milk while standing about. Just now many Devonians milk out in the open field, and if the cows are quiet the plan has its advantages, for there is no tainting of milk there.

"This requires the most care; indeed, there is nothing else in the whole process but a mere tyro could manage. As soon as the milk is cold, or, say, about nine or twelve hours after brought from the cow, the pans are lifted to the fire. In big dairies there are what are known as Devonshire stoves especially made for the purpose. The stoves so made, heat water in which a number of pans may be set so as to scald a quantity of milk with little trouble. In smaller dairies the kitchen range does duty, the pans of milk being set in vessels of boiling water, or the pans may be set on a heated range. In any case, the object is to scald the milk, and to do it promptly and exactly. It should reach such a temperature that causes a little movement on the surface—a very slight simmer suffices; then it may be removed back to the dairy to get cold. When cold, the cream is taken off at convenience, and that is clotted cream, which is rightly, so highly esteemed. In cold weather the milk is all the better left for twenty-four hours or even thirty-six, before scalded."—Hoard's Dairyman.

Strawberry Cure for Rheumatism.

"The strawberry cure for rheumatism is the latest fad I have heard of," said a druggist. "This cure has, too, some reason and some fact behind it. Linnaeus, the great naturalist, cured himself of rheumatism with strawberries, and it has recently been proved that strawberries contain salicylic acid, which is the rheumatism remedy that all physicians use. Linnaeus, I understand, was very poor and very rash. In studying nature he would go out in all weathers, and it is said that he would often sleep all night in wet clothes. Consequently, rheumatism developed in him. He cured this disease by eating several quarts of strawberries a day. His biographers narrate the story, and in that way the fruit's popularity as a rheumatic specific was achieved. Lately, on account of the discovery of salicylic acid in strawberries, this popularity has increased. I know a great many rheumatic persons who are eating strawberries three times a day, with great benefit to their heath. Salicylic acid, the rheumatic specific, is used also to keep milk fresh and to preserve meat." —Philadelphia Record.

The size of the seed for potatoes influences the yield. In England whole potatoes are used almost in every section, and successful growers in the United States use seed potatoes cut in half, never cutting to smaller sizes. Deep ploughing, deep planting and level culture give better results than hilling. A single plant in a place gives the largest tubers, but not so many as when two or more plants are together.

Senior Fruit Inspector Alex. McNeill is still attending the fall fairs, giving his interesting and instructive demonstrations of the proper packing and marking of apples and pears for the export trade. He was at Brantford on October 2nd, at Burford on October 7th, and on the 15th he will be in attendance at the Simcoe Model Fair.

Thank heaven, there is still some mystery left in the world. A book with a title like that of "The Masked Tawareks" makes us grateful that we live now and not some hundred years hence, when all the tracts of the world will be accurately mapped and epitomized in gazetteers, when no surprise will meet the traveler anywhere, when savage peoples will have died out or have become civilized into shirts and Sunday hats, and wild beasts will survive only as stuffed specimens in museums.

The masked Tawareks! Critical honesty compels us to say that the author is a mighty long while in getting at them; but the journey and the search are thoroughly enjoyable. The Tawareks are the people we hear of so often in connection with French extension in North Africa. The Sahara is their country—the Sahara of sand, loneliness and desolation; the Sahara of the oasis, the palm plantation and the solitary mosque. As to the origin of the Tawareks and their language let the learned decide. Our author describes them as a Berber race; but, whatever their history or descent, certain it is that to-day they are nomads of the Sahara who levy blackmail on all who use the caravan routes through the desert, and, failing concession of their demands, make free to pay themselves in the "good old way, the simple plan." They live in small wandering communities far from the settled haunts of other peoples, to whom they are known chiefly as raiders who come like a whirlwind upon the encampment in the dark before the dawn, and make no scruple to take human life if they are resisted. To visit the Tawareks, note their ways and customs, and if possible photograph their countenances, was the object of our author. This last promised to be difficult, for it is a point of almost religious etiquette among the Tawareks to keep the face covered up to the level of the eyes with a folded cloth. How Mr. King found his Tawareks at last, and succeeded in taking photographs of three of their women, whom he persuaded to unveil in the absence of the men, makes most interesting reading. The countenance of the young male Tawarek whom, with much greater difficulty than in the case of the women, he induced to uncover his face is extremely fine as reproduced by photography. The youth might be poet as well as warrior. How far it is typical the author does not say, and probably cannot, as he had few opportunities of seeing uncovered faces. But he tells us enough of other characteristics of the Tawareks, the pride, the dignity, the small well-formed hands, the stature, the fearlessness, to wake in us that ancient belief in the open air as the true sphere of man's perfection and ennoblement.

So also when we turn from the men to the desert scenes so well described in the book, how the desires of youth are stirred once more. Again we learn the true significance of that sadly misused word "oasis" as we follow the little company of men and camels through some long day's journey over the limitless sand, so hot that it can scarcely be held in the hand, so unpermanent that the piled-up mounds and dunes shift from year to year, so loose that in places one sinks in it ankle-deep. In due time, but never before desired, appear in the distance the specks of tufted palms. The camel quickens its pace until it reaches the hollow where lies stretched a green place of shrubs, trees, berries and flowers, a place of mud houses, mud mosques and—water. On the morrow the desert again, and sand, sand, as far as the next oasis. We have read of all this before, of the glare, the sky colors, the mirages, the salt pools, but we do not remember to have heard of the "weird, unaccountable droning of the Sahara" at all hours by day and night. The booming of London we know, and the long moan of the sea, and the crooning of the night winds among the hills, but that droning of the Sahara is a thing we would go far to hear for its own sake. Indeed the book shows us how good is life even in the desert. The Sahara can be no mere waste while the Tawareks survive.

France has painted the Sahara into her maps as her own. And most strange it is to read the description of a Sheik's house wherein cheap French trinkets and ornaments were mingled with objects of true Arab art and fabrication. Nickel alarm clocks and china shepherdesses have reached the oases, but over the Sahara as a habitable place prevails and must prevail the Tawarek. Civilization requires that he should not harry caravans and exact blackmail, but we have a sneaking desire that he may long continue to do so.—London "Outlook."

Meant for a Compliment.

Immigrants, the workers in the social settlements say, so often wish to adapt themselves as fast as possible in ways and speech to their new environment that they sometimes acquire the language, as it were, wrong side foremost, getting a vivid and modern assortment of slang before they can use even ordinary words correctly.

A young woman who has taught a class of little foreign-born girls, and who happens to be in appearance peculiarly small, dainty and elegant, had the pleasure recently of overhearing two of her pupils speaking of her, says the "Youth's Companion."

"She is a bully lady!" said the first with enthusiasm. "She is great!"

"Oh, yes," assented the other, "she is great, she is gran', she is immense! An' the hat she wears! It is a most stylish corker."

Another woman had a more startling experience. She is plump and pleasing to look at, just right in the eyes of her friends, but in her own a little too near the point where one ceases to say plump and begins to use a less agreeable word; and that she may some day slip over the line of division between the two is her secret and haunting fear. As a charity-worker and in pure neighborly kindness she has made many friends among the foreign-born residents of her city. One of them, a voluble, warm-hearted woman of middle age, whose vocabulary is innocent of more than one pronoun, and all but the most direct and obvious adjectives, once met her unexpectedly in the street after a vacation from which the settlement-worker had returned rosy, sunburned, vigorous, and carrying an extra pound or two which she preferred not to remember.

Her friend rushed up to her beaming with welcome, seized her in an enveloping embrace, and then, wishing to express a polite appreciation of her blooming appearance, exclaimed loudly in a voice of rapture:—

"Gosh! Ain't he fat!"

THOUSANDS HUNT FOR DEER

Trains in Michigan Delayed by Heavy Travel

Marquette, Mich., Nov 12. — Fifteen thousand deer hunters are said to have invaded the upper peninsula of Michigan. Eleven hundred licenses were issued in Negaunee alone. The influx of hunters is so great that trains are delayed and great stacks of hunters' baggage is piled around every stopping place. Deer are plentiful. No accidents are yet reported.

Naval Reserve Volunteers.

Preparations for the inauguration of the new London Naval Reserve Volunteers are being energetically pushed forward, says The Daily Graphic, and before very long the sloop Buzzard, which is being fitted out for her new duties in Chatham Dockyard, will take up her moorings at Blackfriars Bridge. The Buzzard, which is a twin-screw vessel, built in 1886, is being thoroughly overhauled and fitted with quickfiring and machine guns of the latest pattern. When the alterations are completed the masts, funnel and bridge will be removed, in order to allow the ship to pass under the London bridges, and these will be replaced when she reaches her destination. Numbers of men have been already enlisted, and more come forward daily, many enthusiastic yachtsmen being among them. The Hon. Rupert Guinness, eldest son of Lord Iveagh, will command the new body. He is well known as a yachtsman and an oarsman at Henley. The London Division will consist of not fewer than five companies, and each company of at least 100 men. Men are expected to enlist for three years to earn their capitation grant and first supply of kit. They must put in forty drills in the first year and twenty-four in every subsequent year, of not less than one hour each. They may attend for this drill any night from 4 to 8 o'clock. There will be a cruise in some sea going man-of-war, probably just after the manoeuvres every year. It will be optional for a man to take part in this cruise, but one day's service at sea will count as five drills at home.

A Curious Watch.

In one of the chief watchmaking establishments in Zurich, says The London Globe, there is to be seen a remarkable curiosity in the way of watch or clock making. The timepiece is in the form of a ball, which moves imperceptibly down an inclined surface, without rolling. The length of this inclined surface, which is sixteen inches long, is accomplished from top to bottom in twenty-four hours. Then the "ball" only needs lifting to the top again. This extraordinary timepiece has no spring, and therefore needs no winding. The "hands" are kept in motion by the sliding along an inclined plane.

A Study of Whales.

Although it is a common belief among sailors that whales, when they "sound" descend to enormous depths in the ocean, and although Dr. Kukenthal has estimated that the larger whales commonly dive to a depth of almost two-thirds of a mile, yet Dr. Racovitza, of the Belgian Antarctic expedition, challenges these statements, and avers that about three hundred feet is the maximum depth to which a whale can dive. He bases this statement partly on the fact that the fish on which they feed, and to obtain which they are accustomed to "sound," dwell near the surface, and partly on the fact that at the depth of 1,000 yards or more the pressure is so great that they could not withstand it, and that their muscular strength is not sufficient to propel them into the regions where it prevails.

Extraordinary Letters.

Some extraordinary letters, says The London Express, have passed between the builders employed by the Wesleyan Methodist body for the erection of the new headquarters on the site of the Westminster Aquarium, and Mr. W. J. Glover of King's Heath, a prominent member of the temperance party in Birmingham. As the whole of the site is not required for the Wesleyan building, portions are advertised to be let on lease, and Mr. Glover wrote to inquire if there would be any objection to a tenant taking out a liquor license. The reply was in the negative. The Wesleyan body would "not make any restriction as to a license, but the arrangements for obtaining such a license would be left to the tenant." This drew from Mr. Glover the following remarkable reply:—"On seeing your huge advertisement on the dismantled building, inviting applications for leasing the spare land, I endeavored to satisfy a sceptical friend by proving that the Wesleyan Conference would at least keep their property clear of the liquor traffic. In order to prove this I wrote to you. Remembering how Nonconformists have criticized the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for being the land-owners of many public house sites in Westminster, and knowing that in deference to public opinion they had in recent years discontinued many of these licensed houses as fast as the leases lapsed, I am staggered to think that hereafter the beerhouse or gin-palace business thus ousted by the Established Church may find sanctuary for eighty years within the precincts of the headquarters of Wesleyan Methodism and on its freehold."

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 200 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure the gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

WHERE TO FIND SAFE INVESTMENT

The Bret Harte Gold Mining Company

IS A GOOD PROPOSITION

One That Should Meet with a Hearty Response

Actual statistics compiled by the United States Mining Bureau concerning the production of the State of California show that the annual production of earning per capita of those engaged in farming is about $300.00, in manufacturing, including its bounties, about $1,000.00, in mining, with all its burdens and penalties, nearly $1,500.00, and yet many people denounce the business of mining as comparatively precarious and unprofitable. The question for the small investor to consider is: "How can I invest my savings safely so that they will produce a higher rate of interest than is paid by the Savings Banks? I can not afford to buy railroad stock or other securities of that class." There are securities, however, in which a small investor can today place his savings and receive a rate of dividend far greater than provided by savings banks, and even greater than that paid by railroad stocks—and these securities are mining stocks. One thousand shares owned in any of the great number of dividend paying mines today would have made the small investor a comparative fortune, and, as we have before stated, investors before putting money into any proposition should see that they are getting into a legitimate industry, which will be conducted on a business basis.

That there are any substantial reasons why capital should be timid or fearful in legitimate mining is not apparent. Moneyed men engage vigorously in other pursuits without hesitation, when to the impartial and capable observer there seemed to be no more assurance to the investor in these several lines of industry than there is in investing in legitimate mining. Investors should be no more timid in the mining business than in any other industry, and if they will investigate with the same care and caution as they would in investing in a foundry or a farm or a merchandising establishment, they will get proportionately better results. Why is it necessary to offer any promising stock for general subscription? Why do not local capitalists secure the whole issue if it promises such large profits, and why is the company willing to dispose of any interest in a valuable property?

These are common questions, and seem reasonable on their face, yet they are in fact, extremely unreasonable and illogical. Mining stocks are offered to general investors when one man has not sufficient capital to successfully operate the properties, however valuable they may be. The company owning the property needs the money. The party with the money wants profit. The company is perfectly willing that the party with money shall share the immense profits of the mine in exchange for the use of the money that is needed to develop the mine.

Nothing of magnitude in local enterprises ever proves a success without the aid of outside capital. It is the history of most great and successful companies, in mining especially, that the combination of the investments of the many have universally created the profits, and rendered possible great enterprises. Without the division of investment through the medium of capitalization there would be no great mining successes. Investigation will prove true every word of this to the most skeptical. It is good for any man to investigate, and it is good for any proposition of merit to have him do so.

The Bret Harte Gold Mining Company of Phoenix, Arizona, wants you to investigate. This company was incorporated under the laws of Arizona and Phoenix is the home of every officer and director.

They have a property that is worthy the consideration of any conservative investor. Unlike the great majority of mining companies they did not offer a share of their stock to the general public until they had developed the property sufficiently to warrant the installation of a machinery plant for the proper treatment of the large bodies of ore actually in sight. They were content in assuming all the responsibilities during the speculation period of the property, and now in order to raise sufficient funds to install a ten stamp mill they are placing upon the market 100,000 shares of Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, par value $1.00, subject to advance without notice. Note a few important facts concerning this company: Capital stock, $1,000,000, par value, $1.00, Stock fully paid and absolutely non-assessable. Large Treasury Reserve. Patented property with unclouded title. Mine developed to the extent of showing large bodies of ore in sight, so that every share of stock is represented by good value. Officers and directors are all men of high standing, who refer to any bank or business house in their own city for reference as to character and responsibility.

They have a prospectus giving full information. Write for it. R. J. KIDD. Special Agent.

Germany's Rise.

The most significant fact in the world-politics of the hour is the rise of Germany as a great naval power, says The Literary Digest. Of this we are assured on the authority of the ablest contemporary writers who deal with international affairs in the current European periodicals. Students of the subject were long inclined to doubt the ability of the Berlin Government to realize its ambitions in the direction of sea power. No doubts are entertained at present. France, the second naval power, will yield that position to Germany by the year [illegible], perhaps by the year [illegible], we are informed. The following from The National Review (London) represents expert though anonymous opinion:—"The German fleet is at present being yearly increased by two first-class battleships, one armored cruiser and six destroyers, while at the same time additional ships are to be constructed to replace those which become obsolete. This is business, and not haphazard and panic building like our own. Twenty-five years from the date of the laying down of each battleship on the list, a new Ersatzbau, or supplementary ship, has to be laid down to take the old vessel's place. It follows that in [illegible] Germany will dispose of fourteen battleships of modern design, and in [illegible] of at least twenty, and perhaps twenty-five, with a proportion of armored cruisers and destroyers. Owing to the fact that the programme is determined long beforehand for a term of years, ships are built more cheaply than in any other country. The shipbuilders and armor-plate makers know exactly what orders to expect, and can make arrangements accordingly, while the steadiness and regularity of the demand enable them to keep their plants occupied."

The mobilization of the fleet, under the German system, we read further, is "rapid in the extreme." "Germany counts much upon the rapidity of her action at the outset, upon striking heavy blows before the antagonist is ready—in a word, upon using the weapon which surprise offers to the well-prepared." Here is a statement of what the immediate present holds in store:—"The German fleet at the close of this year will number eight modern battleships of the first-class, with two modern armored cruisers, which are for many purposes little inferior to battleships, eight older battleships of inferior power, but recently rebuilt and brought up to date in many respects, and twenty-four destroyers. The new ships in this fleet are admirably designed, heavily armed, and well officered and manned. The shooting is excellent, for last summer before the Kaiser the flagship fired eight rounds in a minute from a six-inch gun, and every shot hit the target. This is quite as good as the practice of the very best of our ships, and is undoubtedly a fine performance. In coaling a German battleship holds the world's record, having taken on fuel at the rate of [illegible] tons an hour, though it is true that the total quantity shipped was less than is usually embarked in the case of British battleships, and, therefore, the strain on the crew was less severe. It is then obvious that the German navy, so far as can be judged by the mathematical tests usually applied, has attained a very high degree of efficiency."

Prospectus

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO., Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong.

Change of Life

A TIME OF INTEREST AND GREAT IMPORTANCE TO ALL WOMEN.

Wrecked health is produced by neglect during this trying period, and small wonder that women look forward with dread to its coming, for if not properly passed, is but the beginning of an endless chain of troubles.

As soon as the unmistakable signs known to all women make their first appearance, Ferrozone should be used regularly, and if persistently taken will be a guarantee of happy, healthy old age.

Nothing can bring more pleasure than to know that the days of sickness and suffering are over. This can best be accomplished by building up the system with Ferrozone, which produces blood, muscle, tissue, and strength to resist and ward off disease.

Ferrozone increases the appetite strengthens and improves nerve tone and digestive processes, thereby strengthening and invigorating the whole system. It gives tone to the heart, regulates its action, removes distressing palpitations, and it lays the solid foundation of perfect health

Ferrozone is a sensible and efficient tonic; It brings back strength very quickly, and few people are so strong and healthy, that they would not be benefited by using it.

Be advised and try Ferrozone. It is very pleasant to take, one tablet after each meal. All reliable druggists sell it for 50c. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE CORDOVA MINES

Have Been Closed Indefinitely by the Company

Big Loss to the Eastern Section of the Country—Nearly 250 Men Thrown Out of Employment

The report which was circulated in town regarding the closing of the gold mines at Cordova, in Belmont Township turns out to be true. Yesterday a Times representative interviewed Mr. Wm. Johns, Superintendent, who stated that the mines were closed indefinitely. The order came from the headquarters of the company in England, no explanation being offered. Mr. Johns, however, thought that this step was taken on account of some internal trouble in the Company, and not from anything in connection with the work here, which was in a flourishing condition, the ore yielding good profits.

The closing of the mines will throw about 250 men out of employment.

That work will be suspended for some time is indicated by the fact that Mr. Johns and other miners are leaving for the United States.

POLICE COURT

Three Young Men Fined for Furious Driving in Town

Each was fined $2.00, the costs being $6.30, which was to be paid between them in ten days.

A QUIET HOME WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Annie L. Hutchinson and Mr. Fred Fossey

On Wednesday afternoon the home of the bride's brother Mr. Ernest Hutchinson, Sheridan st., was the scene of a very pretty but quiet wedding, when Miss Annie L. Hutchinson, daughter of Mrs. Thos. Hutchinson, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred. Fossey, of Chatham. Rev. J. Barrow tied the nuptial knot in the presence of a large number of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party sat down to a dainty and enjoyable wedding breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Fossey left on the C.P.R. evening train, for their home in Chatham accompanied by the best wishes of their many friends.

AN INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE

Given Last Night Under the Auspices of Fortnightly Club

There was a large attendance last night at the Y.M.C.A. Hall to hear Dr. Baker of Toronto University, deliver his lecture on "The Beginnings of Astronomy." The chair was able filled by Rev. J. C. Davidson, who introduced the speaker in a few well chosen words. The lecture was delightfully interesting and a vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Baker for his great treat.

During the evening Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot sang Reginald Grove's "Can I Forget?" which was heartily applauded and Miss Alice Roger gave a piano forte solo in splendid style, showing the perfection of that young lady's marvellous ability as a pianiste.

The Fortnightly Club are to be congratulated on the success of their first effort of the season.

READY NEXT WEEK

No Formal Opening of the Lift Lock Till Spring

The Times is informed that no formal opening of the lift lock will take place until spring—probably May or June. The lock is now practically finished, the only work yet to be done is the rubber tubing of the gates and a few odds and ends.

The work on Section two of the Balsam Lake division will also be completed this fall, and on section three early next year.

It is now up to the Government to let the contract for the section between Healey's Falls and Trenton. This should be done at once, so that a start may be made early next year. No appropriation has been made for further sections by Parliament, but as the House will probably meet this winter, the required cash will no doubt be then forthcoming. The whole canal should be completed as soon as possible.

A Mammoth Holiday Issue

The December Delineator (Christmas Number) represents the high-water mark of beauty and utility, and possibly of circulation also, in a woman's magazine, having a first edition of more than a million copies. It contains 240 pages. To produce this mammoth edition 728 tons of paper and 40 presses working 25 days were required. In addition to exquisite color work, clever fiction and strikingly illustrated articles, the number includes a display of charming Winter fashions covering forty-two pages letters from the foreign fashion centres and illustrated articles on the fashionable fabrics and trimmings, millinery, etc. Among the notable contributors are: Richard Le Gallienne, with a delicate romance, A Wedding Ring in the Garden, containing lyrics in the author's best vein; W. A. Frazer, with an Indian tale, the Nut of Leo; Albert Bigelow Paine, with a delightful sketch founded on the foibles of the collector; Harriet Prescott Spofford, with a love story of unusual interest; Andrew Lang, with a clever travesty on the usual fairy tale; and Gustav Kobbe, with an interesting paper describing the life of Mme. Emma Eames, in her Italian home, with her portrait in colors. There is also the third installment of the Evolution of a Club Woman, the piquant narrative of clubdom by Agnes Surbridge, and a remarkable photographic article by J. C. Hemment. There are many beautiful art features, among them four pages in colors representing Babydom, Childhood, Girlhood and Motherhood—the work of Bernard J. Rosenmeyer. For the children there are entertaining games and stories and for the housewife many practical suggestions in cookery, and other departments of the home, for the Christmas season.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

A Man Cut in Two by a Circular Saw in Lindsay

Lindsay Post—The saw mill owned by the Kennedy & Davis Co., near the Wellington street bridge, was the scene of a horrible fatality about 8.30 o'clock Wednesday morning, the unfortunate victim being an employee named Laliberte, a Frenchman, aged about 50 years who was hurried into eternity without a moment's warning.

Laliberte, who had been in the employ of the firm for about seven years, was a sort of "handy man" about the premises, and yesterday morning Foreman Sam Frecharre placed him in charge of the butting saw, a large circular saw, revolving at a high rate of speed and used for the splitting of blocks cut from the logs by the drag saw, operated sometimes away by Ernest Louyca.

How the accident happened is mainly a matter of conjecture. Bouyca was working with his back to his companion and about 8.30—hearing the saw give a different note to that produced by its passage through a block of wood—looked around just in time to see the body of his companion fall from the saw—his head on the right side and the trunk and extremities on the left. Horrified he at once gave the alarm, the mill machinery was stopped, and the men flocked to view the remains of their late comrade and discuss the sad accident with bated breath.

It is supposed the unfortunate man, who was of slight build, must have stumbled while trying to place one of the heavy blocks in position on the small travelling carriage that conveys the blocks to the saw, a few feet away. Whether the poor fellow fell against the saw face downwards or backwards has not yet been made clear, but the body was severed in diagonal fashion, the saw apparently entering the left side below the arm and cutting its way upward, emerging near the right shoulder.

Last Sunday anniversary services were held, and in the afternoon four hundred young ladies and children were present with uncovered heads. Mr. Johnston states that the matter is not a personal one with him, for so far as he was concerned he would not object if the ladies had their heads in bushel baskets. He said he was acting solely in the interests of the man and women who objected to sitting in church behind hats which reached from shoulder to shoulder of the wearer.

The recent marriage of a couple of cripples, each having only half the proper complement of arms and legs, was noted by the press as a "connubial curiosity." But who notes the marriages which occur daily in which both parties are cripples in health.

Crippled health means, as a rule, insufficient nutrition, and lack of nutrition points to disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tract. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nourishment of the body, and so builds it up in sound health and strength.

"I had been a great sufferer from indigestion for the last nine years," writes Mrs. Margaret Stingle, of Owings Mills, Baltimore Co., Md. "I was such a wreck it seemed death was near, but to-day can say I feel like another woman. I have received much and lasting good from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I have taken twenty-five bottles in all, and followed the advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, and am happy to say that life is worth living now. A thousand thanks for your treatment."

Do not be cajoled into trading a substance for a shadow. Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery."

BUBONIC PLAGUE INVADES WHOLE OF CENTRAL INDIA

Natives Fight the Means of Prevention--Letter Received in Toronto Tells a Sad Story of the Mortality Among the People

Toronto, Nov. 13—Word was received at the Presbyterian Mission rooms today that the bubonic plague has at last invaded the whole of Central India, and in a most virulent form. In the city of Mhow out of 6,000 cases, only 700 recovered. The daily death rate is increasing alarmingly, and the people are becoming panic-stricken. Night after night great bonfires are kindled along the streets throughout the town and a pall of smoke hangs over it, but the pestilence is not ceasing its deadly work, and family after family are beginning to fly to other cities.

A great fear has taken possession of the hearts of the people, but in their prejudices they will not avail themselves of the measures of relief provided by the authorities. They will not submit to inoculation with plague serum, believing that it is a device to kill off the surplus population of India. They will not take their sick to the hospitals provided for them, pleading in excuse, that everyone conveyed to a plague institution is given poison and destroyed. In some cases, the letter states, the inmates of a house having locked the door, fled, leaving a stricken relative to his fate, and only hours or days after the death, has the body been discovered.

The outlook is gloomy. It is now only the beginning of the cold season, and usually only as the hot season advances does the plague di out.

The authorities are making preparation by providing booths for shops on the plain, that the people may remain there until all danger from returning to their houses is past.

PREFERENCE PLAN WAS EXTENDED

Mr. Chamberlain Explains Misapprehension of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach

COLONIAL MANUFACTURES

Will Participate in the Preferential Treatement in Common with Grain

London, Nov. 13—Mr. Chamberlain has made an extension in his preferential scheme of highest importance to Canada. He originally contemplated an overage ten per cent. duty on all British imports of manufactured and semi-manufactured goods. Calculating the duty of £143,000,000 of trade this would bring £15,000,000 into the British exchequer. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach in a recent speech, seized upon this fact to illustrate the inevitable Canadian friction and pictured the chagrin of all interested in the Canadian lumber trade, when they were specially taxed, while Canadian wheat growers were given a special preference.

Mr. Chamberlain now writing to a friend, shows that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach quite misapprehended the proposal, and states that the ten per cent. duty will be upon foreign manufactures only, Colonial manufactures being exempt. The latter will account for £16,000,000 out of the £144,000,000.

Mr. Chamberlain adds "All these matters will be, of course, the subjects of friendly bargain between the British and Colonial Ministers when the British electorate authorize negotiations. Our object will be to affect a fair give-and-take arrangement."

BRITISH MARKET FOR CANADA'S WHEAT

Secretary of Tariff Reform League Speaks at Birmingham

THE COLONIES ARE READY

Sir William Houldsworth M, P. on Significance of Colonial Attitude

London, November 14— At a meeting of the Birmingham Debating Society C. A. Vince, secretary of the Tariff Reform League, said that Canadians were members of an Empire potentially far vaster greater and wealthier than the federation of the United States of America, but from membership in that Empire they derived no commercial advantage whatever. They knew that the United States was ready to-morrow, if they would be disloyal to the English flag, to admit them to the advantage of the American commercial system. Could it be wondered that Canada had been calling for preferential trade, that in her impatience she had not waited for us to set the example but had shown us how to do it? What was wanted from Canadians was such a preference for our manufacturers as would be sufficient to counterbalance the advantage which the manufacturers of the United States had in their proximity. What Canada wanted was an absolutely secure market for her wheat, and a two-shilling preference was sufficient to secure the English markets for years to come for Canadian wheat.

A CRISIS IN JAPAN

Heavy Loss to Spanish Commerce of Late Years

Madrid, Nov. 13—Chambers of Commerce throughout Spain are petitioning the Government to take prompt steps for the negotiation of commercial treaties with the United States and the Republics of South America. They emphasize Spain's trade losses, which have resulted from the altered position of Cuba Porto Rico, and the Philippines and warn the Government that failure to act quickly will entail general disaster. The Chambers further declare that the world is on the verge of revolutionary commercial development and that only the most viligant nations can escape serious if not fatal, injury.

PARLIAMENTARY PARTY

British M. P's. will Visit St. Louis and Canada

New York, November 14—Dr. H. S. Lunn, chairman of the new Reform Club of London, arrived on the Oceanic yesterday. He comes to arrange for a visit of a number of members of Parliament to the St. Louis Exposition next year. This Parliamentary tour will be similar to the Canadian Parliamentary tour in which Lord Lyvedon, Sir Edward Clarke and others have recently taken part. It is anticipated that the general elections will take place in the spring, and this will enable large numbers to join who were prevented by the political situation this year from visiting Canada and New York. The route will be outward to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington St. Louis and homeward by Chicago, the lakes. Toronto, and probably the other Canadian cities.

BRITAIN REMAINS FIRM

Will Not Resume Relations with Servian Government

Vienna. Nov. 13—It is announced in a despatch received here from Belgrade Servia, that the British Charge d'Affaires there refused to receive the congratulations of the Servian Government on the birthday of King Edward. This refusal was in accordance with his instructions not to maintain diplomatic relations with King Peter's Government. The affair has caused some sensation.

Another despatch from Belgrade says King Peter will ask Russia to endeavor to persuade Great Britain to abandon her present attitude towards the Servian Government.

THE ROSS RIFLE

New Canadian Militia Arm will be Ready Soon

Quebec, Nov. 13—The Ross rifle factory is making rapid progress with the work of the manufacture of the new Ross rifle and the management expect to begin a delivery of the new arm for the fulfilment of the Dominion Government order in the near future. The great difficulty Sir Charles Ross and his managers have had to contend with and which in a great measure has retarded the work has been want of skilled labor. There are at the present 150 men employed in the works, and the parts of 15,000 rifles have been manufac

Sir Charles Ross is now having constructed a new four-story building in front of the factory, which, when completed, will be utilized for offices and apartments set apart for the Government inspectors. There are already five Government inspectors engaged on the premises, but this number will have to be very considerably increased when the rifle is turned out in its finished state. The rifles will first be put together in the factory and passed to the Government inspectors, whose duty it will be to take every one apart, inspect the same by guage measurement, etc., and then reassemble them. This will necessitate a large staff of Government inspectors, no less, it is thought, than 25.

TO MEET IN JERUSALEM

Arrangements for the Big Sunday School Convention in the Holy City

St. Louis, Nov. 13—W. K. Warren, chairman of the central executive committee of the Internationa. Sunday School Association, today announced the plans for the world's Sunday school convention.

"An immense tent has arrived in Jerusalem, said he, "for the world's fourth Sunday school convention, which will be held there April 18, 19, and 20, 1904. The tent will be pitched near Calvary and the tombs just north of the city of Jerusalem and will seat from 1,200 to 1,400 persons.

"Only a few berths are now vacant on the specially chartered steamer Grosser Kurfurst, which conveys the American delegation to the convention, and the ship which carries the English delegates is likewise filling fast. It will be the largest Protestant gathering that has ever taken place in Jerusalem."

Washington, Nov. 14 — Miss Alice Roosevelt has discarded the side saddle and conventional riding habit, and now rides in divided skirts.

The announcement that she was receiving instruction in the new style of riding caused a flutter among conservative Washingtonians but the president's daughter and Mrs. Rider her teacher now pass through the parks, mounted astride without causing unusual comment.

Miss Mason daughter of former Senator Mason of Illinois, was the first woman prominent in Washington society to adopt the more natural style of riding

PROTEST OF FINLAND

London Times Says it will Not be Kept from Czar's Notice

London, Nov. 14—The Times published the text of the petition pointing out the lamentable conditions in Finland, which three prominent exiled Finlanders attempted to present to the Czar personally at Darmstadt. In an editorial upon the subject the Times says the uncompromising document impeaches so boldly and directly M. Plehve's version of the state of affairs in Finland that it is quite certain that no pains will be spared to prevent it coming under the Czar's notice. It is characteristic of the omnipotent development of the Russian bureaucracy that the representative spokesmen of Finland's grievances should have been denied access to the Czar. Their petition, is a plain, unvarnished statement of truth, which it is impossible to contradict, sets out the chief flagrant inroads on the liberties of a country always proud of its constitutional government, and closes with an expression of "the bitter discontent and deep distrust which have taken possession of the heart and mind of the people since arbitrary oppression became the policy of the Government.

Chicago, Nov. 14—If Dowie should consider himself a failure as a crusader, he might be a success as a weather regulator. In the current issue of his Leaves of Healing he prints testimonia. letters from seven followers who allege that the kind of weather they wanted came soon after they wrote Dowie, asking him to pray for it.

At Klondike, Ore.; Perry and Norwood N.Y.; Stewartstown, N.H., North Springfield and North Danville, Vt., rain came to break the drouth as soon as Dowie had had time to order it by request. Also at Forest City, Iowa, the wet spell was broken when a follower wrote Dowie to stop the showers.

Speaking of the New York election, Dowie writes: "It was a horrible triumph and the two years of Tammany that lie before this people are likely to be two years of terror, for liquid fire and distilled damnation will be in tower."

SWEDEN PROTESTS TO RUSSIA

Against Ill Treatment of Swedish Subjects in Finland

Stockholm, Nov. 14—Enquiries are being instituted by the Swedish legation at St. Petersburg concerning a flagrant outrage committed at Helsingfors on a Swedish civil engineer named Biordklung, employed in the Finnish capital by a German machine manufacturer. Biordklund was arrested just as he left a place of amusement; taken to the police station, lodged in a dirty cell, stripped naked and left to spend the night without food, drink, fire or bed clothing. At 11 o'clock in the morning he was given his clothes and dismissed, with the statement that he was suspected of being a sympathizer with the revolutionists.

While Sweden is loath to incur the illwill of the Russian Government it does not intend to ignore the incident lest it become a precedent for general persecution of Swedish subjects in Finland.

TRADE HIT BY SURTAX

Canada's Imports of Sugar Cement and Woolens will be Diverted

Ottawa, Nov. 12—The surtax of one-third applied to all imports from Germany this month, and will undoubtedly result in a decrease in our purchases from that country. The Commissioner of Customs seems to think that it will hit especially the trade which German firms did in sugar and cement with this country, and in woolens, too. He is satisfied that a large share of the imports in these lines will come instead from other countries.

The Trade and Commerce Department has had no intimation from the contractors for the South African steamship service of their intention to discontinue the sailings and the report which emanated from a Toronto paper is apparently entirely untrue.

MAY SUPPLY MEAT.

London, Nov. 13—The War Office has invited Australia to tender for the contract to supply meat to the troops at Malta for the next twelve months.

AT THE CONSISTORY.

London, Nov. 13—Among those present at Pope Pius' first public consistory were Mgr. Labroque, Bishop of Chicoutimi, and Father Clapin, rector of a Canadian college.

HAMAR GREENWOOD SPEAKS.

London, Nov. 13—Under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association of Southport, Mr. Hamar Greenwood formerly of Toronto, yesterday delivered a lecture, illustrated by lantern pictures. Afterward the lecturer was besieged by numerous enquirers, wishing further details.

BIRDS FOR CANADA.

London, Nov. 13—A large consignment of birds is being sent to British Columbia for the Victoria Natural History Society. The consignment includes 100 pairs of goldfinches, 100 pairs of larks, and 50 pairs of robins.

A SESSION LIKELY TO BE HELD IN JANUARY

Leading Supporter of the Government Says Parliament will be Called Early and Its Session Short

Ottawa, Nov. 13—"I would not be at all surprised if Parliament were to be called together quite early in the new year."

This is the declaration of one of the Government's leading supporters, a gentleman who is trusted by the party leaders, and who should know whereof he speaks.

"My impression is that the session, moreover, will be under way in January. The legislative program for the next meeting of Parliament cannot be a very heavy one. The Government business will consist mainly in the passage of the estimates, and there is no reason on earth why we should not be through and away long before the warm weather.

"I hardly think our political opponents would attempt to spin the session out as they did this year. They would have absolutely nothing to gain by adopting obstructive tactics, and the talk cannot last all year, unless there is something to talk about."

Press Comment on Harold Jarvis

Who sings at Ladies Auxiliary Concert, Nov. 19:—

"Never sang as well as he did last night. He electrified the audience. He was recalled the third time.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"The big edifice was hushed almost to the stillness of death as the dulcet tones were whispering forth. Altogether Mr. Jarvis sang twelve times and if he had chosen, would have been singing all night, such was the appreciation of the audience. —Daily Tribune, Winnipeg.

Opera House with Owen Smiley the unrivalled entertainer and Miss Alice Dean the brilliant vocalist. Plan opens Nov. 16 at 10 a.m. at Ormond & Walsh's. Reserved seats 75 and 50 cents. Rush seats 25 cents.

OFF FOR SCHOOL

Send Youngster Away Well Fed

Unless the school child has food that nourishes brain and nerves as well as muscles the child will not develop as it should.

Brain wastes away daily just like the rest of the body and must be rebuilt and the only way to do this is by the proper food selected for just this purpose.

A school girl of Worcester, Mass., wrote an interesting article about her experiments with food to study on: "Two years ago I had indigestion so bad that food did not nourish me and I lost a great deal of flesh and strength and was always suffering from trouble in my stomach. I could not study for my head always seemed clogged up.

"One day at school I noticed that one of the girls had a box of Grape-Nuts. I asked her about it, and from what she told me, made up my mind to try the food.

"As the result of eating Grape-Nuts three times a day in place of improperly selected food I have at last found the way to permanently cure my indigestion. Grape-Nuts food is light, delicious and digests without trouble, the heavy feeling in my stomach is gone and I have been gaining flesh rapidly ever since I made the change to Grape-Nuts.

"Not only is the improvement physical but I feel so much better and clearer in my head, and I have more ambition than I have ever known before. I used to feel so fagged out in my brain and stupid and had headaches but that is all gone and now I feel like a new person.

"I am absolutely certain that Grape-Nuts helps me get my lessons, because now I can sit for hours and study and accomplish a great deal while when I was living on the old diet I would simply sit there and accomplish nothing.

"To tell the truth Grape-Nuts, as I tell all my friends, worked a miracle in my case. My mother is signing this letter to confirm all the statements I have made." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek. Mich.

THEY ARE WAKING UP

American Farmers See the Peril which Faces Them

Of Losing the British Market and so Want Reciprocity

New York, Nov. 14—The Press says: It is somewhat startling at first blush to find The American Agriculturist saying, "God speed the day when the American flag waves over one united, happy and virtuous people, from the Isthmus to the Pole," for this the national organ of the farmers of the United States, and no part of our citizenship has been more strongly committed to the policy of protection than the farmers, and where their direct interest has lain for the most part has been in protective tariffs against the agricultural products of Canada. No doubt, however, the American Agriculturist has in mind what many others of us see in Mr. Chamberlain's programme —the loss of our market in Great Britain to Canada under a preferential tariff favoring the entry of the products of our northern neighbor into the British market. It has always been characteristic of the farmer of the United States that he has been able to distinguish very clearly between a hawk and a handsaw. Rather than lose his British market to Canada he could well afford to meet Canadian farmers competition or, even terms in our own market and that is the idea enveloped in The Agriculturalist's plea for a united North America. Under that union the farmer of Ohio would have no more protection against the farmer in Manitoba, of course, than against the farmer of Nebraska. He would, however, have made eternal the natural basis of competition which now exists between the Canadian and American farmers for the British market and free access to the British market is worth more to the American farmer many times over than the exclusion of the Canadian from the market, just as the British market and Canadian market are worth to him a hundred Cuban markets rolled into one.

SERVICE NOT SATISFACTORY.

London, Nov. 12— Many Canadians and London city merchants are dissatisfied with the new arrangement in the transatlantic mail service system, but the claim that the American line steamers will expedite the delivery of the London mail two days is considered absurd.

NAVAL BILL PASSED.

London, Nov. 13—Premier Seddon, of New Zealand, has cabled Colonial Secretary Lyttleton that the Naval Agreement bill has passed the final stages of the Legislative Council and is now law.

Mr. Lyttleton, in replying, said he considered it a striking proof of the attachment of New Zealand to the cause of imperial unity.

CANADA'S EFFORTS TO AVOID UNITED STATES

Our Policy is a Struggle Against Succumbing to the Southern Attraction

London, Nov. 14—The Liverpool Daily Post commenting on the discussion of the fiscal question in the London Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, says Prof. Ashely was of the opinion that unless Canada is bound to the Mother Country by preferential commerce she would drift away from Great Britain. Sir William Holland and Joseph Walton took a directly opposite view, and on the whole Mr. Walton's view is the correct one. Even if Prof. Ashley is right it by no means follows that the conclusion of a preferential tariff scheme would arrest the movement if it had seriously set in.

When people on this side of the Atlantic speak of Canada they are too apt to look upon it as a perfectly homogenous colony. Mr. Chamberlain is fond of talking about "our kin beyond the seas" but three people in Canada speak French for every seven who speak the English tongue, and the latter, are not all of British origin.

Canadians do not need to be told of the strong attractive force to the south of them; they know it; and it is because they know it and are resolved not to succumb to it that they are so resolutely pursuing the policy described. The preference given by Canada was in reality a movement to promote commerce in order that ocean transit might be improved.

KING EDWARD PLEASED.

London, Nov. 13—King Edward is particularly pleased that the colonial representatives will accompany the English members of Parliament on their visit to Paris.

CALL ON CHAMBERLAIN.

London, Nov. 13— Lord Strathcona and the Agents-General of the Colonies on the 18th of the month will call on Mr. Chamberlain to express their appreciation of his work as Colonial Secretary. The Agent-General of Western Australia informed the Canadian Associated Press that no political significance attaches to the visit, nor would the fiscal question be discussed.

DON'T BE FOOLED.

London, Nov. 12—The Colonial Office strongly advises intending emigrants to Canada or South Africa to obtain trustworthy information in respect to the colony to which they propose to emigrate by communicating with the official representative of the colonies.

THANKS TO FRANCE.

Paris, Nov. 13—M. Varilla, the representative at Washington of the Panama Republic, has addressed a cable to The Matin, requesting that paper to inform the French public that France's gracious and prompt recognition of the Republic of Panama has been received with great satisfaction by the Government and people of the Isthmus. From the American point of view the decision shows that France appreciates the elevated and noble scruples which have always governed America regarding the protection of French interests. After referring to his own efforts to save the honor of the French scheme by the completion of the enterprise Varilla pays a tribute to "the generous Americans who gladly recall the indisputable services rendered them by France in the war of independence, and afterwards in offering to them for a nominal price the empire of Louisiana."

London, Nov. 13 —Hon. Mr. Foster, speaking at Sunderland last night, declared that the tariff question must be settled, not by the opinions of the dead but in a practical, common sense fashion by the Empire's workingmen. "Night and day a tariff war against Great Britain wages ceaselessly. Every country in Europe has industrial spies at work in Britain. The colonies are looking forward to everlasting life and if Britain heeds their call that will be attained. Do not run away with the idea that the United States is the only rooster across the Atlantic. There is a young cock who can crow, if need be, just as lustily. After all she has lost by the Alaska award Canada still possesses 100,000 more acres than the United States. When Minister of Finance for Canada I made one tariff and revised two, and I give my word that if Britain adopts protection the foreigner, and not the consumer, will pay."

Sir Edward Gray, speaking at West Bromwich last night, said —"We are not alone in trade depression. Free trade has been a greater bulwark of British shipping than all the subsidies of foreign Governments. Remember that Canada has not asked us to abandon our free trade policy, and in Australia the vast body of public opinion is against it. Protection arguments have been refuted over and over again; last, but not least, by two young dandies who have escaped safely from the lions den, and have gone back to London to support Premier Balfour just so long as he does not formally promulgate his fiscal policy."

Mr. Moore Bayles, Chairman of the Cecil-Churchill meeting, says the meeting was a striking triumph for free speech. It was essential that the Birmingham public should have the opportunity of hearing unionist views, adverse to the unadulterated protection advocated by Mr. Chamberlain. "I am as Tory as ever," Mr. Bayles said, "but my free trade instincts have been hardened like steel by the fire through which they have passed."

Montreal, Nov. 14—Eight more of the German locomotives, several of which have already been delivered to the Canadian Pacific Railway shops in this city, from Canadian steamers, arrived in Boston today. They will be shipped by rail to Montreal. Each locomotive weighs 40 tons. The whole order of twenty locomotives, placed with the German firm will be in the hands of the company in this city by the middle of December. Two or three of these German engines are already in active operation, and are giving satisfaction.

THE SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

A Great Number of Hunters on the Move This Year

The past summer season has shown a noticeable increase in the tourist business through Canada over the lines of the Grand Trunk Railway System.

The statistics for the past season for one section of the country alone—"The Highlands of Ontario"—show that over 30,000 people were carried into that district during the tourist season. That is a heavy increase over last year.

During the last week in October and the first week in November, the deer hunters have gone up into these regions in thousands, and are meeting with great success in securing game.

Last year during the same period nearly 5,000 hunters were in the woods in these districts, and it was estimated that over 10,000 deer were killed.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 38, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 13, 1903

CANADA AND THE ERIE CANAL

By a late decision of the United States Supreme Court the Erie canal, though owned by New York state, can constitutionally be put under national control by the action of Congress.

The interest of Canada in this decision is whether Canadian vessels are to be allowed passage through the canal, being under the supreme jurisdiction of the United States, the same as United States vessels are now allowed passage through Canadian canals. There is an immense amount of shipping, says the London Free Press, principally of lumber, from Hull and Ottawa, on the Ottawa river, and from other Canadian points, through the New York state canals, done entirely and exclusively in United States vessels, and in which no Canadian vessel is allowed to participate, the contention of the New York state authorities being that they had a right to deny to foreign vessels the use of the state canals.

It would seem that heretofore the United States government have accepted this view, for in the treaty of Washington of 1871, Clause xxvii., dealing with the question of the rights of passage to one country through the canals of the other country, it is provided as follows:—

The Government of Her Britannic Majesty engages to urge upon the Government of the Dominion of Canada to secure to the citizens of the United States the use of the Welland, St. Lawrence and other canals in the Dominion; and the Government of the United States engages that the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty shall enjoy the use of the St. Clair Flats Canal on terms of equality with the inhabitants of the United States, and further engages to urge upon the state government to secure the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty the use of the several state canals, connected with the navigation of the lakes or rivers traversed by or contiguous to the boundary line between the possessions of the high contracting parties, on terms of equality with the inhabitants of the United States.

The efforts of the United States Government to induce the government of the State of New York to accord to Canadian vessels the same use of the Erie Canal as is accorded to American vessels were never successful, and from the time of the making of that treaty in 1871 until now, Canadian vessels have been denied the use of the New York canals.

Congress is now at liberty to pay a long standing obligation to the Dominion of Canada, and it remains to see if that body will voluntarily do so, or whether the Ottawa Government will make another formal request.

THE CAVAN BLAZERS

Editor of the Morning Times:

Dear Sir,—In two recent issues of your valuable paper I noticed two letters with reference to the "Cavan Blazers," the later letter assuming to correct the statements in the former. Indeed, both were correct in the main, but were lacking in details. It would be a valuable contribution to our pioneer literature, if Mr. Errett, or some one qualified for the task, were to write up the subject in all its details before the last survivor shall have passed away. Could not our Historical Society move in the matter? The fact that the "Cavan Blazers" belonged to the first families in the township, and that their parents were a moral and, in many cases, a religious people, makes their history more interesting. While they went in for fun and frolic, they had a high code of honor, but their methods of redressing wrongs and administering justice were not in keeping with twentieth century ideas. I cannot claim to be "one who was there," like one of the writers, but what I have heard would furnish sufficient material for an interesting novel, as truth is stranger than fiction. Sunday was their favorite day for making their hebdomadal tours. On one occasion the father (who was a strict Sabbatarian) undertook to stop his son from breaking the Sabbath by depriving him of the use of the buggy, and in order to do so took the vehicle apart, carried it down cellar on Saturday night, and locked the door; but the son was equal to the occasion, as he summoned his companions, and after the old folks had retired for the night, they excavated beneath the foundation and before daylight took the buggy out by piecemeal, put it together and off they went. On another occasion they met the Rev. Mr. Armour (father of the late Chief Justice Armour) in "the long swamp" and demanded of him that he should kneel down and pray for them. At first the learned divine refused but rather than remain over night he complied with their wishes and prayed as well for his own preservation as for their souls' salvation. In those days they had to drive their grain to Port Hope for market. There was a toll gate on the road and although they would pay their tolls on going through and get a return ticket they would on their return after dark race their teams through the gate so as to give the impression that they had not paid, just to tease the keeper and have him run after them, and in many cases they would lift him into the sleigh and give him a forced, but free ride. When the time came that he needed a friend, he readily found it in them. He had been dismissed by the Toll-gate Co., and another was sent in his place. He removed to Port Hope, whence the other had come. The Blazers, without making known their identity, at once waited upon the incoming tenant with their sleighs and said that they had come to take him and his belongings back to Port Hope before any harm was done him, as they had heard that the "Cavan Blazers" were coming to eject him and demolish his house. He at once complied with their request, and they landed him safely at his former home, and on their return trip brought back the former tenant, whom they reinstated to his great satisfaction. While they shewed no disrespect to Roman Catholics, people of that persuasion gave the vicinity a wide berth, and were never known to settle there, with the exception of one, and when he thought of the fancied danger, he proposed leaving, but they would not allow him to do so, as they wanted to keep him for a curiosity. He remained on, and became a prosperous farmer, and appreciated their many acts of kindness which they showered upon him. The story goes that when a solitary Protestant took up land in the Catholic settlement of Douro, he did not receive the same measure of kindness, and was about to leave when the "Cavan Blazers" wrote a letter to the then parish priest intimating that it would be to his interest if the annoyance complained of was stopped. Both letters speak of the exciting times here on the 17th of March, 1863. It was in 1863. The Blazers then were non est, and no township in the vicinity sent a smaller quota on that occasion than did Cavan. Emily sent the largest number. Their favorite mode of shewing their displeasure towards any one who had committed an offence was to shave his horses tails so that the world might see for itself. Cavan for many years has been one of the quietest townships in Canada, but the contagion of those days spread westward, and traces of it are still to be found in the townships of Manvers and Cartwright. I have merely mentioned a few of the incidents which transpired in those days as a sample until some one furnishes a complete narrative of an organization whose deeds are talked of beyond the confines of this province. Yours, etc.,

NON-BLAZER.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

Toronto, November 14.

"The Man in the Street" met Mr. Ryan yesterday. Mr. Ryan is a member of the firm of William Ryan Company. He is one of the hustlers of Toronto, and is well-known, well-liked, and as bright a young man as ever engaged in business in the city. Speaking to "The Times," Mr. Ryan said: "The season for dressed hog packing has just opened, and we look forward to a very busy winter. The price of hogs has declined considerably during the past two weeks, and are now offered freely at $6.00, delivered at Toronto. Stock of hog products were never so light as they are at the present time, owing to large operations of lumber men, and a great deal of railroad construction, there has been an enormous demand for hog product." On the egg question, Mr. Ryan said: "The egg business continues strong. Prices remain firm, as stocks are considerably less than the amounts held this time last year. It will be remembered, much to the regret of the egg packers, that prices dropped as low as 3 cents at the close of last season. Conditions are entirely different this year, owing to the steady demand.

The bitter attacks made on the Ames Company, by the editor of a weekly journal in this city, have been much commented upon, by the readers of the sheet. In every issue of the paper since the Ames failure, the editor has gone out of his way to hold up to scorn Mr. Ames and his associates. In fact, there has been a want of fair play in the articles, and even the former admirers of the editor, who yields a facile pen, are not a little annoyed at the persistence with which he attacks the firm of Ames and Company. The raison d'etre is, that the editor of the above weekly paper was anxious to form one of the commission of the Temiskaming Railway. He approached the Government, and the Premier promised him the appointment. When his name was brought before Mr. Ames, as chairman, that gentleman put a pencil mark through it and when called upon by the Government for an explanation, stated that he would rather resign from the commission than be associated with the Editor of the Weekly in question. Hence all these attacks on Mr. Ames.

The transactions on the Stock Exchange this week have been even lighter than during the previous week, and in local securities is about as dead as possibly could be. The commissions earned by the thirty odd stock-brokers on Exchange during the past week would hardly be sufficient to pay car fare for the crowd. There are now, it is stated four or five seats looking for purchasers, and the best bid made on Thursday afternoon in the presence of "The Man in the Street," was $3,000. While I do not believe a seat could be purchased under $10,000 at present, I still think the day is not very far distant, when even that figure will be considered too high.

I had an interesting chat with Mr. George H. Munroe, of Munroe & Munroe the well known financial agents of Montreal and New York, this week; up to three years ago Mr. Munroe was engaged in the mercantile business in Montreal. By a lucky stroke, he became connected with the Montreal and Boston Mining Company of British Columbia, which company owns one of the most promising gold and copper mines in British Columbia. Mr. Munroe made such a success of the flotation of this property, the shares having advanced from ten cents to over $5.00 within three years that I was not surprised to hear of the firm's success on another line. They have been appointed managers of the Underwriting Syndicate, which at the present time is furnishing the American Marconi Company with all it's working capital. The firm has opened offices in Chicago, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, Cincinnati, Council Bluffs, Montreal and Boston. The capital stock of the company is $6,600,000 fully paid, par value $100,000 the share and non-assessable. Mr. Munroe, in conversation with "The Man in the Street," was very enthusiastic in his opinions as to the future of the Marconi Wireless System, and believes, with Mr. Edison, that it will be the greatest money maker of the age. He believes that the certificates, now being offered to the public and having a par value of five dollars each, will advance steadily in value, and that within a few years they will bring a fortune to the man who invests in them now.

TRADE HIT BY SURTAX

Canada's Imports of Sugar Cement and Woolens will be Diverted

Ottawa, Nov. 12—The surtax of one-third applied to all imports from Germany this month, and will undoubtedly result in a decrease in our purchases from that country. The Commissioner of Customs seems to think that it will hit especially the trade which German firms did in sugar and cement with this country, and in woolens, too. He is satisfied that a large share of the imports in these lines will come instead from other countries.

The Trade and Commerce Department has had no intimation from the contractors for the South African steamship service of their intention to discontinue the sailings and the report which emanated from a Toronto paper is apparently entirely untrue.

WIN AT NEW ORLEANS

No greater opportunity has ever been afforded the American racing public to earn a steady income with a small capital than does the Maxim & Gay Co. offer you at New Orleans, beginning Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26.

Everybody conversant with the history of the Maxim & Gay Co. knows that at New Orleans it has scored those sensational successes which have made its name a household word among patrons of the turf. No record approaches ours for the number of winners named at long prices at the Crescent City. Our experts are already on the ground preparing for the opening. Every indication points to us surpassing our best efforts in furnishing information from that track, and we are again certain we will enable patrons of the Company to win steady incomes on small investments there.

$50 netted $201.75

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large mass of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co. representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now deemed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well is that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible form, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our Discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. YOUR GREY HAIR brought back to its original color, and forever retained.

ELECTROCENE

A Guaranteed Preparation to Restore Grey and Faded Hair to its Natural Color, and Retain it.

With the powerful aid of electricity, grey hair can be restored to its natural color by natural means. The herbs and plants of the mountains and field have in them all the elements of life, health and beauty that the grey hair requires for its restoration.

ELECTROCENE is the product of certain herbs, barks and plants which by long and careful experiments, have been found to contain all the elements necessary to the life, beauty, color and health of the hair. They are not a dye; they contain no vile and deadly chemicals to destroy the hair's life; but from their first application the hair begins to take on the gloss and beauty of youth while gradually but surely the hair returns to its natural color, and will forever afterwards retain it. Such a change is not brought about in a day or a week, but as the roots of the hair absorb the health-giving elements from the herbs and the wonderful electric strength Electrocene contains, nature gives it a fresh lease of life, and soon ten years have been lifted from your appearance. The hair goes back to its natural color, becoming soft and silky, with that lustrous gleam of youth that is the envy of all beholders. Electrocene does not stain the scalp or clothes, is NOT A DYE, but whatever its color was at the most vigorous time of your life, it's color will be again after using. A little patience will bring you the rich reward of a head of beautiful, healthy, natural hair, with the softness and lustre of youth. The growth is promoted and the grey, faded or streaked hair springs again into life and the colors of life. The Electrocene will not rub off, is not sticky, dirty or gummy, and will not stain the scalp. Black Hills Copper Company

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"There will be plenty of time for church going," she said. "If this gentleman is so very ill, and cannot be satisfied until he has seen me, I ought not to disappoint him."

"Yes; but, my dearie, when are you to get the time?" Polly put in. "You're public property now, you know."

"On the contrary, the public is my property," Rosalie said, with her old impetuosity. "I shall go to the poor invalid who is so eager to see me. There is no reason why he should be disappointed."

Mr. Monckton turned to her, a curious expression on his face.

"You will not regret that step," he remarked, with a slight bow. "When may I tell my friend to expect you, mademoiselle?"

"Next Sunday—if you will give me his name and address, and tell me how I can find him."

"Ask for Sir Felix Errol, of Drayton Court," he said, moving to the table, and writing down the full address. "Give your professional name only; you are known to him as Mademoiselle Rosalie."

She scarcely heard the end of his speech. She had seized at the name, Sir Felix Errol, and it brought a thousand memories to her mind.

"Sir Felix Errol!" she repeated, her face growing white. "It must be the same! Oh, please tell me more about him—tell me all you know!"

Mr. Monckton started, and cast a quick glance into her pale face.

She was standing before him with clasped hands, her eyes raised to his, with a look he had not seen in them before.

"What have you heard of Sir Felix Errol?" he said.

"Only his name. I knew somebody who went to him—Mr. Marc Wilberforce. He never came back, and I have so longed to hear of him. It must be the same Sir Felix Errol there could not be two with exactly the same title."

"My dear young lady do not excite yourself in this way," Mr. Monckton said, observing the state of mind into which she was working herself. "Errol is a name one hears frequently. Do you not yourself bear it?"

"But there cannot be two Sir Felix Errols," she presisted. "Can you tell me anything about Mr. Wilberforce?"

Mr. Monckton was silent.

He was debating in his mind whether it would be wise to send her to Drayton Court.

Sir Felix had imposed strict secrecy upon him.

The baronet did not wish Lady Errol to come in contact with Rosalie; if possible, the girl's visit to the Court was not to come to Gretchen's knowledge—on no account was she to know Rosalie bore the name of Errol.

It seemed to the solicitor that Rosalie was too impetuous to be relied upon in a matter that needed discretion.

If he could have warned her, she might have acted upon his suggestions; but she was to be kept in ignorance of the real reason why the baronet had sent for her, and to go to Sir Felix simply as Mademoiselle Rosalie.

"If you know Sir Felix Errol, you must have heard something about Mr. Wilberforce," she said, wondering why he did not answer her. "shall I see him there? If I thought I should meet him in the same house, I should go mad with joy!"

"I do not think you will meet him," Mr. Monckton replied; "Sir Felix does not receive many visitors."

"But I am sure Mr. Wilberforce went there—and he never returned. He must be there now."

"I cannot say. If he is there, you will see him with Sir Felix. Nobody would keep out of sight while Mademoiselle Rosalie was present."

She was too taken up with her thoughts to notice the flattery in his words.

She was thinking of Marc, her heart stirring with tender memories; a great disappointment swooping down upon her as her hope of meeting him was dashed.

Tears gathered in her eyes, but she was too proud to let them fall.

She blinked them away, for a few seconds kept her gaze averted from the solicitor.

"Have you made up your mind to honor Sir Felix with your presence at Drayton Court?" he said, presently.

"Yes; I told you so just now. He is ill, and has asked to see me. Why should he be disappointed—it is good of him to wish to see me."

"It is good of you, mademoiselle, to honor a sick man's whim. One day, perhaps, you will meet a reward. In the meantime, I want you consider me in the light of a true friend. If you ever require help, do not fail to acquaint me with your need."

With a few more kindly words, he took his departure, and Rosalie was left to think over her projected visit to Drayton Court.

CHAPTER XVI.

Rosalie's success caused no little jealousy amongst those who had belonged to the ring before her appearance as the new star.

At the end of the performance, a group of fair equestriennes stood in one of the recesses, discussing the girl whom they looked upon as their bitterest rival.

Presently, all save one moved away, and she stood alone, her dark eyes full of fierce resentment, her head bent in gloomy thought.

She had heard something from her companions that had sent a fierce pang through her heart.

The man she loved, and to whom she had seemed dearest on earth, had fallen beneath the witchery of Rosalie's beauty.

"I will not give him up. He shall not love her best," she muttered, vengefully. "I hate her!"

"What's the matter Lola?" exclaimed a voice near her.

The next moment one of the performers was at her side, still in his equestrian dress.

"Who has roused your anger?" he asked.

"Mademoiselle Rosalie," she answered. "I should like to kill her!"

There was a set gloom on her smooth brow—a bitterness on her soft red mouth, that made Bob Rayne feel uneasy on Rosalie's account.

"Have you heard?" she demanded frowning at him with an unconscious fierceness. "Do you believe what they say about Dick Hermon and Rosalie—that he can scarcely take his eyes from her face, that he loves her?"

The last words were uttered in a tone so full of menace, that Bob could scarcely repress a smile.

"People jump at conclusions so quickly," he replied, cautiously. "Dick is interested in Mademoiselle Rosalie—as to loving her, I don't think he has gone as far as that—yet."

"You mean so say, if he does not love her now, he will," she cried, her lips curling with scorn. "And you tell me this—you, whom I thought my friend."

She turned and would have left him; but, with a quick movement, Bob placed himself in her path.

"Don't get angry with me, Lola," he said, his curiosity roused by something in her manner. "Tell me what you know of those two, and, if you want to stop the affair before they go any further, I'll do all I can to help you."

She gave him a searching glance that seemed to penetrate into his innermost soul, and, as if she saw there all that she desired, she drew nearer to him.

"You can be of the greatest service to me - if I can trust you."

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations.

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects. The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the Blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. THE SAVOR OF OUR DAILY SPEECH

By REV. JOHN J. DOLAN,
Pastor Church of the Nativity,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

> Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt.—Col., iv., 6.

No gift belongs so peculiarly to man as speech. Many of the irrational creatures surpass us in the gifts we hold in common, but speech is the glory of man alone. As this gift is so truly remarkable, for the use of it we shall be held strictly accountable. "By thy words thou shalt be condemned;" and "For every idle word men shall speak they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.

But it is not of the abuse of speech I would speak, but of its use in our social intercourse with one another, of its proper employment by Christians, whose tongue is mostly utilized in discourse about the passing things of the day, and who look forward to the time when, before His thone, this same tongue shall announce His praise.

How, then, can Christians carry out the Apostolic injunction mentioned in the text? Can there be grace or savor discovered in the conversations of daily life Can our ordinary speech be not only free from blame, but can it also have in it that which is good to the point of edification?

Yes. "There is One that holdeth His peace, that is found wise;" One who lived thirty years in ordinary life and whose tongue gave no offence. He made doors and bars to His mouth and kept His tongue from evil, and in every word was pleasing to His Father. While the Evangelists have given us no account of our Lord's words during those thirty years, yet there are three instances related that unfold to us a fact that our Lord mingled freely in social intercourse with others—first, when he tarried behind after the festival in Jerusalem; next, at the marriage feast in Cana, and then the words "The Son of Man came eating and drinking." These instances show that our Lord did not shun social meetings with His neighbors. For all that, He was in no way odd, but chose to be like unto the mass of His brethren and to pass through life as most of us have to pass through. He took part in all things not sinful in which our daily lives are spent, and thereby gave us the comforting assurance that our lowliness and earthliness need not make us sinful, either. He proved conclusively that we need not separate ourselves from our ordinary calling to be acceptable to God.

So Jesus Christ walked with men for many years without separating Himself from them in speech, for His speech was "always with grace, savored with salt." Surely we can learn a lesson after the manner of Christ! Many honest-minded persons have an erroneous idea that conversations cannot be righteous unless religious topics are spoken of, and they regard all who are not prompt in such speech as unspiritual. How unlike Christ is this class! For thirty years Christ drew others toward what was good, yet it was so done as not to attract extraordinary attention to Himself; so done that He seemed to those to whom He spoke as none other than what His outward condition betokened Him, "the carpenter's son." This class, however, constantly attract attention to themselves by placing too much value on religious talk in every day life.

The action of Christ, on the other hand, suggests that our ordinary conversations are vastly more important than our direct religious comments, or, in other words, it is of greater consequence that we watch over our common talk on ordinary matters than that we be often talking religiously, for there is no need for religious conversations to reveal the true inwardness of a man. What is really in a man will be felt in his ordinary discourse. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. A good man, out of a good treasure, bringeth forth good things, and an evil man, out of an evil treasure, bringeth forth evil things." For a truly religious man will have his words always "seasoned with salt."

As in our ordinary meals a little salt, though it does not appear, yet savors the food, so, too, without protruding itself the influence of a good man who has the love and fear of God in his soul will be felt. On the contrary, the man who talks religion, constantly dwelling especially upon himself, his feelings, his experiences, his fitness to teach and guide others, has his speech overseasoned with salt and leaves an unpleasant savor; for if any man think himself religious, "not bridling his tongue, but deceiving his own heart, this man's religion is vain."

Let us strive, then, to use aright this gift of speech, so that in the resurrection, amid the perfections of the future state, our tongues may be deemed worthy to be everlastingly employed in giving glory, honor, praise and thanksgiving to Him who sits upon the throne, and let our prayer be the words of the Psalmist, "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth and a door around my lips," forever bearing in mind that "a peaceful tongue is a tree of life, but that which is immoderate shall crush the spirit."

The Science of Flowers.

It is to be feared that among the embellishments of life, writes Sir Edwin Arnold in The London Telegraph, flowers too often afford an example of how people will turn pleasures into toils. I noticed lately a tender little wail which arose from a lady who found herself overburdened with the too frequent task of arranging buds and blossoms for the passages and apartments of her London house. A lover of flowers, as everybody of good taste must be, she confessed to feeling something not unlike what the prisoner experiences when his day's allowance of oakum to be picked has just been served out, to see her butler climb the staircase, holding at arm's length on a vast tray the confused heap of blooms and foliage; behind him at the same time would come the parlormaid, staggering under a load of glasses and vases and what not, destined to hold the costly plunder of the morning. At first a delightful labor and always a graceful and sweet-scented one, it had come, said the fair complainant, to be a heavy and time consuming task, growing more and more burdensome as the fashion of floral display extended, and the country every morning sent up to town such tempting wealth of roses and lilies and the rest.

It is not the fault of the flowers, of course, except because, being so fragrant, so delicate, and so beautiful, they make slaves of all who serve them. On the contrary, it would decidedly tend to shock the mind of many a fair arranger of flowers if science went to the unkind pains of explaining to her how entirely free from any wish or intention to give pleasure are those exquisite roses and all those dainty blossoms. If there were, indeed, a language of flowers, and the products of the parterre could speak, they would say, "Madam (or Miss), do not flatter yourself that one petal of us has been tinted, one bud expanded, one green leaf spread to the sunshine, or one single calyx among us has opened its wonderful apparatus of stamen and pistil to nestle in your silken tresses or to repose in not unequal rivalry above your rosy cheeks or upon your lily-white necks and bosoms. Not for you, however much the poets have lied to you, were we created, and never for you have we grown up to the glory and the grace for which we have become to-day your unwilling victims. We were made so lovely, so delicate and variously tinted, perfumed so divinely, and loaded with little chalices of nectar distilled from earth and sky by such chemistry as your Royal Society never knew, wholly and solely to please a beetle, to attract a bee, to woo into our secret service the painted butterfly or fluttering moth.

"Your great and learned Mr. Darwin, if you will only read him, can show you why we wear these colors and display these stains and patches and lines of scarlet and gold, of purple and amber. They are simply traps and baits to lure the wandering insects, who thus become the marriage-makers of almost all our families, because the law stands that it is best for plants and trees to wed abroad instead of to wed at home."

The Japanese are perhaps the only people on the earth who have understood all this, and who do not allow the flowers to embarrass or overwhelm them. Sensitive in every nerve to the glory of line and splendor of color in nature, they economize their admiration and confine it to a profound enjoyment of a few, instead of the wholesale collections indulged in by western people. They would no more regard one of our vast bouquets or bowpots as a proper mode of arranging flowers than we should call the motley crowd of spectators in the pit of a theatre an evening party. Their leading idea, entirely opposed to ours, is to get the full delight of shape and outline of natural balance and contrast from one or two floral specimens, and by no means to mass and thereby confuse them, so that even the truest eye and most subtle nostrils become bewildered in the tumult of beauty, like the ass of Buridanus between his equal bundles of hay.

Ruskin has somewhere expressed the opinion that flowers ought never to be plucked from their stalk, but left to grow, because their chief charm is their life, which is forfeited when the blossom is broken off. But, although a flower is never so charming as where it is seen alive and fulfilling its floral purpose, that would sadly limit popular enjoyment of it. Perhaps this enjoyment is keenest among those who least comprehend the magic and the mystery of their being, and I am half afraid that the country girl who puts a flower in her hair, or the little ones who fill their small fingers with bluebells and May blossoms, have a pleasure in that glory of theirs which our Lord declared to be greater than Solomon's, untasted by mighty Darwin, when counting the seeds in a single capsule of an orchid, and showing how, but for a preventive law, that single plant in four generations could cover the whole globe with orchis maculata.

Benefit of Spraying Apple Orchards.

The experimental spraying operations carried on during the spring and summer by the Fruit Division, Ottawa, in the Woodstock and Ingersoll districts have been satisfactory beyond expectations. Mr. W. A. MacKinnon, chief of the Fruit Division, says that they furnish the best illustration of the necessity of spraying that he has ever seen. Aside from the opportunities for comparison between sprayed and unsprayed orchards, chance has provided some remarkable proofs of the value of the operations. In every case where a single tree, or part of a tree, in one of the sprayed orchards was neglected the fruit on such tree or part of tree is to-day hardly worth the trouble of picking, while on all sprayed portions scab is hardly to be found.

Naval Reserve Volunteers.

Preparations for the inauguration of the new London Naval Reserve Volunteers are being energetically pushed forward, says The Daily Graphic, and before very long the sloop Buzzard, which is being fitted out for her new duties in Chatham Dockyard, will take up her moorings at Blackfriars Bridge. The Buzzard, which is a twin-screw vessel, built in 1886, is being thoroughly overhauled and fitted with quickfiring and machine guns of the latest pattern. When the alterations are completed the masts, funnel and bridge will be removed, in order to allow the ship to pass under the London bridges, and these will be replaced when she reaches her destination. Numbers of men have been already enlisted, and more come forward daily, many enthusiastic yachtsmen being among them. The Hon. Rupert Guinness, eldest son of Lord Iveagh, will command the new body. He is well known as a yachtsman and an oarsman at Henley. The London Division will consist of not fewer than five companies, and each company of at least 100 men. Men are expected to enlist for three years to earn their capitation grant and first supply of kit. They must put in forty drills in the first year and twenty-four in every subsequent year, of not less than one hour each. They may attend for this drill any night from 4 to 8 o'clock. There will be a cruise in some sea-going man-of-war, probably just after the manoeuvres every year. It will be optional for a man to take part in this cruise, but one day's service at sea will count as five drills at home.

A Curious Watch.

In one of the chief watchmaking establishments in Zurich, says The London Globe, there is to be seen a remarkable curiosity in the way of watch or clock making. The timepiece is in the form of a ball, which moves imperceptibly down an inclined surface, without rolling. The length of this inclined surface, which is sixteen inches long, is accomplished from top to bottom in twenty-four hours. Then the "ball" only needs lifting to the top again. This extraordinary timepiece has no spring, and therefore needs no winding. The "hands" are kept in motion by the sliding along an inclined plane.

A Study of Whales.

Although it is a common belief among sailors that whales, when they "sound" descend to enormous depths in the ocean, and although Dr. Kukenthal has estimated that the larger whales commonly dive to a depth of almost two-thirds of a mile, yet Dr. Racovitza, of the Belgian Antarctic expedition, challenges these statements, and avers that about three hundred feet is the maximum depth to which a whale can dive. He bases this statement partly on the fact that the fish on which they feed, and to obtain which they are accustomed to "sound," dwell near the surface, and partly on the fact that at the depth of 1,000 yards or more the pressure is so great that they could not withstand it, and that their muscular strength is not sufficient to propel them into the regions where it prevails.

Lung Trouble

Promptly relieved and permanently cured by inhaling Catarrhozone

Mrs. Bay Brown of Tatcoago, N.S., was cured by Catarrhozone of lung trouble and catarrh after hundreds of other remedies failed

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases, and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but, after resorting without benefit to poultices and numerous other remedies, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler the local symptoms such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets which are taken after each meal purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 13.—The market will be dominated by the selling movement in Pennsylvania and soft coal stocks and the bear party is talking still lower prices for all these issues and also for Atchison, C. P., L. N. and Southern Railroad. We look for some steadiness in the early trading on buying for London account to be followed by a renewal of bearish pressure and lower prices. A. S. R. is an exception, and should advance on favorable news from Washington, and the stock is a good purchase on any decline. A. C. P. is a sale for a turn. Pressure has been lifted from the steel stocks, and while the preferred may go a little lower, it is not a safe sale. The bears will congregate their operations on R. G., B. O., Atchison, and a further decline in Rock Island common may be expected. London early market was firm and 1-8 to 1-2 higher, but volume of business was small.

DOUKHOBORS IN THE "PEN"

Six of the Fanatics Have to Serve Two Years

—Winnipeg, oNv. 12—A party of six Doukhobors have been taken to Stony Mountain Penitentiary, where they will spend the next two years for burning binders at Yorkton at the beginning of last month. They were tried at the sittings of the Supreme Court of the Northwest Territories at Yorkton. In defence they said that they had burned the binders because they were invented by man, and they claimed that everything invented by man was evil. At the same time as they burned the binders they rolled down some wheat because they claimed that this was evil, because it had been sown by a seeder which had also been invented by man. By their doctrine even latches are evil, and by burning grain and binders, they claimed that they exhibited the evil thereof. They do these things to protect the animals of lower life, andthink that all machines that need the assistance of beasts of burden are of no use to mankind.

Red Mites in the Poultry House.

The little red mite is a very serious pest among chickens if it is allowed to have the roam of the premises for a short time, although it is one of the easiest to guard against when proper precautions are taken. We have known cases where they have killed grown hens and made life almost a burden to their keeper, besides tormenting horses and cows so they would turn away from their feed. Just a few days ago a young man was telling me his little chicks had been all dying off, and he believed it was lice and wanted to know how to get rid of them. Upon questioning him we found they were mites. Kerosene oil as a remedy has never been known to fail when properly used.

Many do not recognize the difference in the red mite and lice, which must necessarily be considered when attempting to get rid of them. The louse is at home on the body of the fowl or chick, while the red mite breeds and lives on the roosts, in nest boxes and in the crevices of the walls of the poultry house or coops. We found once that they had established themselves in one of our houses, and in a short time, with a few gallons of kerosene oil and a whisk broom we killed every one we could find, and as long as we kept our chickens on that place we never saw one again. Since that time we made a practice of using kerosene oil on the roosts and in nest boxes, occasionally, and have never had any to fight since. Warm days are wonderfully helpful in the propagation of insect life.—Indiana Farmer.

Breeding "Lady Bugs."

About a year ago the United States Government presented Mr. Wm. M. Scott, the State entomologist of Georgia, with twenty small insects known as the Asiatic lady bug. It was said to be an insect, imported from Asia by the United States Department of Agriculture, and was guaranteed to kill the San Jose scale rapidly, provided, of course, there were a sufficient number of bugs. They were discovered by one of the Government entomologists several years ago, and by being very careful he managed to bring several pairs to this country. These pairs multiplied, and last year the Government furnished several of the Southern States with twenty bugs each.

Mr. Scott determined to try the scheme and he took the bugs to Marshallville, placed them in a wire cage built around a peach tree which was infected with the San Jose scale, and now the State of Georgia owns some 40,000 of the scale killers. Mr. Scott is very proud of his colony and says he will in a short time be enabled to furnish every fruit grower in Georgia with a supply. Where the bugs have had an opportunity to get after the scale they have almost annihilated it.

For some time past the scale has been playing havoc with the peach trees in the State, and thousands of trees have been completely killed or dug up as a result of the dreaded disease. . . . The bugs are said to be much better for the San Jose scale than the kerosene spray and all other remedies combined.—Journal of Agriculture.

CHICAGO'S CAR STRIKE

The City's Whole System is Practically Tied Up

Chicago, Nov. 13—At four o'clock this morning the strike of the union employes of the Chicago City Railway Company began and when the residents of the south and southwest sides of the city started for their places of business they were without their usual transportation facilities. Beginning at midnight the trainmen gradually took their cars to the seven barns of the company scattered throughout the system and left them there. In the shops barns and power houses the union workers laid down their tools and quit, declaring that they will remain idle until the company consents to arbitrate the issue that brought on the controversy.

The strike is to enforce a demand for a wage increase of 25 per cent. and recognition of the union. About [illegible],000 employes are involved, and 220 miles of surface trackage, part cable and part electric.

FINANCIAL ACTIVITY.

London, Nov. 13 — The Financial Times, referring to the incorporation of fresh banks in Canada, says: "Canadian banking has been developed along such conservative lines that the formation of new banks is almost unusual, and that power should have been taken from the Government to form eight new banks speaks volumes for the financial activity prevailing in the country."

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non-assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Cold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

Chronic Biliousness

IN ITS TRIAL FOLLOW HORRIBLE DREAMS, DESPONDENCY MELANCHOLY AND GENERAL WEAKNESS.

The proper elements needed to promote good digestion, regularity of the bowels, correct action of the kidneys and liver, must be supplied when a bilious condition of the system is once established.

Ferrozone can't help but do this. It gives the stomach perfect rest, and allows you to partake of and enjoy the variety of food that is necessary for maintaining health. One Ferrozone tablet taken after each meal will separate the nutritious portions of the food from the waste, which is carried off, thus preventing and curing constipation and its attendant evil, piles.

Being a potent blood purifier, Ferrozone cleanses the crimson flood of all bile and impurities, and as a result the complexion is restored to a rosy, healthy hue, and the dark circles under the eyes and the deathly pallor of the cheeks, go away never to return.

Taken for disorders of the stomach, commencing with biliousness and ending with derangements of the liver and kidneys, Ferrozone achieves marvelous results. It is at the same time a tonic and stimulant, and a regulator of all bodily functions, and chronic sufferers should not fail to give it a fair trial. It will do them good without doubt, and if the malady is curable it will yield to Ferrozone.

With the use of Ferrozone appetite will be better, the blood made rich and pure, sleep will be dreamless and sound. Your muddy complexion will be cleared and beautified, your eyes will acquire a new brightness. and as your spirits rise and good health returns, you will bless the day you learned the secret of Ferrozone's power.

If you think you need Ferrozone go to the nearest drug store and procure a supply. Refuse a substitute and insist on having the genuine Ferrozone, which costs 50 cts. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Retrenchment Policy

The C.P.R.'s retrenchment policy is being felt throughout the entire system. Peterborough has not come in for any changes as yet. The next local department to be dealt with is the Secret Service. There are about 25 men engaged locally in this service. Between 150 and 200 employes in various branches have been laid off at Winnipeg to date.

Park Street Church

Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor, will take the services to-morrow. Subject for the morning, "A Severe Test on the High Seas." Evening, "A Heroic Charge—Routing the Enemy." Deer stories will now soon be rife. Must Cease Work

Owing to throat trouble, the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will be unable to occupy his pulpit for a few weeks. This will be deeply regretted not only by the parishioners of St. Luke's Church, but also by the public generally. Mr. Langfeldt has remained at his post longer than he should, and only consented to relinquish his work when ordered to do so by the throat specialist whom he consulted. The Times joins in the general wish that he may be speedily restored to perfect health.

Died of Her Burns

Little Myra Fallis, the daughter of Mr. Isaac Fallis, Manvers, has died of injuries received on Sunday night last in her efforts to save her brother from a burning barn. It will be remembered that the two children went to the barn with a lantern on Sunday night, when, the lantern exploding, set fire to the barn, and burned the boy to a crisp. The little girl was also very severely burned, but hopes were entertained for her recovery. She was so badly burned, however that she died from her injuries.

Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Pontypool Ry.

The Railway and Shipping World says that grading is almost completed from Burketon, on the C.P.R. Toronto-Montreal line, to the southern boundary of Lindsay, and from the eastern boundary of Lindsay to Bobcaygeon. The grading in the town of Lindsay is expected to be completed this year, the delay having been occasioned owing to difficulties in fixing the location, caused by the G.T.R. putting in a number of new sidings and rendering a deviation necessary. All the culverts and other structures are built. The building of the station and water tanks will be proceeded with during the winter. The station buildings will be Blackstock, six miles north of Burketon; Lindsay, Dunsford about half way between Lindsay and Bobcaygeon, and Bobcaygeon. There will also be two flag stations, the location of which is not fixed. About 4,500 tons of 60-lb. rails, of Belgian and German make, have been ordered, with 24-inch angle bars.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A, Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada. N30

SISTERS OF CHARITY.

RELY ON PE-RU-NA TO FIGHT

CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, GRIP.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

All Over United States Use Pe-ru-na for Catarrh.

From a Catholic institution in Ohio comes the following recommend from the Sister Superior:

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8, 1901.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Sir—"The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured." SISTERS OF CHARITY.

This young girl was under the care of the Sisters of charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results as the above letter testifies.

Another recommend from a Catholic institution in one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grip, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.

"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

A prominent Mother Superior says:

"I can testify from experience to the efficiency of Peruna as one of the very best medicines, and it gives me pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it.

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna.

"I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhoea. I have no doubt that a cure will be speedily effected."

MOTHER SUPERIOR.

These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters, but will be furnished upon request.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of those with whom they come in contact, but they minister to their bodily needs. They are as skilled as trained nurses in their treatment of diseases, and are looked upon as messengers of good cheer by countless patient sufferers.

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal derangement of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body. A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane, restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys, or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

The Sisters Find Peruna a Never-Failing Safeguard.

Peruna is such a remedy. The Sisters of Charity know this. When catarrhal diseases make their appearance they are not disconcerted, but know exactly what remedy to use. These wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard. They realize that when a disease is of a catarrhal nature, Peruna is the remedy. Dyspepsia and female weakness are considered by many to be entirely different diseases. That dyspepsia is catarrh of the stomach and female weakness is due to catarrh of the pelvic organs the Sisters are fully aware, consequently Peruna is their remedy in both these very common and annoying diseases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

RUSSIANS AND CHINESE REPORTED TO BE FIGHTING NEAR SHANHAIKWAN

Germany, France and Russia Said to Have Arrived at an Understanding --The Corean Trouble

Colombia will Fight, Large Army Marching to the Isthmus

Tientsin, Nov. 14—It is reported here that Russian troops marching towards Shanhaikwan encountered a force of Imperial Chinese troops and that fighting ensued, the Russians, it is asserted, pretending that the imperial force was a band of Chinese robbers. Altogether over 10,000 imperial troops have crossed the frontier into Manchuria.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13— There is much satisfaction here at the result of the Czar's visit abroad. It is believed that a complete understanding was reached with Germany and France regarding the near and far east, making for peace and rendering Russia secure in Europe in the event of future hostilities with Japan. While the danger of hostilities is considered over for the present in spite of the warlike tone of eastern despatches it is realized that the settlement is merely patchwork. A high official said "Russia wants peace, but she is ready for war. Japan, finding us prepared, fears the test."

The complete rehabilitation in imperial favor of Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Foreign Minister, may mean that his party will not advocate the relinquishment of Manchuria, because of its being a vested interest of Russia, and because the present attitude of China renders its relinquishment impossible. But they may favor a moderate, peaceful course, including the recognition of treaty obligations with China.

Washington, Nov. 13 — The United States Government is seeking to have the port of Wiju, Corea, open, while Great Britain and Japan have combined in favor of opening the port of Yongampho. United States Minister Allen who has been stopping at Yokohama, is about to proceed from that port to Chemulpo, Corea, on an American warship in pursuit of this mission.

Guayaquil, Nov. 14—General Plaza President of Ecuador, has cabled to President Marroquin of Colombia, sympathizing with him in the recent events on the Isthmus of Panama. President Marroquin has replied thanking General Plaza and adding that Generals Reys, Cabelloros, Spinosa and Holgign are marching on Panama with a large army to subdue the Isthmians.

Washington, Nov. 15—Both Secretary Hay and General Young, the Chief of the Staff of the United States Army, had had retired when bulletins announcing an army from Colombia was marching against the Isthmians came, so that it was impossible to learn what action the department might take to meet the issue which has been raised.

Sofia, Nov. 13— The Journal Otziv publishes strange revelations in regard to the relations between the late Zankovist Ministry and Russia. It says the Ministry secretly agreed to hand over Burgas and Varna to be converted into naval stations, in order to facilitate the Russian advance upon Constantinople. Ex-Premier Daneff promised to accept a Russian general as War Minister, and arranged that an army of 10,000 Russian soldiers should be established in the district of Burgas, and Jamboli, upon the pretext of defending Bulgaria against Turkish invasion. In return Russia offered to advance 1,000,000 francs and to guarantee Bulgaria against Roumanian attacks. These plans were upset by Prince Ferdinand calling the Stambolovist Ministry into power, the fall of Daneff's Cabinet being really due to the Zankovist attempt to secure control of the army.

Sarafoff Still Lives.

Boris Sarafoff and his band encountered many adventures in their long journey from Southwestern Macedonia to the frontier, and some of Sarafoff's principal lieutenants were lost. Damian Truaff, the chief organizer of the insurrectionary movement, remains in Macedonia with several bands.

Belgium Secures Concessions.

Shanghai, Novv. 15—The new Belgian concession for a railway from Kaifang, to Honanfu provides for an issue of 26,000,0000 francs, and the amount can be increased hereafter to meet requirements. The Belgians will thus acquire a railway traversing the region of the Yellow River, in which a British syndicate obtained in 1898 important mining rights, but has since been persistently blocked by the obstructive tactics of the Chinese Government. Within a year Russia and Belgium have obtained two railway concessions in this region, while a Pekin syndicate continues to make fruitless efforts to obtain the advantages demanded and secured by Britain five years ago as compensation for China's breach of faith in the Luchan affair.

LIBERAL LEADERS ATTACKED.

London, Nov. 14—Mr. G. Lowther, M.P. speaking at Carlisle last night declared that if the issue was obscured and colonial sentiment was outraged, the blame was not upon the fiscal reformers, but upon those who had deliberately befouled a great ideal. Not a single Liberal leader had taken the trouble to give the colonies credit for their generous desire to co-operate commercially with the motherland. These men who were the political descendants of those who described the British Empire as a "blood-stained fetish, and at the moment of the national crisis shrieked 'Perish India!'" canonized Napoleon, eulogized Kruger, and were urging the rejection of the colonial offer. Mr. Chamberlain's opponents were waving aside a splendid heritage. "Does the word 'protection' frighten the trade union leaders

BUILDERS EXCHANGE RETALIATE.

Pittsburg, Nov. 16.—Officials of the builders exchange league announced today that the lock out of all the building trades in the city affiliated with the Building Trades Council will go in to effect tonight and will continue indefinitely unless all sympathetic strikes are called off. About 10,000 men will be affected.

The Britons of the Orient

THERE is at this date very little that is new in the [illegible] situation, though the forecast of Japan's probable line of action made by the writer in a letter written some seven weeks ago, has already been partially and now seems likely to be completely fulfilled. There are at present these political elements in the country —

(1) A war party which recently presented a petition, signed on behalf of over 37,000 voters, demanding an immediate beginning of hostilities. This party would have war at any cost.

(2) A commercial party, which fears that the new industries of the country would be destroyed by war, and wants peace at any cost.

(3) A small group of strong and calm leaders of opinion who have preserved an admirably moderate attitude under the most trying circumstances.

(4) The great mass of the population, consisting of coolies, rickshaw men, petty tradesmen, rice planters, and the lower grades of artisans, who have no opinions until the Emperor speaks, when they shout, "It is the voice of a god" and will do whatever is wanted. But the voice that speaks from behind the throne is now the decision of the council of elder statesmen.

The Last Extremity

Not that the older statesmen are for peace at any cost; there is a price at which even peace might be purchased too dearly. But they will go to the last extremity in order to keep peace. At present the outlook is considerably improved as compared with that of seven weeks ago, by reason of two circumstances. The first of these is the signing of the commercial treaty by Minister Conger and two others for the United States, and by Lu Hai-Hauan and two others for China at Shanghai, on October 7, whereby the freedom of trade was guaranteed in the two Manchurian ports of Antung and Mukden. This act on the part of the United States was most timely. The official declaration of Russia had all along been that she recognized Manchuria as Chinese territory, and would withdraw her troops except in so far as they should be needed for the protection of her interests. October 8 was the date on which she should have begun to move, but instead of moving she now said that she could protect her interests only by remaining. The United States Government made the treaty just in time. On October 7 she could deal with China alone; afterwards she would have to deal with Russia. Her treaty guarantees to her rights secured before Russia obtained possession of Manchuria, and these rights she is bound to support with the strength of her navy and the millions of Wall street. Russia might fight Japan but she will not fight the United States. It may be regarded as settled that without the firing of a gun the treaty ports of Manchuria will be opened to the world, and with this opening the menace to the national life of Japan is largely removed

The other hopeful circumstance is that Japan seems willing to recognize Russia's right to remain in Manchuria in order to protect her property, if the principle of the open door is maintained.

GENERAL STRIKE MAY BE ORDERED

All Building Trades in New York May Be Tied Up

A DECISION ARRIVED AT

At a Secret Meeting of the Head Organization Held in Boston

governors of the National Structural Boston, Mass., Nov. 16—The board of Building Trades Alliance, at a secret session held in this city, have decided that a general strike shall be inaugurated in all the principal building trades of New York, unless the existing difficulties between the Building Trades Employers Association and the Iron League and the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers are speedily adjusted.

A committee has been appointed to attempt a settlement. If the effort fails, the committee, acting for the National Alliance, is empowered as voted by the board, "to give full support to the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers in forcing their unfair employers to comply with reasonable demands." A conference was scheduled to be held in New York today.

The committee appointed is composed of George E. Gubbins, the president of the International Bricklayers Union; J. Spencer, international organizer of the United Association of Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters, and President Frank Buchanan of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Union.

CANADA PURSUES IMPERIAL POLICY

Has Resolutely Turned from United States Says Liverpool Paper

THANKS FOR CHAMBERLAIN

Colonial Representatives will Call on Former Colonial Secretary, Bonar Law Praised

London, Nov. 16—The Liverpool Daily Post, commenting on the discussion of the fiscal question at the London Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, says: "Prof Ashley was of the opinion that unless Canada were bound to the Mother Country by preferential commerce it would drift away. Sir Henry Holland and Mr. Joseph Walton took a directly opposite view, and on the whole Mr. Walton's view is the correct one, for if Prof. Ashley were right by no means would it follow that the conclusion of a preferential tariff scheme would arrest the movement, if it had seriously set in. When people on this side of the Atlantic speak of Canada they are too apt to look upon it as a perfectly homogeneous colony. Mr. Chamberlain is fond of talking about the kin beyond the seas, but three people in Canada speak French for seven that speak English, and the latter are not all of British origin. Canadians do not need to be told of the strong attractive force to the south of them. They know it, and it is because they know it they are resolved not to succumb to it, that they are resolutely pursuing the preference policy. The preference given by Canada was in reality a movement to promote commerce in order that ocean transit might be improved."

THANKS FOR CHAMBERLAIN.

Lord Strathcona and the Agents-General of the Colonies will call on Hon. Joseph Chamberlain on November 18 to express their appreciation of his work as Colonial Secretary. The Agents-General of Western Australia informed the Canadian Associated Press that there is no political significance in the visit now would the fiscal question be discussed.

THE SCOTSMAN'S VIEWS.

The Scotsman is publishing a series of special articles on the Canadian preferential tariff, in the course of one of which it says: "Only the unenlightened exclusiveness of the United States fiscal policy has prevented her having a larger proportion of the Canadian trade than at present." The Scotsman also says that the Canadian market is Americanized, and calls for a fiscal arrangement with the colonies before they fall under the same malady.

MR. BONAR LAW.

The King has an appreciative sketch of Mr. A. Bonar Law, one of the Canadian M.P.'s, in which it says that he is mainly responsible for the issue of the statistical tables of the Board of Trade, which are playing such a leading part in the fiscal campaign, and is also one of the finest chess players in the House of Commons.

INTERESTED IN CANADA.

Under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A of Southport, Hamar Greenwood delivered a lantern lecture yesterday on Canada, and afterwards the lecturer was besieged by numerous enquirers wishing further details.

NOT SERIOUSLY ILL.

Lord Strathcona, who is confined to the house owing to a slight chill, is expected to be at the office in a few days.

A GERMAN FOOD.

The secretary of the Eighty Club has received from Germany specimens of dog-flesh sausage, which the German workmen eat because they cannot afford beef. The specimens were immediately placed in spirits.

LEBAUDY BROTHERS' SUCCESSFUL AIRSHIP

Parisians Think it Ahead of Anything Santos-Dumont Has Produced

SAILED AGAINST THE WIND

An Expert Says the Machine Can Resist Anything but a High Gale

Paris Nov. 16.—Enthusiastic people are pressing around the gallery of the machine which the city has allowed to be used as a temporary balloon shed for the Lebaudy Brothers yellow airship in appreciation of their feat, which many think has distanced Santos-Dumont's most brilliant air voyages. Santos-Dumont says he prefers not to express his real feelings in the matter. In the opinion of the public as well as that of the experts no airship has yet shown the resistance to the wind and steadiness witnessed by the Parisians yesterday morning when the 'Jaune' passed over Paris.

Juschmon, the driver of the airship, told a newspaper correspondent this morning that he felt confident that the yellow airship would be able to resist any except a very high velocity of of wind currents. "We sailed along," he said, "as though unaffected by the wind. It seemed as if the propellers not only carried us along, but as if by the rapid movement they kept off the force of the wind, thus creating our own atmosphere.

SOME ADVICE FOR CANADA

New York Sun Says to Look Out for Financial Squalls

New York, Nov. 14.—In reviewing the wealth of Canada and its banking system, the New York Sun says, "Canadian bank stocks are in general a sound and excellent investment. Whether the Canadian system of branch banks and note security would work successfully in the United States is, perhaps, doubtful, but it has certainly stood the test of Canadian needs. Canada's wealth has increased very rapidly during recent years, and there is much in the future which promises a continued increase. Yet that very success and its promises should warn Canada against over confidence, and lead Canadians to keep an eye out for financial squalls.'

POWER AT PETERBORO'

Controversy Regarding Trent Canal Completion

Mr. Culverwell Replies to the Statement that There will Not be Enough Water to Operate the Canal Next Summer

Mr. J. Alexr. Culverwell makes the following statement to The Globe: Your Peterborough despatch in Wednesday's Globe which was, I know, inspired by certain power holders of Peterborough who now are smarting at their exposure by the resolution of protest of the Port Hope Canal Association to the Dominion and Ontario Governments does me grave injustice. Your Port Hope correspondent in Monday's Globe was wrong in stating that I said at the Port Hope meeting "that Peterborough was doing all in her power to have the completion of the Trent Canal to Lake Ontario delayed." What I did say—and the Port Hope press reports will bear me out—was that the statement of the manager of a power company at the Peterborough meeting that there would not be sufficient water to operate the Trent Canal next summer was the most slanderous attempt ever made to hinder the completion of the canal, and that it was made for the benefit of the selfish interests of several Peterborough power owners, who, he stated, had run short of power. I also produced reports of eminent engineers, proving the statement a slander.

The resolution of protest of the Port Hope association in itself shows that they acted upon the information of the Peterborough press reports of the speakers at the meeting in Peterborough, so I cannot be accused of misrepresentation to the Port Hope meeting by your correspondent. The reports also show that a power-holder admitted that it was his intention to hoodwink the Ottawa and Toronto Ministers into believing that the expenditure for the reservoir dams in the back district was necessary for navigation purposes and to hide the fact that it would benefit power-holders, and that he stated that Hon. Messrs. Mulock and Blair had turned down the last deputation for the reason that it was for local interest only.

It was also stated by another power-owner that the official estimate was $80,000 for this work, and that there would be claims of damages for flooding, expenditure for purchase of some back lakes, and wages for operating those dams. The truth is that these power-owners have used up all the water they are entitled to by the Government leases. I am backed up in this statement by reports of engineers as to the present flow of the river, and which have been published in the Peterborough press since the meeting.

The fact that I am a power-owner need not prohibit me from exposing those underground methods of securing power from the Government. Their high position in political circles will not prevent my acting even as a "policeman" for the canal.

My journalistic efforts in advocating the completion of the Trent Canal are well known, and my contention was at the Port Hope and Peterborough meetings that this Peterborough deputation should go for a larger purpose than that of power; it should go with a view to secure the immediate completion of the canal in the interests of the taxpayers of the whole Trent district of Canada, and even of the Empire, for it will be a link of a great international highway between the "Granary of the Empire" and Britain.

THE RUSSIAN PLAN FAILS DISMALLY

An Ice-Free Pacific Port Not Yet Secured

PLEA TO IRISH PEOPLE

New Gold Law for the Transvaal Colony, Russian Steamship Line for American

London, Nov. 13 —Russian correspondents of The Times say official circles in St. Petersburg admit that the policy leading to the occupation of Port Arthur and Manchuria was mistaken, and that there is no prospect that its results will compensate for the vast expenditure of money and blood entailed. M. de Witte, the author of this policy, has been removed to another sphere, and Viceroy Alexieff has been charged to repair as far as possible the errors committed. The attempt to secure an ice-free port on the Pacific has failed. It was hoped that Dalny would meet the requirements, but the southwestern winds off Dalny caused such high seas that a huge breakwater has been constructed, costing 17,000,000 roubles, and since the breakwater has been built the water in the harbor freezes in the winter. It has become necessary, therefore, to seek a new port. There is an admirable ice-free port at Masampho, Corea, but the Japanese will thwart Russian attempts to secure this.

IRISHMEN DEEPLY GRIEVED.

Dublin, Nov. 15— Mr. John Redmond, M.P., announces meetings at an early date of the Irish Parliamentary party and the United Irish League, for the purpose of expressing the universal feelings of the Nationalists of profound regret at the suggested retirement of Mr. William O'Brien and the earnest hope that he will reconsider his decision Meanwhile Mr. Redmond earnestly appeals to his colleagues and the Irish people generally to do and say nothing calculated to embitter the situation. He says "The issues depending upon continued national unity are so vast that nothing must be allowed to imperil them." The situation, it is said, threatens to be complicated by financial difficulties. The general expectation is that unless Mr. Redmond displays unexpected resources of strength and courage a split of the old kind will develop.

NEW RUSSIAN STEAMSHIP LINE

Moscow, Nov. 13—The opening of the new Russian steamship line to America has been fixed for the 28th instant. A cargo has been booked from south Russian ports, and a satisfactory complement of emigrants secured at Naples. It is stated that the terms made with the Italian emigration authorities are very satisfactory. The vessels will maintain a minimum speed of fourteen knots. The service is inaugurated by a volunteer fleet of vessels, and it is the first instance of a Russian long-distance steam line, except that between Russian ports and the far east.

NEW GOLD LAWS.

London, Nov. 14—The Johannesburg correspondent of The Times, commenting on the draft of the new gold law, says the old law was framed exclusively for the benefit of the Boer farmers whose successors, the mining companies are generally satisfied. The new ordinance professes to give some effect to the principle that the right of mining precious metals belongs to the Crown, but it actually appears to defraud the State, while offering few inducements to the individual prospector to settle in the country.

THE AMERICANS LAUGH AT EASY BALFOUR.

British Can Always Remove Friction with United States by Surrendering

London, Nov. 14 - The Saturday Review, referring to the Lord Mayor's banquet imagines that Premier Balfour's satisfaction at the removal of the cause of friction in Alaska has amused the Americans for, after all, it is tolerably obvious that all friction can always be removed by complete surrender.

THE INDEPENDENCE FEELING.

London, Nov. 14—The Ottawa correspondent of The Economist in a long letter dealing with Canadian feeling regarding the Alaska decision, says: "The feeling in favor of Canadian independence is undoubtedly growing."

WANTON EMPIRE BREAKING.

London, November 14—The Outlook, speaking of the speeches of Premier Balfour and Lord Alverstone at the Lord Mayor's banquet, says the Canadians can of course be the judges of the value of their own property, but the uncontradicted Canadian allegations point to a piece of Empire breaking the most wanton and senseless.

CANNOT FIX DETAILS.

London November 14—Mr. Chamberlain replying to a correspondent regarding the scope of the proposed duty of ten per cent. on manufactured and partly manufactured goods imported into Britain from foreign countries intimates that in sketching the broad policy he advocates he cannot commit himself to any further details without consulting the representatives of all the trades interested.

WANT MORE PROTECTION.

London, November 14—The Guardian, in an article on the Canadian steel bounties says: "It is evident that what the Canadian manufacturers interested in iron and steel are now concerning themselves with is to obtain more, not less, protection. This is a point well worth attention of the Midland iron masters.

New York, November 14—In reviewing the wealth of Canada and its banking system, the New York Sun says: "Canadian bank stocks are in general a sound and excellent investment. Whether the Canadian system of branch banks and note security would work successfully in the United States is perhaps, doubtful, but it has certainly stood the test of Canadian needs. Canada's wealth has increased very rapidly during recent years, and there is much in the future which promises a continued increase. Yet that very success and its promises should warn Canada against over confidence and lead Canadians to keep an eye out for financial squalls."

UNION TO INVESTIGATE

Strike Breaking Bookbinders Brought to Toronto

Boston, Mass, Nov. 14—At the convention of the American Federation of Labor yesterday Delegate Draper of Ottawa said that a number of bookbinders had been imported from England into Toronto, and were ready to take the places of the union bookbinders should they strike.

Fraternal Delegate O'Grady of the British Trades Congress said that his organization would certainly investigate.

Resolutions were adopted favoring the use of the union label, endorsing the Women's Labor League and declaring it the duty of the people making purchases of retail clerks to demand the union card.

Decision Against Chinaman

San Francisco, Nov. 14 —The United States Court Commissioner has handed down a decision in the case of Lin Lung Wong, a Chinese merchant, who acted as [illegible], to the effect that a Chinese manufacturer who engages in any kind of manual labor about his factory, even for the purpose of instruction his employes, is a laborer under the meaning of the Exclusion Act, and, as such, is not entitled to enter into or remain in the country as a merchant. This opinion, if adopted as a rule of action by the Chinese bureau, will lead to the deportation of a large number of Chinese proprietors of cigar factories, clothing shop broom factories, and other establishments.

TURKEY HAS GIVEN WAY TO THE TWO POWERS

Grand Vizier, who Favored Such a Policy From the First, Now Secure in Office

Constantinople, Nov. 13 — Tewfik Pasha the Foreign Minister, called on the Austrian and Russian Ambassadors yesterday and notified them that the Porte's reply to the latest note of the two powers on the subject of reforms in Macedonia would speedily be presented, and that it would be satisfactory. This is in accordance with the views of the Grand Vizier who opposed the previous rejection of the reform scheme, and consequently was threatened with a deprivation of his office. His position now is secure.

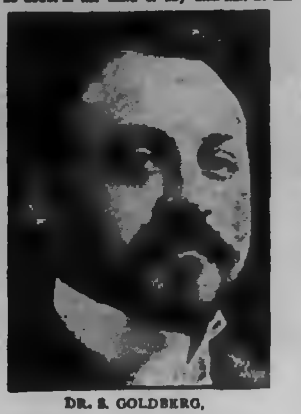
You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has



DR. S. GOLDBERG,
The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg 208 Woodward Ave., Room 806, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

ENGLISH OFFICE 30 Fleet St., London E. C.

TIMES PRINTING COMPANY,
Publishers and Proprietors, - Peterborough, Ont.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 16, 1903

THE BARNACLES

The Ottawa Free Press, the organ of the Liberal party, at the Capital, follows the lead of the Globe, the organ of the Liberal party in Toronto, in notifying Premier Ross that the party is tired of being ruled by barnacles. The Free Press does not mince matters, it says: "The lack of virility in the political life of the Province of Ontario is just now the cause of considerable misgiving. Corruptionists have attained dominance in the party that rules and purity of administration is seriously threatened." The Ottawa Liberal organ is prepared to go a step further than the Toronto Liberal organ to bring about the purification of the party. The Globe thinks that to try a term in opposition would be weak and foolish. The Free Press, after calling upon Premier Ross to "rid the party of its grosser elements and rally round him the best of its forces, says: "Should it be found that he is unequal to this, there is only one other course to be adopted—the Government must be turned out and the party restored to its pristine vigor by exclusion from office."

LUMBER TIGHTENING TOO

Great as the lumber cut in the Georgian Bay woods has been this year, it is rated at one-third less than the cut of 1902, says the Ottawa Free Press. One reason for this is the shortage of labor, but a greater reason is in the "shortening of sail" on the part of lumbering firms in view of the hard times expected in the United States. Business conditions following the various slumps in industrial properties show few signs of a speedy recovery. The lumbermen are consequently cautious against overstocking the market, and have decided to curtail the year's output. Why Canadians should be so dependent on the American market, however, it is difficult to explain. Lumber is a raw material of this country for lines of manufacture which ought to find markets elsewhere in the world. About fifty years ago, one of the then leading financiers of Canada, Mr. Dewitt, of the Banque du Peuple, in a public address, expressed his surprise that the lumber was not all put through planing mills for export to the world at large. If the question was pertinent so long ago, when lumbering was in its comparative infancy, it ought to be trebly so today when the supplies are rapidly diminishing, and the use of lumber so largely increased for every purpose. It is complained of as a short-sighted policy to allow our pulp woods to go out of the country in the rough at three dollars a cord, to be made on "the other side" worth $40 a cord in the manufactured state, to allow even stocks of pulp to be carried away from our mills instead of being brought to a finish in the various qualities of paper right at home. If this is said with reason of our pulp woods and pulp, how much more reasonably can it be said of the manufacture of our lumber, in far greater proportion than is done at present in the form of portable dwellings, doors, sashes, mouldings and floorings for which there is a wider market than the neighboring States. Instead of which there is a mad rush to clear out the lumber as it comes from the saw mill, or to raft away the logs uncut while there is yet time under the Government rules. For it is seen that the rafting away still continues, excepting from Crown and Indian lands. Of course, there is a great deal of enterprise shown in the manufacture of our lumber at home, but it is merely a symptom of what might be done. To see so many of the great lake barges loading raw lumber at the Georgian Bay ports for the southern side of the lakes, is to think how much more and better employment would be given to the Canadian people were a tithe of this lumber "made up" at home.

WHAT GLASGOW DOES IN MUNICIPALIZATION

Sultan and Macedonia

Sofia, Nov. 14—The Austro-Russian communication to the Porte insisting that the reform scheme be accepted in its entirety, absolutely without modification makes a categorical reply, accepting or rejecting the scheme in toto inevitable, though efforts may be made at a later stage to accentuate the various provisions. The Sultan shows a desire to reopen direct negotiations with Bulgaria. He has decorated the Bulgarian agent, and professes to be deeply touched with the Bulgarian messages of congratulation upon the occasion of his birthday, but though the Bulgarian Government will, doubtless, respond to these indications of friendship the time for a separate understanding with Bulgaria appears to have gone by.

Womanly Troubles

SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO UNDERMINE HEALTH AND BEAUTY, BUT SHOULD BE TREATED AT ONCE BY FERROZONE

It is impossible to go into details on this subject, but the experience of many a poor woman who is crippled for life, just because she didn't use a good remedy in time, should be a warning to others.

When the first stages of womanhood appear in a young girl, a great deal depends upon getting her over this critical stage, so that in years to come she will not develop green sickness or consumption.

As soon as she complains of flushed face, headache, bearing down feelings, give her at once a course of Ferrozone treatment which will carry her past the strain.

In the adult woman if any irregularities occur, Ferrozone will be found a remedy of remarkable potency and power.

Ferrozone is the ideal regulator for the monthly period and causes all organs of the body to perform their work properly, and at just the expected time.

It purifies the blood, tones up the nerves and vital energies. The stomach is strengthened, and digestive and assimilative processes are improved by the good work of Ferrozone. It regulates the bowels, cures constipation, and piles, and replaces disease and decay by health and strength.

There is nothing better for the complexion than Ferrozone. It removes the dark circles from under the eyes, removes and cures all manner of skin eruptions, gives brightness and brilliancy to the eyes, a rosy tint to the cheeks, whitens the teeth and develops a well rounded plump and handsome form.

Ferrozone is the ladies' favorite, and should find a place in every household. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, convenient and pleasant to take. Price per box 50c. or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"Of course you can trust me," he replied. "Try me, and prove the truth of my words."

He spoke seriously; but there was a gleam of amusement in his eyes, as they dwelt upon Lola's wrathful face and set lips.

"You must take Rosalie away from the circus—away from him—from Dick Hermon—you understand?" she said, in low tones, her voice full of suppressed excitement. "Right away, where he will never see her again."

"How can I do such a thing?" he asked, his face losing its expression of gentle raillery, as he noted the ominous flash of her eyes. "You can't mean what you say."

"Yes, I do," she replied. "I tell you that yellow-haired lion-tamer has no right to be one of us. Who is she, to place herself always in my way?"

"In your way?" he repeated, with a show of interest he was far from feeling. "How can she be in your way?"

"Hasn't her coming changed everyone's feelings towards me? She is looked up to and adored—I am nothing beside her; while she is worshipped as an idol, I am forgotten. Oh, you must have seen the change," she added, breaking off with a sudden fury that surged over her, at the bare recollection of the injury her vanity had suffered since Rosalie's beautiful face had come between her and her petted days of sovereignty over all the members of the circus.

Bob watched her with a drawing interest; a dim meaning of her passionately-spoken confidence stole into his mind.

To take Mademoiselle Rosalie away from the circus, he must first gain for himself the love Hermon was striving unconsciously to win.

The thought thrilled him with a strange pleasure.

No woman had ever won upon his feelings as Rosalie had.

He did not love her, but he felt how easily he could let her steal into his life, until his heart was filled only with her image.

"You wish me to take her away," he said, suddenly. "What if she should refuse to fall in with our plans? Supposing she will not consent to be my wife?"

"Of course she will not consent," Lola replied.

"You seem very certain about it. If you are so sure of that fact, what is the use of all this plotting?"

"You must find means of making her marry you; but the first thing to do is to separate her from Dick."

"How?"

"How are lovers parted?" she said, with a laugh that grated on Bob's ears. "By mischief. A word here, a word there, breathed softly, and with tact, that is all."

"But if they are not lovers?"

"They are."

"And you would part them?"

"Yes. I would kill her myself sooner than that she should take Dick from me."

She uttered the words so fiercely that he started, and looked at her more closely.

Her eyes blazed with a savage jealousy, and the angry flush in her cheeks deepened with every fresh sway of her burning thoughts.

"She shall not take Dick from you," he said soothingly. "I will see to that, Trust to me!"

"I do trust you," she said. "Everyone else is on her side, but I am sure you will be my friend."

"I promise to do all you wish me to," he replied, and a few moments later he left her.

She watched him go, with a feeling that he would help her as much as lay in his power, and the gloomy cloud faded from her brow at the thought of the vengeance prepared for Mademoiselle Rosalie.

He still wore his equestrian dress, with its bright colors, and glittering spangles, but he had taken the tight-fitting cap from his head, and it lay where he had flung it on the ground.

He was so deep in thought, he did not notice Lola's approach.

"I have something to tell you, Dick," she said, when he had become aware of her presence.

"What is it, Lola?" he asked, absently.

"Something you might guess, if you tried."

"I shall not try; I am slow at guessing. Tell me."

"Bob Rayne is going to marry Mademoiselle Rosalie."

"What?"

He stood an instant, dumfounded, unable to comprehend the full meaning of her words.

Then, seizing her hand, he drew her, almost roughly, towards him.

"What did you say?" he cried, huskily. "Speak again, I did not understand you."

"You are surprised," she remarked, a vindictive light in her eyes. "I thought you would be. Bob Rayne seemed the last one to ask mademoiselle to be his wife."

"His wife! He must be mad!"

He could not believe Lola's words at first, but when a few soft-spoken sentences had placed the fact before him, he felt a chill despair settle on his heart; an ashen pallor spread slowly over his face, and his lips set in a hard line.

"Married to Rayne!" he muttered, at last. "Surely it cannot be true?"

"It is quite true," she answered, hardly able to contain the rage that surged within her breast, at sight of his emotion. "After all, there is nothing so strange in it."

No, nothing!

And yet he would have given anything to have been spared those cruel words, which took from him all that was dearest on earth.

He must let Rosalie go from him, his passion untold, his love a thing unknown to her.

The thought was torture—torture worse than death.

Until that moment he had been happy in being near her, content to gaze upon her lovely, truthful face, to hear her sweet voice that was like the chime of silver bells.

He had known she could never be his; she was so far above him.

Loving her, he knew their lives lay as far apart as if an insuperable barrier had been placed between them.

Yet he had been content, and now—all was changed.

UNION TO INVESTIGATE

Strike Breaking Bookbinders Brought to Toronto

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14—At the convention of the American Federation of Labor yesterday Delegate Draper of Ottawa said that a number of bookbinders had been imported from England into Toronto, and were ready to take the places of the union bookbinders should they strike.

Fraternal Delegate O'Grady of the British Trades Congress said that his organization would certainly investigate.

Resolutions were adopted favoring the use of the union label, endorsing the Women's Labor League and declaring it the duty of the people making purchases of retail clerks to demand the union card.

Decision Against Chinaman

San Francisco, Nov. 14—The United States Court Commissioner has handed down a decision in the case of Lin Lung Wong, a Chinese merchant, who acted as lineman, to the effect that a Chinese manufacturer who engages in any kind of manual labor about his factory, even for the purpose of instruction his employes, is a laborer under the meaning of the Exclusion Act, and, as such, is not entitled to enter into, or remain in the country as a merchant. This opinion, if adopted as a rule of action by the Chinese bureau, will lead to the deportation of a large number of Chinese proprietors of cigar factories, clothing shop broom factories, and other establishments.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 14.—We expect some further improvement in the early trading, but the bear party is out with more predictions of a severe break in the active stocks next week, to be accompanied by manipulation in the money market, and as this party has demonstrated its ability to force the market down, it will be advisable to sell U. P., St. Paul, B & O., R. I. and Pennsylvania on any rally. It looks as if the bears were about to make their final drive at the market, and on any spare breaks in the early part of next week it will be well to cover short contracts. The bank statement is likely to be more favorable than anticipated, and Cuban legislation changed control of the seaboard air line. The underwriting of the Lake Shore bond issue, large cotton exports and gold imports, are on the favorable side of the market. London early market was dull and featureless, with prices for railroad stocks about at parity with yesterday's close, and with U. S. steel 1-4 higher. London will not count in today's market.

New York, Nov. 14.—bears will hammer the market on Columbian threat to recapture Pa. A weakened sort of speculation will be seen. Traders who covered and went long yesterday will have stocks for sale today. Take Sugar on dips. Pa. and Steels have been liquidated. R. I. insiders are buying on a scale.

The Famous Eiffel Tower.

The famous Eiffel Tower, which attracts every foreign visitor in Paris, and which stands out as a beacon light for 30 miles around, is to disappear. The Municipal Committee of "Old Paris" has decreed that the huge structure shall be pulled down at the expiration in 1910 of the concession held by the Eiffel Tower Company. The city architects complain that the tower interferes with their plans for the embellishment of the Champs de Mars. On the other hand, after returning twice over in dividends the capital invested on its construction, the Eiffel Tower has now ceased to pay as a financial investment, and the company is annually losing a considerable sum through the expense of keeping the tower in repair. Various schemes are now on foot for removing the edifice to some other place. It has even been proposed that it shall be acquired by the State and set up somewhere on the French coast to act as a sort of gigantic lighthouse. It is doubtful, however, whether such a scheme would be seriously entertained by the authorities. The alternative is to sell the tower to some foreign capitalist desirous of pulling it down and taking it to America. Here again, however, there is a difficulty, for the actual cost of tearing down the Eiffel Tower is estimated to be not less than £100,000, whilst the cost of re-erecting it would be about the same. Meanwhile, as the tower is to be pulled down at latest in 1910, and as the company is now expending a considerable sum on the upkeep, it seems not unlikely that an arrangement may be come to with the city authorities by which the tower will be pulled down within the next year or two.

Extraordinary Letters.

Some extraordinary letters, says The London Express, have passed between the builders employed by the Wesleyan Methodist body for the erection of the new headquarters on the site of the Westminster Aquarium, and Mr. W. J. Glover of King's Heath, a prominent member of the temperance party in Birmingham. As the whole of the site is not required for the Wesleyan building, portions are advertised to be let on lease, and Mr. Glover wrote to inquire if there would be any objection to a tenant taking out a liquor license. The reply was in the negative. The Wesleyan body would "not make any restriction as to a license, but the arrangements for obtaining such a license would be left to the tenant." This drew from Mr. Glover the following remarkable reply:—"On seeing your huge advertisement on the dismantled building, inviting applications for leasing the spare land, I endeavored to satisfy a sceptical friend by proving that the Wesleyan Conference would at least keep their property clear of the liquor traffic. In order to prove this I wrote to you. Remembering how Nonconformists have criticised the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for being the land-owners of many public house sites in Westminster, and knowing that in deference to public opinion they had in recent years discontinued many of these licensed houses as fast as the leases lapsed, I am staggered to think that hereafter the beerhouse or gin-palace business thus ousted by the Established Church may find sanctuary for eighty years within the precincts of the headquarters of Wesleyan Methodism and on its freehold."

Treaty with United States

Madrid, Nov. 14.—Chambers of Commerce throughout Spain are petitioning the Government to take steps for the prompt negotiation of commercial treaties with the United States and the Republics of South America. They emphasize Spain's trade losses, which have resulted from the altered position of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and warn the Government that failure to act quickly will entail general disaster. The chambers further declare that the world is on the verge of revolutionary commercial development and that only the most vigilant nations can escape serious, if not fatal, injury.

King Alphonso's Visit

Madrid November 14—King Alphonso hopes to visit Paris, Rome, Berlin and London. The dates have not been fixed because of the unsettled state of Spanish domestic politics. The King will also shortly pay an important visit to Lisbon, probably at the end of November. There are serious reasons for the undoubted change in the Hispano-Portuguese reciprocal sentiment, and it is not beyond possibility that this change may receive an interesting sanction.

DEFENCES FOR METZ

Authorities were Warned by Spying Experiments

Berlin, Nov. 14—In order to make Alsace-Lorraine impregnable to French infantry and cavalry attack and to prevent spying in time of peace, Germany has begun the construction around the city of Metz of new defensive works in the shape of a huge fence, composed of iron bars seven feet high, which will surround the town on the east and south for a distance of fifteen miles. Extensive sentry service will be established to guard the fence which will be unique among German fortifications. At the intersections of highways openings will be left capable of closure by iron gates in emergency. The earth fortifications are now being removed as they failed to afford adequate control of the entrance and egress of strangers into Metz. As the result of these conditions the authorities have been constantly worried by spying experiments. It is hoped the iron "trocha" will give the desired security.

ROMANCE AND FRAUD

Obtained $200 and Then Married Another Girl

Kingston, Nov. 14— The trial took place at Napanee of A. Whitesell, Newmarket, for obtaining money by fraud from Miss Emma Allison.

Whitsell was engaged to Miss Allison but in November, 1901, he married another woman without apprising Miss Allison. In July 1902, he got $200, as Miss Allison supposed, to start housekeeping with. About 150 letters on both sides were produced in court.

The judge found the prisoner guilty of obtaining $200 by fraud, and Whitesell was let out on suspended sentence on promise to pay Miss Allison the $200

The Pope's Attitude

Rome, November 14—Before delivering his allocution approving the anti-Italian policy of his predecessor it is stated that Pius X informed the Italian Government that he would only assert, without pressing the claims of the Church to temporal dominion if the Church would be allowed efficiently to supervise the education of youth in order to check the increasing anti-Catholic and anti-monarchical propaganda.

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masteo, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H. N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO., Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong

THE CORDOVA MINES

The Situation Unchanged—Employees are Hopeful

The statement of the Superintendent published in The Times on Friday, regarding the closing of the Cordova Mines has not made the situation any more hopeful. The fact that the mine is making money, however, makes the outlook somewhat brighter.

It is expected the management at Cordova will be able to make a definite statement tomorrow or Wednesday, on the arrival of the English mail.

SAM PARKS' CHUM ON TRIAL

Walking Delegate McCarthy Faces a Charge of Blackmail

New York, Nov. 16—Timothy McCarthy walking degelate of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's Union, a chum of Sam Parks who was sentenced to Sing Sing will be placed on trial to-morrow morning in the criminal branch of the supreme court. The charge against McCarthy is extortion.

The chief complainant is Herman Loebel of the Loebel-Andrews Construction Company. It is alleged that McCarthy and Parks blackmailed Mr. Loebel out of $1300. The circumstances are similar to those brought out on the trial of Parks.

Sultan and Macedonia

Sofia, Nov. 14—The Austro-Russian communication to the Porte insisting that the reform scheme be accepted in its entirety, absolutely without modification makes a categorical reply, accepting or rejecting the scheme in toto inevitable, though efforts may be made at a later stage to accentuate the various provisions. The Sultan shows a desire to reopen direct negotiations with Bulgaria. He has decorated the Bulgarian agent, and professes to be deeply touched with the Bulgarian messages of congratulation upon the occasion of his birthday, but though the Bulgarian Government will, doubtless, respond to these indications of friendship the time for a separate understanding with Bulgaria appears to have gone by.

AFFAIRS IN BURMA.

Mandalay, Nov. 13 — Lieut.-Governor Baines on Friday presented a document recognizing for administrative purposes the Buddhist Archbishop of Upper Burma. Mr. Barnes emphasizes the fact that this innovation is not an innovation, but the continuation of Lord Dufferin's policy. It was practically the unanimous Burmese desire that the British ratify the monks' selection, as did the Burmese Kings in their day. The provincial officials also favored the step of removing ecclesiastical disputes from the civil courts.

THE STONY PASS MINING COMPANY.

Important Meeting of Officials Held in Bangor, Me.

THE STOCK TO ADVANCE.

Prospects Highly Encouraging and Official is Pleased with the Recent Rich Strike

The following, taken from the Bangor Commercial, has been handed The Times for publication by Mr. Robert Harrison, Canadian Fiscal Agent of the Stony Pass Mining Company, which will interest many prospective investors in Peterborough and surrounding district, several of whom had the pleasure of meeting Mr. A. A. Brown, General Manager, while here a few days ago:

A highly important meeting of the officials of the Stony Pass Mining Co. was held at the office of Freeland Jones, Esq., in this city, Saturday. In attendance were A. W. Hall, president, Freeland Jones, vice president and treasurer W. S. Brown, secretary; and A. A. Brown, superintendent and general manager.

The officials are feeling very jubilant over the wonderfully rich strike made in the Hercules claim in one of the properties of the company, showing as it does many thousands of tons of black copper with values running in excess of $75 to the ton. The big strike, one of the richest for years in that great mineral section of the state of Colorado, was made in the south drift and is apparently a distinct vein from the big fissure on which the shaft was sunk, and the latter vein according to Preston S. Burleigh, of Houlton, who examined it Oct. 1, was over 20 feet wide when the shaft had attained a depth of 140 feet. In view of the immense ore measures now being opened up in the Hercules, the officials decided not to sell any stock after Jan. 1, at less than 60 cents per share, and it is considered highly probable that the stock will be withdrawn from market on that date.

Work for several weeks past has been going on towards the erection of commodious buildings at the Hercules and Supt. Brown proposes to have a power hoist installed at once. He believes it will be easy to make the Hercules a big producer in the next ten months and will increase the force of men employed just as fast as the men can be worked to advantage. A great many tons of ore have been taken out of the Hercules already, but active shipping will probably be delayed until spring, when many thousands of tons will be ready to forward to the smelters.

Supt. Brown predicts, and feels justified by the facts so to do, that the Stony Pass Mining Co. has one of the richest mining properties in the world and that this will be demonstrated in a comparatively brief period to the entire satisfaction of all. The property talks for itself, and to the most pronounced satisfaction of every person who has visited it.

Supt. Brown will return to Colorado at once to rush the work as much as possible in the construction of the new plant. The officials of the company are justified in feeling very jubilant over the wonderful showing of the Hercules and the important fact that within a few months, ore taken from this claim will be returning a handsome profit and more than sufficient to cover all the expenses of development work on the different properties of the company. The outlook proclaims in no uncertain way, dividends at an early stage and good big ones at that.

The recent report made on the Hercules by Edward Peacock, one of the most reliable experts in mining in the west, affords an excellent idea of this property. John Hays Hammond, than whom few in the world have acquired a more thorough knowledge of mining, is said to regard Mr. Peacock as one of the most reliable men in the business today. Mr. Peacock shows that the Stony Pass Mining Co. has $197,000 in profit in sight today from ore exposed on the vein in which the shaft is sunk. He states that the ore measure shows for a distance of 400 feet on the surface and with like values for the same depth as the shaft will give over $1,200,000 in profits. He likens the showing made in percentages of copper, lead, silver, and gold to those of other mines close by, and which will mean that in working down to a depth of 500 feet, there should be over $10,000,000 in profits in this single claim for the company. The big strike made Oct. 19 was not considered in his figures, for it had not been made at the time Mr. Peacock visited the property. Oct. 20, the workmen had entered the newly discovered vein a distance of seven feet in the work of cross-cutting, and Oct. 26, they were in 10 feet and the wall on the farther side was still hid from view.

Red is the color of danger, whether on the semaphore or on the skin. When the face is reddened by eruptions, when boils break out on the body, or the angry red of sores and ulcers is displayed in the flesh, it is nature's danger signal. The blood is obstructed and tainted by impurities, and there can be no safety until the blood is made pure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the effete matter which clogs and corrupts it. It cures pimples, boils, eczema, scrofula, sores, ulcers and other consequences of impure blood.

"I feel greatly thankful for what your medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Chas. Hood, of Kalkaska, Mich. "I suffered with scrofula of the head for twelve years. Tried every kind of medicine that I heard of but found no cure. Every one that looked at my head said they never saw anything like it. The last doctor I doctored with before applying to you I got worse every day. Was so miserable that I was unable to do any work at all. After taking two or three bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and using the local treatment you prescribed for me, I was cured and my head was entirely free from scrofula."

Accept no substitute for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is no other medicine which is "just as good" for diseases of the blood and the eruptions which are caused by the blood's impurity.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send thirty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or fifty stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

THE EMERALD ISLE AGAIN IS IN CHAOS NATIONAL RE-BIRTH MUST WAIT AWHILE

Tenants Who Welcomed the Land Act are Now Hestitating to Purchase

Ireland's National Re-Birth Must Wait Awhile

London, Nov. 16—A London cable to the Post says: The Irish problem which has vexed British statesmen for a full century, evidently is not to solve itself so easily under Secretary Wyndham's mailcal eye as some persons have imagined. Mr. O'Brien's dramatic resignation has disclosed some unsuspected fissures in the National party. Closely involved with Mr. O'Brien's resignation, is, of course, John Redmond, for he and Mr. O'Brien have stood together in support of the new Land Act, and are better fitted for Parliament than the hustings.

Mr. O'Brien's support has been essential hitherto to Mr. Redmond's hold upon the volatile Irish electorate. Moreover, Mr. Redmond is now most unfairly branded as being himself a rapacious landlord, having accepted a twenty-four and one-half years purchase from his tenants. Mr. O'Brien attributes his resignation to the unceasing hostility of the Freeman's Journal, but does not go on to say, what is the common belief, that Archbishop Walsh stands behind the Freeman's Journal, while Mr. Dillon and Mr. Michael Davitt express views on the land question equally opposed to those of Mr. Redmond and Mr. O'Brien. "Irish landlords, says Mr. Dillon, in a letter published, as a class, remain most unreasonable, rapacious, and cruel. He urges fighting the new Act as Parnell fought the Land Act of 1881.

Thus political Ireland once again is in chaos. Tenants who welcomed the Land Act are now hesitating to purchase. Landlords, they are told, are securing ridiculously high terms. A deadlock is the result and Ireland's national rebirth must wait.

MINERAL DISCOVERY

Rich Find Along the Temiskaming Railway

The Ontario Government has by order-in-Council, dated Nov. 11, 1903, withdrawn from sale, lease or exploration under the provisions of the Mines Act, a belt of land 10 miles wide on each side of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad, beginning near the township of Widdifield, and extending to the town to New Liskeard. The reason of the action is that important discoveries of nickel, cobalt, silver and arsenic have been made, and it has been thought best to reserve the land for the time being, since 20,000 acres per mile along the route of the railway have been set aside for the building of the road.

Prof. W. G. Miller, acting under instructions from Mr. T. W. Gibson, director of the Bureau of Mines, who recently visited this country, is at present examining the deposits, and his letters are most sanguine. The deposits discovered are entirely unlike anything that has hitherto been found in Ontario. One of the ores found is niccolite, bearing 44 per cent. nickel. Another is cobalt nickel arsenide, carrying 6 per cent. nickel and 18 per cent. cobalt. Arsenic occurs up to 72 per cent. in some of these ores. In addition, some rare specimens of native silver have been found.

The veins so far discovered lie about five miles south of Haileybury. Prof. Miller describes some of the samples of ore as "wonderful."

Naboth's Vineyard

IT is cheering to observe the fine courage which a portion of the United States press exhibits in opposing the high-handed proceedings of the administration in Panama. The journals which challenge the President's action have proceeded from the first expression of indignant surprise to argument on the respective position of the two countries as regulated by the treaty of 1846. That treaty was made with New Granada, but Colombia has succeeded to the rights duties, and responsibilities of the defunct State. The Springfield Republican, in the course of a temperate article, analyzes the several clauses of the treaty which are applicable to the present difficulties, and any reader must be especially struck with that which reads:—"The United States also guarantee, in the same manner, the rights of sovereignty and property which New Granada has and possesses over the said territory." How the United States can pretend that they are carrying out this guarantee when they forbid Colombia embarking troops to send to the scene of the insurrection is more than plain men can well explain. It also quotes from a letter written by Secretary Seward in 1866, to the United States Minister in Bagota. "The United States," he wrote, "have always abstained from any connection with questions of internal revolution in the State of Panama . . . and will continue to maintain a perfect neutrality in such domestic controversies."

Attitude of People

The general attitude of the people will be watched with interest, for if they can calmly look on while this particularly cynical piece of state policy is executed, it will have to be considered that the indignation which has frequently been expressed in the past at the morals of the "robber Governments of Europe" has been the rankest hypocrisy. When Secretary Hay next communicates protests to Russia about encroachments in Manchuria, Count Lamsdorff may say, 'Brother take the mote out of thine own eye. The Philadelphia Ledger illuminates the subject by a pungent version of the story of Naboth's Vineyard.

GRAND TRUNK READY TO DEPOSIT FIVE MILLIONS

The Company Have the Amount Ready to Build The Pacific Line

Quebec, Nov. 17.—Matters in connection with the new transcontinental railway are getting rapidly into shape, and in the near future work will be commenced on the construction of the eastern section of the road from Winnipeg to Quebec.

It was learned from a most reliable source this morning that the Grand Trunk Railway management have completed the necessary arrangements for the deposit of the $5,000,000 required to bind its contract with the Government for the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and that the money will be placed in the Bank of Montreal to the credit of the Government, as a security of good faith, on Monday or Tuesday next.

Immediately after this deposit is officially reported to the Government, a Cabinet meeting will be held in Ottawa, and the construction Railway Commission authorized at the last session of Parliament created. The names of the members of the Commission cannot for the present be ascertained.

PREMIER PARENT WILL NOT RETIRE

It is authoratively stated, however, that Hon. S. N. Parent will not be a member of the Commission, as rumored in Quebec and Montreal political circles for some months past. He is to remain Premier of the Province of Quebec, and no changes will be made in the personnel of his Cabinet, except in the case of one of the Montreal Ministers. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has the utmost confidence in Mr. Parent, whom he admires for his great business acumen, administrative ability and integrity of character.

PREPARING FOR THE SURVEYS.

The Government as yet has made no definite arrangements in regard to the survey of the eastern section of the new transcontinental railway, but just as soon as the Railway Commission is appointed this will be attended to. Mr. A. G. Doucet, chief engineer of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, is slated for an appointment as one of the Government's chief engineers in charge of the survey of the sections of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg to Quebec, and just as soon as he receives his commission and instructions, he will name and send out the necessary surveying parties. Mr. Doucet is a native of Montreal, and though a young man comparatively speaking, is one of the most prominent engineers in the Province of Quebec. He is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and has had large engineering experiences in connection with the Canadian Pacific Intercolonial and Newfoundland railways. He also has been prominently connected with various engineering works in this province. Mr. Doucet served with distinction in the North-West campaign where he was wounded, as A.D.C. to General Middleton.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A. Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal. Canada.

PLOT TO SLAY ARMENIANS

Leaders Declare Sultan of Turkey is Instigator of Assassination

New York, Nov. 17.—There is no room for doubt, the New York World says, that behind the recent assassination of Sagate Sagouni, the Armenian patriot in London, there is a plot of wholesale murder.

Armenian leaders throughout Europe and in all the great cities of this country are marked for assassination and it is feared that no amount of vigilance on the part of police and secret service men will save them.

Letters addressed to traitors in the Armenian party in London, containing clear proof of the conspiracy, were intercepted by the doomed leader, Sagouni, a few weeks before his tragic death. These letters were forwarded by special messenger to Armenian leaders in Boston and within twenty-four hours, by wire and cable, every menaced patriot was warned of his grave danger.

A surprising feature of this gruesome plot is the positive assertion made by all the Armenian leaders that the band of assassins are in the pay of the Turkish Government. These men insist that documents are now upon their way here from Europe which will unmask the Sultan of Turkey as the instigator and financial backer of the whole murderous scheme.

The leaders of the Armenian revolutionary party called the Huntchakest in this country are Sapah-Gulian of Boston, Astow Multonian of Lawrence, Mass., now in London; Jacob P. Prelchanian of Lynn, Mass., and Garbed Mardijan of Providence, R. I.

In equal jeopardy with them are a score or more of influential members of the Huntchakest scattered through the cities of the east and middle west. These men are guarded night and day by armed Armenians, who fear that the death of their leaders will destroy the last chance for their country's liberty.

TRAP TO ELECTROCUTE RATS

Ohio Man Invents Scheme Whereby They Commit Suicide

Springfield, Ohio, Nov. 17. — Michael Hornar, night watchman at a Findlay table factory, is the inventor of a unique mouse trap. The factory has been overrun with the rodents and Mr. Hornar resolved to use electricity to get rid of them. A round piece of tin is connected with an electrode and in the center of the tin is a piece of tallow candle through which runs the other wire of the electric machine. When a rat standing on the tin touches the wire in the tallow he completes the circuit and is instantly killed.

STONE CHURCH IN LIQUOR LAW

Strong Arguments Used Against Michigan Temperance Pastor

St. Joseph, Mich., Nov. 17.—Brick bats and stones and glass scattered in pointed fragments over his congregation are the arguments Rev C. H. Rutledge of the St. Charles Methodist Episcopal church has to face in his war on alleged illegal liquor selling. Sunday he collected evidence by visiting saloons. Yesterday his congregation was spattered with glass from windows broken during a service, and his own study window was shattered by a stone. Today his church has not a window left whole.

THE RATHBURN CAMPS

The Big Lumber Company has 700 Men in the Woods

On Saturday Mr. T. Callaghan, superintendent of the Rathbun Company, was in town on his way east. Mr. Callaghan told The Times that the company would have about 700 men in their camps this season, which is about the same as last.

Their principal limits are situated in the Haliburton district, which is gradually being cleaned out of everything that will float. Even hardwood is becoming scarce, on account of the demand for it in the manufacture of wood alcohol.

UNIONISM GONE MAD

Union Laborer Not Permitted to Work for Himself

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—The members of the Central Labor Union in Philadelphia discussed for two hours the question whether a union man may do the work of a bartender and waiter at an entertainment given by his own organization. For nearly two hours the delegates debated the matter. "Union men have a perfect right to do gratuitous work of that sort where there is no pay," said the president. "We can do the work of other crafts in our home without violating any laws of trades unionism. If I choose to do so, I can hang paper in my own home or do any other work. Is a man a scab simply because he allows his wife to mend a tear in his trousers instead of taking them to a union tailor?" The delegates warmly contested the opinion of the president, and when a vote was taken it was decided to fine all organizations which do not employ regular union men for all work.

SHOT AT TREASURER

Attempt Made on the Clerk of Osprey Township

Collingwood, Nov. 14—A most dastardly attempt was made to murder Thomas Scott, clerk and treasurer of the Township of Osprey at his home, near McIntyre. Mr. Scott, who was alone, his family having gone to the Orange supper at Badjeros, was sitting at a table opposite a window in his dining-room, when a bullet pierced the glass and passed a few inches from his head. He immediately went to the window to ascertain whence the shot came, when a second report rang out, the bullet, however, fortunately going wide of the mark.

Mr. Scott secured his gun and made hasty pursuit after the would-be murderer whom he saw crossing the fields. He fired at his assailant, but missed him. Mr. Scott believes it was some person who knew he was alone in the house, the object doubtless being to kill him and steal the township funds.

THOUSANDS OF MEN LOSE THEIR WORK MONTREAL SHOE FACTORIES CLOSE

Clashes With Labour Unions

"THE matter of labor unions is a serious problem as was shown by the recent strike in Chicago," said a delegate at the last N. L. A. Convention. "It is mighty hard to say just what can be done. Troubles of this kind bother the public as much as they do the contestants. That there are bound to be clashes within the next few years seems certain, but if the employers are fair and firm they can do much towards making the employes reasonable and solicitous for the best interests of their employer. One matter which is vexing is the employers' liability for injury to the employes. We have and must have a number of girls at work, some of whom are bound to be careless at times, and with the ironing machinery and hot water and steam and so forth accidents will happen. It is the duty of the employing institutions to keep their plants in the best possible shape and then there ought to be no further responsibility for accidents."

Because of a Small Strike--Men Refused Arbitration

Union Said to be Responsible for a Resistance of All Mediation by the Men

Quebec, Nov. 16—All the boot and shoe factories here have been closed as a result of a difference between the shoe machinists and their employes. The machinists are the least skilled of the operatives. A notice was posted by the manufacturers saying the shops would be closed till machinists who would sign the employers' terms were secured.

The difficulty was precipitated by five edge trimmers, who quit work.

The committee of the union ordered the men back to work, but as they refused to comply, the result has been a general closing down of the works. Some five thousand men are out of employment. Several of the leading manufacturers are, however, hopeful of a settlement of the difficulty and resumption of all work during the present week.

The firms affected are—The W. A. March Company, Limited; J. S. Langlois & Co., the John Ritchie Company, F. Schribert & Co., Thomas Migner, C. E. McKeen, Goulet & Garrant, the James Muir Company, Paul Tourigny, the Dominion Shoe Company, Vermette & Thivierge Thomas Duchene, J. B. Drolet, J. S Larochel, B. Crepeault, Jobin & Rochette, J. M. Rochette, Derome & O'Brien, Alf. Poirier, and Luc Routhier.

Refused Arbitration

The five men refused to submit their grievances to the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, which Boards were proposed by Archbishop Begin, and were accepted by the Machinists Union for the adjustment of all disputes. It was alleged that the union was not responsible for the breach of faith, and that the men acted independently of that organization, but there is evidence of the union's activity in promoting the breach in every way possible. These five men according to their agreement with the manufacturers, should have submitted their grievance to the Claims Committee, which is composed of three union men, who are supposed to confer with a conciliation committee constituted of three manufacturers, or as an alternative either interest was permitted to submit the matter in question to an arbitration committee of three, one appointed by the manufacturers, another by the union, and a third by the Provincial Chief Justice. Hitherto these provisions met all difficulties, but in the present instance there has been a stubborn resistance of mediation of any kind.

STRONG REBUKE FOR LORD ALVERSTONE

Sir Edward Clarke Criticizes Decision of Alaskan Tribunal

THE SPECTATOR NERVOUS

Says Acceptance of Award as Just Would Have Prevented Difficult Discussions

London, Nov. 17.—Lord Alverstone has received a significant rebuke from within his own household. Sir Edward Clarke, who, for many years was Lord Alverstone's closest political and legal associate, being Solicitor-General, while Lord Alverstone was Attorney-General, speaking at a Unionist gathering at Brighton, said he was anxious for the Empire not to lose anything of the enthusiastic loyalty which he lately found in Canada. But he was afraid that the recent example of handling treaties effecting Canada had not been carried out with the careful attention to the interests, sentiments and susceptibilities of Canada, which ought to have been shown by the Mother Country to the Daughter Colony.

Even the Ministerial Spectator, which has hitherto begged Canada to think what the Empire gained by the removal of the fear of war with the United States, grows today a little nervous over the Canadian protests, criticizing Mr. Balfour's Guildhall speech. It says: "The full acceptance of the award, as just in itself as well as politically beneficial would have smoothed away much feeling in Canada and postponed a difficult and far-reaching subject of controversy, namely, Canada's demand for full treaty-making power.

LOCOMOTIVE RUNS AMUCK

Without a Guiding Hand it Smashes Another Engine

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 17.—A special to the Bulletin bureau from Vancouver, Wash, says:

The act of a miscreant last night practically destroyed two new engines on the Portland and Vancouver extension of the Northern Pacific Railway, near this city. An engine was left standing on a sidetrack with a small head of steam up. Some one coming along entered the cab and opened the throttle. The engine started off, got on the main line and after running about a mile collided with a coal car. The car was demolished and the front part of the engine badly damaged.

In the collision the reverse lever was thrown and the now damaged engine started back in the direction from which it came. It ran several miles and came in contact with a dead engine, both of which were badly damaged. No trace of the amateur engineer could be found.

BABY POISONING

Infant was Probably Given Food Tainted with Mercury

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 14— A strange case of poisoning came to light yesterday in the death of the infant child of William J. Ledger, born on Thursday, morning.

The father, on returning home from work, observed the child to be very ill, and a doctor being summoned, found it suffering from poisoning. Fifteen minutes later death ensued.

A neighbor who nursed Mrs. Ledger showed the doctor some bichloride of mercury tablets tied in a cloth which she was charged to be careful in using. The circumstances point to one or more being administered to the child in some manner.

The mother says the child had been fed some milk from a saucer. The latter being produced, no stain of the poison was found upon it.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,
The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply
Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 304, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

IS THE SUN A BALL OF RADIUM?

The public is getting fairly good knowledge of what the new element, radium, is. An article in the current number of McClure's magazine gives a very clear notion of its nature and qualities. The essential thing is that it is a body capable of emitting rays of light, heat and chemical energy, generated within itself, without external cause. It is self-luminous in the dark. It raises the surrounding temperature two or three degrees. It sends out invisible chemical rays, capable of various effects on organic life, destructive or salutary, according to conditions.

It keeps up the discharge of rays continually without any diminution of the power to generate them. It also emits minute particles, like those of the cathode ray, which seem to be the sawdust, so to speak, of radio-active friction. But these are so minute that the latest newspaper wonder about radium is the scientific announcement that a gram of it would maintain all its activity for 30,000 years before being exhausted and worn out.

Radium is the rarest element in the earth's mass, which is rather lucky, considering some of its powers. If you carry a tiny test tube full of it carelessly in your pocket you will get an awful ulcer on the underlying flesh in about ten days without any warning. It is estimated that if a few pounds of it could be scattered over a city of a million people, so that it might be exposed to its rays, the whole population would die in two or three weeks with a sort of acute inflammatory leprosy.

The stuff is scattered minutely through the refuse of certain Bohemian mines of uranium, in combination with bromium and chlorine. By putting hundreds of tons of this through elaborate processes of washing, draining, settling and crystallization, incredibly minute quantities of radium salts may be obtained. The rarity of the substance may be measured by the fact that its present value is 5,000 times that of gold.

Some of the scientific journals are beginning to ask if the apparently inexhaustible energy of the sun is not due to the presence of in it of a much larger proportion of this new element. The old theories of the origin of solar heat light and chemical energy always have been distrusted by modern scientists like Lord Kelvin, because they could not account for their indefinite continuance. Now comes Prof. Darwin, in "Nature," with more strenuous objection to the old theories, and belief, "that the sun is capable of liberating atomic energy to a degree at least comparable to that of radium." This would increase the estimated endurance of the sun's heat from ten to twenty times, and leads Prof. Darwin to remark that "it is impossible to say how long the sun's heat has already existed or how long it will last in the future."

Here is a cautious suggestion of the idea that the sun may be permeated with radium in quantities unknown on earth by which its whole body is rendered radio-active, like substances exposed to radium influences here, and so perpetually light bearing, heat giving and fertile of chemical energy. These new theories play the mischief with the old idea of conservation of forces, but any scientific theory is lucky these days when it lasts for a generation.

A MAGNIFICENT FAILURE

A writer in Gunton's Magazine shows how a charming theory that ought to work doesn't work, and gives an account of an extensive experiment which was tried in Lancashire, England. In Bolton and some other towns in that vicinity, a large number of cotton factories were built on the socialistic plan; that is to say, the laborers were shareholders, and the management was determined by the popular vote, and, to insure that it should be thoroughly democratic, no shareholders was permitted to have more than one vote; he could not vote according to the number of his shares, but the theory was that the man with one share was as good as the man with a hundred, and his vote should count as much. This went along for a while swimmingly. The laborers elected their overseers and managers, but it soon developed that if a manager was at all efficient and insisted upon good work, prompt attention, etc., he gave offense. The man who could make the best speech and find the most fault could easily be elected to the highest office. The natural result was poor management, falling off of dividends, failure to compete with well-managed private concerns, and to-day there is not one of nearly 100 of these co-operative factories in existence. In order to save them from bankruptcy, they had to be converted into joint-stock companies, just as our corporations are, where the management passed into the hands of capital, and experience and efficiency, rather than popularity, became the basis of selection to responsible office.

How strange it is that men can't work together for their own good without making a mess of it.

FIRST TURBINE OCEAN LINER

A revolution in deep sea propulsion is promised through the results of the experiments that are about to be made in the adaptation of the steam turbine wheel to an Atlantic liner.

It is believed that the experiment will be a success, and this belief is founded on the results attending the use of the turbine in the Clyde and English Channel traffic. The steam turbine has proved highly successful in its adaptation to steam yachts and the smaller types of passenger ships. To the Allan Line however, will belong the honor of introducing the turbine in a transatlantic liner. The ship which they will equip with the turbine will be designed for traffic between the Clyde and Canada and will be the largest and heaviest as well as the fastest in the Allan line. It will have a gross tonnage of 12,000 tons, a horse power of 18,000, and a contract speed of 17 knots.

While this is slow speed the comparison with that of some of the vessels driven by reciprocating engines plying between New York and Europe, it is a considerable increase in the speed of vessels running between Canada and Great Britain. The results of this experiment will be followed with keen interest by engineers and shipping companies. Travelers on ocean liners and lake passenger boats are familiar with the apparent wrenching and constant "pounding" of the propelling machinery caused by the motion of the reciprocating engines which drive the huge propeller shafts. In the turbine system steam is merely forced through a turbine wheel which turns the propeller shaft. It requires no mechanical knowledge to see how it would do away with the "pounding" and wrenching motion which is so annoying to many ocean travelers. Its utilization on the big liners is therefore of much interest to the traveling public as well as to the engineers.

Mr. Harry Gibson of Kingston, was rescued from an enemy that relentlessly pursued him for years

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says:—"For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually coughing and hawking that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school. I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prescribed by local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well known specialist in the States, but after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage, was forced to look elsewhere for relief, which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove the loathsome disease completely out of my system, and to-day I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure, coming from a well known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact with it that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal. All druggists, price $1.00; small size 25 cents. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

He dared no longer to let his ardent gaze dwell upon her, or listen as she talked to him, with his heart leaping wildly at every smile of her lips, and her blue eyes thrilling his soul with the longing love he dared not breathe.

She was another's.

To linger by her, with that unspoken passion ever rising to his lips, would be treachery now that another had a right to claim her.

A stony despair settled on his brow, his senses seemed to reel at the thought of losing Rosalie.

Lola watched him moodily, and the glad triumph which she had felt when she first broke the news to Dick faded gradually.

The bitter agony in his eyes made her shrink, afraid and miserable, and yet this was but the beginning of the plan that must be carried boldly through, if she would separate those two.

Dimly the conviction came upon her, that she could never wrench from his heart the mute love he bore for Rosalie.

She might crush and wither his life, but her power would be useless against the love burning within him.

As all this rushed upon her, she felt the wrath and jealousy rise with redoubled fury in her breast.

"I hate her!" she said to herself. "I hate her, I hate her!"

She clenched her teeth hard, and her fingers closed over the flimsy gossamer of her dress with a fierce clasp.

"He does not notice me," she thought, "I am nothing to him now. His heart is full of her, his eyes see only her. Oh, if only she had never come!"

Her brain grew giddy with its own throbbing—a frenzy seemed to take possession of her.

It maddened her to see Dick's suffering, but she never blamed herself as the cause of his anguish.

All her blame and wrath settled on Mademoiselle Rosalie — Mademoiselle Rosalie, who had caused it all!

CHAPTER XVII.

During the days that elapsed between her interview with Mr. Monckton, and her visit to Drayton Court, Rosalie thought more of Marc than of the man who had requested her presence for the sake of her beauty.

Marc was continually in her mind, and in spite of the cold response she had received when she had expressed a hope of meeting him, a vague belief clung to her that she was following in his footsteps, and would soon stand face to face with the one she loved best on earth.

She went about in a kind of dream until Sunday dawned, bright with sunshine.

How much seemed to hang upon this peaceful Sabbath!

The birds had hardly commenced to sing when she rose, and, dressing herself with more than her usual care, prepared to start on her journey.

Polly had offered to accompany her.

But Rosalie would not accept what she thought would be too great a sacrifice.

She knew both husband and wife looked forward to spending one day in the week at Sunnyside—the home in which they took such pride—and she insisted on going alone to Drayton Court.

After the long railway journey, she drew in deep breaths of the sweet country air, and gazed, with delight, on the hills and wooded valleys by which she found herself surrounded.

"How lovely to live in such a place as this!" she thought, as she made her way towards Drayton Court.

And then she began dreaming of Marc, and fancying she could see him walking beneath the trees, just as he used to saunter from under the meagre branches at Lilac Villa.

Although the sun was shining, and a fresh breeze blew over the hills, her spirits sank when she reached Drayton Court.

Magnificent as the structure was, there seemed to be over everything an air of gloom the sunlight could not dispel.

The windows were dark with dust, and where curtains were visible, they were of so faded a nature as to add only an appearance of neglect.

She paused, and glanced round with an instinctive shudder.

"It looks haunted!" she murmured, almost wishing herself back at Sunnyside. "I do not hear a sound. I wonder if I shall meet a ghost on the threshold?"

As if in answer to her thought, there was the sound of heavy chains being drawn back on the inside of the door.

With strange, superstitious dread, she shrank against one of the stone pillars on the portico.

At the same moment, the huge door grated back on its hinges, and Gretchen stepped out into the light.

From head to foot, she was draped in heavy black, a long veil, flung back from her face and reaching to the hem of her skirt, surrounding her like a cloud.

The sunlight struck full upon her face—a white, wild face, with despair stamped on every feature.

Her great, dark eyes were staring straight before her with an unseeing gaze.

She looked neither to the right nor to the left as she passed out from the shadow of the portico.

She moved noiselessly, with her hands clenched at her sides—a black spot upon the sunlight she mingled with the trees, and was lost to view.

Rosalie did not move for a few moments.

The sight of Gretchen's wild face had startled her, so death-like had it looked.

"Who can she be?" she thought. "How strange she did not see me! I wonder if she belongs to the place?"

She shivered as she stepped towards the open doorway.

There was nobody visible inside the hall, which looked as gloomy as a vault, and she was afraid to set the great bell ringing, lest the sound should startle up a thousand spectres.

She was standing there, hesitating, when she fancied she heard a voice calling from within—a hollow voice, faint and far off—little more than a groan.

Her heart began to beat heavily.

She dreaded entering, although the voice seemed to have summoned her.

The sound was repeated—the hoarse, moaning cry that had sent a chill through her veins.

In contrast with the sunlight without, there was something eerie in the atmosphere she now breathed.

A subtle sense of horror crept over her, and, impelled by some strange influence, she entered the hall and followed the voice.

Her blood froze with every step she took; each succeeding groan filled her with greater horror; yet she had no power but to follow the sound, making her way through the hall and up the darkened staircase, until she stood on the threshold of the room from which the voice issued.

The door was open.

LEAVES DINNER FOR DEATH

Wealthy Woman Goes From Guests and Kills Herself

Montclair, N.J., Nov. 16—Friends of Mrs. E. De Grise Walsh, the wife of a wealthy New York broker, were astounded today on learning of the sensational and mysterious suicide of Mrs. Walsh at her home last night, when, rising from the dinner table, she excused herself from her guests, went to her room and shot herself through the left breast.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Walsh have been prominent in Montclair society since they moved here from New York several years ago. With their two children they lived in a beautiful house in Upper Mountain avenue and were considered to be wealthy.

The dinner party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Earle of Montclair; Mr. and Mrs. Doremus and Mr. and Mrs. Throughout the meal Mrs. Walsh was apparently in the best of spirits, laughing and joking and keeping up a constant conversation with her friends.

Not until the coffee was served was any shadow of the approaching tragedy thrown over those present. Putting down her demitasse Mrs. Walsh begged to be excused from the table apoligizing to her guests for her action. Her countenance had lost all of its cheerful expression and the persons present, including Mr. Walsh, believed she had eating something which disagreed with her and made her ill. Leaving the table she went directly upstairs to her room and shot herself.

The affair was not reported to the police until today, when Chief of Police Gallagher was informed by telephone. Mr. Walsh has been able to give the police no reason for the suicide.

Showed the Way

London, Nov. 14—Gen. Baden-Powell was the guest of the Anglo-Saxon Club last night. She was presented with a silver casket and an escritoire, made in New Zealand. Replying, the general said that in South Africa all the colonials were good, but the New Zealanders showed all the rest the way.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure the gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 12 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., (166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 16.—The new week opens with the bear element in control of the market, and with a carefully outlined plan for attack upon a number of the leading active stocks. The developments over Sunday favor the bears and the report that franchises of the Consolidated Gas Co. are in danger and the denial of any Metropolitan deal should result in lower prices for Consolidated Gas and the Traction stocks. The bank statement will be ignored, and the unfavorable news regarding the coal trade labor trouble at Pittsburg, an important failure at St. Louis, and reported corporation borrowing in London, will be used against the market. Bear points are out on Atchison, B. O., Pennsylvania, Reading, St. Paul, C. P., R. I., Metropolitan, Illinois Central, and we expect lower prices for those stocks, with a demonstration against Steel preferred. The market is a sale on bear manipulation. Don't sell Sugar.

New York, Nov. 16.—There was considerable pressure brought to bear against Pennsylvania, and the general situation was more or less mixed. The monetary situation, however, was more carefully considered, and as a result the impression prevailed that rates would work easier in the near future. The railroad news was more favorable. The foreign news was without feature. The room element continued largely in control up to the last, and on the close professionals were in possession to dictate the course of the market. Outside stocks were dull and steady.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—There was a rather irregular movement in the wheat market and the conditions were rather mixed. The worlds shipments were heavy. The visible increased liberally. The weather map generally was more favorable. Cables were rather indifferent. The professional element did the bulk of the business. The operations in corn were quite professional, and it was evident that numerous interests were working for a scalpers market. The better prices were taken advantage of by the shorts. The cash business was moderate, and the country offerings were fair. On the close there was still a rather mixed feeling.

Liverpool—Close—Wheat unchanged. Corn 1-8 and 1-2 lower.

CANADA'S RIGHTS

Dominion Government will Take no Chance of Any More Awards

Ottawa, Nov. 14—It is given out by a close personal friend of the Prime Minister that the Government will proceed at once to the practical assertion of Canadian jurisdiction over all those portions of British North America as to which there is the smallest question of ownership.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is said to be deeply impressed with the necessity of leaving no chance for the persistence of the fatal policy of acquiescence and the coincydent establishment of rights of possession so called.

The territory mainly involved, of course would be adjacent to the waters of Hudson Bay and the Arctic Ocean.

The plan would involve probably a considerable expenditure in expeditions and an increase in the numbers of the Northwest Mounted Police.

PROCLAIMS MARTIAL LAW

Troops Take Measures to Check Rising in Armenia

Constantinople, Nov. 16—Martial law has been proclaimed in the districts of Hassan Kala, province of Erzerum, Asia Minor, and troops have been quartered in all the villages of that district in consequence of revolutionary movements on the part of the Hentchakists or members of the Armenian Revolutionary society.

Two bands of Hentchakists recently crossed the Russo-Turkish frontier with the intention of exciting the inhabitants to rise against the Turkish government but they were so quickly overtaken by the troops. One band was exterminated and the second was driven back into Russian territory.

The Turkish governor of the district has redistributed among the Kurds the weapons which they recently were compelled to give up.

Omen of Ill Fortune

Alexandria, Nov. 14—While on its way to the cemetery, a Greek funeral procession was obstructed at a narrow sokak by an Arab nuptial procession coming the opposite.

The superstitious Arabs, judging the circumstance as an omen of ill-fortune for the newly-married couple, lost no time in attacking the friends and relatives of the dead man, and for some minutes Arabs and Greeks fought desperately with fists, sticks and knives.

In the end the police arrived, and the combatants withdrew.

The dead body was lying on the ground, almost side by side with the bride, who had fainted.

A Great Trial

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14—About 3,000 witnesses and fifty lawyers will appear at the trial, which opens on Thursday next, of the persons arrested on the charge of participation in the massacre of Jews at Kishineff in April last.

All the mayors, marshals and nobles of Bessarabia will sit in judgment on the prisoners.

SAYS HE KILLED GLORIA

Criminal at Manchester Says He Killed Glory Whalen

The Attorney-General's Department yesterday afternoon recieved a cable from the police of Manchester, England, to the effect that William Joseph Carey Sparks, a man committed for an unnatural offence to appear at Manchester Assizes, has stated that he had murdered Glory Whalen at Collingwood early in June last.

As a matter of fact, the crime was committed on May 27, which is comparatively near to the date. Since the crime attracted no attention in the English press, it seems to be obvious that Sparks, whether the real murderer or a maniac seeking notoriety, must have been in Canada last June, and that he is familiar with the crime. His being charged with an unnatural offence, the exact nature of which is unstated in the cablegram, lends color to the theory that he may be speaking the truth. The Department will ask for a fuller report, and will probably allow his trial and conviction on the offence with which he is charged in Manchester to be proceeded with. If on fuller information it is thought there is a possibility of a conviction in Canada, Inspector Greer will go to England and institute extradition proceedings.

It will be remembered that a convict at Kingston Penitentiary, named Troy some years ago confessed the murder of a man at Napanee, but was acquitted in despite thereof.

Collingwood Nov. 14—No trace of William Joseph Carey Sparks the self-confessed murderer of little Glory Whalen, ever having been in Collingwood can be found here. On hearing the report your correspondent made careful inquiries of the police, at the different hotels and boarding-houses, and at several of the industrial concerns, but no man bearing the name given by the prisoner in Manchester has been known at any of these places.

When seen, Chief Wilde said: "I doubt it, but hope it is true." Although the story is generally looked upon with much doubt, Chief Wilde is more hopeful, as he thinks the prisoner may possibly be the man whom Miss Pentland saw sitting on the railway bridge over Pretty River the morning of the murder. This man has not yet been located; in fact during the excitement of the few days following the discovery of the terrible affair he was completely lost sight of.

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non-assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore, There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Cold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO, Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong

Constipation

Causes Headache, Abdominal, Pains, Piles and in Severe Cases Insanity and Apoplexy

It is a common mistake to conclude that Constipation is not a dangerous condition. Although at first it is only accompanied by slight inconvenience and pain, yet if not corrected, it will inevitably lead to very dire results.

Great care should be used in selecting a remedy for constipation because if a violent purgative is employed, it is sure to set up pain, irritation and congestion, and result finally in piles.

The experience of those who have tested all the cures for constipation, seems to prove that Ferrozone is the most agreeable and satisfactory treatment. It makes the bowels so well ordered that natural and unassisted action is established. Nothing can equal the immediate sense of comfort it produces, and pains in the head and stomach, and in the intestines, disappear almost at once.

Ferrozone is very mild and certain in its action, and never causes inconvenience or distress. Ferrozone can be taken early as long as required and in no way interferes with business or pleasure, and nothing may be feared from its use, however prolonged it may be.

For Constipation, Piles and Sick Headache, Ferrozone stands unrivalled. The driver of the City Express Company, who suffered from piles, says: — "Constant sitting on the wagon seat, produced a rectal irritation, which combined with constipated condition of the bowels, brought on a severe attack of piles. I used without benefit, different ointments, and other remedies; but got quick relief and most satisfactory results from Ferrozone. I can recommend Ferrozone to all who suffer from piles.

Ferrozone always cures, and can be purchased at any reliable drug store or 50 cts. a box or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Earle's Lecture

Ottawa Citizen—Mr. Barton Earle, formerly English master in the Peterborough high school, lectured on Monday night before the Young People's Association of Mackay Presbyterian Church on "The Proper Study of Shakespeare." He illustrated the lecture with an analysis of the play "The Merchant of Venice." Mr. Earle spoke to a large and most appreciative audience. Never before did the Y.P.A. spend a more enjoyable literary evening. Mr. Earle opened up new vistas of thought and brought to light the marvelous beauties and versatility of Shakespeare. Many expressed the wish that the lecturer would give a series of lectures on some of Shakespeare's plays such as King Lear, Richard III, Macbeth and Hamlet. A vote of thanks expressing the pleasure of the audience was moved by Rev. R. J. Hutcheon, and seconded by Mr. Nelson.

Prohibition Coming

The Bowmanville Statesman says prohibition is coming swiftly in West Durham. Darlington township led the way and local option grows more popular. On no account could the people be induced to return to the license law again. Next to move into line is Cartwright township. It will be submitted to the electors at the municipal elections, and is sure to carry as a majority of voters signed the requisition to the council.

Died of Her Burns

The four-year-old daughter of Mr. George L. Armour, London street, who was so terribly burned six weeks ago by her clothing catching fire from matches, died yesterday morning. The circumstances of little Isabel's death are particularly sad. The little one had gone upstairs on an errand for her mother, and while there secured some matches, which she lit, and set fire to her clothing. She came running down to her mother with her clothing in flames. Although very badly burned, hopes were entertained for her recovery until a short time ago, when it became evident that the little girl could not live. She was a dear little thing and was beloved by everybody who knew her. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, London street, to Little Lake Cemetery.

Ontario's School Population

Our readers will be surprised to learn that although the population of Ontario has been steadily increasing the "school population," including under the present law, all persons between the ages of 5 and 21, has since the year 1887 been falling off. In that year it stood at 611,212; in the year 1901, the latest for which statistics are given, it was only 574,490. Similarly the number of children enrolled in the public schools has in the same period decreased from 491,242 to 457,436. On the other hand, the attendance in the separate schools, taking the same two dates, has increased from 39,373, to 42,987. That is to say, the public schools have in 14 years lost 34,806 scholars; the separate schools have gained 13,614. Yet the proportion of Protestants to Catholics in the province has not in that period, very materially altered.

Died in Kansas City

Much regret will be felt over the death of Mr. Thomas J. Ritchie, formerly of Peterborough, which sad event took place at his home in Kansas City, Mo., on Saturday last. Last year he spent several months in Peterborough with his mother, Mrs. John Ritchie. The sad news was sent by a brother of the deceased, Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of Detroit, and came when the mother was in Montreal visiting her daughter, Mrs. Vernon Freeburn. The mother and other members of the family were here, however, when the body reached town on the midnight C.P.R. train Sunday. The body was attended on the journey by the bereaved wife and by the elder brother, Ryerson Ritchie. On arrival the remains were at once taken to the home of Mrs. John Ritchie. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, interment taking place in the family lot, Little Lake Cemetery.

A Big One

The Haliburton correspondent to the Bob. Independent says - Last week Mr. John Reed, one of our most experienced hunters, was out in the woods with his little dog, when suddenly the dog came running back covered with blood. Mr. Reed thought that the dog had been accidentally shot by some hunter, and was examining it on the ground when looking up he saw close to him a gigantic buck deer which was about to charge upon him. He raised his gun and fired, but missed the deer, which was only about a dozen yards from him, when he made a second shot, which was so effective that the deer dropped dead. The dog was not hurt and the blood on the dog came from the dead deer, which was badly wounded in the back, and the dog had attacked the wounded deer and aroused him into activity. Mr. Reed with help, got the carcass out of the wood, which was about two miles from the village, and got it home. It weighed 260 lbs and had a splendid set of horns.

THE TOWN'S BIG LAWSUIT

What was Predicted by the Times Has Come to Pass

The town has got a big law suit on its hands. Instead of a street railway, it has been called upon to defend an action at law made to quash the agreement with the Street Railway Company. Had Ald. Morrison and those associated with him been less hasty, and followed the advice given by The Times, this trouble and enormous expense, which is sure to follow would have been avoided.

The papers in connection with the case have been served on the officials of the town and it is now up to the council to defend their precious by-law or withdraw it altogether.

BAD HABITS

Improper Food Often Leads to Tobacco and Drink

Improper food creates abnormal tastes and there are many cases on the medical records where the liquor, habit and tobacco habit have been caused by wrong food and have easily been cured by the use of the scientific food Grape-Nuts which so thoroughly nourishes and rebuilds the nerves that they stop the cry for stimulants.

A business man says, "For 30 years smoked on an average of 10 or 15 cigars a day and then my nervous system collapsed and I had about made up my mind that it was all up with me for I had tried many times to break off from the tobacco but it always failed.

"Last May I was so run down I only weighed 121 pounds and I realized that I must stop smoking and stick to it for about 10 days but was so nervous and out of sorts my family told me I had better go back to smoking, as it was impossible to live with me. It was just about this time my wife brought a package of Grape-Nuts on the table one morning and as I could eat nothing else she induced me to try a little of that. So I took a teaspoonful of it and strange to say it tasted good and by the time I had it down I knew it had gone to the right spot so I took some more and it was the first food I had relished for weeks.

"So I kept up the use of Grape-Nuts and as my appetite came back added other foods and I am now back to my old weight of 133 pounds never felt better in my life and strange as it may seem I have no further craving for the tobacco and I thoroughly believe that only the courage and ambition I got out of the food Grape-Nuts has given me the strength to quit smoking. If everyone knew the power of this wonderful food you would not be able to build a factory big enough to supply it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

The Trying Time

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic, to overcome the languor, nervousness and weakness, commonly experienced at this time.

If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, Dr. Pierce would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write as he offers in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which he cannot cure.

"I wish to tell you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Brodhead, Green Co., Wis. "Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail. Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she began to complain she was quite stout; weighed 172, the picture of good health, until about the age of fourteen, then in six months she was so run down her weight was but 120. She kept failing and I gave up, thinking there was no use, she must die. Friends all said, 'You will lose your daughter.' I said I fear I shall. I must say, doctor, that only for your 'Favorite Prescription' my daughter would have been in her grave to-day. When she had taken one-half bottle the natural function was established and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be."

Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. THE COLOMBIA GOVERNMENT SENDS STRONG PROTEST TO THE POWERS.

Much Trouble Ahead for the United States, French Not Satisfied

Uncle Sam May Soon Find Himself on the Horns of a Desperate Dilemma, German Interference

New York, Nov. 17.—A strong hostile sentiment to President Roosevelt's plan to dig the permanent canal has appeared in France, where a movement, professedly dictated by patriotism, has gained considerable force and has for its object the refusal to transfer the Panama Canal Company's concessions on the isthmus. Several articles have appeared in the Gil Blas within the last three days attacking Bunau-Varilla's course in the Panama affair and urging that it is not impossible to acquire French capital sufficient to complete the undertaking. Should this action get out of hand, it is feared the French Ministry would find itself powerless to stem the current of opposition. In the face of such a contingency, the administrators of the Panama Canal Company could not do otherwise than break off negotiations for the sale of the canal, leaving the United States on the horns of a desperate dilemma.

BLAMES UNITED STATES.

London, Nov. 17.—The Colombian authorities have cabled to London a lengthy protest against the United States action towards Panama, in which they claim that "the main responsibility for the secession of Panama lies with the United States Government, firstly, by fomenting the separatist spirit of which there seems to be clear evidence; secondly, by hastily acknowledging the independence of the revolted province, and finally by preventing the Colombian Government from using proper means to suppress the rebellion.

The cable message goes on to say that President Marroquin has energetically protested to the United States, and wishes that his protest should be known throughout the civilized world. The President contends that the United States has infringed article 35 of the treaty of 1846, which, he asserts, implies the duty on the part of the United States to help Colombia in maintaining her sovereignty over the Isthmus and adds that the Colombian Government repudiate the assumption that they have barred the way to carrying out the canal." asserting that since they have granted canal privileges to different people no less than nine times and claims that the treaty concluded with the late General Hurlbut (when he was United States Minister resident to Colombia) at Bogota, July 5, 1870, has been ignored at Washington.

After giving the previously stated reasons for the Colombia senates failure to approve the Hay-Herran treaty and asserting that the delay in the negotiations had not affected the ultimate issue of the canal project, the protest of President Marroquin points out that Colombia had constantly endeavored to act in a friendly manner with the United States, even asking for the assistance of American marines to insure free transit across the Isthmus and says the rising occurred when the Government was not prepared, having withdrawn most of its troops when peace was re-established last year. He concludes:

"The hastiness in recognizing the new Government, which sprung up in under these circumstances all the more surprising to the Colombian Government, as they recollect the energetic opposition of Washington to the acknowledgement of the belligerency of the Confederates by the powers during the civil war."

GERMAN IRRITATION.

New York, Nov. 17.—The Herald this morning publishes the following:

Berlin, Nov. 17.—The ever-latent irritation against the United States in the matter of South America has been vividly awakened by a telegram from Panama stating that the commander of the American squadron at Colon has forced a German ship to weight anchor and get out of the harbor, because she was suspected of having contraband of war aboard.

Apropos of this, the Neuste Nachrichten says: "America must not interpret abstention from influence on the part of European powers in Panama as a sign of weakness. It is her duty to avoid any action prejudical to the interests of the powers. We must take the contents of the telegram received as a very ugly acknowledgement of that duty."

HAVE YOU GOT IT?

London, Nov. 16—The Daily Mail says it has received letters of hundreds from all classes of the community, indicating the prevalence of a new disease, known as "brain fag," the chief symptoms of which are a pain around the sockets of the eyes and physical condition so languid and lifeless that only the use of alcoholic stimulants restores the body to its normal habits.

According to the Daily Mail's correspondent, it is chiefly the higher stratum of society the disease is attacking.

CONSPIRED AGAINST TURKEY.

Sofia, Nov. 16— Reports of a conspiracy of Bulgarian and Servian officers to provoke war with Turkey have been officially confirmed. According to these reports, Turkey was to be attacked by the combined armies of the two countries.

Rome, Nov. 16—Baron Braye, who has arrived here from America, was presented to the Pope yesterday. The Pope spoke strongly of the necessity of Biblical research, and condemned the efforts of modern writers to separate the supernatural from the historical narratives of the Scriptures. He insisted that to do so would be as futile as to deny the existence of the soul while accepting the material fact of the body.

The Pope declared his disapproval of a rationalistic interpretation of the Bible, and conveyed the impression that he intended to thoroughly repudiate the views contained in the latest works of Abbe Loisy.

A RAILWAY WAR

Hill will Try to Block Plans of Canadi Pacific

St. Paul, November 17.—The open break between the Great Northern system and the Canadian Pacific Railway, due to the latter's backing the Soo line plan of extensions which contemplates the invasion of the rich Red River Valley country and the construction of a line to the international bounday to Gretna, to give a new St. Paul-Winnipeg route, controlled by Canadian interests, has resulted in retaliatory measures, by means of which James J. Hill will attempt to check the Soo construction plans and open the northern counties of Minnesota to direct connection wirth St. Paul, via the head of the lakes. By instituting a fast service between St. Paul and Winnipeg over the Great Northern and the Canadian Northern, and by completing a second route to Winnipeg, before the Soo can reach the boundary, Mr. Hill believes it possible to block Soo-Canadian Pacific plans.

Twenty Thousand Men Out

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 17.—The threatened lock-out by the Builders Exchange League against all crafts affiliated with the Building Trades Council, became effective Saturday, throwing 8,000 men out of employment. With the 2,000 men on sympathetic strikes, 10,000 men are now idle.

The officers of the league say there can be no settlement until the sympathetic strikes are called off, and if this is not done before the close of next week the number of men in the lockout will be increased to 20,000.

It is estimated that over $1,-000,000 of new building contracts in Pittsburg have been postponed on account of the strike tendencies of the trades unions.

FIRST APPOINTEE TO NEW OFFICE

Mr. Charles H. Hines Will be Electrical Engineer for C.P.R.

HAS EXTENSIVE DUTIES

Position Rendered Necessary by Large Electrical Installations Being Made

Montreal, Nov. 17.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has created another new office, and Mr. Charles H. Hines is the first appointee. He will now be the company's electrical engineer, with an office at headquarters. Reporting to Mr. A. E. Williams, the superintendent of rolling stock, his duties will include a general supervision over all electrical matters, including power and lighting circuits generators, motors, arc and incandescent lamps and other electric machinery and apparatus as directed.

Mr. Hines will prepare standard and special plans and estimates as required, and it shall be his duty to supervise the construction, operation and maintenance of electric installations and circuits in order to insure compliance with plans, rules and specifications pertaining to same.

In the execution of new work, general and special repairs and maintenance of electric plants, divisional employes will act under his instructions as directed and limited by the general superintendents of their respective divisions.

The creation of some such office was rendered essential, owing to the fact that the company now has under way a very large electrical installation at the new car shops in the East end of the city, and this motive power is coming into more general use all over the line. It was consequently desirable that an expert should be at hand to give the benefit of his advice should emergency require his intervention.

DUCK HUNTER'S SAD FATE

May Lose Left Arm as the Result of an Accident

Lindsay Post: Mr. Grail A. Frost, bookkeeper in the local office of the Rathbun Company, was the victim of a regrettable and serious shooting accident Saturday evening. The mill having closed for the season Friday, he took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a brief holiday, and after dinner he left for the bogs at the mouth of the river accompanied by Mr. David Kilpatrick.

While trying to reach what seemed to be a desirable point to locate for a shoot a flock of ducks—flying very fast—came their way, and Frost reached behind him for his gun, which was cocked in preparation for just such an emergency. Hastinly drawing it forward, the trigger struck against the thwart or the side of the boat and the weapon was discharged, the charge of shot penetrating his left arm. The wound was a dreadful one, the muscles, arteries, and important structures on the inside of the arm being torn away.

Although suffering an agony of pain, Frost pluckily aided his comrade in devising means for getting back to town. It was necessary to paddle a considerable distance to a landing, where Kilpatrick sought assistance from a farmer and secured a conveyance in which the injured young man was brought to town—some three hours after the accident. Dr. Blanchard was at once called and found the patient extremely weak from loss of blood and shock. Restoratives were at once applied and the bleeding vessels secured. This afternoon Mr. Frost was able to endure removal to the Ross Hospital, and as we go to press we are informed that he is resting easily, circulation is being reestablished, and the arm probably will be saved.

HELLO! LONDON: HELLO! NEW YORK

Words Which Will Soon be Carried Over the Wires

A TRIUMPH FOR ENGLAND

Long Distance Problem of Communication Solved by Unknown Inventor

New York, Nov. 17.—The correspondent of the New York Sun in London writes: "Prophecy is dangerous, but with a full realization of its pitfalls, your correspondent ventures the following prediction: Within three months probably before New Year, direct telegraphic communication, without intermediate repeating stations, will be established for the first time between New York and London, and telegrams will be exchanged at a speed of more than four times the previous capacity of any cable."

"I am tempted to go a step further and express the strong expectation that within a year it will be as feasible to converse by telephone between New York and London as it is across the city of New York. Perhaps it is as well to confess that it is easy to prophesy when you know. This feat of rapid communication between London and New York, as a matter of fact, has been greatly surpassed recently in actual practice. In other words, the problem of cheap and rapid long distance communication has been solved, and the credit for this signal triumph of modern science belongs to England. I am compelled to await the permission of the inventors before making more than this general announcement."

London, Nov. 17—Patrick Upton, who was struck on the head by an axe in the hands of a demented woman, is still alive, and the doctors now say has a fair chance of recovery. He is now conscious.

Will Fight the British-- People Prepare for War

Lhassa Government Calls on the People to Prepare for a Conflict

Karachi, Presidency of Bombay, British India, Nov. 17—The expedition commanded by Col. Younghusband, prepared to support the British mission to Thibet has been ordered to occupy the Chumbi Valley the key to Thibet, and to advance to Gynagtse, an important centre 150 miles from Lhassa.

The object of the mission was to discuss with the Thibetan authorities their non-observance of treaties and consequent injury to the trade of India and Thibet.

A peaceful settlement of the matter is improbable. The Lhassa Government declares it has determined to fight, and has warned its people to prepare for war.

London, Nov. 17—One of the directors of three of the large iron producing company, which together make one tenth of the total amount of British pig iron, writes a strong letter to the Daily Chronicle, calling upon the Government to prohibit the importation of Canadian bounty-fed pig iron. He quotes figures to show that Canada dumped in Britain in the years 1901 and 1902 nearly as much iron as Germany, Holland, Belgium and the United States put together. The figures are: Germany, Holland, and Belgium, 78,000 tons; the United States 45,000 tons, and Canada, 163,000 tons. The letter concludes: "This is dumping with a vengeance.

BRITISH CAPITAL.

London, Nov. 17—Mr. B. T. A. Bell of Ottawa, who sails for Canada today on the Bavarian, says that British capital is greatly interested in the development of the Yukon. With the hydraulic power going in, the output next season will be 25 per cent. greater than this year.

CHAMBERLAIN'S SPEECHES.

London, Nov. 17—The whole of Mr. Chamberlain's speeches will be published on Friday in pamphlet form. He makes interesting statements as to how his views have been approached by the nation.

Interest in Mr. Chamberlain's Cardiff meeting on Friday has grown more than any of the local political leaders imagined would be the case. The Marquis of Bute has waived the usual rule, and has sanctioned the use of the drill hall for the meeting.

The East and North Scotland Tariff Reform League was established at Edinburgh yesterday. Promises of support came from all the manufacturing towns from Caithness to Berwick.

Hon. Mr. Foster, addressing the meeting, said the fiscal question started by the colonies had swollen and had become a stronger, deeper current, until it had set in in such strength and force as to await the decision of the people of Great Britain.

Mr. Winston Churchill, speaking at Oxford, said Premier Balfour was occupying a perfectly meaningless and indefinite position, the purpose being to give Mr. Chamberlain time to talk himself

Fifty well known gentlemen engaged in trade at Bradford formed the Bradford branch of the Tariff Reform League yesterday. Bradford has suffered severely through foreign markets being closed to finished goods and yarns. The coating trade with America has been practically killed.

EXPORTS DECREASE.

London, Nov. 17— During the last twelve years the value of British exports to China and the East decreased £782,-000, and the imports increased £348,000.

Many Stafford potteries are working only four days a week.

TRUST IN MATCHES.

Antwerp, Nov. 17—All the match factories of Belgium have been formed into a British trust to be known as the Continental Match Company. The sale of matches will be exclusively for Great Britain.

London, Nov. 17—The Review of Reviews referring to the Alaska dispute, says the Canadian case was bad and was known to be so by the British Government. It is impossible to believe that the assented to the appointment of an Arbitration Committee with any other expectation but that the decision would be given against them, if the question was to be settled on strictly judicial, not on political, grounds. To agree, therefore, that Lord Alverstone should be left absolutely free to decide the question with the same impartiality and in the same judicial spirit in which he would decide a case in the courts of justice, was to give the case away in advance. In this case it may be regarded as a put-up job, arranged to save the face of His Majesty's Ministers.

If the Senate of the United States had not been absolutely assured that the verdict would be in their favor, they would never have agreed to the commission.

Lord Alverstone played his part to perfection.

TOUR OF NOTABLES.

London, Nov. 17—There is a movement on foot promoting a tour to Palestine and Egypt to be participated in by leading men from Canada, the United States and Great Britain. Arrangements are being made with the White Star Line for the chartering of a steamer. Invitations to join the party have been received by members of the House of Commons and House of Lords. Lord Lyveden is attending to the arrangements of the tour.

A BIGGER ROLE.

London, Nov. 17—Sir William Holland, referring to his recent visit to Canada, said: "I am morally certain that under the able guidance of the men of character and enterprise whom we had the honor to meet, Canada is destined to play in the future a bigger role than that which we have hitherto seen in the development of our common Empire."

DENIAL FROM ENGLAND.

London, Nov. 17—Manager Leopold of the Canadian Labor Bureau, at 13 Charing Cross emphatically denies that there is the slightest truth in the misleading report about the two brothers McDowell and Lineham and three men reported in the London newspapers to be stranded in Montreal and whose case the Canadian Government is reported to be taking up. Manager Leopold showed the Canadian Associated Press representative letters from Manager Day of the Labor Employment Bureau in Toronto, from the manager of the Polson Iron Works, Toronto from the Locomotive Machine Company at Montreal, and from the Locomotive Works at Kingston, all asking that boilermakers be sent them. The three men sent are all boilermakers.

Dundalk, Ireland, Nov. 17— Timothy M. Healy, speaking here yesterday, urged the landlords to make the best possible bargains with their Irish tenants within the next two or three years, and not to be too exorbitant in their terms.

Otherwise, said Mr. Healy, the London financiers, who had to find money for the carrying out of the Land Purchase Act might not be so keen.

Quite apart from this, there was likelihood of the Liberals, who opposed the Land Purchase Act in Parliament, coming into office. The present Cabinet and the Conservative party, besides its pro-Irish section, represented by Premier Balfour and Chief Irish Secretary Wyndham, contained also an anti-Irish or Chamberlain section, the members of which would not give a cup of water if they could help it.

Mr. Healy dwelt in detail on the sale of the Wexford estates of John Redmond, the Irish Parliamentary leader, contending that Mr. Redmond was getting far too much for his land, and advising him to discontinue the sale on the present terms. If Mr. Redmond did not take this advice, Mr. Healy believed that the story of the sale of his land would reach through Ireland and "stink in the nostrils of Irish tenant farmers."

Mr. Healy said that Mr. Redmond's services to Ireland could not be measured even by a far greater sum than the profits of this transaction, but the reward for his services would come as a voluntary gift or testimonial from the Irish people.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific, for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A, Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

Weather Notes

Wednesday,—Strong north-west winds; fair and quite cool.

CONSPIRACY BETWEEN BULGARIANS AND SERVIANS

Boris Sarafoff, Who Has Returned to Sofia, Says Work of Revolutionists Is Beginning

Sofia, Nov. 15—Previous reports of a conspiracy of Bulgarian and Servian officers to provoke war with Turkey have been officially confirmed. According to those reports, Turkey was to be attacked by the combined armies of the two countries.

Boris Sarafoff, leader of the Macedonian revolutionists, arrived here last night and was received at the railway station by thousands of persons, who brought laurel wreaths and flowers, and acclaimed Sarafoff as a national hero. Sarafoff declared that the revolutionists were not only unconquered, but that their work was just beginning. The desperate condition of the refugees is adding new fuel to the insurgent movement, which is expected to be revived on a larger scale in the coming spring.

London, Nov. 16—The Times has a despatch from its correspondent at Sofia in which he says:—"As the rigorous exclusion of foreign correspondents from the interior of Macedonia appeared to defeat the object of the Porte it was recently resolved to allow carefully chosen journalists whose loyal sentiments were beyond suspicion, to visit specially selected districts. Accompanied by a guard of honor, they were shown happy peasants working peacefully in the fields, even allowed to converse with the representatives of "a contented native population" and pass through smiling villages redolent of rural prosperity and repose. The result of this enlightened concession to inquisitiveness has been the publication in certain journals of optimistic reports of peace and plenty in Macedonia, the trifling nature of the insurrection, with the announcement that the Sultan daily telegraphed ordaining merciful treatment of "the idiotic insurgents." The correspondent says it would be a pity to mar this idyllic picture, but it is an established fact that there are not 5,-000, but about 25,000 Macedonian refugees now in Bulgaria. Attempts to minimize the number may tend to check the flow of charity and increase the suffering of the unfortunates.

Sample of Turkish Mercy.

A detachment of troops and Bashi Bazouks, under Osman Pasha arrived at the village of Pirin recently, and the principal villagers went out to offer them a welcome. The Turks killed two of them and then occupied the village, killing thirteen and wounding four of the residents. The village was plundered, 400 cattle were driven off, twenty-six houses burnt, and the village priest, it is stated, was tortured and then murdered. Groups of chained peasants continue to arrive at Adrianople almost daily.

Britain and Italy.

London, Nov. 16—The Rome correspondent of The Times says there are abundant evidences of the sympathy and interest with which the King's visit to England is regarded in Italy. The Nuova Antologia points out that Britain is the only nation from which Italy has received nothing but benefits. It says:—"English friendship is the only one which has never presented to us an account for services rendered, and never asked for any payment, material or moral." The Antologia proceeds to dilate upon King Edward's eloquent confirmation of the harmony between the two countries 'when he visited our King in Rome with the simplicity that marked a grand seigneur, which does not belong to all Monarchs, but which conquered the hearts of the Italians."

London, Nov. 17—The Russian correspondents of The Times furnish the text of a secret document issued by the Ministry of War, declaring that the revolutionary groups are endeavoring to carry on an anti-Government propaganda among the troops by means of illegal pamphlets and proclamations. "No person guilty of this act," they say, "has never been discovered. This is due to the fact that the officers hope to be able themselves to find out the culprit, and, therefore, they only inform the gendarmes when it is too late. The soldiers do not always promptly surrender the proclamations they have found, while the officers destroy them so as not to compromise their regiments." After suggesting the placing of agents at the doors of the barrack, the document says it is desirable to establish surveillance over the homes of Jewish soldiers and all their connections. "It has been practically demonstrated," the document says, "that these soldiers entertain relations to the Jews in the towns where they are quartered, among whom are many revolutionists."

Were Ready to Rebel.

From Kieff it is reported that the soldiers of the garrison announced their readiness to rebel if the officers would lead them, protesting that they were the friends, and not the enemies, of the working classes.

Who Wants Her 'Arry?

(Letter to Toronto Globe)

To the Editor of The Globe: It was with great interest that I read in The Globe of Nov. 11 the English girl's opinion of Canadian girls. Every subject of discussion has two sides to it, so I think it is only fair that a Canadian girl should have a say in this. In the first place, she attacks our complexions. She is not far out in saying our complexions are not as pink and white as their's, but she goes a little too far in attributing the cause to pastry, candy and overheated rooms. Evidently she has not studied the climates very well, or she would have discovered that while the heat from the sun that shines on old England is made milder by the mist from the ocean and the salt air is softening to the skin, nothing comes between the sun and the faces of the Canadian girls but the dry air, and anyone that knows anything about the skin will tell you the kind of air you breathe makes all the difference in the world on the flesh and blood, therefore on the skin. Take even the meat in England; it is more juicy and tender, and men who know what they are talking about say it is the mist and salt air that causes it.

The idea of thinking we want her English 'Arry, who is never seen, even in the presence of a lady or in a parlor without a pipe, and wearies us with talking about his home and what elegant horses his gov. drives, and how he has just come out for a bit of a lark, to gather up material to write a book on, etc.! How do we know what they are? Most likely they have been sent out here because the people could do nothing with them at home. I think it is high time England stopped making Canada a dumping ground for her misfits.

Why, bless you, we have boys of our own. Look in the reports from the fields of battle. Who ranked among the highest for bravery, intelligence, sharpness and as jack of all trades in the battle field? Why, the Canadian boys, to be sure. With such brave lads as those, what do we want of the sample England sends out here?

Guelph, Nov. 13. A Canadian Girl.

LORD-KITCHENER'S INJURY IS VERY SEVERE.

Paris, Nov. 17— The European publishes particulars of a confidential report on the economic condition of Russia in 1903, recently presented to the Czar. The report shows the progressive increase in the arrears of the annual payments by the peasants for the redemption of the land distributed at the time of the emancipation of the serfs. These arrears were $4,000,000 roubles in 1897, and gradually increased to 121,300,000 last year, and the conclusion is drawn that radical measures are needed to relieve the peasantry from charges which they cannot bear. The report says the existing economic crisis is caused by the too rapid artificial growth of industry beyond the capacity of the home market to absorb its products. M. de Witte's policy, it is declared, consisted mainly in giving subsidies from the State bank to manufacturers threatened with ruin, and giving them excessively large orders at high figures on behalf of the Government. These advances were made specially to the metal trade and undertakings [illegible].

A Compound Fracture of the Leg

Coolies Left Him Lying in Tunnel for Half Hour in Great Pain

London, Nov. 17.—Lord Kitchener, who was severely injured by his horse shying, is very seriously hurt, and may have to suffer amputation. The Post's special from Simla, India, confirms the news of the Commander-in-Chief's mishap. He was passing through a tunnel and his horse became frightened and collided with the walled side. One of Lord Kitchener's legs were broken in two places.

Some time afterwards coolies passing through the tunnel found the Commander-in-Chief lying there helpless and brought him to Simla. He is now reported to be doing well.

Although accustomed to the tunnel, Lord Kitchener's horse was frightened by suddenly coming upon a native. The animal swerved and jammed its rider against a beam in the side wall. His leg was twisted, and both bones snapped above the ankle.

Upon discovering the identity of the injured man, the coolies bolted and left him lying on the ground, where he suffered greatly for half an hour. The broken bones have been set, and, after having passed a good night, the General is in a cheerful mood.

It appears that Lord Kitchener had informed the members of his staff that he was not going out for a ride, but later changed his plans. Hence he was alone when the accident occurred.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

DR. S. GOLDBERG,
The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 566, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

PETERBOROUGH, NOVEMBER 18, 1903

SOME TIMELY WORDS

Man is in a fair way to get what he is entitled to. Woman is perceiving him, and when she has him thoroughly perceived she will do with him as she listeth. The latest indication of what is coming has cropped out in Kansas City, where Mrs. Rollin M. Winch has just made some remarks which ought to have been made and followed up with action long ago. Many of the men of this country have succeeded in reducing their hours of work to eight or less, and now that they have so much leisure Mrs. Winch proposes to set them to frying the beefsteak, washing the dishes, nursing the babies and patching their own breeches. Mrs. Winch told the Women's Auxiliary of the Manufacturers Association that she did not think it was any more a woman's duty to spend her time over a dishpan, or in scrubbing and sweeping, that it was a man's. She wants boys taught to help their mothers and wives. Then, when the family circle is formed around the evening lamp, the males of the household, instead of sticking their noses into their newspapers, will take up their darning or sewing and make themselves useful.

Right is Mrs. Winch, now and forevermore. Of course men ought to help about the housework, and they would if they were not so mean and selfish. They have no right to rest while woman works. The savages do that, and it is time good Canadian men got out of the savage condition. Mrs. Winch will do good work if she starts a movement to pull or drive them out.

THE PURE SEED BILL

The Bill respecting the inspection and sale of seeds, as amended at the last session of Parliament, has been reprinted with explanations and comments for distribution. It will serve as a notice to the interested public and provide means for a closer study of the bill in its relation to seed producers merchants and consumers.

The principal objects of this bill are summarized as follows:

1. To place the seed trade on a better and more legitimate basis. During the last quarter century the Canadian seed trade has been gradually passing from the hands of competent seedsmen into the hands of numerous local merchants whose main business is of an entirely different character. Competition has been too largely confined to prices, without due attention being given to quality. Competition under the present conditions of the seed trade, is not conducive to the production and use of the highest quality of seeds.

2. To suppress, as far as practicable, the dissemination of noxious weeds. The trade in agricultural seeds, especially those of grasses and clovers, is an exceedingly fruitful medium for the introduction and spread of noxious weeds, from locality to locality, and from province to province. This evil of the seed trade cannot be attributed so much to reliable seed houses as to the operations of merchants who are incompetent or careless in the conduct of their business.

In preparing the list of weeds mentioned in clauses 3 and 5 of the Bill, due consideration was given to expressions of opinions from practical farmers and experts in all parts of the Dominion, as well as to the results of the examination of over one thousand samples of grass, clover and other agricultural seeds that were tested in the Seed Laboratory during 1902 and 1903.

3. To establish uniform terms for the grading of the more important grass and clover seeds for the Canadian seed trade. Clauses 4 and 5 of the Bill provide for the grading of Timothy, Alsike, and Red Clover seeds according to fixed standards of purity and vitality.

Although absolute freedom from seeds of weeds named in clauses 3 and 5 of the Bill is desired, it is recognized that so long as seedsmen have to depend on seed testing, it is necessary to make provision for possible errors in carrying on the work. Provision has been made to meet this difficulty in clause 18 of the Bill. Absolute freedom from weed seeds can be ensured only by having seen grown on lands that are known to be free from weeds.

TELEPNONE ACROSS ATLANTIC

The Problem of Long Distance Communication Solved

New York, Nov. 16—The Sun has the following special from London: Prophecy is dangerous, but, with a full realization of its pitfalls, the correspondent of The Sun ventures the following prediction. Within three months, probably before New Year's, direct telegraphic communication, without intermediate repeating stations, will be established for the first time between New York and London, and telegrams will be exchanged at a speed of more than four times the previous capacity of any cable. I am tempted to go a step further and express the strong expectation that within a year it will be as feasible to converse by telephone between The Sun building in New York and the Sun's London office as it is across Manhattan.

Perhaps it is as well to confess that it is easy to prophesy when you know The feat of rapid communication between London and New York, as a matter of fact, has been greatly surpassed recently in actual practice; in other words, the problem of cheap and rapid long-distance communication has been solved, and the credit for this signal triumph of modern science belongs to England.

I am compelled to await the permission of the inventors, before making more than this general announcement.

Trust to Rob Public

London, Nov. 14—A letter written to the Speaker on the subject of woodpulp says. "There is no reason no doubt that in his desire to satisfy the Canadians, Mr. Chamberlain would respond to the expectations they have formed, and impose a prohibitive tariff against woodpulp made outside the limits of the Empire, and the British printing and paper industry would be ruined. The British printers publishers and public would be put in the hands of a Canadian combine, which would be formed as easily and as surely as the paper trust in the United States was formed in 1898."

France Refuses

London, Nov. 16—Delcasse has refused to assent to a joint Franco-British loan of $2,000,000 to the Sultan of Morocco, and the problem of financing that harassed monarch is unsolved.

Billious Dyspepsia

A DREADFUL COMPLAINT ACCOMPANIED BY HEADACHE, SICKNESS OF THE STOMACH, VOMITING THAT CAN BE PERMANENTLY AND QUICKLY CURED BY FERROZONE

Some persons have attacks of Billious Dyspepsia very frequently, and feel as if they were about to die.

The whole system seems to collapse. The tongue becomes coated, the face a sallow pallor, and a bitter taste is always noticeable in the mouth. At times the bowels are very constipated, but occasional acute diarrhœa is caused by the accumulation of bile in the system.

It is highly dangerous to allow such a condition to imperil your life. It must be cured and the simplest and surest remedy is Ferrozone. It digests every particle of food eaten, and prevents the waste products from clogging up the system.

Ferrozone restores all deranged organs to a healthy, vigorous condition. It keeps the bowels well regulated, makes the kidneys eliminate all poisons from the blood, and supplies the necessary elements to build up and strengthen the entire body.

Mr. Louis Meaham, one of Peterborough's most enterprising and well known business men, during the past three years was an unceasing sufferer from Billious Dyspepsia. He was cured permanently by Ferrozone and is so anxious that all others may profit by his experience that he gives the following testimonial.

"About three years ago," says Mr. Meaham, "I had the Grippe which left me in a very run down condition that finally developed into Dyspepsia. I was unable to eat but a few things and had a craving for acid. I gave up treating with the doctors because they did not help me, and on the advice of a friend used Ferrozone. It not only cured me of Dyspepsia and Billiousness, but has built up my strength to what it was before I had the Grippe. I can recommend Ferrozone as an ideal restorative."

Ferrozone is capable of digesting all classes of food, and contains in a highly concentrated form the elements necessary for strengthening and reconstructing, and nourishing the stomach and other digestive organs. It is a builder of blood, muscle and fat, and makes sickly, weak, disheartened people strong and well. Ferrozone gives you force, energy, vim and spirit and cures every time. Sold by all druggists. Price 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

Her gaze wandered round the room.

Near the hearth, on which the fire had been allowed to die out, she saw a large, cumbersome-looking armchair.

The back was towards her, and she would not have been conscious that it held anybody, had not a faint, moaning sound come from it.

Impelled by the same instinct of terror which had guided her to this room, she went over to the window and flung the curtains wide apart.

A flood of light glared in; and, turning to the chair, she beheld that which made her eyes dilate with horror—a man reclining on pillows stained with blood, a reeking knife protruding from his breast his face taking the fixedness of death.

She did not utter any cry—horror held her dumb; one glance told her he was at his last gasp—dying of a wound dealt by an assassin's hand.

His eyes, dark with their death's agony, were fixed upon her; his lips moved, and she caught the faintly breathed word:

"Bertha's—child! For—give! —laughter— The will——"

The sounds became inarticulate, there was a rattling in his throat, and Sir Felix Errol drew his last breath.

Rosalie bent over the motionless form, and looked into the ashen face, not yet realising that life was extinct.

Mechanically, like one moving in a dream, she parted the wrappings about his breast, and tried to wipe away the ghastly stains; she did more—she caught hold of the protruding dagger, and drew it out.

Paralyzed with horror, she stood with the blood-stained weapon in her hand, her gaze riveted on the gaping wound her face blanched to a hue as ghastly as that on the features of the dead.

She took no count of time—hours might have passed, or only moments; she had not power to move, or to utter any sound. Her hand seemed frozen on the dagger, and icy chills ran through her frame.

In the silence that prevailed, footsteps sounded on the stairs.

A man-servant appeared at the door, and, after gazing an instant on the sickening sight, uttered a cry of alarm.

Other domestics rushed upon the scene, horror-stricken, yet their senses not so dulled for them to jump to wild conclusions concerning their master's fate.

"Look!" gasped the first who had entered, pointing to Rosalie. "She's murdered him! We've caught her before she's had time to drop the knife and escape! Who let her in? How did she get to this room without anybody hearing her?"

"P'r'aps he's not quite dead," another remarked, venturing a few paces nearer the chair and its inanimate occupant. "We'd better get a doctor at once."

The voices roused Rosalie.

With a shudder she placed the dagger on a table near, and in a voice very unlike her usual sweet, clear tones, said:

"It is too late—he is dead."

"Then you must answer for his death!" exclaimed the man who had just spoken.

"Whose death?" Rosalie asked, her gaze fixed on the lifeless face.

"Sir Felix Errol's!"

She started, and drew nearer the dead man.

"Was this Sir Felix Errol?"

"Yes; and woe be to you when his good lady learns the truth!"

Eager to send the news flying, the servants dispersed, save two, who remained to keep watch over their dead master and his supposed murderess.

Rosalie made no effort to leave the room.

She felt that she was not free to go; she had been drawn into a tragedy, in which she would have to take a terrible part, and beyond this there was no room in her brain for thought of self.

The sunlight was still streaming into the room, when Gretchen entered.

For a moment she seemed unable to grasp the meaning of the scene which met her gaze.

Gradually, it dawned upon her that Sir Felix was dead.

A strange smile flitted over her pallid features.

She was free!

She did not even feign the grief she was far from feeling.

When the doctor came, he saw the restless glitter in her eyes, and almost feared for her reason.

Taking her hand he led her gently from the room.

"I need hardly say how deeply I sympathize with you," he said, his voice betraying agitation. "I fear there has been foul play. I do not think Sir Felix met his death by his own hand."

"Then, by whose?" she faintly articulated, turning her gaze upon him.

He shook his head.

"That is a mystery to which, as yet, we have no clue. I do not wish any word of mine to lead to unjust suspicion."

Gretchen remained silent until she was alone.

When he had left her, intending to send some of her maids to her, she clenched her hands together, and pressed them to her brow.

"Dead! dead!" she whispered. "I am free! Wealth and a title are mine—a name upon which none dare cast a slur! What does it matter to me how he died, so that I am free?"

Thought succeeded thought with lightning swiftness.

She knew that all the worldly possessions of Sir Felix would fall to her.

A few weeks ago, she had seen the will in which he bequeathed everything to his wife—and no pang of regret came to her with the recollection of his sudden and terrible end.

His life had been a perpetual bane to her.

Each day she had felt a deeper repugnance towards him.

She had hardly noticed the presence of Rosalie.

There had been confusion in the death-chamber when Gretchen had entered, and her mind had had power to take in only the lifeless face of her murdered husband.

Her husband!

When had she ever called him by that name—the despised, the decrepit man, from whose very touch she had recoiled with loathing?

In these first moments of her release she thought of Frank.

Poverty had been the only barrier between them.

He had spurned and condemned to a pitiless fate the woman who had given him only the wealth of her great love.

The titled mistress of Drayton Court, with a fortune at her disposal, would have a different fate at his hands.

He would love her again as he had loved her in those bygone days, and another marriage could be performed that should bind her to him for all time.

This reflection brought new strength with it.

It would not be difficult to find Frank and when he knew what she had to offer, he would gladly make her his wife.

The past should be forgotten, and they would begin life afresh, holding no secret from the world.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

Chicago, Nov. 17.—The movement of the wheat market today was rather disappointing to the bears. The general conditions of of influence were rather bearish, but here and there the bulls made their influence felt. The small increase in the world visible was probably the main influence in favor of the bulls. The shorts were rather nervous, and not a few of them were disposed to seek cover. The longs sold moderately on the better levels. The weather was regarded as favorable for corn. The cables were weak, and the cash situation was bearish. The export business was slow, and private advices from abroad were bearish. The movement of prices generally was quite nervous and uncertain regarding the future of the market.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Hogs 23,000, hold over 8,500. Lights, $4.25 and $4.75; mixed, $4.35 and $4.90; heavy, $4.15 and 4.86; roughs, $4.15 and $4.35.

WILL CEASE TALKING

Chamberlain will Devote Himself to Untangling the Problems He Has Raised

Guesses on Hicks Beach—The Tariff Struggle in England

London, Nov. 16—A special meeting of the General Committee of the National Liberal Federation will be held at Liverpool on Wednesday. President Birrell will move a resolution condemning the reversal of the fiscal policy, and calling upon Britain to resist by every means in her power proposals which will raise the price of food and manufactured goods, reduce trade by increasing the cost of production, and endanger relations with the colonies.

A post card, which has been received with enthusiasm, and is being sent over the country, contains a red picture of Mr. Chamberlain, and the inscription: "What saith the Scriptures, Genesis, 41st chapter, 55th verse?"

The verse referred to reads:

"And when all the land of Egypt was famished the people cried to Pharoh for bread; and Pharoah said unto all the Egyptians, go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do."

Where Is Hicks-Beach?

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach speech at Bristol has given rise to the most contradictory rumors. It is said on the one side that he and the free food party have captured Premier Balfour, and will check his tendency to go over to Mr. Chamberlain, and, on the other hand, it is said that Mr. Balfour has done the capturing, and the Free Food League, losing a leader, will disappear. The matter will be definitely decided on the 24th, when the league holds a public meeting, with the Duke of Devonshire as chairman and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and Lord Goschen as the speakers.

Mr. Chamberlain addresses a great meeting at Cardiff on Friday. He is inundated with invitations to speak at every great centre of population, but announces that after a London speech early in the year he will devote his time to mature considerations of the intricate problems that have arisen in connection with his policy.

Earl Percy, speaking at Oxford on Saturday, said one would imagine the name of the Free Food League was the advertisement of a soup kitchen, supported by voluntary contributions.

Liverpool is aroused by cargoes of door-mats, made by United States convicts and sold in England because they are not allowed in the home market.

PAUPERISM IN LONDON.

London, Nov. 16—The report of the Local Government Board, covering one thousand pages, shows that pauperism in London is distinctly on the increase. The causes given are the declining demand for skilled labor at the end of the war, improvidence, and the great attractiveness of the modern workhouse.

WILL HONOR BRYAN.

London, Nov. 16—Mr. Bryan, the famous ex-Democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States, who arrives in England on Wednesday, will be re-elected a temporary member of the National Liberal Club of London.

Medical Aid Denied

Stratford, Nov. 17—A little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mehm, who live in Downie, just outside the city limits, died without medical attention. The parents are Christian Scientists. Typhoid fever was found to have been the cause. The girl was fourteen years of age.

THE SAYINGS OF CHRIST

A Valuable Find Made Recently in Egypt

Papyri Dug Up Which Vary Slightly from Scripture

London, Nov. 16—Many hitherto unknown sayings of Jesus Christ have been discovered in Egypt by archaeologists, who have dug up papyri buried 100 miles south of Cairo since the second century. Dr. Bernard P. Grenfell, who has been engaged in Egyptian excavations since 1894, at the general meeting of the Egypt exploration fund here, gave the details:

Accompanied by Dr. Hunt, Dr. Grenfell found a rich Ptolemaic necropolis at El-Hibeh. The bulk of the documents from one mound consisted of a collection of sayings of Jesus. They are all introduced with the words, "Jesus saith," and for the most part are new.

The ends of the lines, unfortunately, are often obliterated. Apparently all the sayings were addressed to St. Thomas. One of the most remarkable is:

"Let not him that seeketh cease from his search until he find, and when he finds he shall wonder; wondering, he shall reach the kingdom of heaven, and when he reaches the kingdom he shall have rest."

Vary From Text.

Dr. Grenfell believed enormous interest would be aroused by the discovery, as the new manuscripts varied considerably from accepted texts. One variant of the mystical saying recorded in St. Luke, "The kingdom of God is within you," was of great value, as they saying in the papyrus apeared in quite different surroundings from those attributed to it by the evangelist, and extended far into another region.

According to Dr. Grenfell, these sayings formed the new gospel which is traditionally associated with St. Thomas.

The famous verse in St. Luke, 11: 52 "Woe unto you, lawyers, for ye have taken away the key of knowledge; ye entered not in yourselves and them that were entering in ye hindered," reads in the papyrus:

"Ye have hidden the key of knowledge; ye entered not yourselves, and to them that were entering in ye did not open."

Another fragment contained a discourse of Christ, closely related to passages of the Sermon on the Mount, and a conversation between Christ and His disciples in which he answers a question as to when His kingdom will be realized, saying:

"When ye return to that state of innocence which existed before the fall."

A Valuable Find.

A valuable find was made also in papyri, written in Latin, giving the text of the epistle to the Hebrews and an apitome of Livy's six lost books. This, with other papyrim covering the period 150-137 B.C. gives much new and valuable information of the history of the world, and marks the recovery of hitherto lost classical literature of Egypt.

A quaint instance of the business methods in vogue in 137 A.D. is shown in the discovery of an amusing contract whereby a slave boy was to be taught shorthand for 120 drachmae. The payment was arranged on a thoroughly businesslike basis, 40 drachmae down, 40 on satisfactory evidence of progress, and 40 on the attainment of proficiency.

Prospectus

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non-assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H. N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Cold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO, Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong

Jarvis-Smiley-Dean Concert

Plan opens at Ormond & Walsh's on Wednesday, Nov. 18th, 10 a.m. These great artists are being greeted with big houses. W. Spencer Jones, manager, writes from Brockville: "We had at the opera house here last night every available seat sold, "standing room" at a premium. The same occurred on Monday at St. Catharines, Tuesday at Orangeville, Wednesday at Uxbridge, and Thursday at Fenelon Falls. We, of course, look for the same with you."

A Splendid Concert

The concert to be given by the Ladies Y.M.C.A Auxiliary on Nov. 19th, gives promise of a splendid programme of artistic entertainment. The three artists, with Mr. W. Spencer Jones, as accompanist—Mr. Harold Jarvis, America's most popular ballad tenor, Mr. Owen Smiley one of the best entertainers on the continent, and Miss Alice Dean, a splendid violinist—guarantees an evening of delightful enjoyment. Plan of the opera house at Ormond & Walsh's, opens at 10 a.m. today. Reserved seats 50 and 75 cents. Rush seats, 25 cents.

A Modern Hotel

Two or three years ago the genial proprietor of the Snowden House ran short of porters and a want ad was inserted in The Times. A darkey drifted into town and at once applied for the job. He was put to work polishing boots and attending to early calls. In this connection a rather good story was told The Times. Mr. Jack Ross, of the C.P.R., happened along about this time on the midnight, and on going up to his room for the night, he informed the colored porter, who was carrying his valise, that he should have an early call. He was greeted with the following bit of information: "Say, boss, I reckon you am not 'quainted with dese here modern 'ventions. When you want to be called in the mawnin all you se got to do is just press the button on the wall by de bed; den we comes up and calls you."

Indian Place Names

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—It is desirable to form a list of Indian names by which the topographical features of Ontario were, or are, known. Some of the obsolete names are already on record, but the references are scattered over a very wide field of literature. Besides these, there are no doubt many local names that have never appeared in print, but which are known to residents in various parts of the province. Indians themselves may render valuable assistance.

It will, therefore, be taken as a great favor if readers who possess any knowledge of this kind will communicate with the undersigned.

To facilitate correspondence, replies may be forwarded on postal cards, or otherwise, referring to the following numbers:

1. Present name of river, bay, lake, cape island, or hill.
2. Indian name and its meaning.
3. If the present name is Indian, what it means.
4. Many Indian names are now used in a corrupt form. Give the old forms.

AN OLD TIMER

Has Had Experience

A woman who has used Postum Food Coffee since it came upon the market 8 years ago knows from experience the necessity of using Postum in place of coffee if one values health and a steady brain.

She says: "At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum and got a sample and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use and very soon its beneficial effects convinced me of its value, for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia.

"My husband had been drinking coffee all his life until it had affected his nerves terribly. I persuaded him to shift to Postum and it was easy to get him to make the change for the Postum is so delicious. It certainly worked wonders for him.

"We soon learned that Postum does not exhilarate or depress and does not stimulate but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach. To make a long story short our entire family have now used Postum for eight years with completely satisfying results as shown in our fine condition of health and we have noticed a rather unexpected improvement in brain and nerve power." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Increased brain and nerve power always follow the use of Postum in place of coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner.

THE NEW DAM

The Work to be Completed in About Two Weeks

The new dam at the Cereal Company's Works will be completed in a couple of weeks. The concrete work is now about finished, and the dam will be ready for the stop logs today. There is some filling in to be done to prevent the water, when raised to the new level, overflowing the southern banks and roadway.

The old bridge is to be dismantled and as much of the timber removed as practicable. The work of installing the plant in the new power house will now begin.

Mr. O'Toole, the contractor, has another dam to build down East, about double the size of the Cereal dam. He will ship his plant as soon as possible.

THE STONY PASS MINE

Its Great Riches Explained by Mr. Robert Harrison

Last night a number of leading citizens assembled at the residence of Mr. Robert Harrison by invitation, where they met Mr. A. A. Brown, the general manager of the Stony Pass Mining Company, Silverton, Colo., who is spending a few days with Mr. Harrison, who has been appointed Canadian agent of this progressive company.

Mr. Harrison, as our readers know, has only returned from a visit to the property of the Company, and is deeply impressed with the great richness of the mines. He has some very fine samples of ore, chiselled by himself from the immensely rich veins which are being opened up.

Mr. Brown will remain several days in town and will before he leaves install Mr. Harrison in the Company's office which it is proposed to open in town.

SHOULD BE CHANGED

Thanksgiving Should Be Changed from Thursday to Monday

The Times would again suggest that Thanksgiving day be changed from Thursday to Monday to secure two, if not three, holidays in succession. To our ancestors Thursday was a semi holy day. It was the day for the great religious lecture and it was appropriate to observe Thanksgiving on that day rather than on any other. Few of us have any special regard for Thursday as such and could easily change what feeling and sentiment we have for it to Monday.

Thanksgiving with us means above all things else a home-coming, a union of the family. The longer the period allowed the better. To a large number of people who must travel a longer or shorter distance to enjoy the family meeting the change to Monday would be the difference of making the trip or staying away. By all means let the change be made and thus add to the reasons for real thanksgiving.

ARCHDEANERY MEETINGS

Opened in St. John's Church Yesterday Morning

The annual sessions of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough are now being held in St. John's school house, the opening meeting being at 9.30 yesterday morning, when Holy Communion was ministered to those in attendance. The session was presided over by Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook; with the following clergyman in attendance: Rev. A. J. Fiddler, Cobourg; Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A., Havelock; Rev. J. Creighton, Black stock; Rev. W. J. Creighton, Bobcaygeon, Rev. E. R. James, Hastings, Rev. G. Warren, Lakefield; Rev. J. H. Bemister, Haliburton; Rev. C. W. Marsh, Lindsay; Rev. W. C. Allen, Millbrook; Rev. B. Dickson, Fenelon Falls; Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. W. L. Armitage, of town. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt is unable to attend the sessions, because of illness, which fact is deeply regretted by his brother clergymen. Rev. W. L. Armitage is secretary of the Archdeaconry.

Rev. J. C. Davidson delivered an address of welcome to the visitors.

After the reading of the minutes by Rev Mr. Armitage, the Archdeacon delivered his annual address.

A very interesting paper was that read by Mr. J. H. Bickle, of Cobourg upon the work of the Lord's Lay Alliance during the year. He urged that still greater effort be put forth in connection with this very important cause.

The meetings were yesterday afternoon and evening and to-day.

The Problem of Long Distance Communication Solved

New York, Nov. 16—The Sun has the following special from London: Prophecy is dangerous, but, with a full realization of its pitfalls, the correspondent of The Sun ventures the following prediction: Within three months, probably before New Year's, direct telegraphic communication, without intermediate repeating stations, will be established for the first time between New York and London, and telegrams will be exchanged at a speed of more than four times the previous capacity of any cable. I am tempted to go a step further and express the strong expectation that within a year it will be as feasible to converse by telephone between The Sun building in New York and the Sun's London office as it is across Manhattan.

Perhaps it is as well to confess that it is easy to prophesy when you know The feat of rapid communication between London and New York, as a matter of fact, has been greatly surpassed recently in actual practice; in other words, the problem of cheap and rapid long-distance communication has been solved, and the credit for this signal triumph of modern science belongs to England.

I am compelled to await the permission of the inventors, before making more than this general announcement.

THE OTONABEE WATERS

Conservation Associa- Held Meeting Yesterday.

THE REPORT OF ENGINEER ROGERS.

Valuable Information Regarding the Storage of Water

Yesterday a meeting of the Trent Valley Conservation Association was held in the Council Chamber, which was largely attended. The President, Mr. David Gilmour, occupied the chair. The following gentlemen were present: Messrs J. M. Kilbourn, Lakefield, J. C. Shook John Carnegie, Geo. Edmison, Mayor Roger, W. G. Ferguson, W. H. Meldrum, J. H. McClellan, O. C. Kirn, E. G Patterson E. J. Toker, Geo. Payne, Allan Payne, J. Wasson, of Warsaw; and Arthur Stevenson, secretary, and others.

It was moved by Mr. Kilbourn and seconded by Mr. Shook, that Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, be requested to sit with the meeting and assist with such information as might be desirable with reference to the waters of the north country.

Mr. A. Stevenson read the minutes of the last meeting and stated that the objection of the present gathering was to take such action as is possible towards the conservation and regulation of waters along the Trent system.

Mr. Kilgour said that though Hon. Mr. Blair was no longer Minister of Railways and Canals, he was not very far away, and his voice on those questions would undoubtedly go along way. There was great necessity also that there should be some co-operation between the two Governments in reference to the head waters. He suggested that a committee be appointed to approach the Ontario Government in this matter.

Mayor Roger referred to the necessity that the Association hands be strengthened by the attendance and interest of navigation's representatives in the meetings.

The Secretary stated that he had issued a petition among the navigators protesting against the scanty supply of water along the system.

NORTHERN RESERVOIRS.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, on motion was heard and stated that he had taken a trip over the northern waters a few weeks ago, and he has pictures and maps of the route taken, starting at Kashigwalgamog Lake near Haliburton, which was thirteen miles long, and while it could not be raised to any great extent, it could be regulated. There was a small dam at outlet, which was not claimed by anybody and no repairs were made on it. The capacity of the lake was 770 million cubic feet, and there was no reason why it should not be used as a reservoir. Drag Lake was next visited. There was no settlement except at the upper end, where there were a few farmers. There were two eight foot dams on the lake, but there was no reason why they should not be raised to twenty-four feet as the shores were precipitous and the land of not much value. If the dams were raised it would increase the capacity from 1 to 23-12 billion cubic feet. There are several lakes, which if not secured now, it would probably be very difficult to do so in the future. Haliburton Lake was instanced; a railway he understood, was about to be projected through there and in that event the lake could not be used as a reservoir. The capacity was about a billion and a quarter cubic feet. There was only a five-foot dam, which could easily be raised to thirty feet. All the land damaged by the raise could hardly be valued at more than $3,000. It was an immense reservoir about seven miles long and a mile wide.

Eagle Lake was another reservoir, which was not very large, having a dam with about eight feet of water. The lake held 448 million cubic feet and there was no reason why it could not be raised to 24 feet, the capacity thereby being trebled. A small tract of land would be flooded, and the damage very small.

Red Stone Lake was a large reservoir with precipitous banks and a capacity of about a billion and a half cubic feet—an eight foot dam. There was not a settler on the lake and the damage by raising 24 feet would hardly be more than $300. Mr. Rogers said he was only speaking roughly, and there was nothing to show what the condition would actually be if the waters were reservoired properly. A survey giving such information would require some months.

Kanasis Lake had an eight-foot dam, and there was only a couple of feet of water there at present. There was no reason why the lake should not be raised some 25 feet. There was no land of any great value in the vicinity.

Several smaller lakes were visited—Point, Crab, and Hawk, which could be converted into very fine reservoirs if properly dammed. The difficulty at present lay in the fact that dams allowed of a leakage in some cases greater than the supply. Boskung and Hall's Lakes formed large areas. The former had no dam and it seemed incredible that so large an area was in such condition. It could be lowered some four feet and raised sixteen feet. Mr. Rogers said that if the waters were properly conserved in the lakes he referred to there would be for 200 days, a flow of 60,000 cubic feet per minute extra. The main lakes only had been included in the trip but there were innumerable small lakes surrounding which could be made to serve a good purpose.

Mr. Kilbourn—If we had the increased flow for 130 days it would tide us over.

Mr Rogers pointed out that the passage of a drive of logs through any of the small lakes lowered the water tables considerably and conduced largely to the low water of the season. He said he supposed he did not go over 25 per cent. of the reservoirs in the north. There were immense areas that could be created by the building of a dam.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

Mr. Carnegie suggested that the Government be asked to withdraw all land on the lakes mentioned from sale, as a first step.

It was pointed out that the land was now for the most part already owned by private interests, the English Land Company being large holders.

Mr. Gilmour stated that if the Canal were finished it would secure the bulk of the grain trade. In the port of Montreal it was seen that ten per cent. of the trade only came by the Canadian route. The grain was in the West to be moved, and it was scandalous that the Dominion Government had not taken steps to have the canal completed: It was the cheapest route and would take the trade from the United States in spite of themselves. The strongest pressure should be brought to bear. The reduction of a cent a bushel had diverted the outlet from New York to Montreal.

Mr. McClellan said he understood that the Ontario Government had offered the Dominion Government their dams free if they would only take them off their hands.

Mr. Kilbourn thought that immediate action should be taken for the transfer of dams in the north to one central authority. The Ontario Government's view should be obtained on the subject, and he moved, seconded by Mr. John Carnegie, That this meeting appoint a committee of three to wait upon the Ontario Government at an early date and obtain

MR. CULVERWELL SPEAKS

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Certain power holders would want the Trent Canal—not as a waterway but a "milky way"—a milch cow. My advice to them is to go like honest men and pay rent for the two idle Government dams between Lakefield and Peterborough. However, we already learn that "barnacles and parasites do not care to pay either taxes or rent in this world. I am still waiting for a reply in the Globe of Toronto to my statement in that paper on the 14th inst. I am not paying any attention to misrepresentations and slang-whanging, which appear daily in a small-fry Peterborough paper, owned by a Peterborough power-holder.

FED ON WORMS FOR TWENTY DAYS

Man Wanders Without Shelter in a Colorado Forest

Denver, Col., Nov. 14.—After his 20 days wandering in the wilds of Northern Washington without food or shelter, as soon as Harry Powers had regained sufficient strength to travel, he left Chehalis, the end of his wanderings, in company with his father, A. D. Powers, of 3107 Gilpin street, who had gone to meet his son, and arrived home, where he received the welcome of the prodigal from his mother, brothers and sisters, whom he had not seen in nine years. The fact of his wanderings and arriving at Chehalis in a terribly weakened condition is probably the direct cause of the young man being reunited with his family.

Harry Powers has had one of the most remarkable experiences which fall to the lot of man, and his escape is due only to his strength and perseverance. During the first week of his wanderings it rained incessantly, and the young man was unable to get his bearings from the sun. On the afternoon of the seventh day he had climbed to the top of the steep rocky ridge, when he lost his footing and fell back down to the foot of the mountain. Bruised and bleeding, he picked himself up, and, thinking he would never come out alive, and thoroughly discouraged, he was about to end his troubles in the Nesqually River, when the sun came out from behind a cloud, and, cheered by its light and warmth, he continued his way in the direction he thought would bring him soonest to human habitation.

Toward night on the twentieth day, when, although he did not know it, he was within two miles of M. D. Wood's ranch, where he received his first care, he was about to give up all hope and sink down to die. He says that in his delirium he had a vision of a beautiful woman who told him to keep up because he would soon reach shelter. Obeying the voice, he arrived at the ranch after nightfall, taking three hours to cover the two miles.

"An old saw was the cause of it all," said the young man in speaking of his experience, "and I believe the old saw was a good friend to me, for it caused me to come home. I was working for a ranchman named George Burrows, and sawing wood with an old saw that wouldn't cut. I got disgusted because he would not sharpen the saw or give me another one, and told him I would quit. Men were scarce and he asked me not to quit, and said he would sharpen the saw.

"I heard of a coal mine 10 miles from there where they were paying good wages, and wanted to go there, but I told him if I could not get work there I would be back again, and I started out. The coal mine did not pan out at all and I started back and lost my way soon after.

"It is swampy in that country, and there is nothing but corduroy roads. When the logs in a corduroy road wear out they generally change the road, and there are no signs to tell when a road has been changed. On the way back the road forked and I took the wrong road, which led me several miles into a swamp and then played out. It was dark then, and the country is all covered with thick timber. That started it; I was lost.

"It commenced to rain that night, and rained steadily for a week. In the hope of getting somewhere where I could see around the country I climbed a mountain, but that did not do me any good. I was getting very hungry by this time, and all I could find was some berries. I ate all I could and kept going. For a few days there were lots of berries, but I kept going down out of the higher country, and about the fourth day the berries played out.

"The lower country was all swampy, and all I could find were some green worms called slugs. I thought a long time before I tackled one, but it was that or starve. I rubbed off the slime on my clothes, and ate one. It tasted just like a raw oyster, and I ate some more. That and grass was all I lived on for the rest of the 14 days.

"About a week after I ate the first slug I reached some dryer land, where there were none, and I thought it was all up with me. There was not a thing to eat in sight. After a while I saw some wild goats and I would have given anything for a gun to kill one with, but I had no gun, so I just watched them. After a while I noticed they were eating a certain kind of grass, and most of the rest of the time till I struck Wood's ranch I ate that grass.

"Twice while I was lost I thought it was all up with me, but once the sun came out and helped me along, and the other time when I was delirious I saw a beautiful woman who told me to keep up the fight and I would come out all right."

From Kapowan, near where Powers started his wanderings, to Chehalis, where he came out, is a distance of about 65 miles, over some of the roughest country in the State, and Powers thinks he wandered at least 200 miles in making the distance. He started on the Elbe River, a tributary of the Columbia, and wandered on the bottom of the Nesqually River for days. From here he climbed out into the hills, and finally reached the headquarters of the Nowakum River, 20 miles from Chehalis. It took him more than a day to cover the last 10 miles, crawling on his hands and knees, stopping to rest every few feet, and sometimes crawling on his stomach.

Powers lost 40 pounds during his wanderings and nearly suffered paralysis of the lower limbs. He reached the Wood ranch and was taken in a wagon to Chehalis, where Sheriff Urquhart telegraphed his parents and looked after him till his father came. He is now much improved, and soon will be as strong as ever.

BOILERS BLEW UP, TWO MEN KILLED NUMBER OF MEN SERIOUSLY INJURED

One Boiler Was Broken in Two and the Sections were Sent Ripping Through the Thick Walls.

Newmarket, Ont., Nov. 18—A frightful explosion occurred in Cane & Son's woodware factory at 9 o'clock this morning.

Four one-hundred horse power boilers which stood in a row, gave way and completely wrecked the buildings.

The boiler room was separated from the other parts of the factory by heavy brick walls.

A boiler gave way near the centre. One half of it was blown through the wall into the machine shop, and the other out through the north wall.

The west boiler was blown through the wall into the pail room, and the two east boilers were driven into the engine room.

Some of the bricks were thrown fully three hundred yards from the factory.

One of the firemen, John Agnew, was buried under a mass of brick and taken out dead.

The other, Frank Birch, was blown out of the door of the boiler room, and died in about an hour.

David Cock, William Bell, James Forham and H. Trivett were seriously hurt and about a dozen more or less seriously injured.

The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Uncle Sam's Oldest Veteran

New York, Nov. 17.—It is an interesting fact that the name of a single survivor of the war of 1812 now appears on the pension rolls, that of Hiram Cronk of Oneida County, in this State, who is 103 years of age. But no fewer than 1,115 widows of the soldiers in our second war with Great Britain are still getting money from the federal treasury. Young women who are willing to marry aged warriors, with the hope of pensions, are plentiful.

A STRONG STAFF

The Power of Pure Food

"Some years ago when we lived in New York City husband and I lost four of our little ones during the hot weather.

"When we moved to Vineland, N. J., we made the acquaintance of the food Grape-Nuts. It was here that our little girl, Majuba, was born but she was so frail; and 'skinny' that we feared we would lose her as we had the other babies. When she was eight months old we learned about Grape-Nuts and began feeding her this food and now wherever she goes our friends feel her arms she is so plump and her flesh is so firm.

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts with a little white sugar and boiling water would save many a poor baby's life during the hot weather when milk is sour and the little ones suffer most.

"After seeing the power of Grape-Nuts upon our little girl my husband began its use and all last summer when we lived at Easington, Pa., he eat Grape-Nuts and no meat. Although he was working at the hardest laboring work, digging ditches all this time he felt strong and well without the meat just so long as he had Grape-Nuts." KING VICTOR ARRIVES

Yacht Bearing Royal Party Arrives at Portsmouth

London, Nov. 17—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy reached Portsmouth on the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert shortly before 11 o'clock this morning amidst salutes from the ships and land batteries in the harbor.

Upon the arrival of the yacht at the jetty the Prince of Wales went aboard immediately and welcomed their Majesties in the name of King Edward and of the nation.

A torpedo flotilla formed an escort for the royal yacht through the home fleet lying at Spithead. Guards of honor of bluejackets and marines lined the jetty and a band played the Italian National Anthem as the yacht steamed alongside.

The Prince of Wales was met at the top of the gangway by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena. After greetings had been exchanged, the naval and military commanders were introduced to their Majesties, and the Mayor of Portsmouth presented an address to King Victor Emmanuel, who briefly expressed his thanks.

After luncheon on board the yacht King Victor Emmanuel inspected the guards of honor and the naval cadets from the college at Osborne, after which the party started for Windsor.

PREFERENTIAL IDEA GROWS RAPIDLY

Self-Governing Colonies Falling Into Line One After Another

London, Nov. 18—The self-governing Empire is rapidly falling into line in regard to the preferential policy. Much satisfaction is expressed in Chamberlainite circles at Premier Seddon's proposals providing for additional duties by New Zealand on foreign goods.

Advices from Australia show that the Ministry and Opposition there are vieing with each other in favor of the preferential policy. The Ministry propose a preference with home protection, the Opposition advocate a revenue tariff with a preference.

The South African acceptance of the preferential idea is also assured.

RUSSIA TO OVERAWE CHINA

Vast Army Being Drafted From Czar's Domains

Moscow, Nov. 18.—The Russian military reoccupation of Mukden, Manchuria, has caused such tension and has aroused such an aggressive attitude on the part of China that the continued dispatch of troops to the far east is now said to be directed against China, despite the pacific turn of the Russo-Japanese dispute.

Troops totaling 250,000 were ordered to the far east when hostilities appeared imminent and they are being continually drafted from the government of Moscow and the nine surrounding provinces. With the troops already in the far east this will give Russia an overwhelming force with which to overawe China.

PRINCESS DIES IN POLAND

Little Daughter of Grand Duke of Hesse Victim of Cholera Morbus

Darmstadt, Nov. 18.—The Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Grand Duke of Hesse, died at Skiernewice, Russian Poland, today, from cholera morbus. She was taken ill yesterday.

The Czar and Czarina will return to Darmstadt with the Grand Duke of Hesse Wednesday to attend the funeral.

During his recent stay at Darmstadt the Czar took a great liking to the child, and when the Grand Duke of Hesse accepted the Czar's invitation to Russian Poland for a hunting trip his Majesty persuaded him to take the child along. The Princess was nearly eight years old, and lived alternately with her father and her mother, who were divorced two years ago.

DETECTIVE WILL BE SENT

To England For Confessed Murderer of Glory Whalen.

Hamilton, Ont., November 18. — Attorney-General Gibson states that a strong effort will be made to have the confessed murderer of Glory Whalen, under arrest in Manchester, England, brought back to Ontario for trial under the Fugitive Offenders Act. It might be that he would be sentenced for the offence charged against him in the Old Country, but in that event the heinousness of the crime here should result in the local authorities securing his return. One of the provincial detectives will be sent across for the prisoner, probably Detective Greer, who had charge of the case.

SCHEME FOR SEWERAGE

For the Village of Ashburnham Heartily Endorsed

BY AN INFORMAL MEETING OF RATEPAYERS

A Resolution Approving of the Scheme Carried—Public Meeting Next Week

The Council of the Village of Ashburnham and representative citizens held an informal meeting in the Village Council Chamber last night when the question of the proposed outfall sewer was thoroughly discussed with the following result:

> Moved by Col. J. Z. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Faint, That, having considered the proposed sewerage scheme for Ashburnham, this meeting approves of the proposal, and heartily recommend it to the citizens, trusting that they will, by a big majority, vote in favor of the by-law on the 26th. —Carried.

Reeve Adams called the meeting to order shortly after eight o'clock. He said the Council had called this meeting so as to give those present an opportunity to discuss with the Civic Board the terms of the proposed sewerage system that they may be thoroughly acquainted with its details when they attended the public meeting on the 24th.

Mr. Chipman's scheme is for an outfall sewer, with a septic tank, from Elizabeth street, down the east side of the G. T.R. track to Sophia street, west to Mark street and down Mark street to the lake. The estimates provide for a 15-inch pipe at a total cost of $10,200. It had been suggested that a frontage tax of $1 per foot be made, and that the sides of corner lots be assessed about one-third this amount.

The Reeve then went on to explain that considerable agitation had been made for a sewerage system for the village, and personally he would like to see the scheme adopted. This outfall sewer would be but the first step towards a complete system for the whole municipality, to be extended from time to time, at a total cost of $32,000, which amount could be provided for by a general tax of $16,000 and a frontage tax of $16,000. If a complete sewerage system for the village were constructed at once, the assessment on say 20 years debentures issued to defray its cost would amount to 2 mills on the dollar. However, the municipality was only dealing with an outfall sewer just now, and he could see no reason why it should not be acceptable to every ratepayer who has the interests of the village at heart. One thing is certain, and that is, if the people do not approve of this scheme, St. Joseph's Hospital will shortly have to construct some sort of sewerage system of their own.

The whole question was here pretty thoroughly discussed and the meeting generally conceded that the proposed scheme would not only increase the value of property, but promote the erection of a better class of buildings in the village. Besides the village must sooner or later have a complete sewerage system and why not make a start at once towards the inevitable.

Councillor Horrigan objected to the scheme on the grounds that the water works system had not been extended throughout the whole village as promised. Why not, he said, expend a little more money and give all the villagers the privilege of fire protection. The north was lacking in this respect.

Reeve Adams expressed his surprise that Coun. Horrigan had not protested in council against the scheme. He wanted to know why he had not urged a further extension of the water works system being embodied in the by-law now before the people. He had ample opportunity of doing so. It was never intended, or promised, to extend the water system all over the village at first, but only from time to time as money and conditions would allow of. The ratepayers thoroughly understood this, and $10,000 were voted for the first installment of water works. Owing to the cheapness of labor and material at that time this work was done for some $6,000, leaving $4,000 on hand, which the council spent the next year or two in further extensions. Beyond this they could not go, as they had no additional money voted for the purpose. Subsequently, however, a propriation was made in Council to again extend the water works system, but Messrs. Johnston and Smith, who at that time were members of the Council, objected on the plea that they did not wish to raise the rate above 17 mills. After the rate had been struck, however, these gentlemen were exceedingly anxious to extend the both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. ANOTHER SAW-OFF

The Conservative party would do well to spend a little money in the purchase of public confidence, says The News. The school of political financing at present predominant in the Opposition party seems to be that which countenances no payment that does not offer immediate returns in votes. Once the election is over, it is impossible to get the party financiers interested in anything concerning it. A protest is lodged, for a protest is a marketable commodity, and being lodged, it is hawked about by the party managers for disposal at the best obtainable price. It is better, they argue, and from their point of view, quite rightly, that a dubious Liberal election and a dubious Conservative election should be left standing than that both should be opened. It saves us the cost of the protest and money is always worth more to an Opposition than to a Government; and moreover, in a bye-election, other things being equal, the chances are always slightly against the Opposition. We are more likely to lose the seat we have than to gain the seat we have not.

The consequence of this policy is that the public is rapidly becoming apathetic to all charges of electoral corruption. The recent North Ontario election was held up by the Conservative speakers and press as an example of the worst and most unblushing methods of Governmental influence. It was charged that an army of two hundred or more "workers" was brought into the riding, and that money flowed like water. Two days after the polling the Conservatives were credited with possessing ample evidence to upset the election. What has been done? Nothing. The protest was dismissed a day or two ago in consequence of a "saw-off" with that of North Grey. The party seems prepared to do anything rather than pay for a protest. North Ontario was sold very cheap; for the the outside observer it does not appear as if the Conservative success in North Grey could have been upset.

Aside altogether from their duty to the public, the Conservative managers owed something to Mr. Foster. They have told us time and again that it was the incalculable value of the Parliamentary services Mr. Foster was offering to the Conservative party that led to the bitterness with which the Liberals fought him. The ex-Finance Minister had no personal advancement to seek, and the party had much to gain by his presence. He fought a courageous fight under peculiarly distressing circumstances, and, according to the unanimous voice of the party, he rightfully won. Yet not a cent could be spent in securing his rights. It is a discouraging spectacle, and it is an eloquent admission by the Conservative party that its electoral methods are no better than those at which it casts unsparing denunciation.

ADDING A HORROR TO WAR

The war of the future bids fair to be as terrifying from the uncanny manner in which the slaughter will be conducted as by reason of the slaughter itself. Men long distances apart, scarcely visible to one another, pump leaden death into opposing ranks, while not a sign of smoke tells whence the bullets come. This is weird enough and shaking to the nerves, but now comes a German inventor, named Berguel, who claims the invention of something which will add greater terror to combat than the invention of all the Gatlings and Maxims. It is a gunpowder which explodes without making the slightest noise and is yet possessed of the explosive force of the best modern, high-power powder. Think of the weirdness, the uncanniness of the battlefield of the future! No smoke, no sound; only a silent and unseen death flying back and forth between two armies and men falling as mysteriously as fell the warriors of Sennacherib.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Kaiser and the Czar exchanged kisses when they met day before yesterday. This feature of the diplomatic game was invented by one J. Iscariot.

The military governor of Colon in an interview refers to the United States as "the new republic's powerful and generous godmother." The United States are powerful and generous truly, but they were not exactly a godmother in this case, which resembles flat burglary a good deal more than it did a christening.

One of the causes of the labor troubles in the shoe trade at Quebec is a rule of the union which subjects a member to a penalty if he does more than a fixed amount of work in a week. It is a rule that robs both the employer and the good man and that neither the good man nor the employer should have to submit to. The prize of success is not won by loafing whether such loafing is voluntary or enforced.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. A Startling Revelation

The Friends of Miss May McKenzie of London were Astonished to hear that she had gone into Consumption

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected.

Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhozone, which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says: "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhozone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs, and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently, which, probably, was the cause of it curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhozone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations."

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyond the aid of doctors' medicines.

Catarrhozone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried treatments, but should turn at once to Catarrhozone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhozone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure, Price $1.00. Small size 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

When she raised her face from her hands, her eyes were filled with eager, restless longing.

The silence and stillness of the room oppressed her.

She felt that she must take part in what was going on in the other chamber, or go mad with suspense.

The doctor appeared at the door of the room in which the murdered man lay, and prevented her from entering.

"You can do nothing, Lady Errol," he said, in his kindest tones. "I advise you to keep to your own rooms for a time—at least, until something definite is arranged. We have telegraphed Sir Felix's solicitor to come down."

"You still think Sir Felix has been murdered?" she whispered, her voice sounding hollow in the deathly silence that prevailed.

"There is scarcely room for any doubt on the subject," he replied, "although, as yet, we hold no proof that such is the case."

"But he might, after all, have taken his own life. He was strangely gloomy and excitable at times."

The doctor shook his head.

"I am not inclined to take up that theory. Sir Felix clung to life as all feeble men do. Had he been left long alone? Nobody seems to have heard any sound of distress, excepting the young girl who arrived on the scene in time to witness his death."

Gretchen started.

"Did he speak—after the wound had been dealt?"

"Yes; but his mind must have been wandering. He spoke of a daughter and a will. Would you deem it presumption on my part, if I asked whether Sir Felix had an earlier marriage? He was so much your senior, one would almost fancy you must have been his second wife."

Gretchen drew herself up, her face white and set.

"If Sir Felix had an earlier marriage, he kept it secret from the world. He never told me of a previous one."

"Does it seem possible to you that such may have been the case?"

"I have drawn my own conclusions," she said coldly; "but I do not feel called upon to discuss the subject. Why do you speak so me in this strain?"

"Because the young lady I alluded to came to Drayton Court at his request—and bears the name of Errol."

"Who told you this?" Gretchen demanded, clenching her hands with a spasmodic movement.

"I heard it from the young lady herself. At first she gave her name as Mademoiselle Rosalie—a lion-tamer; but, moved by the remembrance of something Sir Felix had said to her just before he drew his last breath, she declared herself to be Rosalie Errol."

"Who will believe her—an adventuress? What right had she to force her way into my home?"

"She does not appear to have used force. She found the hall-door open, and while she stood at the threshold, undecided how to make her presence known, she heard the groans of Sir Felix, and following their sound, made her way up to his room—to find him dying, with the dagger in his breast."

"Go on," Gretchen said, hoarsely, "let me hear all."

"There is very little more to tell. He saw, and spoke to her. When he lay quite still, she drew the dagger from his breast, hoping to stanch the blood, and restore consciousness. Almost at the same moment she realized that he was dead, and she stood with the weapon in her hand, unable to move for horror, till one of the servants came upon the scene."

"If she drew the dagger out, who knows but that she thrust it in?" Gretchen said, her eyes sunken, cold drops of moisture gathering on her face. "Whoever she is, let her be detained under suspicion. She did not come to Drayton Court without a motive."

"Possibly not," the doctor said, shocked that Lady Errol should have echoed the suspicion he had heard among the servants—one which brought such a ghastly charge against the girl upon whose innocence he would have staked his soul. "However, this is not a question for us to decide just now. I can only say I would set my life on the truth of every word Miss Errol has uttered in my presence."

Gretchen's face grew whiter, her eyes darker; her brows were fiercely drawn together.

"Do not call her by that name," she said. "She is an adventuress; you yourself have owned as much."

"A lion-tamer is not necessarily an adventuress. She pretends to be no more than what she is: to the world she is Mademoiselle Rosalie, the Rose of the Ring."

"Her fame will be of a different kind soon," Gretchen replied, bitterly. "I hold her answerable for the murder of Sir Felix."

The doctor did not argue the point.

In his mind there was not a doubt as to Rosalie's innocence.

She had told her story so simply, and had manifested such deep horror at the event she had described—such utter unconsciousness of her own peril—that he would no more have thought of harboring suspicion against her than of calling a baby to account.

To the girl there had come an instinctive sense that the last words uttered by Sir Felix had not been the outcome of a wandering mind.

He had called her "daughter," and she was overwhelmed with the certainty that she had at last found one with whom she could claim kinship.

Yet, in the very moment of this recognition, she had lost him—her father.

She did not leave Drayton Court that night.

The hours dragged on heavily.

Sleep refused to come to her aching eyes, and she uttered a cry of relief the next day when Polly, now her best friend, was ushered into her presence.

The woman took her in her arms, and, unable to find words in which to express her feelings, gave way to tears.

"You shouldn't have come! I wish I'd done anything rather than let you!" she exclaimed, when her sobs had subsided. "And you so innocent and trusting! My poor darling—my pretty pet! What shall we do for you now?"

"Don't cry, Polly, dear," Rosalie said. "I have nothing to regret—save it be my father's death! Oh! Polly, Polly, I have found out at last who I am! My parentage is no longer a mystery! Sir Felix Errol looked at me, and, with his last breath, called me daughter!"

CHAPTER XVIII.

After her treachery towards Dick, Lola could not look into his eyes without becoming conscious of the unworthy part she had played.

She had lied to him, thinking to win him to herself.

Yet, when he should discover how false her words had been, would he ever again put faith in her?

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U.S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 108 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 18.—The stock market was rather nervous. The London market was steady and rather above parity, but the foreign operations in the issues were featureless. The money market was expected to rule easier in the near future. The labor situation was still the subject of more or less comment. There is still a lot of conflicting comment with regard to Pennsylvania, Steel, Copper and Sugar. Some of the specialties sold on the better levels. Room traders continued in control of the general situation during the greater part of the day. Outside stocks were dull but steady.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The wheat market displayed considerable strength to-day. The wheat coming out was taken quite freely by shorts who were nervous and the reports that some wheat had been frozen in the west. The cables were firm. The professional element did the bulk of the business. The corn market was firm, though there was some uncertainty in consequence of the mixed opinion over foreign advices. The export trade was slow. The crop news was more favorable. The late market was nervous and irregular, and there was an unsettled feeling on the close. The trade in oats was only moderate. The statistics attracted but little attention. The export demand was slow.

GOSCHEN HAS DOUBTS

What About Our Wheat in War-time

Neutral Ships Would Then be a Distinct Advantage—The Two-shilling Duty

The English mail last night brought Times of November 7, containing a report of Lord Goschen's notable speech before the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce on the probable economic results of corn duties. In the course of it he said:

The object of the 2s is to give preference to Canada and other wheat-growing portions of the empire, and with the object, besides giving a preference to the colonies, which I entirely share and sympathize with, of increasing the area of wheat-growing countries. If we could increase the corn-growing area in Canada I admit it would be a very great advantage, but there is no part of the case upon which we have had smaller information—that is, as to whether the 2s will be able to bring about the results especially when we are told that the 2s is not to raise the price of wheat in England. Now there is this difficulty which runs through the great portion of the policy of Mr. Chamberlain, that one never knows which of two alternatives he proposes ultimately to be the point on which he will take his stand. Supposing in regard to the 2s there is no rise in the price of bread in England, then the Canadian farmer will not get more than 2s and the expansion will not take place, but an expansion, a great expansion, is now in progress. Already economical causes are at work, and to that flourishing colony and proceeding farmers who are increasing the wheat-growing capacity of the great colony. But the desire to see wheat-growing increasing in Canada is stimulated by two other views. One is that the United States will not be able ultimately to produce enough for themselves, and therefore we should not be able to rely upon Canada, and the other that any of the great nations that supply us now might be able to starve us out and that then we might depend upon Canada, our own colony, for our supplies.

Canada and the Corn Supply.

There is a great oblivion underlying these general views—namely, the oblivion to the existence of what I will call the world's market. Supposing one country were to endeavor to exclude us and not to send us any wheat, prices would rise here. We would be immediately supplied in greater quantities by the other countries from which we are drawing our supplies, and the country which wishes to starve us out would be sending her corn to the identical countries which are supplying the deficiency she herself has caused. In this general controversy it is forgotten too much that there are world markets and that if you draw less from one country the balance is likely to be made up by your trade with another, and that there are continual circular tours being made by commodities, bills of exchange, and so forth, regarding the commerce of the country. There is absolutely nothing in the starving out theory, because if one country attempts it, the others will supply us with what we want, and the gap will be made up. The other difficulty—namely, that the United States may want corn for themselves, and that therefore we ought to rely upon Canada, leads me to suggest this. Supposing that through through larger demands with a permanent supply, and with a non-progressive supply in the United States, the prices were to go up, and the United States were supplying us less with corn, would Canada immediately send the corn to us, or what security have we got that the corn in Canada would not go across the frontier in order to supply the Americans with corn which they themselves would get short of?

The World's Market.

Again, it is a question of the world's market. You cannot indicate a particular country and say that that particular country is going to supply us. It would be indeed unwise if we were to break our connections with other corn-growing countries, wishing to rely simply on our own colonies. It sounds good, it has something in it which appeals to one, but I do not know that it is wise. But, I say our critics, "Would it not be well in time of war that we should rely upon our colonies to send us corn, and should we not encourage Canada on that ground?" Let us assume that the United States is in either neutral or hostile. If the United States were hostile I do not know that there would be any great advantage. We should have a very great difficulty in getting out corn from Canada, and the duties on the navy would be great; but if the United States were neutral in time of war we should have the great advantage of being able to draw upon the United States rather than Canada, because the United States, being a neutral State, their whole interest would lie in shipping their wheat from the United States. It would come in neutral ships and would relieve—and here I speak as an old First Lord of the Admiralty—it would relieve the navy of the immense anxiety of having to convoy all the British ships which would be bringing us corn. A neutral supplying us with wheat in time of war, would, I say, be a distinct advantage to us from that point of view. There is nothing unpatriotic in that at all. I saw an explanation at a public meeting when this view was put forward, "Why not bring it in our own ships?" Well, if the American ships are neutral and ours belligerents and you have to turn away from the other duties of the navy a large force of cruisers in order to convoy Canadian ships, I say you have still, to a great extent, surety of a supply from large, powerful, neutral nations, such as the United States, determined to bring food to British markets. No theories there! I suppose these are all clear facts business men can understand.

Would It be Final?

That are the 2s to be final? Supposing the Canadians want more, will they get it? Supposing we come on to that inclined plane which leads from tax to tax, from step to step, for one reason on account of a very remarkable pledge that has been given by Mr. Chamberlain to the working classes that in no case shall the cost of living be increased to them by his proposals—an undertaking that requires some boldness to give, but there it is, and therefore it appears to me that, as some of us contend that the 2s already will raise the price of food, it is beyond the scope of his policy. And I say that with perfect neutrality. It may be well that the fear should be dispelled, but I think that Mr. Chamberlain is pledged not to go beyond the 2s, and if so, how are the Canadians to get all those benefits which they anticipate from this taxation? We may have put a tax where we may not have helped Canada, but we shall have increased the price of food in this country. I think that is a very serious matter. And then there are Mr. Chamberlain's agricultural allies. I do not know whether they think the 2s is going to be final. My belief is that some of those who flocked to his standard would be really in their heart deeply disappointed if they thought that all their protectionist methods were to end in a trifle like 2s upon corn, by which not a single additional acre would be cultivated and not one single man be taken back to cultivate the land—I think it would be found that that old guard of protection, those reservists of protection, would disperse with sad countenances to their unprotected homes.

Prospectus

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore, There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles farther away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-feet level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO, Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Splitting Headaches

CAN BE STOPPED AND THE CONDITIONS WHICH CAUSE THEM CURED BY FERROZONE

Poisons accumulate in the blood and spread with it every movement to all parts of the body. The brain becomes subjected, the nerves irritated, and the result is that awful headache so well known to the female sex.

Most of these poisons are absorbed into the blood from the waste matter that has accumulated in the intestines resulting from indigestion. Matter which should be promptly passed from the system through natural channels.

Ferrozone cleanses the entire intestinal tract, and the liver and kidneys as well. It cures constipation and its many attendant evils. It makes the body strong and the blood pure, induces natural sleep and enables one to eat and drink anything at any time without risk of headache, nervousness or skin eruptions.

Ferrozone is nature's own remedy for headaches. It is a lasting potent tonic and the greatest health maker the world has ever seen. It masters all female derangements, and restores weak, sickly women to a healthy vigorous condition of mind and body.

No other remedy so effectually meets the requirements of a health giving tonic and regulator as Ferrozone. Every woman and growing girl can derive marvellous benefit from its regular use, and if you suffer from Chlorosis, Anaemia, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Poor Appetite, Nervousness or female disorders of any kind, you can make no mistake in selecting Ferrozone for a cure.

Every reliable druggist recommends and sells Ferrozone for 50 cents a box. Be sure you get the genuine article, and refuse a substitute. Remember the name and insist on only Ferrozone. Sent to your address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Bettes, who for six years has been a valued employe of Mr. Adam Hall, was presented with a purse of money by the employes of the establishment, on the occasion of his departure for Waubaushene, where he and Mrs. Bettes will reside in future. It is hoped that Mr. Bettes' health, which has been rather poor lately, will be greatly improved by the change.

A Bold Robbery

While away on a deer hunt Mr. F. M. Cobb's residence was broken into and a number of articles stolen. VanNorman, who has been arrested. It is altogether likely the balance of the stolen property will be recovered.

Time Extended for Cutting Timber

The Government has decided to extend the time for cutting the timber on the limits that will be offered for sale on December 9 from ten years to fifteen years. The regulation at first was that no licenses should issue after the expiration of ten years from April 30 next for cutting timber from these limits, and that all timber remaining on the limits after that should become the property of the Crown. Representations were made to the Government that this time would not be sufficient for removing the timber.

Lindsay Collegiate Institute

The Alumni Association will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the institute on July 1 and 2 1904.

New Ontario Timber Limits

As the time approaches for the sale of timber limits in the North Bay district, which is to take place in Toronto on the 9th prox., interest in the matter increases. Over a dozen of the townships, which are to be offered for sale, are in close proximity to North Bay, and, as all the timber will probably be brought over the Temiskaming & Northern Railway to be sawn and shipped, people are naturally keenly alive to the importance of the matter from a business standpoint. Nothing definite can be decided on until after the sale; but it is almost certain that a large sawmill will be erected at North Bay for this purpose. The advertisement of sale is to be found in another column.

HUNTING THAT IS HUNTING

A Party of Six Kill 27 Deer in Six Days

Talk about deer hunting, the hunters of the present day are not in it, as compared with old time sports. Of course the law now does not permit a man to kill more than two deer, where as a few years ago there was no limit.

About seventeen years ago Mr. George Cochrane and Mr. Gordon, of Lakefield, shot nine deer each in six days at Eagle Lake. The whole party of six hunters killed 27 deer in the week, and this without dogs or the modern Winchester rifle. Had the party been armed with this weapon they would probably have killed 100 deer.

Mr. Cochrane on this occasion shot four deer without leaving his tracks, and fired at another. In those days venison was plentiful and cheap, and although large numbers of deer were killed, little was allowed to go to waste.

THE LATE MR. DENNIS O'BRIEN

An Old and Respected Resident of Douro Township

On Tuesday last there passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, Mr. Dennis O'Brien, an old and esteemed resident of Douro at the age of 63 years. Mr. O'Brien leaves a widow who was the daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Buck, of Otonabee, and six children, two sons, Thomas, on the homestead, and Dennis in North Dakota and four daughters, Lillie, Katie and Mary at home and Sister Benedict of the Good Shepherd Convent, Toronto. It has been the fifth death in the family in the last three years, three of his daughters and a son dying within ten months of each other. His half-brother, Frank Cleary of Buffalo, N.Y. is home for the funeral which will take place on Friday morning at nine o'clock from his late residence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery, Douro.

Scheme for Sewerage

mains; but it was too late then, as no provision had been made in the estimates for such a purpose. One strong reason to making further water works extensions under present conditions is that under existing arrangements with the Peterborough Water Commissioners, the Village has to pay 5 per cent. on the cost of all mains, and at the prevailing high rate of labor and material Ashburnham would soon be eaten up with taxes for fire protection. For instance if we spent say $1,000 in this direction we would have to pay 5 per cent. to the Water Commissioners, 4 per cent. interest on money borrowed, and 2 per cent. on sinking fund—a total of 11 per cent. or $110 on the $1,000. What the Village needs is a pumping system of its own. We are now paying to the Peterborough Water Commissioners $400 a year for fire protection, together with half the revenue collected from water consumers, which latter item amounted last year to over $362. At present there is not, the Reeve thought, sufficient revenue in sight to warrant the village paying 5 per cent. to the Commissioners on additional extensions; but just as soon as conditions justified the expenditure, and the money was voted, he had no doubt that the water works would be further extended.

Mr. Fair remarked that he would not be benefitted by the proposed outfall sewer, but he heartily endorsed the scheme in the interests of the village generally.

The above resolution was then put to vote and carried almost unanimously.

Col. J. Z. Rogers, in moving the resolution, said that as the village is growing a system of sewerage will have to be forthcoming, and now is the time to make a start.

Reeve Adams, in closing the meeting, remarked that the question of union with Peterborough did not hinge on the sewerage scheme, whatever; each stands independent of the other.

As to annexation with the town, the matter was not taken up generally, and no opinion expressed, pro or con.

A Quart Baby.

Now and again there is an item in the newspapers concerning the birth of a puny baby so small that a quart cup holds it comfortably. If the article told all the facts it would probably tell also of a mother who in weakness and misery had looked forward to the baby's advent with shrinking and fear.

To have fine, healthy children the mother must be healthy, and it is the common testimony of mothers that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only promotes the mother's health but also gives her strength to give her child.

"Favorite Prescription" accomplishes these results by tranquilizing the nerves, promoting a healthy appetite, and giving refreshing sleep. It increases physical vigor and gives great muscular elasticity, so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It is the best of tonics for nursing mothers.

"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mila, Northumberland Co., Va. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been from birth, and I suffered very much less than I ever did before. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 50 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 31 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Otonabee Waters

an expression of their views with regard to the uniting of their interests in the head waters of the Trent River System, with those of the Dominion Government—Carried.

Continuing Mr. Kilbourn said that there should be a fund in order that things be kept moving in this very important matter. He said that Jack's Lake and Eel's Lake, twenty miles from town, would if properly dammed, give a flow of ten thousand cubic feet a minute for two months. He thought each member of the association should be assessed, according to power used, in order to obtain finances for obtaining an authorative estimate with regard to matters pertaining to the conservation of waters in these lakes. Practically nothing had been done up to date. The first step to be taken was to ascertain what Government would eventually have to be approached on the subject.

Mr. Kilbourn moved, that the members of the committee appointed be Messrs. W. T. Boyd, J. C. Shook, and the mover. This was carried. He also agreed on behalf of his company to put up $100 if others would contribute likewise in proportion as the nucleus of a fund for carrying on the work of the association.

Mr. Kilbourn's suggestion was favorably received, assurances being given that no difficulty would be experienced in providing funds.

INDIAN RIVER.

Mr. Wasson, of Warsaw, addressed the meeting, complaining that he as a power owner had not been properly treated in the regulation of the dam on Indian River. His mill had been standing idle for three months in the summer, and what he asked was twenty inches of an underflow and no monkeying with the stoplogs by caretakers.

Mr. Edmison pointed out that the advisable way of adjusting the matter, would be by the agreement of water users on the Indian River and on the Otonabee on the amount of water to be used at Warsaw.

Mr. Meldrum suggested that representatives of the interests concerned should meet and consider the question involved in a friendly way. Mr. Edmison embodied this in a resolution, and that the committee so appointed report at next meeting.

The regulation of the waters from Stony Lake down was also a question which will be dealt with by the committee, the members of which are Messrs. Kilbourn, Patterson and Wasson.

Mr. Meldrum pointed out that the owners of power below Lakefield were determined to have the flow of water properly regulated, if there was any law for it.

Mr. Kilbourn replied that so far as the Government was concerned they had no control over water other than that required for navigation. His company had the right under the seal of the Government to the first use of the water, and he threw down the challenge that he was prepared for any lawsuit that might be brought. He denied that his company had put in the stoplogs and deprived users below of a supply of water, but on the other hand the greatest care had been exercised. In reply to Mr. Paterson, Mr. Kilbourn stated the law was that a power user had the right to use whatever water he required in a reasonable manner. He had heard of a case where a court decided that a man was acting reasonably when he put in his logs at night to secure a head and deprived other users of a large supply for the time being. But no power users could interfere with the requirements of navigation.

Mr. Rogers stated that beyond the rights of navigation his instructions were that the users at Young's Point could regulate the surplus. He pointed out that there was necessity for agreement of the power users in the creation of a uniform flow.

Mr. Kilgour asked if electricity was more important than bread. The law, he held, should have been framed in favor of the manufacture of the latter, for here was a case, Mr. Wasson's, where a man could not run his flour mill. He said he had not taken any action until he found that power users below were permitted to take from him his head at Young's Point until it had been reduced from seven to five feet and it had been there ever since.

Mr. Rogers pointed out that Mr. Kilbourn's idea of navigation, was the lock at Young's Point only, whereas it meant the entire canal.

Mr. Patterson moved, seconded by Mr. Shook, a vote of thanks to Mr. Rogers for information given.

The committee decided to go to Toronto to interview the Government next Monday.

The meeting adjourned.

Strickland, our veteran sportsman, did not go to camp this year, but contented himself with making a duck-shooting expedition to Burleigh. Early one morning he surprised himself by bagging two fine bucks, one of them being of extraordinary proportions.

—Last Thursday evening the Dixon Co.'s mill, which has been operated from April 1st, closed down for the season. Eighty employes will spend the winter in the company's camps to the north of the village. Mr. John Thompson, manager of the mill, states that the season's cut will approximate nine million feet. Last week Mr. Robert Maniece, in charge of the shipping department, sent one hundred thousand feet of pine to Havana, and two hundred thousand feet to Skilling, Whitney and Barnes, of Ogdensburg, N.Y.

—Tuesday Mr. Sherman Garbutt drove into town with a load of cheese. He had tied his team to the box car, into which he was loading the cheese, when his horses took fright at one of the G.T.R. engines and bolted in the direction of the Craig House. In their course they carried away two panels of Mr. Craig's wire fence, and badly damaged the wagon. Then, after a mad race down Main street, they were brought to a standstill without doing any further mischief.

—On Monday evening a meeting was held in the Town Hall forthe purpose of organizing the Curling Club. Great enthusiasm characterized the assembly; consequently, the success of the "roarin' game" this season is assured. Mr. F. Amos, last year's president, occupied the chair, till the new officers were elected. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. T. W. Ridpath, and approved. The followed the reading of the financial statement. Moved by Mr. C. J. Tanner, and seconded by Mr. Levi Payne, that the financial statement be received.—Carried. The membership fee was placed at $5.00. The election of officers reulted as follows. Hon-president, Mr. E. R. Tait; president, Mr. R. P. Davidson; vice-president, Mr. Aubrey Kilbourne; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Chas. Tanner; committee of management, Dr. W. A. Baker, Messrs. J. W. Ridpath, Levi Payne, J. C. Rapsis and G. C. Gryllis.

—About one-eighth mile of road from the top of Patrick's hill to the four corners has undergone extensive repairs, under the supervision of pathmaster, Mr. Archibald Yonge. A solid stone sluiceway was built at the four corners, which will do away with the spring freshets. A culvert was also constructed opposite Mr. Patrick's gate. Through this a one-piece cement pipe was laid. After the road had been straightened and graded by a three-team machine, a substantial macadamized bed was laid. On the top of this a good coat of gravel was placed, making one of the best pieces of highway in Peterborough County. The Government granted $160, the balance of the cost being defrayed by the Township.

—The Dixon Co. are putting in a new wheel for Mr. Chas. Farrar. Through the generosity of the firm, Mr. Farrar is now running his dynamo with the power derived from the mill. The race is being enlarged; hence, when the new wheel is placed, the village will enjoy superior light.

—The repairs to the tail-race of the Young's Point plant have been completed, under the supervision of Mr. Edward Wade. This has resulted in giving the Lakefield Portland Cement Co. one hundred additional horse power.

—Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Mount Julian, and his brother, Mr. J. Thompson, of Toronto, were in town Saturday.

—Mr. Wm. Junkin, of Bobcaygeon, made on examination of No. 1 dam Monday and Tuesday. He found it in tolerably good condition, there being only a few small leaks.

—Membership tickets for the Lakefield Curling Club are selling rapidly.

SEEK WAR WITH TURKEY

Bulgarian and Servian Officers Plan Combin Attack

Sofia, Nov. 18.—Previous reports of a conspiracy of Bulgarian and Servian officers to provoke war with Turkey have been officially confirmed. According to these reports Turkey was to be attacked by the combined armies of the two countries.

A search of the officers quarters at Philippopolis, Tirhova and other places in Bulgaria, it was said, revealed compromising letters and revolutionary documents directed against Prince Ferdinand. This latter part of the rumor, however, proves to be untrue.

It is said that a number of young officers of Macedonian nationality planned to create a casus belli by forcing a conflict on the frontier. The minister of war has ordered the removal of 140 officers.

Delaware, O., Nov. 18.—Prince Too, second son of the Emperor of Corea, who has been a student here since the college year began, left today for Washington, and it is said he will not return. "Persecution" by students is said to be the cause of his departure. A few nights ago burglars entered his apartments and he was forced to see his valuables taken while a masked man aimed a revolver at him.

Weather Notes

Friday—A few local snow flurries; not much change in temperature.

ILLTREAT NEGROES

White People of Mississippi Burn Their Cabins

New Orleans, La., Nov. 18.—Race riots of large proportions are in progress in Scott and Smith Counties, Mississippi. The white residents have whipped the occupants of numerous negro cabins, burned the homes and driven the victims from the State. The negroes have been forced to flee, while their crops remain unharvested.

Despicable Duplicity

Berlin, Nov. 18—The Tageblatt and National Zeitung yesterday printed strong comments on what they describe as "the despicable duplicity" of the United States in the Panama affair.

Three Reds Arrested

Rome, Nov. 18—The Messagero today announced that three anarchists had been arrested at Milan in connection with a plot against the life of the President of Switzerland, M. Deucher.

TO FIGHT PNEUMONIA

National Move in States to Lessen Death Rate

Cold-Weather Pest Maintains Its Lead Over Consumption in List of Deaths

Chicago, Nov. 18—The Chicago Health Bureau is trying to arouse a national crusade against pneumonia, whose list of victims in this city by far exceeds that of consumption in the cold weather months. Belated returns from the county medical institutions increased the latter disease's record last week, but pneumonia still leads, says the latest department bulletin.

"For the first fortnight of the month eighty-two deaths from consumption have been reported, and 135 deaths from pneumonia—an excess of nearly two-thirds of the latter," reads the bulletin. "There are gratifying indications, however, of increasing interest in the pneumonia problem. Eastern medical periodicals have very generally reprinted the statistics of the growth of the disease furnished in recent issues of the bulletin, and one journal editorially asks: 'Why not a crusade against pneumonia as well as against consumption!'"

One Cause for All Diseases.

"Another says: 'It is evident the gain from the crusade against tuberculosis has been largely offset by the increased malignancy of pneumonia. The fact is suggestive and even alarming.

"'The pneumonia is not without parallel in other diseases. Are we reaching a condition in the struggle to lessen the general death rate when the reduction of the mortality from one disease will result in a corresponding increase in that from another? If so the conclusion can only be is that there is one cause common to both diseases. Are the ravages of the bacillus of tuberculosis and the diplococcus of pneumonia dependent upon this deeper casual factor? The old question of seed and soil again rises.

Has that of the soil been too much neglected?'"

One of the reasons for the great efforts made to fight consumption and the comparative indifference towards pneumonia, it is held, is that the average duration of a case of consumption is about fifty weeks, while that of pneumonia averages only four weeks. Moreover, the consumptive is largely in evidence to the public; until actually bedridden; his sufferings, emaciation, racking cough, all that make up "consumption's ghastly form," are in view for months, often for years, before the end. On the other hand the sudden onset of pneumonia and its rapid course are witnessed only be the family, a friend or two, and the medical attendant.

Temperance Lesson Preached.

Out of every 100 alcoholics attacked by the disease, it is declared, seventy will die, while out of every 100 nonalcoholics so attacked, only twenty-three will die. "While the difficulty of providing a special treatment will be recognized, it should not be a cause for despair," reads the report. "Rather, in view of the marvelous results of the efforts for the restriction and prevention of consumption—its death rate cut in two in fifty years—it should be an incitement to similar effort against this new captain of the men of death. Without abating one jot or tittle of the crusade against tuberculosis, let us also have a crusade against pneumonia. There need be no magnifying the one, and belittling the other. As the two most destructive diseases of modern life, each is worthy the best energies of all workers in the field of preventive medicine."

Thus far November is maintaining the record for lowest death rate among all the two months, with June a close second The rate for the first two weeks was 13.27 as compared with 13.76 for the corresponding weeks of last year.

Trouble but No Strike

Montreal, Nov. 18—Despatches received at the offices of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company today from Mr. D. Baker, the general manager, state that he does not anticipate any strike among the employes. The laying off of a number of men has caused some trouble but he did not think it would become any more serious.

General Sports

W. A. Buchanan, secretary O. H. A. sends out the following official bulletin from St. Thomas:

The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held in the Temple Building, Toronto, on Saturday, Dec. 5, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning, when all the delegates are requested to be present.

Saturday, Nov. 21, is the last day for receiving amendments to the constitution.

Nominations for officers and members of the Executive will not be received after Saturday, Nov. 28.

VIC'S TEAM FOR SATURDAY.

The Victorias had a fine signal practice last night in preparation for their game on Saturday with Peterborough at Jesse Ketchum Park. J. Yeaman will probably play quarter in the match, while Henderson will move up to the wing line. The team will line up as follows:—Back, Toose; half-backs, Robinson, Gowan and Cotton; quarter-back, J. Yeaman; centre, Brown; forwards, Sheppard, Whale, McWhirter, Palmer, Pitcher, A. Yeaman, Henderson and York.

Stood on Brink Of Awful Death

A Shower of Bricks Falling About Them as They Fled From Explosion.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPES IN NEWMARKET WORKS

Last Words of Fireman Birch Were a Reply to a Jest by Fellow Workman

Newmarket, Nov. 19—"Who is responsible for the explosion?" is the question on everyone's lips in Newmarket. What caused the boiler explosion in the United Factories Works and the consequent death of John Alnew and Frank Birch and the injury of nine men is a mystery. There are three theories:

The boilers may have been overheated.

The water may have run low.

The boiler may have been defective.

As to the first two suppositions, the two men who could probably have told more are dead. They were the firemen, and the engineer, Henry Trivett, is too badly hurt to tell his story. Trivett was in charge, and his competency to fill the position was immediately questioned. He is not the regular engineer, but is employed in the factory as a laborer. The engineer, Alexander Letter, was away, owing to the death of his mother, and Trivett was taking his place. It is stated in the town that Trivett has not an engineer's certificate, and that his experience in the care of the boilers was gained in running a threshing engine years ago.

"I would not say Trivett is to blame," said the superintendent, Mr. Henry Cane. "He has been in charge of the boilers before, and has been a trusted employe for from 15 to 18 years."

"Has he a certificate?" was asked.

"I think he has," answered the superintendent."

The third supposition, that the boiler was defective, seems the most probable The boiler was made in three sections and riveted together in overlapping joints. It parted where the rivets pierced the iron.

The boiler was inspected by a qualified inspector of the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company within the month, and pronounced sound. Officers of the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company visited the scene yesterday. They made a thorough examination, but would assign no cause for the disaster. The boiler plate measured more than the required thickness.

Big Chimney Damaged.

The possibility of another accident, as disastrous as the one yesterday morning, is today worrying the factory's management. The base of the great brick smoke-stack, some 120 feet in height, was badly damaged, and it is feared that the immense pile may fall. A strong wind might throw it over. The chimney will have to be taken down.

Besides the immense portion blown away the third seams in the bricks at this chimney bear testimony to the force of the explosion. Bricks were knocked from the very top by flying missles. Early Wednesday morning it was brick red; today it white from top to bottom. Whether the change in color was caused by the steam or the flying ashes and dust is not known.

This morning Coroner Greenwood opened an inquest upon the bodies of the dead, but merely the formalities were concluded, and an adjournment made for one week, to allow the attendance of the injured men. Doctors Debb and Greenwood expect that all will recover.

This morning a check for $850 was sent by the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company to Superintendent Cane, to be divided as he sees fit among the widows of the two dead firemen and the injured Engineer Trivett. Besides this, the employers benefit fund will pay the funeral expenses of the two firemen and provide half wages for the injured men till back at work.

The insurance carried by the accident company, besides the $850 on the engineer and firemen, amounted to $6,500. The damage done by the explosion will not be covered by less than $10,000, and the factory will be idle for from two weeks to a month. In the meantime work will probably be found for the 300 employes of the factory. Immediately after the explosion, at 9 o'clock 65 men were set at clearing away the debris, and by afternoon 225 men were working.

A Dreary Scene.

A more dismal scene could scarcely be imagined than that presented at the rear of the works this morning, though the gangs of men have worked like bees clearing away the debris which covers the floor of what was once the engine room. The ruin could not be more complete.

The roof is gone. No one vestige of it remains except odd pieces two and three feet square scattered over the roof of the factory, along the road, and through the fields for 200 yards surrounding. The engine room walls are simply gone. Not one brick stands upon another. They lie in dusty heaps or are scattered in the fields around.

By actual measurement bricks were strewn thick along the road to a distance of 225 yards from where the explosion occurred. One brick struck the house of Mr. Van Norman, 200 yards away, and a fire brick which was placed beneath the boiler was hurled through the air an equal distance. Across the road from the factory a scantling ten or twelve feet long standing upright through the roof of a house tells a story of flying missles. The heavy trunk steam pipe connecting the four boilers and weighing hundreds of pounds, was broken in two, and hurled in opposite directions. One half was thrown completely over the corner of the two-storey factory. The heavy iron girders fastening the boilers in place were wrenched from their rivets and bent and twisted like straws One girder thirty feet in length, was hurled into the air, coming down on the machine shop, and cutting through the roof like a knife. Sections of the steam piping weighing five and six hundred pounds are scattered in the fields a hundred feet away. One section came through the roof of the washboard department, cutting a rafter in its flight. The roof of the three departments is riddled with bricks and irons as though exposed to a fusilade from rapid-fire cannon.

The scenes of the panic which followed the explosion, as described by the men themselves, would be ludicrous were it not for the seriousness of the situation. There was suddenly a terrific roar, the building trembled as in an earthquake, then came the crash of bricks and girders cutting through the room, and immediately the rooms were filled blindingly thick with steam and dust.

The men dashed for the open air. In their mad rush down the stairs in the haze of the dust and steam, it is strange that no one was trampled under foot.

The men in the upper flat of the machine shop were cut off from all exit except down stairs leading to the boiler room, and over the balconies used to connect the three departments. They rushed for the balconies and leaped one after the other to the ground below, a distance of some twenty feet. Jack Kennedy in the extremity of his fright, is said to have taken a flying leap through a window, a distance of some fifteen feet.

Their precipitate flight was not without reason, for more than one brick or iron missle came hurtling through the roof to where a workman was standing a moment before.

"Run! said Mr. S. P. Armitage, who was in the washboard works. "I guess we did run. There wasn't a man in the building who didn't run."

Close Calls.

Perhaps there was no man more puzzled and frightened than Charles Lundy. Mr. Lundy is a farmer, and was jogging comfortably down the town line towards Newmarket when suddenly there came a mighty roar, and then a shower of bricks. One struck his rig, and Farmer Lundy ducked and turned white. He had never been in a thunderstorm before when the clouds rained bricks.

There were many miraculous escapes, but perhaps the closest call was that of William Gilkes. He was talking to Frank Birch, the now dead fireman, when the explosion occurred. Luckily for Gilkes, he was standing just outside the engine room door, while poor Birch, not three feet away, was inside.

"You're a horrible hog, Frank," said Gilkes, in a bantering tone, as he lifted a cup of water to his lips. "How many times do you ear per day?"

"Oh, four, five, or six times," answered the fireman, laughing, and he turned on his heel toward the boilers.

These were the last words Birch ever spoke. The sentence was scarcely complete when with a terrific roar he was blown sixty feet away, and with his head crushed and his body terribly scalded he lay dying beside one half of a great iron boiler.

Gilkes' lips never reached the water. Protected by the wall from the rushing steam, which peeled the skin off the fireman, he dodged or was blown beneath an iron covered verandah and so escaped the shower of bricks.

"I am the luckiest man in Newmarket," he said, solemly.

Fireman Agnew, terribly scalded, was buried beneath a pile of bricks, and killed instantly.

Another close but not so complete an escape was that of James Farnham, a young man of 25 years of age, who was tending a machine next the wall of the tub factory and directly beside boiler No. 4. No. 4 was driven through the two brick walls into the room below him, and the wall below, driven in the wall above, fell out. Had it fallen in he would have been buried beneath the brick. As it was, he was badly scalded.

Had it been No. 4 which exploded instead of No. 3, the fatalities would probably have been half a hundred, for fifty men were working directly beside it.

BIG RUSH TO CANADA

Many Welsh Settlers Coming Here in the Spring

Montreal, Nov. 18.—Mr. Alfred H. James, of Swansea, Wales, reached the city today. When seen by a reporter, Mr. James spoke of the conditions, commercial and otherwise that existed in the little principality of which Swansea is one of the chief seaport towns. There was a great movement among the farming and working classes of Wales towards emigration, and Canada would, during the next few years, receive a large number of Welsh people. Mr. James has been through the West, and is enthusiastic concerning the future that that part of the Dominion offers to settlers. He predicts a steady influx of Welshmen into Manitoba and the Territories.

MEMORY GOOD AT 133

Aged Colored Woman Smokes Pipe and Tells of Washington's Army

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Mary McDonald, probably the oldest living person in the United States, yesterday celebrated the one hundred and thirty-third anniversary of her birth in the home for aged and infirm colored persons. In spite of her great age Mrs. McDonald has a wonderfully clear memory and relates incidents of General Washington's camp at Valley Forge as if they were the occurrences of a few days ago. Among other things she tells how the patriots were supplied with food by the women of the neighborhood. She was born at Frogtown near Valley Forge, and raised in a Quaker family, the descendants of which have corroborated some of her statements regarding ancient dates. She has outlived every member of her family. Mrs. McDonald is an inveterate smoker, and one of her chief delights is an after-dinner pipe.

THE CITIES NOW OUST TRADE FROM CANADA

Englishman Complains of Loss of Trade Through Our Manufacturers

London, Nov. 19—At a meeting yesterday of the Wolverhampton Chamber of Commerce Member of Parliament, Shaw said that by far the greatest portion of the iron and steel imported into Great Britain was bounty-fed produce of Canadian mills and in the years to come Canada would be a more formidable rival to this country than the United States. Articles which we used to export to Canada were now made in the principal cities in the colony, and were ousting our goods. No amount of retaliation would alter such a state of things. In no single instance had a war of retaliation between two countries resulted to the good of either.

He is a Pessimist.

Charles Wilson, M.P., at a meeting of the Hull Chamber of Commerce and Shipping, said it had been said that if they carried on trade with the United States they might also with Canada, but there practice knowledge came in. There were the drawbacks of Hull's geographical position and the dangers of navigation on the St. Lawrence River, and besides these was a want of outward cargo. It was, Mr. Wilson held, utterly impossible that trade with Canada could ever be carried on from the east coast.

At a meeting of the Glasgow and West Scotland Agricultural Society a member said the free importation of grain and meat from the colonies, while the colonists shirked their due share of defence expenses, would be greatly unfair to the home agriculturalists.

NOT CHARLES EDMISTON.

London, Nov. 19.—Messrs. Parish & Hickson, solicitors, have received a cablegram asking that money be sent to Montreal to pay for the burial of Charles Edmiston, who is said to have been murdered there. They, however, say they will not send money until further light is thrown on the mystery. They are convinced that the man killed in Montreal is not the one they are in search of.

A CHURCH RESOLUTION.

London, Nov. 19.—The Council of the Imperial Protestant Federations has passed a resolution protesting against any effort being made by his Majesty's Government to establish diplomatic relations with the Vatican. The Council says in its resolution that its desire is to point out that the holding of such a commission with the See of Rome is distinctly forbidden by the laws of the realm, and that the overwhelming majority of his Majesty's subjects in the United Kingdom and the colonies are utterly opposed to any attempt being made to restore diplomatic relations with the Pop at Rome.

RETURNING TO CANADA.

London, Nov. 19—Mr. and Mrs. Drysdale of Nova Scotia sailed on the Bavarian today for Halifax.

CANADIAN MAIL CONTRACT.

London, Nov. 19—The Allan Line Company has secured the Canadian mail contract.

NOT YET SIGNED.

Ottawa, Nov. 19—The statement in the Canadian Associated Press despatches about the Allans having secured the Atlantic mail contract is premature.

The contract is not yet signed, nor will it be agreed to unless the company will undertake to give the Canadian route the benefit of faster boats.

Montreal, Nov. 19—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the guest at the annual banquet of the Laval University students last night. He spoke in a light way of his student days and made no reference to political affairs.

Hon. Mr. Prefontaine endorsed what the Premier had said in the House of Commons on Canada's right of power to make her own treaties with foreign countries. He asked if the time had not come when Canadians should demand some modification of the political mechanism. The fact was recalled that when leaving Canada twenty years ago, the Marquis of Lorne said, in reply to an address from the House of Commons, "You have the power to make treaties on your own responsibility with foreign nations, and your High Commissioner is associated for such negotiations with the Minister of Foreign Affairs. You are not the subjects, but the allies, of the great country which gave you birth."

Mr. Prefontaine continued: Has not the time come to ask for all that the words of the Marquis of Lorne would permit? Should we not have the right to negotiate with foreign countries without the presence of a third party? Canada is old enough to understand her own interests better than others could understand them."

Ottawa, Nov. 19—The first section of the new transcontinental line that will be rushed through to completion will be from Winnipeg to Lake Superior, so as to assist if possible the season after next in getting the Western wheat crop out to market. The Government's policy is to get the whole stretch from Moncton right through to Winnipeg—that is, the entire eastern division—under way as soon as the route can be located and the contracts awarded; but the link from the great lakes to the wheat fields is needed worst of all. From Winnipeg, meanwhile, the Grand Trunk Pacific will be laying its rails westward through the future granary of the Empire.

The main trunk line from Winnipeg east will not itself touch Lake Superior that connection will be effected by a branch either to Port Arthur or Port William, or to Nepigon, a port on the Canadian Pacific somewhat further east. Mr. Hays and his associates would probably prefer Port Arthur or Fort William, because reports say they are both of them open a little later in the fall and free from ice again earlier in the spring than Nepigon. Moreover, the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern have already captured the most desirable locations at Port Arthur and Fort William. The Grand Trunk Pacific, no doubt, would rather have a port all its own. Another thing about Nepigon is that a forty mile rail stretch would bring you to Lake Nepigon and furnish an easy means of getting in material for the construction of the trunk line from the north.

Mr. Conmee, by the way, has a railway charter for this road with subsidies both from the Federal and Provincial authorities.

Later on Mr. Hays will want connections between Montreal and the main line to the north. If this cannot be secured on favorable terms by means of the Montreal and Western, the Grand Trunk Pacific will lay a track of its own.

It is said that Mr. George A. Mountain of Ottawa, chief engineer of the Canada Atlantic railway, the man who superintended the extension of Mr. Booth's system through to Georgian Bay, may be offered the chief engineership of the eastern division of the new transcontinental highway, that is, the stretch the government is to construct from Moncton to Winnipeg.

Trying to Evade the Pressure of Austria and Russia

The Porte is Anxious and Would Like to Negotiate with the Bulgarians

Sofia, Nov. 19—The Porte has again sounded the Bulgarian Government on the subject of reopening direct negotiations. The Sofia Cabinet, though always anxious to maintain the best relations with the Porte, as a suzerain power could not at the present moment enter into arrangements which might be interpreted as forming a counter project to the Macedonian reform scheme, endorsed by the powers, of which Bulgaria will do nothing to impede the execution. The German Government deprecates the renewal of direct negotiations both at Sofia and Constantinople.

LIBRARIES A CURSE.

London, November 19— Rev. Richard Hobbs of Strathroy, a former Methodist parson in this city, in the course of a lecture delivered last evening said: "I am beginning to believe that our public libraries are becoming the greatest curse that exist. That which corrupts and paralyzes the mental faculties is read, and the substantial food is left. All this will be so until Christian men get hold of these institutions."

NEW MILITARY SCHOOL.

Montreal, Nov. 19—Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, yesterday afternoon met a delegation from the Montreal City Council, with whom he discussed the question of a military school on Montreal, and the removal of the military depot from its present quarters at St. Helen's Island. The city was willing to contribute $25,000 towards the building of the school. Sir Frederick said the present location of the military depot on St. Helen's Island was not satisfactory, and he thought if a suitable site could be found in the city the Government would have no objection to handing over the whole island to the city.

The civic delegation also suggested that the Government should assume the protection of the Montreal Islands, and a delegation will go to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Justice on the subject.

WORK FOR RECIPROCITY.

Detroit, Nov. 19—The Detroit Board of Commerce yesterday heard the report of the delegates who attended the Chicago gathering on reciprocity. It was voted at the Chicago meeting to proceed with the raising of a fund of $100,000 to further the work of securing Canadian reciprocity. The chairman was instructed to appoint a committee of five, with power to employ a capable secretary.

LIKES THE TARIFF.

Boston, Nov. 19—The doctrine of reciprocity was opposed in the report of Colonel Albert Clarke, the secretary, at the annual meeting of the Home Market Club yesterday.

—Calendars, Booklets and Xmas cards galore at Times Bookstore.

—A movement is on foot to ask every policeman in Canada to contribute $1 for a fund to be presented to Mrs. Barron wife of the late policeman of Hamilton, who was killed while attempting to arrest two burglars in that city a short time ago. The idea is a good one.

CAN MAKE MEN SOUND AND STRONG.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 208, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

ARCHDEACON'S ADDRESS.

The Archdeacon's annual address dealt with some live topics. He referred to the federation of Trinity with Toronto University, and emphasized the duty of churchmen to continue their support of the church's college. They should do everything possible to increase its usefulness, no matter how they viewed its change of condition. Strong language had been used by both sides in the discussion of federation, as was usual when men had strong and opposing convictions. There had been too little perhaps, of that Christian charity which "endureth all things and believeth all things."

The speaker had always thought that the young men of this Diocese might well receive their training in both Arts and Divinity in the same University. This would help unity of effort and beget more breadth of view. Had Trinity College had for its friends all the members of the church it would have been stronger financially and in every way. At all events, want of material strength would not have been a factor in accomplishing federation. "If the representatives of the various classes of opinion within the church should get together in the true spirit of brotherly love, it would be found as practicable for all young men to pursue learning in the same institution as for the members of our Church to use the same book of Common Prayer and to worship God in the same church."

The Archdeacon urged the importance of preserving the sanctity of the Lord's Day and advancing the work of temperance. He dealt briefly with Sunday School methods and concluded with a few words of warning against the danger of over-centralization in the business affairs of the Diocese.

The address was referred to a committee consisting of the Revds. Rural Dean Warren, E. Daniel, and R. J. Creighton, and Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

J. W. Bickle, Esq., read a paper on the question, "How best to preserve the sanctity of the Lord's Day." He pointed out the growing desecration of the day and advocated the Lord's Day Alliance as the only practical way of combatting the evil.

The Rev. E. Daniel followed with a warm endorsement of the Alliance, giving instances of its work in preventing the landing of Sunday excursions at Port Hope. He moved a resolution regretting the Sunday work required of the employees by railway companies and others and pledging support to the Lord's Day Alliance. The resolution was supported by Mr. Dennistoun, Rural Deans Marsh and Warren, and carried.

At 1 o'clock an excellent luncheon was served in the school room of All Saints by the ladies of that church. The school room had been prettily decorated and illuminated and the luncheon was a very pleasant affair. There was some happy after-dinner speeches. The Archdeacon proposed the King's health, which was enthusiastically honored. Rural Dean March proposed "The Archdeacon," and Dr. Allen responded. The Rev. W. R. Tandy proposed "The Ladies," and the Revs. R. J. Creighton and W. L. Armitage responded in their behalf. The Archdeacon proposed "The Clergy of Peterborough, and the Rev. J. C. Davidson replied.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

The afternoon session was opened with the hymn, "Sun of my Soul." Sunday school work was the afternoon subject. The Rev. W. C. Allen spoke on the parental influence in the Sunday school.

Mr. J. H. Knight's subject was "Sunday school libraries and their use." He dealt with the classes of books that should be included in the libraries. He advocated among other things, the placing of works in Church history on the library shelves. "Our Public School histories are falsified for peace sake. Some people find it to their advantage to say that the Church of England began with Henry VIII. Of course, if the Church of England came into existence in the sixteenth century, a church that began in the seventeenth or eighteenth century might have as good a right to exist. The apostolic origin of the church should be taught by the Sunday school library books.

The Rev. E. Daniel contributed a paper on "The Training of Teachers. He advocated a gradual remodelling of Sunday school buildings, so that the various grades might be taught in separate rooms, Teachers should be trained for their work on somewhat the same principle as that of the Model school, which prepares Public school teachers for their work. Dissatisfaction with present methods was a healthy sign and had in it promise of improvement.

The Rev. W. L. Armitage opened a general discussion, in the course of which several important questions came up and were discussed.

The Council of the Archdeaconry for the ensuing year was named as follows: The Archdeacon, the secretary, the Revds. Rural Dean Warren, Marsh, and Seward, Canon Spragge, John Creighton and J. Fenning, Messrs. Dennistoun, Knight and Eemester.

On motion of Rural Dean Marsh, it was decided to invite to future conferences all lay delegates to Synod, lay readers and church wardens.

A festival evening service was held in St. John's Church last night in connection with the meeting of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough. In addition to the clergy mentioned already, there were present the Revds. Dr. L. N. Tucker, secretary of the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church; R. Seaborn, M.A., of Bowmanville; J. McK. McLennan, of Norwood, A. B. Chaffee, of Coboconk, and others. The surpliced clergy and choir entered in procession singing the Hundredth Psalm. Evensong was said by the Rev. A. J. Fidler, M.A., and the Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A. The lessons were read by the Rev. A. B. Chaffee and the Rev. J. McK. McLennan.

The Rev. Dr. Rigby, Head Master of Trinity College School, Port Hope, preached an earnest sermon from II. Samuel, X., 12: "Be of good courage and let us play the man, for our people and for the cities of our God and the Lord do that which seemeth Him good."

The Archdeacon said the closing prayers, and the recessional hymn was, "The Church's One Foundation."

After the service a missionary meeting was addressed by the Rev. Dr. L. N. Tucker, General Secretary of the Missionary Society. Most of those present heard Dr. Tucker for the first time and all were deeply impressed by his forcible presentation of the church's problems in the west. He explained the return to primitive ideals by which every baptized member of the church had been constituted ipso facto, a member of the Missionary Society. One hundred and twenty five thousand people he said, had gone into our North-West during the past season. At least 25,000 or 30,000 of these would be church people. That means that the population of the whole diocese had gone into that country. The church which had done so much already for England and for the Empire or stand condemned in the sight of God and man.

Dr. Tucker spoke for a full hour, but was heard with unflagging attention. He had come from the midst of a financial campaign in the city of Montreal, where his work is meeting with wonderful success. It was very manifest to those who heard him last night that he is the unique man for the unique position that the church has created and called him to fill.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Morning prayer was said to-day at 9.30 a.m. in St. John's by the Rev. A. S. Dickinson, the Rev. E. Daniel reading the lessons. The Rev. Seaborn conducted a devotional hour, ending at 11 o'clock. At its conclusion the conference re-assembled in the school room. In the unavoidable absence of the Rev. W. L. Armitage, the Rev. W. R. Tandy acted as secretary. Dr. Tucker had to leave for Montreal, but left a message for the convention with the secretary. Arrangements were made in connection with missionary deputations next February.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

If she had loved him less, the struggle would not have been so bitter.

She yearned for some sign of tenderness from him—for him to acknowledge her passionate worship.

"I'd die at any moment to save him from harm," she thought, watching him, half in admiration, half in fear, as he performed one dangerous feat after another.

"But if I were to drop down dead before him, would he care? He'd go mad if he saw Mademoiselle Rosalie in peril—yet he'd ride over me as if I were dust!"

These broodings made Lola appear heavy and dull to the public.

She was a clever equestrienne, and was usually shown to advantage beside Dick, whose milk-white horse rode in pace with hers.

Nobody could understand what oppressed her—why her eyes were downcast, and her lips destitute of smiles.

Bob might have been able to explain matters.

But he was habitually reticent on what did not wholly concern himself.

And as long as Lola took her flying leaps over the silk banners, and alighted safely on her spangled pillion, there was nothing for him to be anxious about.

An instinct of coming danger weighed at Lola's heart on this particular night, and she scarcely for a moment took her gaze from Dick.

While she danced and sprang through the hoops, her curls fluttering, her gay little dress of tulle and tinsel flashing in the brilliant light, she was thinking of him, dwelling on every movement of his lithe form, as though he were a god who held the strings of her fate in his hands.

He was so brave, so wholly unconscious of the danger through which he passed night after night, as he threw himself about on his horse while the animal almost flew around the ring.

Suddenly it struck her there was something wrong with Dick's horse.

Twice it slackened its pace when Dick sprang into the air, and each time he had a narrow escape of missing the horse and falling to the ground.

A chill hand seemed to clutch Lola's heart.

She held her breath, a wild fear stifling her, lest the animal should fail him again, and by pausing, for one fatal second, arrive too late to catch Dick as he vaulted towards it.

She went through her own performance mechanically, heeding but vaguely the loud applause that greeted her graceful feats.

"There is something wrong with Zep," she said as they rode, a few moments, side by side. "Don't do any more to-night, it is not safe. I will do extra, so that you need not leave the horse again."

He looked at her half scornfully—he had not forgotten she had brought him the news that had caused him so much pain.

"You will not be warned," she said, guessing the cause of his silence. "Yet I have a horrible feeling that some danger is hanging over the place tonight. Don't go round again."

The quiver in her voice touched him in spite of himself.

"I think Zep will be all right now," he replied, gently. "If she halts this time I won't go round any more tonight."

The music began afresh as the clown ceased the usual volley of time-worn sayings, and Dick and Lola recommenced their wild canter.

Lola watched Dick with a beating heart, but the horse went round as it had always done until that night—lightly, swiftly, its hoofs scarcely seeming to touch the ground.

As their horses ran together once more, Dick turned a fearless, smiling face to Lola, as though to assure her all was right.

At the same time, from some unaccountable fright, caused no one knew how, Zep came to a sudden stop; then, snorting loudly, reared right upon its haunches with such unexpected force that Dick was flung from its back.

He was on his feet in an instant, just as the horse started round the ring at full gallop.

"Keep out of the way!" Dick cried, and setting his teeth hard, he commenced a hot, frantic pursuit, that made the spectators hold their breath as they watched him.

Lola felt her blood freeze.

She knew that, now he had begun the chase, no one else would try to stop the horse.

He would soon win the wild race, and the incident would gain more applause from the excited audience than any of his former dauntless feats.

With the fleetness of a hare he sped after the maddened steed, and tried to fling himself on its back, but it changed its course so quickly that his efforts failed.

Once the horse ceased to run in a circle, and bounded in every direction; some men entered the ring to stop it before it could harm anyone.

They were too late.

Galled to madness by his own defeat, Dick grew reckless, and, filled with the one burning desire to redeem himself in the eyes of those watching himself, he gave a great bound, intending to alight on the animal's back.

The horse reared as it saw him coming, and Dick fell, in a cloud of dust and sand, just beneath the horse's head.

Terrified by the shrieks that arose, he plunged forward, planting two heavy, prancing hoofs on Dick before she began another frantic gallop round the ring.

Lola, half dazed with anguish and horror, sprang from her own steed, and a low, shuddering cry escaped her as she saw a crimson stream dyeing the soft dust where Dick lay.

"He is dead! dead!" she cried, wringing her hands in a frenzy of despair. "The horse has killed him—he is dead!"

She followed the men who carried Dick gently from the ring.

The horse had been caught, now that the harm was done; but there was no more performance that night.

Dick was not dead, but he was badly hurt, and it was some time before he regained consciousness.

He struggled back to life to see Lola's white face bent above him, and to hear her voice calling his name in piteous tones.

"Lola," he murmured, speaking her name more gently than he had ever done before, "poor Lola!"

SEEK WAR WITH TURKEY

Bulgarian and Servian Officers Plan Combined Attack

Sofia, Nov. 19.—Previous reports of a conspiracy of Bulgarian and Servian officers to provoke war with Turkey have been officially confirmed. According to these reports Turkey was to be attacked by the combined armies of the two countries.

A search of the officers quarters at Philippopolis, Tirnova and other places in Bulgaria, it was said, revealed compromising letters and revolutionary documents directed against Prince Ferdinand. This latter part of the rumor, however, proves to be untrue.

It is said that a number of young officers of Macedonian nationality planned to create a casus belli by forcing a conflict on the frontier. The minister of war has ordered the removal of 140 officers.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 19.—Dealings in the stock market were small today, and tendency was irregular. The railroad news was quite favorable. The money market was more satisfactory. The labor situation continued to attract considerable attention. A good many of the inactive securities were taken up and they ruled strong. The general list in the latter par of the day was quiet and narrow. The late news was without feature. Outside stocks were quiet and steady, while bonds were dull and featureless throughout the day.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The operations in wheat, while only moderate, were interesting in consequence of the firmness evident at times, shorts were inclined to cover, though this was out of line with the views of the pit interests. The export business was slow and limited. The crop and weather conditions were regarded as bearish. The private advices from abroad were without special feature. The market was nervous, and the trade was disposed to look for feverish price variations, hence scalper profits were taken in the latter part of the day. The market for corn was strong. The crop news was still quite conflicting. The weather was considered favorable for the drying of the crop. The professional element generally continued to play for a scalping market, and quick turns were made by many interests.

BIG RUSH TO CANADA

Many Welsh Settlers Coming Here in the Spring

Montreal, Nov. 18.—Mr. Alfred H. James, of Swansea, Wales, reached the city today. When seen by a reporter, Mr. James spoke of the conditions, commercial and otherwise that existed in the little principality of which Swansea is one of the chief seaport towns. There was a great movement among the farming and working classes of Wales towards emigration, and Canada would, during the next few years, receive a large number of Welsh people. Mr. James has been through the West, and is enthusiastic concerning the future that that part of the Dominion offers to settlers. He predicts a steady influx of Welshmen into Manitoba and the Territories.

St. Catharines Well;

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A. Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal. Canada.

JAPAN IS DISSATISFIED

Negotiations with Russia are Progressing Too Slowly

Pekin, Nov. 18.—It is learned from a trustworthy source that Japan is dissatisfied with the progress of the negotiations between that country and Russia. The Japanese Parliament meets December 5, and the Government of Japan desires to be able to report that it has reached an agreement with Russia, as otherwise the Opposition party is certain to attack the Ministry, demand war with Russia, and, perhaps, inflame public sentiment to the war point.

It is pointed out that the negotiations have dragged recently, especially while the Czar, and his Foreign Minister, Count Lamsdorf, were absent from Russia.

The Japanese express the opinion that the object of Russia's policy has been to gain time to reinforce the army and navy in the Far East, also that she might be prepared for possible war.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—A semi-official note issued says: "The rumor circulated from Copenhagen and reproduced in the European press of the approaching resignation of Count Lamsdorf, the Foreign Minister, is absolutely without foundation. On his return from Darmstadt, Count Lamsdorf at once resumed his official duties."

MEMORY GOOD AT 133

Aged Colored Woman Smokes Pipe and Tells of Washington's Army

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Mary McDonald, probably the oldest living person in the United States, yesterday celebrated the one hundred and thirty-third anniversary of her birth in the home for aged and infirm colored persons. In spite of her great age Mrs. McDonald has a wonderfully clear memory and relates incidents of General Washington's camp at Valley Forge as if they were the occurrences of a few days ago. Among other things she tells how the patriots were supplied with food by the women of the neighborhood. She was born at Frogtown near Valley Forge, and raised in a Quaker family, the descendants of which have corroborated some of her statements regarding ancient dates. She has outlived every member of her family. Mrs. McDonald is an inveterate smoker, and one of her chief delights is an after-dinner pipe.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY DECISION

Canadian Police May Have to Abandon Two Posts

Ottawa, November 18.—Owing to the delimitation of the Alaska boundary made by the tribunal which recently sat in London, the North-West Mounted Police may have to abandon two of their posts in the Dalton Trail — the one at Wells and the other at Camp Pleasant. The Alaskan Tribunal decision gives the United States twenty miles more territory north-west of Chilkoot Pass than that enjoyed under the provisional boundary. Camp Pleasant, the more northerly of the two posts, is a beautiful location, and the buildings erected by the police were of a substantial and comfortable type.

HAZE AN EMPEROR'S SON

Ohio College Boys Drive Prince From School

Delaware, O., Nov. 18.—Prince Yee, second son of the Emperor of Corea, who has been a student here since the college year began, left today for Washington, and it is said he will not return. Persecution by students is said to be the cause of his departure. A few nights ago burglars entered his apartments and he was forced to see his valuables taken while a masked man aimed a revolver at him.

—A movement is on foot to ask every policeman in Canada to contribute $1 for a fund to be presented to Mrs. Barron wife of the late policeman of Hamilton, who was killed while attempting to arrest two burglars in that city a short time ago. The idea is a good one.

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H. N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 45 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

BRONCHITIS

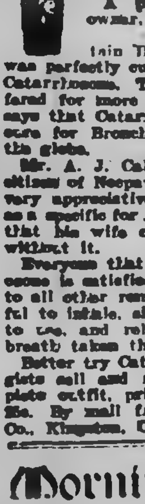
Scientifically Treated

The best authorities agree that bronchitis is treated most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which goes right to the root of the trouble

Bronchitis can be treated successfully only by a remedy carried direct to the affected parts along with the air breathed.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic and is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through all the air passages of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is exhaled through the nose.

The healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and reaches every part that is affected. No matter how deep-seated the bronchial irritation may be, Catarrhozone is sure to reach it. Catarrhozone protects and heals the mucous membrane, stops the cough, heals up the sores, and is guaranteed to bring speedy relief and sure cure.



By means of the inhaler Catarrhozone treats the local symptoms of bronchial trouble very effectually. ... and impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone, which is a wonderful tonic and stimulant for the entire system.

Ferrozone is a muscle and tissue builder, increases the appetite aids digestion and makes the body so healthy and strong that bronchitis goes away for good.

A prominent steamboat owner, well known through... Ontario, Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, was perfectly cured of Bronchitis by Catarrhozone. The Captain had suffered for more than 20 years, and says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for Bronchitis on the face of the globe.

Mr. A. J. Calhoun, a prominent citizen of Neepawa, Manitoba, speaks very appreciatively of Catarrhozone as a specific for Bronchitis, and states that his wife could not get along without it.

Everyone that has used Catarrhozone is satisfied that it is superior to all other remedies. It is delightful to inhale, simple and convenient to use, and relieves from the first breath taken through the inhaler.

Better try Catarrhozone. All druggists sell and recommend it. Complete outfit, price $1.00; trial size, 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Mail and Empire: Every man who applies for a license to hunt deer should be required to undergo a sight test. A New Train Light

The experiment of lighting passenger trains with acetyline gas, which has been tried by the C.P.R. for some time, has proved so successful that the order has gone forth naming acetyline as the illuminant to be used in future. All the new cars being built by the C.P.R. are equipped with the acetyline plant, and it is expected that by next spring 300 cars will be so lighted. This will include all the passenger trains on the C.P.R.'s main lines and many on branch lines. Gas reservoirs will be supplied to each train, capable of holding sufficient gas to run the train until it arrives at the next generating station. At present cars are supplied with gas in Montreal and Toronto, where generating plants have been established, but the installation of the system in all the cars will necessitate the establishment of more generating plants. Work upon these will be commenced at once, and they will be located at Winnipeg and Vancouver. Other plants will be put in as they become necessary.

Sir,—If you will allow me, I should like to call your readers' attention to a book recently published by Morang & Co., "Two Country Walks in Canada," by Arnold Haultain, whom many will remember as having lived here before he became distinguished in the world of letters. The centre of interest in one sketch is Peterborough, in the other Toronto. They have been very well received in England and will amply repay those who admire the artistic and suggestive treatment of familiar subjects.

HOME TESTING

A Sure and Easy Test on Coffee

To decide the all important question of coffee, whether or not it is really the hidden cause of your physical ails and approaching fixed disease, one should make a test of 10 days by leaving off coffee entirely and using well made Postum Coffee.

If relief follows you may know to a certainty that coffee has been your vicious and killing enemy. Of course you can take it back to your heart again if you like to keep sick.

A lady says: "I had suffered with stomach trouble, nervousness and terrible sick headaches ever since I was a little child for my people were always great coffee drinkers and let us children have all we wanted. I got so I thought I could not live without coffee and I would not acknowledge that it was causing my suffering.

"Then I read so many articles about Postum that I decided to give it a fair trial. I had not used it two weeks in place of coffee until I began to feel like a different person. The headaches and nervousness disappeared and where I used to be sick two or three days out of a week while drinking coffee I am now well and strong and sturdy seven days a week, thanks to Postum.

"I had been using Postum three months and had never been sick a day when I thought I would experiment and see if it really was coffee that caused the trouble, so I began to drink coffee again and inside a week I had an awful sick spell. I was so ill I was soon convinced that coffee was the cause of all my misery and I went back to Postum again in a hurry with the result that I was soon again well and strong and determined to use Postum the rest of my days and to leave coffee alone in the future." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

DIPHTHERIA VERY PREVALENT

Provincial Board of Health Takes Energetic Action

There is happily very little diphtheria in Peterborough or neighborhood but the disease is very prevalent in other places. The Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health reports that 52 municipalities have reported that the disease existed within their boundaries during the month of October. There were, all told, in those constituencies, no less than 161 cases resulting in 54 deaths. Toronto contributed the largest number—116 cases, with 14 deaths. According to population, London had about the worst outbreak, having no less than 94 cases in the one month.

The report calls attention to the necessity of treating this disease as well as smallpox and scarlet fever in hospital. The city of London has exemplified this necessity, because there no hospital accommodation for such patients has been available, and the serious nature of the epidemic, it is inferred, largely due to this circumstance. At present tents on the grounds of the hospital are being utilized, and the disease is being checked. In Ottawa, all the cases are treated in hospital, a brand new isolation hospital having been erected last year, and the results have been most satisfactory. In Toronto upwards of 60 per cent. have been treated in hospital, the remainder in their homes.

The disease is spread, the report points out, by direct contagion, at least that is the belief of the secretary, based on experience and observation. A child gets in a school room with diphtheria germs in its throat, perhaps before the doctor has ever been consulted. No circumstance will spread the disease quicker Or it may be that the family doctor hesitates to call a spade a spade. A case of this kind has occurred in Chesley, where it was found that milk was distributed from the house in which diphtheria existed. The result was 23 cases within a few days.

Whenever the patient is kept in the home the danger from contagion, no matter how sincere an effort is made at quarantine is always great, hence the desirability of hospital treatment whenever possible.

CHICKEN FATTENING

The Value of the Work Conducted at Renfrew by Dominion Department of Agriculture

The Dominion Department of Agriculture carried on illustration chicken fattening work for three years at Renfrew, Ont. When the work commenced Mr. John Frood, the operator of the station, was requested to interest the farmers about Renfrew in chicken fattening, and to inform them of the high prices paid for fatted chickens in Montreal. Mr. Frood loaned two farmers the fattening crates, and showed them how to feed the chickens. These chickens, when fattened, were sold in Montreal at 11 cents per pound, plucked weight, and one of the farmers wrote the Department that he was well pleased with the price he obtained. This year the farmer erected a poultry house costing $300, and is engaging in the business extensively. He speaks very favorably of the fattening work. He has chickens in the fattening crates and is shipping regularly to Montreal. It is learned that the second farmer and three others are also forwarding the chickens to Montreal. One of them realized for his shipment 75 cents per chicken, another 65 cents per chicken. Three years ago these farmers' chickens, unfattened, could not have sold for more than 50 cents per pair. It was then difficult to buy first class chickens. A great number of Leghorns and scrub chickens were raised by the farmers. This year almost every farmer owns a first class flock of Barred Plymouth Rocks.

Since the chicken fattening business is established at Renfrew, and promises to develop into an important industry, the Department of Agriculture decided not to operate the station another year. The work will be transferred elsewhere. The Renfrew poultry business received a great impetus on account of the operation of the illustration fattening station, the farmers are pleased with the increased returns received from their fatted chickens, and are in a good way to realize a substantial poultry revenue. What has been accomplished in Renfrew can be repeated in other parts of Canada.

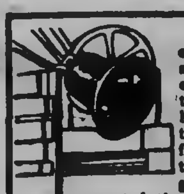
ALASKAN BOUNDARY DECISION

Canadian Police May Have to Abandon Two Posts

Ottawa, November 18.—Owing to the delimitation of the Alaska boundary made by the tribunal which recently sat in London, the North-West Mounted Police may have to abandon two of their posts in the Dalton Trail — the one at Wells and the other at Camp Pleasant. The Alaskan Tribunal decision gives the United States twenty miles more territory north-west of Chilkoot Pass than that enjoyed under the provisional boundary. Camp Pleasant, the more northerly of the two posts, is a beautiful location, and the buildings erected by the police were of a substantial and comfortable type.



In the good old days the sexton announced a death in the community by a stroke on the church bell for every year of the life that was gone. People expected, then, to live to old age, and speculation at the first tap of the bell took a narrow range including only those who had lived the allotted time. There is no reason why people should not have the same expectancy of age to-day, except for the neglect and abuse of the one organ on which all the other organs depend—the stomach.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery enables men and women to be strong and healthy, by curing diseases of the stomach (and other organs of digestion and nutrition), which prevent the proper nourishment of the body.

"I had been sick for two years with indigestion and nervous debility, and had taken medicine from my family doctor for a long time without much benefit," writes Mrs. W. H. Peplow, of Lucknow, B. C. "Was induced by my husband to consult Dr. Pierce by letter. You advised me to take 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription,' which I did, and, to my great surprise, after taking six bottles I was cured."

The Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free for 31 one-cent stamps to pay customs and mailing only. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

DANGER OF A RUPTURE WITH RUSSIA IMMINENT OVER THE THIBET AFFAIR.

British Expedition May Bring on a Crisis

INDIA IS NOW SAID TO BE VERY ANXIOUS

The Outbreak of War Will Not be Long Delayed

London, Nov. 21—Uneasiness is appearing in journalistic and political quarters lest Col. Younghusband's armed expedition to Thibet bring about a crisis between Russia and Britain. It develops that Russia has already secured a diplomatic advantage in Thibet by virtue of a treaty with China providing for joint Russian and Chinese control over the Dalai Lama's country. Inasmuch as China's national disorganization and military feebleness prevent it from carrying out the treaty it follows that Russia practically succeeds to the sole mastery of Thibet unless debarred by Great Britain.

This together with the fact that British and Japanese interests in the Far East demand that Russia's attentions be engaged elsewhere have so impressed Lord Curzon, Viceroy of India, and through him the British Government, that the near future is likely to witness striking developments in Central Asia. Lord Curzon is opposed to the extension of British power in the direction of British India, and is said to be urging an aggressive policy. His recent communications to the India office contain grave language about "gathering clouds in the region of the Himalayas."

Col. Younghusband's column, which is advancing through the Chumbi valley, shows with what sincerity the Viceroy speaks. Lord Curzon contends that Thibet lies much more naturally within the British than within the Russian sphere, and that the Czar's government must not be permitted to act as if the contrary were the case. Students of the situation anxiously await the utterance of Russia both as to the Younghusband expedition and the spectacular progress of Lord Curzon and his suite along the Persian Gulf.

The Czar was Severely Scored

Vienna, Nov. 19—"Cynical Hypocrisy or Impotence—Which" is the heading of a powerful indictment of the Czar which is being widely circulated in Finland, Poland and the most advanced provinces of Russia proper. The immediate subject of the article is "the smooth platitudes of Nicholas in a recent letter to President Loubet." His Majesty is accused of falsehood and of pretending to be pleased with the growing unison of the free nations.

"Nicholas knows," says the article, "if he knows anything, that such union promises nothing to Russia. If he knows anything he knows that wherever liberty scores a victory Russianism may reckon a defeat.

QUESTION OF FOOD IN WAR TIME

Canada's Products Could be Cut Off from Britain by U. S. Only

TARIFF FIGHT PROGRESSES

Mr. Foster Points to Prosperous Canada as a Conclusive Argument

London, Nov. 19—Mr. Ritchie, speaking at a Primrose League meeting at Thornton Heath yesterday, said it was a reflection upon his honor as a public man that Mr. Chamberlain should charge him with having delayed notifying his colleagues of the Cabinet of his attitude in respect to the corn tax and a preferential duty until the day before the introduction of the budget.

Prof. W. Hewins has resigned his appointment as director of the London School of Economics and Political Science in order to undertake important work on behalf of the Tariff Reform League.

Earl Carrington, speaking at Bromley, Kent, yesterday, said the taxing of food was taking the money from one pocket and putting it in another when the two pockets did not belong to the same man.

Time of War.

Mr. Alfred Mansell read a paper on "Foodstuffs in Time of War" at yesterday's meeting of the Royal United Service Institute. The remedy for the present danger, he said, was to increase the home supply and stimulate the colonies to grow a larger area of wheat. Lord Strathcona, who was in the chair, said that in ten years Canada would be capable of producing all the foodstuff and grain required by the United Kingdom.

The Morning Post, referring to Mr. Mansell's address, says that Britain's position would be stronger if she could derive her food supply chiefly from British possessions and strategically sound so long as the enemy was not the United States. In that case Canadian corn would not be available.

The Post believes that one result of the Alaska award will be the financing of Capt. Bernier's proposed Arctic expedition by the Canadian Government on condition that the British flag be hoisted on the most northerly island of the Arctic Archipelago.

Brantford Content.

Hon. Mr. Foster, speaking at Darlington yesterday, said that all the Canadian industries had gone forward since the fiscal reform, and Canadian workmen were well-fed and clothed, and a better, more satisfied class, could not be found in the whole world.

The Standard, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's speech, says: "There was no anxiety at Brantford, Ont., to meet the new fiscal scheme half way." (Presumably this refers to the resolution of the Brantford Board of Trade.)

Land has been secured for a fine space on Vyse street, Birmingham, for the erection of a handsome clock and lamps to cost £500, given to Mr. Chamberlain by the workingmen of West Birmingham. Mrs. Chamberlain will set the clock going.

Winnipeg, Nov. 19—Mr. A. E. Wilson, principal of the Elkhorn Indian school, has patented a freezing box which he believes will be of much utility in this country, especially in those districts where there are no lakes or rivers and no opportunity is afforded for gathering natural ice, and where for this reason it is expensive and difficult to obtain. The object of Mr. Wilson's invention is to provide a receptacle especially adapted for use in such localities. The box is intended to be filled with pure water during the winter season and placed in an exposed position so that the water will freeze in a solid block. When frozen, the block is taken out and the box refilled with water, this process being repeated until the required supply has been secured. The box is so constructed that it adapts itself to the expanded condition of the water in its frozen state, having expansible joints in this manner preventing leakage or any possible injury, and enabling it to be filled again and again for the purpose stated.

RUSSIAN ALLIANCE THE CORNER-STONE

Of French Policy—To Raise Issues Between Britain and France is a Crime

London, Nov. 21—The preparations for war with Russia are progressing on a colossal scale in Japan, and it is believed that hostilities cannot be much longer delayed. The navy is being placed on a war footing, and ready to engage the enemy at a moment's notice.

AN ABSENT-MINDED CITIZEN

He Bought Two Umbrellas but Had Only One After All

A story was told The Times yesterday which is worth reading. Our informant, who is employed in a gent's furnishing store, says that a well-known professional man came into the store yesterday and bought an umbrella, for which he paid.

The salesman had presence of mind enough not to offer to wrap the purchase up, and the lawyer carried the umbrella as far as the door. There he stopped to note something in a memorandum book, leaning his new umbrella against the wall. His note finished, he started out, forgetting what he had just bought.

Within a minute he rushed into the other door of the same store, demanding an umbrella.

"I thought I had one with me when I left home," he said, apologetically; "but I guess I must have forgotten to take it."

A second salesman sold him another umbrella, which he carried with him. As he was about to leave the store the first man stopped him.

The second man had "got busy" with another customer.

"You left your umbrella, sir," he said, holding up the original purchase.

"Bless my soul, so I did!" cried the unfortunate citizen. "And I suppose I've gone off with some one else's." So he pushed the second purchase into the hand of the surprised clerk, seized the first he had bought and dashed into the storm again with his purchase under his arm.

"Yet that man is a success in his profession," remarked the clerk.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema.

January 29th, 1903

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you; that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done me no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412, Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFayden, Riverdale, P. E. I writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A. Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal. Canada. N30

HIGH TRIBUTE TO MR. COX

General Manager of the Canada Life Association

The General Manager, Mr. E. W. Cox, has lately returned from a visit to the British branch, the present position of which is referred to by The Searchlight, an insurance journal of London, in the following terms: "The Canada Life has unquestionably come to stay. A company possessing intrinsic merits of the highest order, the Canada Life has met with a reception exceeding in warmth its most sanguine expectations, and after only six months' work has found its position here is already assured."

In London a reporter took occasion to interview Mr. Cox, and found him highly gratified with the progress in organization which has been made during the short time the Company has been transacting business in Great Britain.

In the principal cities of England, Scotland and Ireland suitable office quarters have been secured, and a large staff of agents are making the name and standing of the Canada Life better known.

Said Mr. Cox: "On opening the British branch we were told by an excellent authority that, with luck, we might expect to do a certain amount in our first year. We have already exceeded this total, although we have only been at work six months. Mr. Cheyne is responsible. He has established an excellent organization, and I have found that the Company is represented here by really good men."

The writer of the interview in closing pays a deserved tribute to Mr. Cox, and the marked success which has attended the Company under his management, in these words: "Mr. Cox is a born manager, and has all those qualities which enable him to enlist the services of a loyal and enthusiastic staff. It is he who is doubtless responsible for the increasing new business of the Company, and as he is still in his prime, the Canada Life may be expected to make great advances under his capable control."

THE DEPOSED QUEEN TO WINTER IN BOSTON.

Queen Liliuokalani.

ADOPTED THE TWIN

And Built Him Up

A lady of Des Moines, Iowa, who recently adopted a baby boy has an experience in feeding the youngster that may prove interesting.

She says: "Three months ago I took a twin baby. He was so weak and puny at the time that I believed I would never be able to raise him.

"I found that the only food he could keep on his stomach was Grape-Nuts and when I began to feed this regularly to him he began to thrive. In two weeks he showed marked improvement and he is now a fat healthy boy and has at last caught up with his twin sister who was always ruddy and healthy. He is certainly a fine fellow, thanks to a fine pure and scientific food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Grape-Nuts contains all the constituents of a complete food and the whole is predigested (by a purely mechanical process) so the very weakest stomach will digest it. It is the most scientific food in the world, suited to all ages. See the receipe book in each package.

Ex-Queen of Hawaii in the United States

Refuses to Disclose the Purpose of Her Trip

Chicago, Nov. 21—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani of the Hawaiian islands, passed through Chicago on her way to Boston where she is to join her husband and spend the winter. She arrived from San Francisco over the Union Pacific and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul roads. Only a brief stop was made in the city, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, a few minutes after her arrival at the Union depot, the Pullman car in which she traveled pulled out for the east attached to the Pennsylvania fast train for New York.

Purpose of Visit a Mystery.

In her party the dusky potentate had only a sparse retinue on this occasion. Her secretary and a few other dark skinned islanders, not more than four or five in all, are her companions. Her purpose in visiting America at this time is a mystery and a call made upon her as she sat, throneless and not in state, in the Pullman car failed to unravel whatever secret may be the motive of her trip to a country whose dust she declared she shook from her feet for the last time when she departed from Washington a few weeks ago, and disappointed over the failure of this government to settle a pension upon her for life or in any other way compensate her for the loss of her throne and her crown lands to the United States.

It is said that speculation is rife in Washington as to whether she will make a visit there and social circles there are in a flutter lest, like Booker T. Washington, she may be invited by President Roosevelt to dine at the White House.

"No significance whatever attaches to her majesty's present visit," said her secretary a bland and diplomatic young man with [illegible] cheeks and dark brown eyes. "She is simply going on a visit to Boston, where, you know, her husband now resides. She will probably stay in Boston all winter. She arrived in San Francisco only a few days ago from Honolulu."

May Visit Washington.

"Will she pay a visit to Washington or take up residence there and establish a semi-court or hold quasifunctions of state as she was said to have done on a former occasion?" was a question asked in the hearing of the dethroned monarch, who understands English perfectly but who pretended not to hear.

"Oh, as to that, nothing has been decided, but as I have said, she will probably live most of the time in Boston, though of course she may visit Washington."

"How is her claim for a pension from the government at Washington progressing?"

"She is not giving it a thought. All she could do with propriety in that direction has been done," replied the secretary. "She has put in her claim and had her say. She has had many expressions of sympathy in her efforts to get a suitable pension, but the authorities at Washington, and, we have been told, the American people, could not see the matter in her way."

To all questions addressed to her personally, the ex-royal personage replied with an eloquent shake of the head. She seemed to enjoy the pleasure and dignity of having a spokesman to represent her which doubtless was reminder of the days of her rule and glory, when ministers of state were at her beck and call. She was gowned in what seemed distinctly American clothes, with ample folds of fur. On her head, replacing the royal crown, she wore a small bonnet.

AMERICANS NOW SUE FROM CANADA RESOLUTION ASKING FOR RECIPROCITY

Introduced into the Washington Congress.

HE ADVOCATES THE SWISS REFERENDUM

Only Way to Separate National Questions from Party Says Chamberlain

Washington, Nov. 20 — Representative Williams (Mississippi) introduced a resolution yesterday declaring "that the House of Representatives would view with pleasure and heartily endorse initiative steps taken by the President of the United States towards reconvening the Joint High Commission appointed by Great Britain, the Dominion of Canada, and the United States, for the purpose of considering and agreeing upon freer and more amicable trade relations between the United States and the Dominion of Canada."

London, Nov. 20 — William Joseph Curry, who confessed to the murder in Canada of little Glory Whalen at Collingwood, pleaded guilty in the Manchester Assize Court to the English charge laid against him, and was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary. Since Curry has been apprehended, his strange ways have been noted by the authorities, who do not attach much importance to his prison-made confession. It is expected that the prisoner will shortly be removed from Manchester to London and there charged with the murder of the girl at Collingwood before being handed over to the Canadian authorities.

London, Nov. 20— Mr. Chamberlain's introduction to his reprinted speeches, issued to-day, urges the principle of the Swiss referendum as the only way of separating great national questions from the complicated issues of party government.

M. Lour, a distinguished French economist, says he considers Mr. Chamberlain the foremost statesman of the times. Like Napoleon and Bismarck, he has no scruples.

HAD FORTY-ONE CHILDREN

Jean Brisson Who Had Largest Family in Quebec is Dead

Montreal, Nov. 21—The death of Mr. Jean Brisson, who, it is claimed, had more children than any other man in the Province of Quebec, occurred yesterday at the town of Danielson. Mr. Brisson, who was in his [illegible]th year, had been married three times and had 41 children. His third wife and 30 children survive him.

—Mr. J. Roberts, of Chandos, has gone to England, having been notified that a very nice legacy is awaiting him there. Safe journey and good luck Joe.

His Fiscal Campaign.

The Standard, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's referendum statement, says: "He cannot seriously suppose we will adopt it in time to facilitate the progress of his fiscal campaign. The British constitution, imperfect as it is, cannot be revolutionized when we are asked to throw all our economic system into the melting pot."

A HUGE ANCHOR AT HOLLAND LANDING

A Famous Relic to be Removed to Toronto

A REAL CURIOSITY

Its History Enshrouded in Mysteay—A Mystery of the War of 1812

Toronto, Nov. 19—Disliked by the sailing and yachting fraternity of the city will be the position Ald. Ramsden will find himself in if he persists in his latest project. His newest scheme is to have the city purchase the celebrated Holland Landing anchor and transport it to Toronto park for the edification of citizens and visitors.

The anchor is famous because of the distance it was found from navigable waters, and the mystery surrounding its arrival at its present location. Holland Landing is thirty miles from Lake Ontario and ten miles from Lake Simcoe. It weighs 3 1-2 tons and is big enough to hold a vessel as large as the steamer Toronto in a November gale. How the anchor landed at Holland Landing is shrouded in mystery.

The First Result of the Alaskan Decision

HON. CLIFFORD SIFTON ISSUES ORDERS.

The Mounted Police are Ordered to Abandon Post at Wells on Dalton Springs

Ottawa, Nov. 20—Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, yesterday the North-West Mounted Police posted at Wells, on the Dalton trial, where the Klehini and Chilkat Rivers meet. This is one of the earliest results of the decision of the Alaska boundary tribunal.

Mr. D. Bernhard, a member of the firm of Ehrenback, Brumum, and Company, manufacturers and export merchants of Bradford and Manchester, England, who is at present stopping in Toronto, has an interesting story to tell of "the land of the free" to the south of us. In Russia, one knows that one must secure a passport and submit to an official inquisition at every turn, but in the great American Republic, one expects to travel unmolested. Very different, however, was the experience of Mr. Brenhard.

Last Saturday, Mr. Bernhard had to make a business trip from Montreal to Detroit. As the train was crossing the boundary a United States official questioned him as to whence he came and his destination. Mr. Bernhard supplied the required information that he came from Montreal and was going to Detroit, and in reply to further questions told the official that he had been in Canada only three weeks. Having passed on and interviewed some of the other passengers, in a few minutes this representative of the free Government of the United States returned to Mr. Bernhard and said, "You are my prisoner, sir, I arrest you."

Treating the matter as a joke, Mr. Bernhard asked for what offence he was to be taken into custody. The officer replied that Mr. Bernhard would have to be identified, and that as it was then too late for identification, he would have to be put in the jail, until 3 o'clock the next afternoon. Mr. Bernhard was in a position to secure identification from his business connections in Detroit, but the officer refused to look them up at that time. As a concession he offered to take his baggage checks as security, but Mr. Bernhard had no baggage but a small grip. Then the official gave it as his final judgment that Mr. Bernhard must go to a jail for the offence of presuming to enter Uncle Sam's territory without having a jury of twelve on hand to identify him.

"But," said Mr. Bernhard, "if the law is as you say, why did not the authorities arrest me when I landed at New York three weeks ago, before I went to Montreal?"

At this the inflated breast of the official sank. He apologized. He gave Mr. Bernhard his freedom. He explained that his authority only extended to foreigners landing at Canadian ports. Naturally enough, all this has not raised Mr. Bernhard's opinion of American officialdom.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room [illegible], Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

CONCLUDING MEETING.

OF THE ARCHDEACONRY CONFERENCE AT ST. JOHN'S

Held on Wednesday—Several Important Questions Discussed and Action Taken

At Wednesday morning's session of the Archidiaconal Conference it was moved by Rev. W. C. Allen, seconded by Rev. R. Seaborn, and carried, that the Secretaries of the three Deaneries in this Archdeaconry write to the clergy and ascertain dates suitable for the visits of missionary deputations. The deputations available this year are the Rev. J. Cooper Robinson, Japan; the Rev. J. R. S. Boyd, M.A. China, and the Rev. W. C. White, China.

Rural Dean Warren presented the report of the Committee on the Archdeacon's address. Several interesting matters were forcibly dealt with.

The first of these was the federation of Trinity University with the University of Toronto. The committee's expression of opinion, however, not being entirely satisfactory to all present, was referred back for amendment.

A masterly paper on "The Bible and Modern Criticism" was then read by the Rev. A. J. Fidler. He advocated an uncompromising view of the Bible as being the Word of God, and not merely containing that Word. Literary and historical criticism had their place but could not touch the believer's insight into the Scriptures as setting forth the great drama of creation and redemption. Mr. Fidler dealt with scientific antagonism to the Bible, and pointed out that a life-long devotion to scientific pursuits actually tended to unfit man to speak with authority in a realm so different from their own as that of theology. In conclusion he contrasted the hopeless creed of the infidel with the faith of the Christian. Nothing less than a verbatim report would do anything like justice to Mr. Fidler's paper. Mr. Bemester and others discussed the subject, and the Conference then adjourned for luncheon.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The clergy and laity of the Archidiaconal Conference were pleasantly entertained at luncheon on Wednesday evening by the Girls' Auxiliary and other young ladies of St. John's in the basement of the school house. The guests were grouped at a number of small tables, which were adorned with bouquets of flowers, and music was discoursed by an excellent orchestra.

There were only two toasts at the conclusion of the luncheon. The Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A., proposed "The Church and the State," voicing the loyalty of the Conference to the King, and then dwelling on what Gladstone had called "the august conception of the Church." Archdeacon Allen responded for the Church.

Rev. R. Seaborn proposed "Layworkers," and emphasized the importance of the layman's part in the Church's work. Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Col. H. C. Rogers, J. H. Knight and others responded.

Upon reassembling the Conference heard the Rev. J. R. S. Boyd, M.A., a missionary on furlough from China, speak on "The Foreign Missionary Work of the Canadian Church." Mr. Boyd exhibited many interesting curiosities illustrative of Chinese pagan customs.

The Rev. H. C. Dixon, Diocesan Organizing Secretary, dealt with the diocesan aspect of missionary work, laying special emphasis upon the spiritual life, as the real and ultimate basis of all church finances.

The Rev. W. R. Tandy brought up the question of unifying the two funds, one now administered for home and foreign work by the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada, the other administered by the Diocesan Mission Board in the interests of Diocesan Missions. In answer to the question "Do the Diocesan Missions pay?" he said that some do not pay as well as a new mission might in the West, supported by the same money. A Central Board, having control of the whole work, could alone tell where money could be most wisely expended. Mr. Tandy moved, seconded by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, "That this Archidiaconal Conference is of the opinion that the unification of the Diocesan and General Mission funds under the one management of the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada should be a subject of consideration at the next meeting of the Synod. And in case such unification be found desirable, the Conference expresses the hope that the services of the Rev. H. C. Dixon as a worker in the cause of missions will be still retained by the Diocese." The resolution, after discussion, was carried.

The Rev. W. J. Creighton read a paper on the craze for speculation. The last paper on the program was one by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, local secretary of the Children's Aid Society, on "The Treatment of Juvenile Offenders and Destitute Children." The subject was interestingly treated from a legal and philanthropic point of view.

The thanks of the Archdeaconry were tendered the clergy and church women of Peterborough, the newspapers, Dr. Rigby (special preacher) and those who had contributed papers to the Conference program.

Neighbors were soon on the ground, and after some pretty hard work got the fire under control, after about half of one side of the roof was burned. The contents were considerably damaged by water. St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of House Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. BELL, G.P. & T.A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal. Canada.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

Toronto, November 20, 1903.

"The Man in the Street" had a very interesting chat with Mr. P. C. Larkin, of The Salada Tea Co., today. Mr. Larkin has just returned from a visit to the branches of the Salada Tea Co. in Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburg, New York, Boston and Buffalo, and he also visited the cities of Richmond and Norfolk, Va., Washington, and many other points in the United States in which the Salada Tea Co. are doing business. Mr. Larkin is well known in all the leading American cities, as well as in Canada, as "The King of the Tea Trade," he being the first to introduce the teas of Ceylon and India into Canada and the United States, and as these teas are rapidly displacing the teas of China and Japan, he has built up the largest tea business that has ever existed in America. To "The Man in the Street" today, Mr. Larkin said, "Yes, the Ceylon and India tea business is making the most wonderful progress in America. Why? Well, because the teas produced in those countries are far superior to those produced in China and Japan. In the first place they are more healthful, in the second place they are of a much finer flavor. Then they have the advantage of being packed in sealed lead packets, and in that way the tea comes fresh and fragrant from the tea garden to the tea cup. After all tea is back to its old home when coming from Ceylon and India, because tea is indigenous to India and Ceylon and not to China or Japan. It is found growing wild in all parts of the jungle in India, and is never found in a natural state in China or Japan, therefore it must have been first brought (possibly thousands of years ago) from India to Japan and China, and there cultivated and introduced into Europe. To show you the wonderful change that has taken place in the production of teas, I have only to say that last year Great Britain took from India and Ceylon two hundred and forty million pounds of their tea, and only eleven million pounds of the China product. Thirty years ago they took all their tea from China."

"The Man in the Street" called on Mr. Larkin today, and was glad of the above interview, and thought it would be interesting reading to the subscribers of The Peterborough Times, because it shows that the tea we are largely using now in Canada, and for that matter in the United States, is being produced by our own fellow countrymen, and not by the Chinese and Japanese as it was many years ago. The wonderful change that has taken place in the tea trade of America is chiefly due to the energy and ability of Mr. Larkin in recognizing the power of the press as an advertising medium. Salada Teas are not only advertised in every paper in the Dominion of Canada, but in hundreds of the leading journals in the United States, and yet the cost of all this advertising to the Salada Tea Co. is less than one-quarter of a cent per pound on their output. Of the many mediums, Mr. Larkin says, for getting at the public none equals the daily newspaper.

Patrons of the Grand Trunk Railway System have frequently commented upon the literature which is issued by that company, and perhaps there is not a company in America which pays more attention or spends more money on this department than the Grand Trunk. The company is lavish in its advertising and fully believes that it brings an increase of traffic. It spends an immense amount of money yearly in bringing before the notice of the public the advantages of its road. The fishing and hunting seasons are given particular attention, and as the Grand Trunk passes through some of the best fishing and hunting Paradises on the Continent, the sporting seasons are given particular attention, and so, it is easy to get material for advertising. The advertising department is in charge of Mr. H. R. Charlton, who occupies the position of Advertising Manager. Mr. Charlton has been with the company some years and is recognized among railway and newspaper men as one of the brightest men in that line in America. He is well known and very highly respected among newspaper men throughout Canada. He has a very bright mind and is fully up-to-date, and there is perhaps no man in Canada today who could fill the position he occupies, with the same ability. He was in Toronto this week on his way to Chicago, to attend the International Sportsmen's Show, which is now being held there, and I had the pleasure of a few minutes talk with him. He tells me that the company is preparing to have a very fine exhibit at the St. Louis Fair. Mr. Charlton is an enterprising man and is never idle, in fact, he covers the entire Grand Trunk System and is always finding new ideas with which to attract the travelling public.

At the time of writing, it looks as if Mayor Urquhart will be given a second term without opposition. Although The Telegram was the only Toronto paper to support him in the contest against Mr. Howland at the last election, he has done so remarkably well that all the other papers, with the exception of The Mail and Empire, have come out strongly in his favor for another term. The Mail, which is very seldom on the winning side, wants Mr. Howland to oppose the present Mayor next January, and a few weeks ago printed an interview with that gentleman, setting forth his good qualities, and at the same time expatiating on his admirable administrative powers. The article, however, fell flat, and although an effort was made to present the gentleman with a requisition asking him to re-enter the arena of municipal politics, it met with so little favor among the citizens that Mr. Howland has wisely decided on withdrawing from the contest.

The Times correspondent has been informed that the firm of Baillie Bros., stock brokers, King street, have taken into partnership Mr. John Croft, one of the most highly respected members of the local stock exchange. Mr. Baillie and his brother are both young men, but have already established quite a reputation for themselves as shrewd and most intelligent financiers, whose advice will undoubtedly be much sought after by the Canadian investor. The head of the firm, Mr. F. W. Baillie, was until recently general manager of the Metropolitan Bank. The firm's suite of offices are the most up-to-date in Toronto, and will undoubtedly attract a large clientele.

Dullness has again been the feature on the local share market this week. There has been but little trading, and when I tell you that on one day this week less than one hundred and forty shares were dealt in, the readers of The Times will appreciate the state of the market at present. In order to have an idea of the commissions made by the forty members of the Exchange, one has simply to figure on a quarter per cent. of the total trades, which would hardly pay for cigars among the crowd.

Northern Navigation shares are still puzzling the market. They are now down to 85, just a little less than half the price they were a year ago. Some of the brokers predict a reduction in the dividend from 10 to 6 per cent. However the directors are very reticent; although one of them informed me there would be no cut.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Mainly About People.

As the coffin containing the affectionate wife of a sorrowing husband was being conveyed to the churchyard in a certain country parish in the South of Scotland it accidentally struck against the corner of a wall, in consequence of which circumstance the deceased was aroused from a trance and lived for several years. When the poor woman really died a few years afterward, in the act of passing the same spot the husband anxiously exclaimed to the bearers of the coffin, "Tak' tent (care) of the corner this time."

Labouchere and King Edward (as Prince of Wales) were for years fast friends. Apropos of this friendship, Labby was once asked what he called the Prince when he dined at Marlborough House. "Well," said the famous radical, "when the soup comes on I address him as 'Your Royal Highness.' The fish softens the reserve and I get a little chummier and often as not call him 'Wales,' while during the entrees and joints I get quite familiar and he becomes 'Eddie,' while he slaps me on the back and dubs me 'Labby.'"

An Englishman was traveling not long ago in a compartment of a London train. At one of the stations a German entered the carriage and took the seat opposite the Englishman. When the train had started, the German, seeing the other's cigar, boldly asked for one. Although astonished at the request, the Englishman nevertheless pulled out his case and handed it to the stranger. The German lighted the cigar, took a few puffs, and, beaming affably through his spectacles, said: "I vould not haf droubled you, but I had a match in mine boggit, and I did not know vat to do mit him."

In a mining town in the mountains of Virginia lived two little chaps aged eight and nine years, neighbors and good friends, who passed most of their leisure time together in boyish sports, but, like all healthy boys, they sometimes "scrapped." On one of these occasions the younger one, who was built on the lines of the proverbial man who could not stop a pig in an alley, was being twitted by his companion on his bow legs. He stood it manfully for a while, but finally, losing patience, he blurted out: "Well, I may be bow-legged, but when the Lord made you He made you as ugly as He could and then hit you in the face."

At a Scottish town, the other day, a Londoner on his way to a hotel addressed the porter who led the way: "Not a large place this?" "Na verra," was the answer. "Has it a corporation?" "A what, sir?" enquired the baggage-bearer. "I mean, who rules it?" "Rules it? Jist the provost." "Ah, the provost. Like our lord mayor. Has he got any insignia?" remarked the cockney. "Insignia! What d'ye mean?" asked the puzzled Scotsman. "Yes, insignia; that is to say, has he a chain?" the polite visitor hinted. Whereupon the almost dumbfounded native gasped out: "A chain, sir? The provost chained? Na, na! He gangs loose; but dinna be feared, he's quite harmless."

Dr. Daniel M. Stimson, the family physician and life-long friend of the late poet, Richard Henry Stoddard, relates an anecdote to the effect that the poet, while endeavoring to procure an impromptu luncheon for a number of friends after Mrs. Stoddard and the servants had retired, found a box of sardines. His somewhat vigorous remarks, inspired by a sardine-can's objections to the "open sesame" of a dull jack-knife, attracted the attention of Mrs. Stoddard on the floor above. "What are you doing?" she called down. "Opening a can of sardines." "With what?" "A dashed old jack-knife," cried the exasperated poet. "What did you think I was opening it with?" "Well, dear," she said, dryly, "I didn't exactly think you were opening it with prayer!"

Salvatore Cortesi, in a very readable article in the "World's Work" on King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, says that after the assassination of his father, Queen Margherita was very anxious that King Humbert should be buried at the Superga at Turin, where all the rest of the House of Savoy lie, with the exception of the great Victor Emmanuel. Moreover, her Majesty did not wish to wound the susceptibilities of the papal party by a state funeral in Rome. King Victor, pale and tired, entered the room where the Queen was, exclaiming: "Well, that is arranged—my father will have a fitting burial in the Pantheon." "Victor," cried his mother, "I see you want to break my heart. You offend my religion as well as my affections." "I am sorry, mother," he said gently, and then added sternly; "the religion which is offended at a martyr being buried in his own capital and lying beside his own father needs radical changes."

A story is told of Labouchere at the very beginning of his editorial career. A friend came in one day, and, seeing a quantity of books around, which had been sent in for review, offered to bet Labouchere that there was one book he had not got in the office. Labouchere enquired the name of the book, and his friend promptly answered, "A Bible." With a laugh, Labouchere offered to bet ten pounds that he had even that book. Turning the conversation in another direction, he furtively sent a note out into the clerk's office, telling the boy to go downstairs and ask the booksellers underneath for the loan of a Bible. Presently he returned to the subject of the bet, and, calling his assistant in, asked him whether he had a Bible in the office. The clerk produced the book, which Labouchere handed over to his friend, giving himself away, however, as he did so by saying sotto voce to the clerk: "I hope to goodness you didn't forget to cut the leaves!" Of course the English Bible does not require its leaves to be cut.

"I understand your son has decided to go in for literature." "Yes, and he's made a splendid start already." "You don't say?" "Yes; he went to auction this morning and bought a second-hand writing-desk for only four dollars and ninety-eight cents."—"Catholic Standard and Times."

Anecdotal.

It is related that Sainte-Beuve detested rain. On one occasion, when he had to fight a duel, he appeared with a pistol in one hand and an umbrella in the other. "I am willing to be shot," he exclaimed, "but not to get wet."

George Meredith, the eminent novelist, is as alert and witty in his casual talk as he is in his fiction. Not long ago, in conversation with a friend, Mr. Meredith was asked his opinion of a certain obnoxious person who had lately settled in the neighborhood. "He seems to me," replied the author of "Diana of the Crossways," "to be one of the least of God's mercies."

A characteristic story of the late Sir Hector Macdonald has just reached us. Always a man of few words, when sending his only son to a public school for the first time, he addressed the following brief note to the headmaster: "Herewith boy Hector, to be made a man of"—a sentence worthy of being handed down to posterity as a remarkable example of brevity and sterling common sense.

An Englishman of somewhat questionable reputation, who was criticizing the American way of spelling, once turned to Maurice Barrymore, the actor, and said: "I'll leave it to Mr. Barrymore. Is it right to leave out the 'u' in such words as harbor, neighbor, honor, candor, etc?" "Well, about harbor and neighbor I am not sure," replied Barrymore, "but when it comes to honor and candor I leave you out."

The story is told of a Scotch preacher who gave his people long, strong sermons, and delivered them in a remarkably deliberate manner. One Sunday he asked a friend who was visiting him to occupy his pulpit in the morning. "An' were you satisfied wi' my preaching?" asked his friend, as they walked home from the kirk. "Weel," said his host, slowly, "it was a fair discoorse, Will'm, a fair discoorse; but it pained me at the last to see the folk looking sae fresh and wide awake. I mistrust 'twasna sae long nor sae sound as it should hae been."

When Booker T. Washington was asked by a Southerner recently to prove to a Northern audience that that section was really responsible for the introduction of slavery into the American colonies, Mr. Washington said he was reminded of the story of an old colored man who had a pig, which he sold one morning to a white man for three dollars. The white man drove off with his purchase, but on the road the pig escaped, and found its way back to Uncle Zeke's cabin. A little later, another white man came along, and Uncle Zeke sold him the same pig for another three dollars. On his way home with the pig the second purchaser encountered the first returning in search of the escaped animal. After some wrangling they decided to go back and refer the question to the old darkey. "Uncle Zeke" said number one, "didn't you sell me this pig at nine o'clock this morning?" "Sho' I did, massa." "But, Uncle Zeke," said number two, "didn't I pay you three dollars for this pig at twelve o'clock?" "Sho' you did, massa." "Well, then, who does the pig belong to?" "Sakes alive," said Uncle Zeke, "can't you white folks settle dat question between yo'selves?"

Like many Frenchmen, especially those hailing from the south of France, President Loubet is very fond of those national dishes in which garlic forms an important ingredient. Once, in his lawyer days, when he was pleading in court after having partaken of some such dish, his democratic tastes in this respect placed him in a somewhat embarrassing position. The presiding judge happened to be a man of aristocratic origin and breeding, to whom the odor of garlic was absolutely intolerable. M. Loubet rose and began his argument. He had not proceeded very far when the judge was observed to sniff rather uncomfortably and to take out a perfumed handkerchief, reinforcing it a few moments later with a smelling-bottle. These measures, however, proved of no avail as a protection from the pungent and penetrating effluvium which emanated from the future President of the republic. At last, his olfactory sense rising in open rebellion, the indignant judge shouted: "Usher, open the windows; open the doors. For heaven's sake, let out this abominable smell!" Since then M. Loubet, it is said, though he still preserves his simplicity of life, has eliminated garlic from his articles of diet.

The Value of A Character.

The captain of a large steamer was once filling up his crew for a long voyage, when a seaman came up and said:

"I want to sail wid you, sir."

"All right, my man," replied the captain. "On what line have you sailed before?"

"P. and O., sir."

"What countryman?"

"An Oirishman," was the reply.

"Well, you must get a character."

The character was obtained, and as the Irishman was presenting it another seaman came up and said he wished to join.

"What line were you on before?" asked the captain.

"Cunard, sir."

"What countryman?"

"English, your honor."

"All right. Go forward."

Shortly afterwards, as the two were swilling the decks in a heavy sea, the Englishman was swept overboard, bucket and all. Unmoved, Paddy finished his job and then went to the captain's cabin.

"Come in," responded the officer to his rap. "What's up now?"

"Do you remember Bill Smith, the Englishman and Cunarder?" queried Pat.

"Certainly, my man."

"You took him without a character?"

"I believe so; what of that?"

"He's gone overboard wid your bucket."

His Excuse.

"You can't go inside," said the doorkeeper of the village theater, wherein a certain "Uncle Tom's Cabin" aggregation were holding forth. "You are drunk."

"Zrunk!" echoed the applicant for admission, who was lavishly and luridly lighted up inside. "Coursh I'm—hic—drunk! Why—goodgosh'lmighty!—do you s'pose I'd—hic—wanta see your darned old show if I wasn't—hic—drunk?"—"Smart Set."

WIN AT NEW ORLEANS

No greater opportunity has ever been afforded the American racing public to earn a steady income with a small capital than does the Maxim & Gay Co. offer you at New Orleans, beginning Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26.

Everybody conversant with the history of the Maxim & Gay Co. knows that at New Orleans it has scored those sensational successes which have made its name a household word among patrons of the turf. No record approaches ours for the number of winners named at long prices at the Crescent City. Our experts are already on the ground preparing for the opening. Every indication points to us surpassing our best efforts in furnishing information from that track, and we are again certain we will enable patrons of the Company to win steady incomes on small investments there.

$50 netted $201.75

Here is a complete statement, showing the result of a $10 play on each horse given in our "Discretionary Series" during October. (Note: A capital to begin with of $50 is required by us, as a matter of conservatism, to make a $10 play on each horse that is considered by us a good betting proposition.)

The above showing is no improvement over that of September, and is not remarkable, since we have excelled it time and time again during the past three years of our uninterrupted operations. Good as it is, however, we are confident we will make it "look sick" by comparison with the showing we are going to make at the meeting of 100 days which begins at New Orleans this month.

We Pick the Winners

The system we employ to locate winners is identical with that used by "Pittsburg Phil," John A. Drake, John Gates, W. Langdon, Joe Yeager, and other famous plungers who win hundreds of thousands on the turf every year, and it proves just as successful.

We gather our information of prospective winners through a force of expert horsemen who hold a watch on the horses in their early-morning trials, and in that way learn which are ready to win.

The money that is played into the game by persistent losers, such as the large masses of uninformed players are, bound to be, goes into the pockets of the big operators, of which the Maxim & Gay Co., representing a large clientele, stands at the head. The work of the Maxim & Gay Co. is to place the general public on a level with the winning plungers, and our success in this accomplishment has made us famous on two continents.

We do business only on the great racetracks of the U. S. We number among our clients some of the best known sportsmen, financiers and merchants in the country. Investment on the turf is now classed as legitimate as any other high-class form of speculation. The present high standard to which racing has been brought, and the absolutely good faith in which turf affairs are conducted under the auspices of the Jockey Club in the East, and the Western Jockey Club in the West, has inspired millionaire capitalists and business men all over the country with as much confidence in racing as in the stock, grain, and cotton markets, and this is one reason why transactions in the betting rings now rival in magnitude those of the stock, cotton, and grain exchanges.

Another reason for the rapid growth of turf speculation in popular favor, is the rapidity with which all transactions are wound up. The speculator makes his investment at the racetrack in the afternoon through us and receives a notification by mail, in a letter guaranteed to bear a postmark earlier than the race is run, of just what horses are to be backed for his account. By the next mail he is informed of the result of that day's operations, and he learns quickly just where he stands. At the end of each week he receives a complete statement of his account with a money order for his profits, less 25 per cent., which we deduct as our fee.

This gives a wholesome tone to legitimate turf speculation which cannot be found in the more or less involved transactions of the big exchanges, and this is why turfmen live more comfortably and live longer than do men whose involved transactions are on their minds day and night, for weeks and sometimes for months at a stretch.

OUR CLIENTS WON A MILLION DOLLARS

As it is well known that our client have collectively won as much as a million dollars at a single race meeting, it is sometimes asked: "Why do not Maxim & Gay simply sit down and back their own selections, instead of running a considerable clerical force and spending large sums in advertising in newspapers throughout the country?"

The answer is simple enough if one stops to consider the situation. Maxim & Gay, by dint of energy, ability, organization, capital and advertising, have secured an enormous clientele, which means the command of immense capital. If we can pick winners for this immense number of investors, our profits are larger than if we played our own money only, for on a basis of 25 per cent. of winnings, which we charge for information and commission, one man out of every four of our customers is practically betting for us. The proof that this plan works for the benefit of the public as well as that they win three weeks out of four and our books show that no customer who stuck to us for two months ever failed to get well ahead of the game, while not a few of those who now own winning stables of race horses and who are cutting an important figure on the turf, began the game as mere novices, playing our selections through us.

The principle upon which we operate is such that we must of necessity do the best we can for you. Our income, as pointed out, is derived solely from a percentage of the winnings of our clients, and if we cannot make you win, our entire income is cut off. That we have been successful in making our clients win, is amply proven by the fact that we have prospered for upward of three years, while imitators, pursuing more economical and less businesslike methods have gone under by the score. Noting the success that was being achieved by Maxim & Gay, scores of "get-rich-quick" operators tried to break into the field successfully occupied by the older and more responsible firm, but it did not take the press and public long to discriminate between the legitimate and the illegitimate, and as a result we have continued to flourish uninterruptedly while in the ranks of our rivals there have been scores of enterprises initiated, only to end in failure.

JOIN OUR WINNING ARMY

The greatest race meeting in the history of the South begins at New Orleans within a fortnight. In magnitude it will eclipse all other turf gatherings of the past. The Crescent City Jockey Club knows this to be a banner year and has prepared for it. So have we. If there are more horses at the New Orleans racetrack than ever gathered there before, we have more expert "clockers" and handicappers than we ever employed at any other meeting. They cannot make the game too big for us to handle. We move with the times.

If you want to get aboard our discretionary series, at New Orleans, in which we play daily those and only those horses we think A1 betting propositions, with the privilege of not playing any horses at all on days when we consider conditions unpropitious, fill out the following blank and forward your remittance to us at New Orleans as soon as you can. Play will be begun on the first day of the meeting, if your money reaches us in time; otherwise, we will begin play the first day it reaches us after the meeting has begun. Money should be sent by bank draft, express money order, or currency in registered letter. Uncertified checks are not accepted.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

She laid her trembling hand on his forehead, and a sense of intense relief crept into her heart at the sound of his voice.

The touch of her cool hand seemed to soothe the throbbing pain that was darting through his temples now that the surgeon had finished dressing his wounds.

"Do you suffer much?" Lola asked, softly.

She was strangely subdued as she knelt by his rude couch.

The sight of his ghastly wounds and senseless form, had crushed all the wild, jealous passions from her breast.

She was sweet and gentle as an angel as she tended him; all thought of herself and her own suffering was forgotten.

She would have given her life to spare him the agony he endured—have died, willingly, to have prevented the horrible accident of that night.

"My head aches so," he replied. "Keep your hand on my forehead; it is so cool."

She brushed the dark hair lightly from his brow, while her heart throbbed with pain.

"If only he had not given his love to Mademoiselle Rosalie!" she thought, tears of bitterness and sorrow dimming her eyes. "Why had he passed her love by, and let his heart go out to a stranger?"

Raising his eyes, Dick read the yearning pain in the deep gaze bent upon him.

Almost unconsciously he moved his hand, and laid it over the one resting so soothingly on his brow.

"It has frightened you, Lola?" he said, faintly. "What was the matter with the horse? You were right when you warned me that there was danger. If I had paid attention to your words this would not have happened."

She bent over him, and again pushed the thick waves of hair softly from his brow.

"It was all so dreadful!" she exclaimed, in hushed tones. "I never thought to see you open your eyes or hear you speak again. Oh, Dick! Dick! what should I have done if you had died? I would have given my life for yours, and the pain borne for you would have seemed sweet; but I could not have seen you die, and have lived!"

Her last words fell on unconscious ears.

Dick's eyes were shut; the exertion of the past few moments had been too much for his shattered strength.

He had sunk into a heavy swoon—a swoon from which, hours afterwards, he awoke, raving and tossing in the delirium of brain fever.

It was a trying ordeal for Lola—that through which she passed while watching beside him.

He raved of a hopeless love, of a worship too great for words, and the name of Rosalie fell incessantly from his lips.

"I love her! I love her—I love her!" he would cry, over and over again. "She is light and life to me, she is my heaven, my all! And what am I to her? Only a tinselled slave—less than the dumb beasts she looks upon! I dare never tell her that I love her: she is too far beyond me. Yet I would be torn to pieces by those hungry beasts of prey, rather than one hair of her head should be injured!"

As she listened to his wild words, a look of agony settled on Lola's face; and her hands clenched with impotent rage.

She was nothing to him.

She might deceive herself into believing her devotion would one day win him from the mad infatuation that held him to Mademoiselle Rosalie, yet in her heart she knew it would be a long struggle, one in which hope would take but a spare part, and the time, perhaps, might never come when he would be all her own.

"I will be patient. Soon there must be an awakening, and he will understand that my love is best for him, that I am more fit for him than she who has the star-bright eyes and the golden hair."

So thought Lola, struggling to overcome her jealous rage.

Dick seemed so near to death, she could not look on him and harbor evil in her heart.

A gentler mood would serve her in better stead—she might only hope to win him through tenderness and love.

CHAPTER XIX.

The more Rosalie dwelt on Sir Felix's last words, and the look she had met in his dying eyes, the greater became the conviction that she had found her father.

"And he is dead," she said, sitting down in a sort of abject way, with her hands clasped in her lap. "If I had only come to him sooner, he would have loved me and told me of my mother."

"If he'd wanted you, he'd have sent for you before," Polly replied, inclined to look upon the girl's fancy as a mere romance. "Besides, he was rich and a nobleman into the bargain. It isn't likely you could have belonged to him."

Rose lifted her head proudly, the old defiance coming to her eyes.

"Why not?" she exclaimed. "Mrs. West always taught me to believe my mother was a lady."

"There's difference in being a lady and a lady of title. Your mother never pretended to be more than she was, and she was only plain Mrs."

Yet Sir Felix called me daughter."

"That may be. His mind was wandering, and he couldn't have known who you were. I should try to get rid of the fancy, my dear; it isn't likely anything will come of it."

Presently there came a tap at the door.

A maid had been sent to conduct Rosalie to the library, where Mr. Monckton was waiting to see her.

Polly followed, scarcely heeded, to the dimly-lighted room, and seated herself against a portiere.

She was determined not to lose sight of Rosalie.

A fear was at her heart that the girl would not escape the accusation brought against her—the accusation which, for a time at least, might place her under the darkest ban.

Mr. Monckton took Rosalie's cold little hand in his, and led her to a chair.

"I am sorry you came to Drayton Court for this," he said, looking at her, gravely. "I am deeply grieved at what has happened, and that I should have been the means of bringing you to such a scene of horror."

She opened her eyes wide, an intense wistfulness in her gaze.

"Did not he send for me?" she asked. "Were not you obeying his wishes?"

Mr. Monckton bowed his head in assent.

"Sir Felix had a great desire to see you, and he looked to me to arrange a meeting."

"But why did he want to see me? It all seems so mysterious and strange! What made him send for me?"

He was silent for a moment, an expression she could not define, on his face.

Then, with the reserve she had first noticed in his manner, and as if the words were sufficient explanation, he answered:

(To be continued.)

CHEAP WAY TO MAKE ICE

Manitoba Man Invents What He Calls a Freezing Box

Winnipeg, Nov. 19—Mr. A. E. Wilson, principal of the Elkhorn Indian school, has patented a freezing box which he believes will be of much utility in this country, especially in those districts where there are no lakes or rivers and no opportunity is afforded for gathering natural ice, and where for this reason it is expensive and difficult to object. The object of Mr. Wilson's invention is to provide a receptacle especially adapted for use in such localities. The box is intended to be filled with pure water during the winter season and placed in an exposed position so that the water will freeze in a solid block. When frozen, the block is taken out and the box refilled with water, this process being repeated until the required supply has been secured. The box is so constructed that it adapts itself to the expanded condition of the water in its frozen state, having expansible joints, in this manner preventing leakage or any possible injury, and enabling it to be filled again and again for the purpose stated.

Anecdotal.

Queen Victoria, on her last trip to Italy, visited a church at Assisi, where she met a very devout monk, who escorted her through a chilly corridor. His head was shaven, and she asked him if he did not feel the draughts, wearing the tonsure in the way his order did. His reply was not in Italian, as she expected, but in perfect English, tinctured with Celtic brogue: "No, madame, I don't suffer at all in that way. You know, we Irish are a hot-headed race!"

The long-suffering disposition of the London Bobby is well known. Once upon a time, however, an old lady buttonholed one of these obliging officers of the law and proceeded to put to him a string of questions compared with which the Shorter Catechism simply did not amount to a circumstance. Finally, having exhausted her stock of queries, she asked: "Why do you wear that funny sort of strap under your chin, constable?" "That, madam," he replied, gravely, "is to rest our jaws when they get tired of answering silly questions."

Howard Paul says that on one occasion William J. Florence, at the end of a not very prosperous engagement in San Francisco, announced a benefit for himself and his wife. The late John W. Mackay happened to be in town at the time, and wrote to Florence for one orchestra seat. It was duly sent, as a matter of course, and Mrs. Florence remarked to her husband that, considering the friendship existing between the two men, she thought Mr. Mackay might have taken a private box at least. "Wait," said Florence, "he has not paid yet, and I am in no hurry." The benefit took place, Mr. Mackay came from Virginia City to occupy the seat he had taken, and a day later he sent Florence a cheque for $1,000.

A woman was charged the other day in Paris with shoplifting, to which she indignantly pleaded not guilty, her contention being that it was a case of mistaken identity. But the judge, who was a wily old gentleman, addressed her as follows: "I understand, madam, that you contend that the detective is altogether wrong in thinking that you are the lady who attempted to remove a variety of articles under cover of a cape? And yet the description which is given of her exactly corresponds with you (Reading): 'A young lady, tall, striking, and remarkably handsome, lustrous eyes, a perfect figure, small feet and hands, exquisitely dressed—'" "Stop, Monsieur le Juge," exclaimed the young lady, with a far-away look in her eyes, "I plead guilty." "Ah!" said the judge.

Talleyrand used to excuse his marriage with a woman so lacking in tact and sense on the ground that clever women might compromise their husbands, whereas stupid women only compromised themselves. One day Denon, the famous Egyptologist, dined with the Talleyrands. M. Talleyrand instructed his wife to read Denon's books. She dutifully went to the library, but on the way forgot the name. She could only remember she wanted the book of a famous traveler whose name ended in "on." The librarian gave her "Robinson Crusoe." Mme. Talleyrand read the book, marveling that a great traveler could write such an interesting work. At dinner she astonished her guests by suddenly exclaiming: "Mon Dieu, monsieur, what joy you must have felt on your island when you found Friday!"

The historian Freeman had always been a very regular attendant at church services, and knew almost all the Psalms by heart. Sometimes, according to Professor William Clark, he gave evidence of this knowledge in a manner savoring slightly of irreverence. Writing of Dean Alford in the "Saturday Review," to which he was a frequent contributor, he made a reference to the copiousness of the dean's contributions to the periodical literature of the day. Dean Alford, he said, seemed incapable of abstaining even for a single month, so that, he said, if ever a month passed by without his appearing in the "Contemporary Review" or the "Sunday Magazine" or some similar publication, we can imagine his taking up the language of the Psalmist, and saying: "I kept silence, yea, even from 'Good Words,' but it was pain and grief unto me."

An Informal Call.

That a certain degree of formality is desirable is suggested by an amusing story from the Chicago "News" of a neighborly call. The far-reaching results of the visit can readily be imagined.

"Good evening," said the elderly woman, approaching the steps. "I see you are enjoying the fresh air. It's a luxury to be able to sit outside again, isn't it?"

"It is pleasant," responded the woman who was sitting on the front steps.

"I don't believe you know me. I am Mrs. Baxter, your neighbor, two doors off. No, don't get up. I'll just sit down here beside you. Don't say a word now. I have intended to call ever since you moved in, but you know how it is. There's always something. And when I saw you come out and sit down I said to my husband, 'I'm just going to run over right now. If she thinks I'm informal I don't mind, because I am informal, I always was.' And he just laughed and told me to go ahead. He says he thinks he met your husband some years ago. How do you like your house? You needn't tell me, though, for I hardly suppose you've got used to it yet, and it's so discouraging getting settled; and then I saw Mrs. Thomas, your next-door neighbor on the other side, a day or two ago, and she tells me that you've been having awful trouble getting a servant. You needn't say anything. I know exactly what it is. I don't know what the girls are coming to. They don't seem to want to work, and they're most of them worthless when you do get one. I've had more ——"

The other woman had twice made a movement as if to rise, but had been prevented by the detaining hand of the informal caller. This time, however, she got up.

"If you're wanting to see Mrs. Gossage, ma'am, you'll have to call again, for she's gone to the theayter and won't be back till late," she said, with cold dignity. "I ain't Mrs. Gossage myself, I'm the cook."

The Resemblance.

Jack—These summer engagements are like automobiles. Vivian—How so? Jack—Well, they jar one so, they are so easily broken, and a girl is never happy unless she's in one; and some of them are decidedly dangerous.—"Judge."

UNCLE SAMUEL IN AN UGLY LIGHT

A Sample of the Tyranny of the United States Immigration System

Mr. D. Bernhard, a member of the firm of Ehrenback, Brumum, and Company, manufacturers and export merchants of Bradford and Manchester, England, who is at present stopping in Toronto, has an interesting story to tell of "the land of the free" to the south of us. In Russia, one knows that one must secure a passport and submit to an official inquisition at every turn, but in the great American Republic, one expects to travel unmolested. Very different, however, was the experience of Mr. Brenhard.

Last Saturday, Mr. Bernhard had to make a business trip from Montreal to Detroit. As the train was crossing the boundary a United States official questioned him as to whence he came and his destination. Mr. Bernhard supplied the required information: that he came from Montreal and was going to Detroit, and in reply to further questions told the official that he had been in Canada only three weeks. Having passed on and interviewed some of the other passengers, in a few minutes this representative of the free Government of the United States returned to Mr. Bernhard and said, "You are my prisoner, sir, I arrest you."

Treating the matter as a joke, Mr. Bernhard asked for what offence he was to be taken into custody. The officer replied that Mr. Bernhard would have to be identified, and that as it was then too late for identification, he would have to be put in the jail, until 3 o'clock the next afternoon. Mr. Bernhard was in a position to secure identification from his business connections in Detroit, but the officer refused to look them up at that time. As a concession he offered to take his baggage checks as security, but Mr. Bernhard had no baggage but a small grip. Then the official gave it as his final judgment that Mr. Bernhard must go to a jail for the offence of presuming to enter Uncle Sam's territory without having a jury of twelve on hand to identify him.

"But," said Mr. Bernhard, "if the law is as you say, why did not the authorities arrest me when I landed at New York three weeks ago, before I went to Montreal?"

At this the inflated breast of the official sank. He apologized. He gave Mr. Bernhard his freedom. He explained that his authority only extended to foreigners landing at Canadian ports. Naturally enough, all this has not raised Mr. Bernhard's opinion of American officialdom.

Good Listening.

Good talking is largely dependent on "good hearing." The fact that a man is able to do his mental powers the justice of brilliant expression may be due to the presence of some receptive mind, ready to invite and appreciate. Wits may clash to the point of deafening themselves. The sympathetic and silent listener is the buffer between.

Ruskin is said to have been excellent company. He spoke in a tone of "gentle and playful earnestness." He had floods of thought and knowledge to pour forth, if only he could get the right hearers. But there were the barren occasions when listeners were absent.

One day a friend gave a little dinner for him. Doctor Jowett and Dean Stanley. But no sooner had the dinner begun than the host realized his mistake. He had provided no setting for his jewels, no junior men as hearers. "They wanted to meet one another," he said. "It should have gone off brilliantly, but the soup came, and the fish followed, and they simply would not talk. At last I said some stupid thing to Stanley about the architecture of Westminster Abbey, and that drew Ruskin and started us all off. Then all went well. But I shall never make the same mistake again."

A True Portrait.

The widow was taking her first look at the bust of her beloved husband. The clay was still damp. "Pray examine it well, madam" said the sculptor. "If there is anything wrong I can alter it." The widow looked at it with a mixture of sorrow and satisfaction.

"It is just like him" she said "a perfect portrait—his large nose—the sign of goodness." Here she burst into tears. "He was so good! Make the nose a little larger."

War Echoes.

The London Star is continuing its series of war echoes, and one of the most recent of these is explained by the following paragraph and the accompanying illustration:—Col. W. A. Dunne, Q.-M.-G., at headquarters, in his evidence before the War Commission, said:—"There were more complaints about Canadian supplies than any other. I remember the Canadian cheese was objected to. They complained that it did not keep properly out there."

The Senior Sergeant (taken by surprise): "Open order! Take cover!"

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 26.—There was a very strong close to the stock market last night as the result of buying for account of certain prominent interests. The so called up town element is known to be bullish, though the Waldorf crowd and the new street contingent are rather inclined to sell the specialties. The money situation at present is favorable and a better bank statement is expected. The commission house business during the past few days has been more active. The foreign elemnet has been buying on a moderate scale of late. The railroad news generally continues quite favorable. The labor situation continues rather uncertain, and many interests are inclined to express doubtful views with regard to the future.

SEEK WAR WITH TURKEY

Bulgarian and Servian Officers Plan Combin Attack

Sofia, Nov. 14.—Previous reports of a conspiracy of Bulgarian and Servian officers to provoke war with Turkey have been officially confirmed. According to these reports Turkey was to be attacked by the combined armies of the two countries.

A search of the officers quarters at Philippopolis, Tirhova and other places in Bulgaria, it was said, revealed compromising letters and revolutionary documents directed against Prince Ferdinand. This latter part of the rumor, however, proves to be untrue.

It is said that a number of young officers of Macedonian nationality planned to create a casus belli by forcing a conflict on the frontier. The minister of war has ordered the removal of 140 officers.

Delaware, O., Nov. 12.—Prince Yee, second son of the Emperor of Corea, who has been a student here since the college year began, left today for Washington, and it is said he will not return. Persecution by students is said to be the cause of his departure. A few nights ago burglars entered his apartments and he was forced to see his valuables taken while a masked man aimed a revolver at him.

Despicable Duplicity

Berlin, Nov. 18.—The Tageblatt and National Zeitung yesterday printed strong comments on what they describe as "the despicable duplicity" of the United States in the Panama affair.

The Brother as a Chaperon.

A chaperon is a luxury not within the reach of all girls, and the only real substitute of value is a brother. But when a brother accepts this most useful office he is looked upon as a "makeshift," and as a person undesirable and incompetent. Therefore, a mother takes pains to secure for her daughter the companionship of almost anyone of her own sex rather than a brother.

This is a gross injustice to brothers. Any girl who has been chaperoned by her brother will tell you that he is the best possible person for the office. Any man who has enjoyed the society of a young lady under the chaperonage of her brother will say the same. Brothers who have acted as chaperons say that a man takes to the work quite naturally and with plenty of confidence. In addition to this evidence, it is common knowledge that the chaperon dislikes her office, is disliked by the young lady she chaperons, and by the men who would know the young lady.

A man is liked best as a chaperon because he is broad-minded and generous. He does not want to lead his sister into the most crowded parts of the flower-show and talk inanities to old bores; he doesn't reprove her if she dares to say something funny. He doesn't preserve a countenance of prim severity, and pose as the goddess of propriety. Neither does he take his sister into the company of undesirable men, as lady chaperons often do; he gives such persons a wide berth, and introduces his little sister only to those men who are good, honest, whole-hearted fellows.

The brother chaperon can give his sister much advice that will be of more use to her than etiquette books. He can point out the men she should not know, and he can unhesitatingly expose their worthlessness. He can tell her a dozen little things that stamp the good man as a good man, and a dozen others that mark the bad one for what he is.

There is no fear of a brother leading his sister into indiscretions. That is the last thing he would do. He takes at the same time a lively interest in a love affair, and does his best to leave the young couple alone together for five minutes at intervals.

The brother chaperon is rare, because the only one available is he who has a greater fondness for his own sister than somebody else's.—"Modern Society."

One of Bangs' Political Experiences.

At a recent fraternity dinner John Kendrick Bangs told this story as one of his political experiences, says the New York "Times":

"At the time I was running for mayor of Yonkers I saw a laborer digging in a trench, and I thought I would try to capture his vote. I went up to him and said:

"'Hello, Pat!'

"He looked at me without recognizing me, and said: 'Good mornin', sor.'

"I said it was a fine day and asked him if he had made up his mind how he would vote at the election.

"'Oi don't know, sor; but wan thing is sure, Oi'll not vote for that dahm fule Bangs.'

"'Why not?'

"'Well,' said he, 'he's a swell and a roosterorat and a dood.'

"I explained to him as best I could that Mr. Bangs was none of these things, and, even if he was, it was because he couldn't help it. I invited him to come and have a drink with me; he accepted, and, after having taken two or three drinks, we became very friendly. While he was in a seemingly affable mood I confessed that I was Bangs.

"I had a cigar in my pocket, and as it was the last of a box that Robert Louis Stevenson had sent me from Samoa, I prized it highly. But much as I prized it, I thought it well spent if I could clinch Pat's vote with it.

"I asked Pat if he would smoke, and he said he would. He took the cigar, bit off the end, put it in his mouth, and lit it. Then suddenly he grasped the cigar and threw it violently to the ground.

"In astonishment I asked him: 'Isn't it a good cigar?'

"'Yes, sor,' he said, 'the seegar is good enough, but in me excitement in meetin' you Oi forgot Oi niver smoke.'"

On the Road.

Sweet, we must never meet and part again;
'Twere too much pain;
We needs must go our journey through this life
Without much grief or strife for fear we walk too slow
And we have far to go.

Sweet, you and I must never meet and kiss;
'Twere too much bliss;
We have to go our journey soberly
Without much ecstasy for fear we walk too fast
And miss the way at last.

Sweet, you and I must follow separate ways
And pass our days
And not too much remember nor forget
Too utterly, for yet, remains the unknown inn
Wherein
(All our wayfaring being past and done)
At set of sun
After the shine and rain
We take our ease, and maybe meet again
—Ford M. Hueffer, in "Outlook."

The Female Barber.

"Most fellows have a fancy barmaid," says "David Harum" in the "Sydney Bulletin." "My fancy is a pretty little lady barber, who has to pat every common Johnny in creation under the chin, and soap him with both tongue and brush at the same time. It makes me jealous. I visit her three times a week, generally at slack times, and as she scrapes my face she tells me her troubles and sometimes allows a big tear to drop on my nose.

"She works from 8.30 to 6 on weekdays and till 10 on Saturdays, and gets fifteen shillings per week. There are two other women in the shop—the proprietress and a slave, like my little woman, who does the same and gets the same—viz., fifteen shillings per week. My girl reckons the hawk-eyed proprietress is a devil to get on with, and clears £10 a week. She fines the girls sixpence every time they cut a man. My girl loses on an average four shillings a week at this. 'Unless you soon earn enough to marry me, I'll be cutting someone's throat,' she said yesterday. Poor little beggar! She's miserable. Took her out last Sunday afternoon. Passed two Johnnies; heard one of them say, 'There's the little girl from the barber's shop!' Felt mad, and would have jumped on him—only it was Sunday. I'm only a struggling journalist, and as soon as I am able to dig my hand deeper into the pocket where 'The Bulletin' keeps its money, my 'lady barber fancy' and I will be wedded. Oh, happy day!"

Prospectus

—OF THE—

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arisona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

IF YOU HAVE

CATARRH

Remember the best Catarrh medicine that money can buy is Catarrhozone; it cures quickly and permanently when all else fails

The remedy don't exist that will cure Catarrh as quickly as Catarrhozone. It relieves the most stubborn cases in a short time, and drives the disease so thoroughly from the system that it never returns.

Druggists boldly recommend Catarrhozone in preferrence to other remedies, because they know it is the best, and every progressive doctor prescribed it for the same good reason.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common-sense treatment that finds favor with everybody. It cures by the inhalation of medicated air, which comes into contact with the mucous surface of all the breathing organs. It gets at the source of the trouble, kills the germs and drives every vestige of catarrh right out of the system.

It doesn't matter how deep-seated or chronic your case may be. Catarrhozone can cure it. Even though a thousand other remedies have failed, don't give up hope till you have used Catarrhozone. It has cured other cases probably worse than yours, and will cure yours if it gets a chance.

Mr. Dutcher Law, a prominent citizen of Italy Cross, N.S., says: "I experimented with hundreds of catarrh remedies and found the majority to be worthless, dismal failures. Catarrhozone was the first to give lasting relief; it cured me and I am with pleasure testifying to its merits as a cure for Catarrh of the nose or throat.

(Signed) DUTCHER LAW.

You are sure to derive the most pleasant results from Catarrhozone. It has been tested many times and never found wanting. Every druggist in Canada sells it. Complete two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure costs $1, or a trial size 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Many Seizures of Game

Chief Game Warden Tinsley, of Toronto, has made a large number of seizures of game, which has been illegally shipped. The practice is to ship partridges as chicken and venison as mutton. Some consignments of game even go under the names of glass, crockery, and other appellations calculated to deceive. The seized shipments are put in cold storage and given to charitable institutions.

Last night, in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Prof. Hutton, Principal of Toronto University, delivered a lecture on "The Wit and Wisdom of Herodatus," to a good audience. The lecture, as might be expected, was a rare literary treat. At the conclusion of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer.

Sir,—The voters of Ashburnham ought to see for themselves the insulting lawlessness that prevails in the village, and vote only for Councillors who are not afraid to enforce the law. Another G. T. R. Track

Port Hope Times—Mr. Hazen, the G.T.R. engineer, who has been employed on the new double track for the last two years, is engaged in surveying a new route for the Midland Branch from Garden Hill to Port Hope. This new route is expected to do away with the steep grades and will be double-tracked to allow the grain and lumber to come by this route instead of going around by the old Belleville route. The surveyors are at present near Osaca school house. Many of the farmers complain that the lines being surveyed cut up their farms so as to destroy the greater part of their value.

LINDSAY BRAKEMAN KILLED

While Coupling Cars at Orillia—Head Crushed Between Cars

A fatal railway accident occurred at Orillia on Tuesday, Brakeman McBride, of this division of the G.T.R. being the victim. From what can be learned he was in the act of coupling cars—a box and a flat laden with lumber—and was caught between the two and crushed to death almost instantly. It is not known whether it was carelessness in the loading of the car, or whether the lumber had shifted before the accident

McBride had only been with the company for a short time, but had made a favorable impression on his fellow work men. When in Lindsay he made his home at Mrs. Pearce's on Russell st. His parents reside north of Coboconk on the shore of the big Mud Turtle Lake, where his remains were taken for interment.

THE OLD ROMAN DAYS

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell Longs for Better Condition of Things

Mr. J. Alexr. Culverwell, of Peterborough, writes The Times: "As there has been so much discussion and newspaper misrepresentation as to what I stated in my address at the Port Hope Canal Association meeting, which meeting passed a resolution protesting against the selfish request of some Peterborough-Lakefield power-holders, and calling upon the Dominion and Ontario Governments to open up the Canal to Lake Ontario—instead of considering the power-holders request—I might say for the benefit of certain power-holders—high in political circles—that besides the statements mentioned in my article in the Toronto Globe of 14th inst., (to which no reply has yet been made) I ended my address with the following words: "Oh! that we to-day, in this Canada of ours, had the condition of things; as existed in the old days of Rome—as Macaulay says in the 'Days of Ancient Rome':

> 'Then none were for a party,
> Then all were for the state
> Then the great man helped the poor,
> And the poor man loved the great.

There are a great many hungry hearted women who would attend a baby sale if babies were ever offered for sale, because there are a great many wives who love children and have been told by physicians that they can never hope to nurse a child of their own.

Some of these women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of womanly ills have been made happy mothers as a result of the cure of womanly disease and the building up of the general health.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I wrote to you some time ago to get information about my case," says Mrs. [illegible], of Dayton, Va. "I was troubled with female weakness and pains. Received answer from you, advising me to take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and found it did me good. I had been married four years and had no children; now I can say that our home is blessed with a little baby boy, [illegible], by the help of God and your medicine. I praise your medicine highly."

THE SON OF EX- U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Pe-ru-na to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Louis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverdy Johnson who was United States Senator from Maryland, also Attorney General under President Johnson, and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 1006 F St., N. W., Washington, D.C., Mr. Johnson says:

"No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend its use to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."—Louis E. Johnson.

Catarrh Poisons.

Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into scalding fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the places affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, atomisers and inhalants only serve as temporary relief.

There is but one remedy that has the desired effect, and that remedy is Peruna. This remedy strikes at once to the roots of catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels their healthy elasticity. Peruna is not a temporary palliative, but a radical cure.

WHERE DOES ALL THE MONEY COME FROM?

"A Manitoba Barrister" Says That Both Political Parties in Canada are in the Pay of the Manufacturers

London, Nov. 21. — A letter in The Spectator from a barrister in good position in Manitoba says: "The manufacturers furnish the sinews of war to both political parties, and the leaders of neither will dare to fall out with their paymasters. 'The agricultural West is in the hands of the manufacturing East.' The barrister cannot conceive what bargain Mr. Chamberlain can make with Canada for a mutual preference that will prove satisfactory to either side. "Out here the best men avoid politics. The feeling here is that every politician has an axe to grind. At elections money flows like water. Where it comes from nobody seems to know, though we have a shrewd suspicion."

A QUESTION FOR MR. FOSTER.

"Canadian" has a long letter in The Standard, in which he asks Hon. G. E. Foster, if his party is returned to power, whether he intends to still further lower the duties on British goods. "Time and time again Mr. Foster's party have expressed a determination to further protect Canadian industries, and it is puzzling to understand how the members of that party can at the same time support Mr. Chamberlain's scheme."

PREMIER ROBLIN'S ARTICLE.

The Speaker, commenting upon Premier Roblin's article in The North American Review, says: "Mr. Roblin thinks he is writing in support of Mr. Chamberlain, but his article points, in fact, a very different moral."

LYTTELTON UNLIKE CHAMBERLAIN.

The Liverpool West African merchants who interviewed Hon. Alfred Lyttelton have, says The Manchester Daily Despatch, returned with very mixed impressions of him. "Gentlemen," said Mr. Lyttelton, when they entered the room, "I am taking my first lesson in West African affairs. What can I do for you." The merchants were rather staggered at the idea that the government of West Africa had been placed in the hands of a man who frankly said he knew nothing about it. One merchant remarked after the interview. "He doesn't seem to take the same keen interest in the business of the Colonial Office as Mr. Chamberlain did."

TRADE DELEGATES ON CANADA.

At a meeting of the Walsall and District Chamber of Commerce, to receive reports of the delegates to the Montreal Congress, Mr. T. A. Smith said he was struck by the air of comfort and prosperity which pervaded the country. "The houses of artisans were such as middle classes occupy here, and the standard of living is 50 per cent. higher than that of the working classes here." Another delegate declared that Canadian industries were to a great extent under the control of a foreign country. It was decided to forward a vote of thanks to the Montreal Board of Trade and other bodies who assisted in entertaining the delegates.

LORD STRATHCONA CRITICIZED.

The Outlook thinks it would not be wrong in tracing the hand, or, at least, the influence, of Mr. Goldwin Smith in the diatribe against Lord Strathcona. [The reference is to an article in the which appeared in The Farmers Sun, last issue of The Weekly Sun, in which it was claimed that, in reading the deputation of agents-general to present an address to Mr. Chamberlain on his retirement from the Colonial Office, Lord Strathcona had identified himself with a political party in England.]

AN IMPERIAL CLUB WANTED.

A writer in The Spectator, suggesting the formation of an Imperial Club for London, says: "Possibly some millionaire of the Empire, half-Londoner, half-colonist, like Mr. Beit, Lord Strathcona or Lord Mountstephen, might be tempted to erect a monument of Empire by buying some great historic house and presenting it to the Empire to serve as an Imperial club house."

CORONATION CHAIR.

An exact reproduction of the Coronation Chair in Westminster Abbey has been made for a Canadian museum. The model has the same worn, slightly seedy appearance, and underneath it is a representation of the Stone of Scone.

THE NEW YORK STRIKE

Serious Results Attend the Building Trades in New York

New York, Nov. 23.—On account of the labor troubles of the past summer, the George A. Fuller Company, which constitutes the construction department of the United States Realty Company, has decided to reduce its working force to a minimum. It will fulfill its present contracts, but may not take on any new contracts until the building trade is more stable, except under favorable conditions. Practically all of its estimating force has been discharged, and it has allowed another firm of general contractors, the Thompson-Starrett Company, to take a large contract in Boston, which the Fuller Company might have undertaken.

The following statement was made "It is not true that the United States Realty Company has decided to abandon the construction department. It is true, however, that we have largely reduced our working force. All our estimators, have been discharged except the chief estimator, and there have been considerable reductions in the other departments of our working force.

"This reduction has become necessary on account of the depressed state of the building industry, brought about by the unusual labor disturbances this season. The depression affects all contractors. Matters are at such a pass that capitalists are afraid to invest until more stable conditions prevail. The building business has received a setback for the winter, which is affecting every one, and far less than the normal volume of work will be done.

"While the Fuller Company in common with other contractors is reducing its working force very considerably, it is still continuing business, and when the building trade reaches a stable condition will do its share as hitherto. There is little business to be done now, owing to the effect of the building troubles, but we have a good many contracts on hand here which will be carried through."

THE UNITED STATES AFTER MORE TERRITORY

She Now Wants to Buy the French Islands Off Newfoundland.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The information received regarding the avowed purpose of the United States to acquire French rights on the west shore of Newfoundland causes an uneasy feeling here. It is felt that Great Britain should lose no time in arranging a settlement with France, so as to forestal the Americans.

St. John's, Nfld., November 22.—There is considerable discussion in official circles here over United States Senator Lodge's declaration that the United States should secure St. Pierre And Miquelon, thereby making herself completely independent of Newfoundland regarding fishery concessions, instead of allowing England to secure them.

Official expressions of opinion are to the effect that Senator Lodge does not voice the feelings of the American people in this matter. It is pointed out that Newfoundland could just as completely cripple St. Pierre if it came into American possession as she is now doing, in spite of France, through the operation of her bait act.

Furthermore it is urged, Great Britain and Canada would never allow the United States to secure such an outpost, dominating the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Newspaper comments indicate the existence of a fear that Senator Lodge's utterances mean trouble along the lines of the recent Alaskan boundary award.

COLONIES' BULWARK LIES IN ENGLAND

Marquis of Salisbury Says Britain Would Fire Last Shot

London, Nov. 23.—The Marquis of Salisbury, speaking at a Wyndham party at the Conservative Club said it was clear that our growth and extension of power must be sought in our Colonies. If the interests of our Colonies were attacked we would spend our last shilling and fire our last cartridge in defense of them. Yet there was no arrangement for any common action between ourselves and the Colonies, such as would prevail in any business like concern in the world.

THE IMPERIAL BOND.

E. W. Beckett, M.P., in a speech yesterday said that the Empire could only hold together by a feeling among the Colonists themselves that they are proud to belong to the Empire, and are important members of a great family. The Canadian manufacturers had complained that we had been dumping goods into Canada. Canadians did not intend to dig and plough for us, unless they found it desirable to do so.

COLONIAL SUPPORT.

The Daily Graphic refers those ill-informed persons, who affirm that Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy lacks Colonial support to the Premier of Manitoba's article in the North American Review. The Graphic says it deserves the careful reading due to one of the best presentations that has yet appeared of the Colonial aspect of Mr. Chamberlain's program.

The British Wood Pulp Association has decided to put into its standard contract the following clause: "All duties, if any, levied on wood pulp under this contract to be payable by the purchaser."

IN THE FOREFRONT OF THE CAMPAIGN

Position of Honor Given to Hon. Geo. E. Foster in England

London, Nov. 22.—Hon. Geo. E. Foster is to attack another stronghold of free trade. He addresses on Monday next a great public meeting at Oldham in Lancashire, in Winston Churchill's constituency. The selection of Mr. Foster for the forefront of the campaign is the best evidence of his unparalleled success with British audiences.

He has addressed sixteen meetings in the leading industrial centres, at which the aggregate attendance has been 100,000. Everywhere he has received a splendid welcome.

The Tariff Reform League officers say: "We have received many requests for Mr. Foster to address meetings in all parts of England, Ireland and Scotland."

INTERVIEW WITH MR. FOSTER.

Mr. Foster is paying London a flying visit this week end in the interval of his provincial speeches, and has made the following statement to a newspaper correspondent: "The preferential movement is undoubtedly taking a strong hold of the British public and is rapidly becoming the talk among business men and the working classes. I never addressed more attentive or interested audiences, anxious to hear and quick to appreciate the point at issue. This is the first straight, bold challenge to Cobdenism, and under cover of it men are beginning to examine and think.

"The Imperial side of the question is attracting attention, a better knowledge of Canada and the Colonies accentuating the great importance of consolidation from the trade and Imperial points of view. All parts of Britain are being covered by the campaign. The progress so far has been phenomenal, and surprises both friends and opponents of the new issue. Mr. Chamberlain's personality is very strong. His speeches are daily attracting adherents."

New C.P.R. Pullman Cars

Two brand new Pullman cars, fresh from the workshops of the company in Montreal, have been placed in commission in connection with the C.P.R.'s Boston-Montreal Air Line. In the construction of both cars the C.P.R. style of interior finishings have been adopted—white mahogany with a green ceiling. Externally they are the same as all other Pullman cars. It is the intention of the company, we understand, to place similar cars on this division.

BISHOP MILLS AT ST. JOHN'S

The Right Reverend Bishop of Ontario Delivered an Eloquent Sermon Yesterday Morning.

The Right Rev. Dr. Mills, the Bishop of Ontario, took part in the morning service at St. John's church yesterday, reading the first lesson and preaching a very eloquent sermon. The Rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, in a brief address of welcome to the distinguished visitor on the occasion of his unofficial visit to a neighboring diocese, emphasized the fact that St. John's is a church which has been associated, without intermission, with the history of Peterborough from its earliest pioneer days to its present era of progress and prosperity. St. John's church, he said, is trying to serve the whole community, and in no narrow or sectarian spirit.

The Bishop selected for his text the first verse of the first chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans: "Paul the servant of Jesus Christ." The reverend gentleman remarked that St. Paul, in his many epistles, incidentally refers to his being branded by the marks of Jesus Christ, from which we may deduce that he never entirely recovered from Christ's manifestation to him near Damascus, but was on that occasion stricken with a peculiarly eastern disease, from which he suffered at intervals to the time of his death. St. Paul always alluded to himself as "the servant of Jesus Christ," and the church teaches that we, like him, are servants and bondsmen to our Saviour, living in a state of bondage to our conscience and to our God. But the dead have no authority over the living, and this text, "Paul the servant of Jesus Christ," means that Christ lives. "I take it," continued the eloquent divine, "that in prayer the majority of people look to where Christ is not. They are prone to consider him a dead Saviour rather than a victorious King, sitting on His throne in heaven, and I believe the reason so many prayers are unanswered is because they are misdirected—by looking to where Christ was instead of to where he is today." The Bishop did not wish to be misunderstood, however; we should not lose sight of Christ's act of propitiation on the cross at Calvary by any means, but he urged his hearers to remember also the fact that Christ is a real living presence today, and to rely on the answer given by the angel of the Lord to Mary Magdalene at the sepulchre, "He is not here, for he is risen." In referring to the recognized position of man, the eloquent preacher drew comparisons between the condition of the human race today under the influence of the Gospel, and that of ages past. History teaches us that prior to Christ's advent and the subsequent spread of his gospel, human life was considered nothing in the eyes of eastern monarchs, who killed their subjects at will, and sometimes by means of fiendish tortures, merely to satisfy their inhuman senses of sound and sight. Even under an advanced state of civilization, human beings were torn to pieces by wild beasts, in arenas crowded with thousands of excited people who delighted in such inhuman exhibitions of blood and suffering. Today, however, under the influence of Christ's gospel, man is no longer a nonentity; his true position is recognized, and he is educated up to his relationship with Christ, who, as the scriptures sayeth, refused to take upon himself the form of angels, but came on earth from the seed of Abraham.

In conclusion, Bishop Mills urged his hearers to realize with St. Paul that they are servants and bondsmen of Jesus Christ, and, like him, to look to Christ risen rather than to Christ dead.

The Bishop preached in St. Luke's last evening.

HOLLAND'S FISCAL TROUBLE

The Dutch Nation is Passing Through Financial Crisis

The Hague, Nov. 23.—Holland is passing through an unprecedented financial crisis owing to the heavy slump in American stocks. Banks are failing in nearly all the principal cities and trade is suffering accordingly. Thus far the failures has been confined mainly to the smaller banks, but the collapse of the Hollandsche Bank at The Hague has occurred, and some of the most stable financiers are affected. One of the foremost bankers of this city said to a newspaper correspondent this morning: "If American rails continue to fall, more banks will fail. If the drop proves very great, probably not more than five banks in The Hague will be able to maintain payment. The cause of the trouble is that there are too many minor banks and too many middle class investors over eager to make money. Small bankers, greedy for profits, induce their customers to deal in stocks, but are not able to bear the strain of a movement like that which is at present trying the financial fabric of the United States.

"I assisted four banks already today, and anticipate further calls. High taxes and meager earnings are driving hundreds of Hollanders to speculate in nearly every part of the country, but especially in The Hague and Amsterdam. Happily in Rotterdam the people are different. There they generally put their money in trade."

A ROYAL VISITOR

Emperor Francis Joseph will Visit the Vatican

Rome, Nov. 23.—Francis Joseph of Austria has officially informed the Italian Government that he intends to cruise in the Mediterranean in the spring for his health, and that he is desirous of taking advantage of that opportunity to return the visit paid by the late King Humbert to Vienna. If no objection is made he will visit Rome twice—once from Naples when he will visit the Vatican and again from Chivita-Vecchia, when he will visit the Quirinal. Negotiations are pending as to which of the two visits should be made first. The Government insists on precedence being given to the visit of King Victor Emmanuel.

DOUBLE TRACKING THE LINE

Grand Trunk Completes One More Section Double Tracking

Montreal, Nov. 23.—One more section of double tracking on the Grand Trunk Railway System has been completed, and a second is approaching that state.

The new second track between Lacadie and St. John's, in this province, was put into service on Monday.

The grading of the double track between Kingsmont Junction and Sarnia is almost finished, and it is expected that the double tracking will be completed and in shape for use between those points by the end of the current month.

A PUBLIC MEETING

To Discuss Union to be Held To-morrow Night

His Worship, Mayor G. M. Roger, has called a public meeting, to be held in the Council Chamber tomorrow evening, commencing at 8 o'clock, to discuss the question of Municipal Union between the Town of Peterborough and the Village of Ashburnham. This question has been considerably agitated of late, and representative men should accept this opportunity to publicly announce their views on a scheme which has at last been put into tangible shape for submission to the ratepayers. Let there be a big meeting, and plenty of discussion to the point. To be or not to be a "Greater Peterborough" is now before the public, and the arguments for or against so weighty a step should be fully presented at to-morrow night's meeting.

There will also be a public meeting held in Ashburnham on the same evening, when villagers will likewise give consideration to the question.

PINAFORE

To be Presented in the Opera House on Thursday and Friday Evening

Pinafore, one of Gilbert Sullivan's pretty operas, is to be presented for the first time to a Peterborough audience, on Thursday and Friday evening next, under the auspices of the King's Daughters, by one hundred well trained voices, directed by Mr. Teigmann, of Kingston.

The opera is a love scene on board ship in which the principal characters are Josephine, Ralph, Capt. Corcoran, Admiral Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., Buttercup, Phoebe, and the odd old boatswain, Dick Deadeye, assisted by the remaining members, who take the choral part, which is exceedingly beautiful.

A rehearsal was held in the opera house on Saturday afternoon, and great progress is being made by each one in mastering their part. The opera, when put on on Thursday and Friday, promises to be a great treat to all those who have the opportunity to be present, as everything possible is being done to make it one of the best ever presented to a Peterborough audience.

PREPARING FOR THE VOTE

Conservatives of East Peterborough to Meet at Norwood

The Conservatives of East Peterborough are to meet in convention in the Town Hall, on Thursday, Dec. 3rd, to nominate a candidate to contest the riding in the forthcoming elections for the House of Commons. A HEAVY SENTENCE

Fred Norman Gets Two Years for Stealing Goods

In the police court Saturday morning a young man was fined $2 and $2.50 costs for having been drunk and disorderly.

John Richardson for having retained in his possession one saw, a plane, a square and an oil can, the property of J. W. Elliott, was given one month at hard labor.

WAS LITTLE PRINCESS ELIZABETH POISONED?

Now Declared That She Fell a Victim to a Plot to Kill the Czar and Czarina

New York, Nov. 21.—The World this morning publishes the following cable: Berlin, Nov. 21.—Sinister rumors come from Skiernewice, Poland, accounting for the sudden death of the little Princess Elizabeth of Hesse, niece of the Czarina of Russia, at the moment of a family reunion.

The unfortunate little Princess and her father were the guests at Skiernewice of the Czar and Czarina, and it is now said that an attempt was made to poison the whole Royal party.

The Princess was the only victim, although the Czarina was made very ill and the Czar was more or less affected by the poison.

There was some wonder that the Czar and Czarina did not attend the funeral of their niece, but it is now explained that they were too ill to be present.

The accounts given of the illness of the Princess tally with the suggestion of poison.

The Grand Duchess of Coburg, mother of the divorced Grand Duchess of Hesse and of the Czarina, is using all her influence to utilize the present sad event to bring about a reconciliation between her daughter and the Grand Duke of Hesse, but her efforts have availed nothing so far.

THE SOO WORKS

Reorganization of the Soo Works Practically Assured

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—The success of the re-organization plan of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company is practically assured. Representatives of the banking institution concerned in the Speyer syndicate, which holds all the corporation's securities for the 15,050,000, met at the banking house of Speyer & Co. in New York yesterday, and it is said agreed to substantiate whatever of their share in the loan is necessary for the bonds of the proposed company. This assures the sale of the property on December 15, to the Moffly Re-organization Committee. At a meeting in New York of the members of the Moffly Committee and their counsel, as well as representatives of the syndicate were present. Reports were read from the Fidelity Trust Company, of New York, as well as letters from many stockholders, promising support for the plan. Gratification was expressed at the reports of the depositors and it was shown that more than 80 per cent. of the stockholders would pay their $3 share assessment, and also participate to some extent in the underwriting of the bonds. The banking institutions assured the committee men that on the basis of 80 per cent. of the stock-holders participating in the plan, they would take bonds for whatever share they hold in the loan that shall be deemed necessary.

Deer Hunting Photographs

Mr. J. W. Swan, official photographer of the Grand Trunk Railway System, has returned to Montreal from a ten days' sojourn in the hunting regions situated on the Company's lines in "The Highlands of Ontario." Mr. Swan made the trip with a view of securing an additional collection of negatives of deer hunting pictures to add to the already large series which the Company have now, and which are being utilized to exploit the great attractions which are found in Ontario for the sportsman.

He was most successful in his quest, and has been able to obtain a number of excellent views, not only depicting the hunter in the act of securing his quarry, but several scenes of the game being hauled to camp, camping scenes and views of large numbers of deer at the several stations being got ready for transportation.

The Grand Trunk Railway System have made a specialty in the last few years of advertising the many attractions that Canada holds forth for the tourist, angler and sportsman, especially disseminating the information for the delectation of the increasing brotherhood of travellers from the United States. Thousands of dollars have been expended in this direction, with the result that the traffic has increased phenomenally. It is safe to say that the Grand Trunk are doing more than any other factor to advertise Canada as the Mecca for the summer visitor and the sportsman.

ECUADOR TRIES TO SELL TERRITORY

Would Dispose of the Malapagos Islands for a Price

A GOOD COALING STATION

Assurances That Panama Canal wil Be Built Increases Value Fifty Per Cent.

Paris, Nov. 23.—Agents of the South American Republic of Ecuador who are at present in Europe trying to sell the Malapagos Islands, are not discouraged by the rebuff with which they have met in France. They have gone to Berlin to offer the group to the Kaiser. They emphasize the advantage a continental nation would obtain by having a coaling station and other rights near the new canal. The assured completion of the Panama Canal is also offered by Ecuador as an obvious pretext for the reopening of their offer to sell the islands. No mention of the Monroe doctrine is made by the agents. They even assume a lofty tone as if Ecuador did not mean to vacate entirely its sovereign rights even should a sale be effected. A newspaper correspondent was informed this morning by one of the leading financiers of this city that if Ecuador's agents should not succeed in disposing of the islands, to a foreign power, they have the authority to cede the group to a syndicate of French capitalists who once before had the option of the Malapagos Guano Islands, but refused to buy them.

Now they are anxious to get possession of the islands in view of the certainty of the completion of the canal. At the Ecuador Legation this morning the officials declared that their Government had not informed them that such an enterprise was on foot, but assert that the Government of Ecuador was not likely to have acted without overtures on the part of some Continental power. It is understood that the price of the islands has been nearly doubled since the independence of Panama has been assured.

—Crowds, as usual, visited the Cereal dam and lift lock yesterday.

COLOMBIANS WILL FIGHT.

Reyes Predicts War Like That Against the Boers in South Africa

Colon, Nov. 21.—After much difficulty the Associated Press correspondent succeeded this afternoon in interviewing General Reyes, the distinguished Colombian soldier who came to the isthmus on a peace mission representing his Government. Gen. Reyes said in part: "This morning Admiral Coghlan informed me officially that the United States would prevent the landing of Colombian troops on any part of the isthmus. I promised Admiral Coghlan that Colombia would not take such action until I reached Washington, whither I am proceeding via Port Limon and New Orleans. I also told Admiral Coghlan that if my efforts at Washington fail to bring about some arrangement concerning the present situation on the isthmus satisfactory to Colombia, the United States would have to fight the entire Colombian people, and that it would be a second Boer war. I am going to Washington for the purpose of doing my utmost to amicably arrange present matters.

"Colombia is in desperation. I doubt if the Washington Government or President Roosevelt, for whom I have the highest respect, realizes the seriousness of establishing this precedent. A large German colony in Rio Grade do Sul, Brazil, is declared to be inclining to a revolutionary movement for independence, which the success of Panama will stimulate. The Government of Colombia is receiving the sympathy of all South America, which is fearful of further American territorial aggrandizement in this direction."

Asked whether Colombian troops could reach the isthmus by land, General Reyes answered: "Yes, I can get 100,000 men, build roads, and, if it were not for the Americans, would subdue the isthmus in a fortnight. I would rather die for the honor and in the defence of the integrity of my country that sit with hands folded and see her lose the isthmus. I will do all I can at Washington to effect a diplomatic arrangement, if such is possible. I know the sentiments of my country."

Questioned as to the rumor that the Departments of Cauca and Antioquia were anxious to join the Republic of Panama, General Reyes said: "The report of dissatisfaction in these departments is not only untrue, but I am able to say to you that the entire republic is united in its determination to restore the isthmus to the Union."

London, Nov. 21.—A Russian correspondent of The Times says that the national honor does not demand the annexation of Manchuria. He points out that the annual expense of the Amur territory has been 150,000,000 roubles, while Russian trade with the far east is insignificant, and is not likely to develop. There is no question of Russian competition in Manchuria with the English, the Japanese and the Americans.

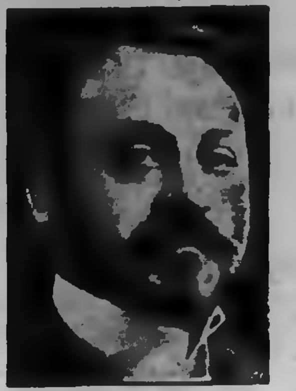
Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

You Pay Only if Cured

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write For It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has



DR. S. GOLDBERG,

The Possessor of 14 Diplomas and Certificates Who Wants No Money That He Does Not Earn.

both the method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply

Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Ave., Room 208, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

CHANGE IN MODEL SCHOOLS

The education department has about decided to reduce the number of model schools in Ontario from fifty-four, as at present, to twenty, and to make the term seven or nine months. This will have its advantages. One is that the teacher of the model school will have a further opportunity for development and service, and can put a larger measure of energy and spirit into his work.

As a matter of fact it does not pay any school board to conduct a model school under present circumstances. It necessitates accomodation which can hardly be spared in the schools, and it demands the supervision of a teacher whose work for part of the year is of a more or less unprofitable nature. By the change the model school will continue in session during most of the school year, and its revenue from the government will be proportionately larger.

The tendency will be to increase the efficiency of the graduating teachers by giving them what they want, namely better and more practical instruction in training.

The department does not expect to see a lesser number of graduates in training, but is too sanguine in this regard. The lengthening of the normal school period has had a marked effect upon the attendance, and the lengthening of the model school term must have a similar effect.

Teachers for the rural schools are scarce enough now. They will be scarcer still in the immediate future, though the increase in salaries which must ensue will in time bring about a revival in the teaching profession.

SHARE OF THE SPOILS

John Rockefeller, Jr., is the teacher of a Sunday school class in New York. He is a bright young man, who comes to his work with fresh and crisp ideas.

The subject on a recent occasion suggested a reference to current events, and he said that the merchant "who overcharged for his groceries or for anything else, could not long be successful."

At once the mind reverted to the article which is controlled by the great syndicate of which Rockefeller's father is the distinguished head. Coal oil has recently been advanced in price by the Standard Oil Company. A small advance, wholesale, to be sure, 1c. a gallon. But then, added to the 1c. a lb. for paraffine, gives the great trust $11,000,000 more a year, and the total revenue enables the concern to pay a dividend of 44 per cent. upon the capital.

Coal oil has gone up in price by retail, and it may go still higher, and the movement owes its origin to the word and decision of Mr. Rockefeller, sr. His son's philosophy is that overcharging does not pay. Yet somehow it has lasted for years with the Standard Oil Company, and the Rockefellers appear to have had their share of the spoils.

THE COLONIES IN LINE

It is impossible that opponents of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals will much longer expect the people of the Mother Country to take them seriously when they pretend to doubt whether the Colonies are in favor of a system of preferential tariffs. Never a day passes without some evidence that the Colonies are eager and waiting. Now it is New Zealand which discusses a preferential tariff of her own before Britain is ready to speak. Again it is the visit of the Agents-General of the Colonies to the Colonial Office to take farewell of Mr. Chamberlain in the capacity of Colonial Secretary, when Lord Strathcona eloquently assures the champion of preferential tariffs that the Colonies are with him. Once more it is a resolution from the Montreal Board of Trade favoring such fiscal reform as would encourage preferential trade; or the speeches of Canada's ex-Finance Minister in British cities; or an enthusiastic declaration in favor of Chamberlainism by Premier Deakin, of Australia.

The Colonies are solidly behind Mr. Chamberlain. They are not fools enough to reject the offer of preferential treatment in the best market in the world. They created the sentiment to which Mr. Chamberlain is now appealing; and they knocked long at Britain's door for consideration of their project when there seemed to be no one within to hear them. Before Mr. Chamberlain spoke, there was no talk in Great Britain of the Colonies not wanting preferential tariffs. Everybody knew that they were most anxious to get them established; but the British free trade voter was the lion in the path. It was only after Mr. Chamberlain had spoken, and his opponents were looking desperately about for something to say against him, that they made bold to discover that, after all, the Colonies did not want what they had been clamoring for from Conference to Conference.

The truth is that there is no opposition to Chamberlain in the Colonies. That is the reason why the British people hear little noise about the matter from over-seas. It is taken for granted here that Britain knows well that Canada is for a preference. Do not our preferential tariff and our repeated propositions to Colonial Conference speak sufficiently for themselves?

We might, indeed, be a trifle more vocal. There is always a fear that our silence may be misunderstood in Britain. Neither party has taken pains enough to make its position recently and conspicuously clear. But the silence is not misunderstood here. Canadians know that the country is unanimous for a British preference; and that no politician dare take the stand openly against it. One good lively assault upon the proposals would probably be a blessing in disguise; for it would bring down a shower of Canadian opinion which could not escape the attention of the most insular of British politicians.

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease very common to the American people, but now quickly remedied.

A SURE CURE.

In a case of Nervous Dyspepsia a doctor sees two things, first, that the digestion is deranged, and second that the nerves are in a starved, irritable condition.

If abreast of the times, and in touch with the latest discoveries the doctor is sure to advise Ferrozone, which is now universally prescribed in cases of acute Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Ferrozone is prepared specially for diseases of the stomach and bowels, and as a sure cure for Nervous Dyspepsia has proved itself a thousand times to be superior to all others.

Where Ferrozone is taken after each meal, it is impossible for Dyspepsia or Indigestion to exist. It digests the food before it has had time to ferment in the stomach, and by its regular use one is enabled to eat and drink anything at any time, without fear of bad results.

Ferrozone relieves that distressing headache, and burning feeling in the stomach peculiar to dyspepsia. It regulates the action of the bowels, kidneys and liver; strengthens the nerves and makes the sad looking dejected dyspeptic feel like a new man in twenty-four hours.

The general manager of a Toronto Manufacturing Company, who used Ferrozone with very marked results, says: "The strain of conducting a large business brought on a siege of Nervous Indigestion about a year ago, which I endeavored in vain to shake off. Doctors told me only a complete rest would cure me, but not being able to spare the time, I used Ferrozone instead. It perfectly restored my good health in a short time. I have confidence in the merits of Ferrozone, and am pleased to recommend it."

What Ferrozone can do for you can be best proven by giving it a trial. Every reliable druggist recommends and sells it, price 50c. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"You are Mademoiselle Rosalie."

She turned to him passionately.

"I am more," she said, "I am Rosalie Errol."

There was a proud dignity in her look, and in her voice.

Mr. Monckton's keen eyes were fixed thoughtfully on her face.

"Yes," he remarked, slowly, "I have not forgotten that fact."

"Then why did you keep the truth from me? Why did you not tell me Sir Felix wished me to come to him—as his daughter?"

Mr. Monckton smiled; a grim smile it was, and one which betrayed nothing of what was passing through his mind.

"I have not forgotten that either," he said, "but you do not give me time, Miss Errol. I have some important communications to make to you, although I did not intend they should be made just now. Sir Felix confided many things to me which, I believe, he withheld from others—because he relied on my helping him to legally carry out a search he could not organize alone."

He paused.

Rosalie could not curb her impatience.

"What search?" she asked, eagerly.

"A search for his only child, from whom he had been separated since her infancy."

"A daughter, you say?"

"A daughter."

"And—was the search successful?"

"In the matter of identity—yes."

"You found her?"

"I am happy to say I had little difficulty in accomplishing that task. Sir Felix Errol's daughter, the child of his first marriage, is before me now."

She rose from the chair in which he had placed her, and stood before him, her face white with excitement, giving an unnatural lustre to her eyes.

"It is not all a fancy, then," she said, her voice quivering with emotion. "I am, indeed, his daughter. And he is dead—so cruelly murdered! If I had only been in time to save him—my father, whom I should have loved so dearly!"

There was no reproach against him for his long desertion of her.

He had sought her out at the last, and had wished to see her—had called her his child.

Her feelings towards him were those of reverence and awe, and above these rose one of deepest grief, that he was dead.

Tears flooded her eyes; she bowed her head on her hands and sobbed bitterly for a time; then the passion of her grief found a fiercer vent—she dashed her hand across her eyes, brushing away the bright tear-drops, and once more she stood with her head held proudly erect.

"I will find out by whose hand that blow was dealt!" she exclaimed, her eyes flashing at the remembrance of the death-agony she had witnessed. "My father shall not rest in his grave unavenged while I have life to pursue his murderer. I will show no pity; such mercy as was meted out to him I will mete out to his destroyer; the knife that is stained with my father's blood shall strike death deep into the assassin's heart."

Mr. Monckton was startled by her vehemence, by the thirst for vengeance he saw in her eyes.

To her wild and ungoverned nature revenge seemed just, even holy.

It was all she could do for the father whose voice she had heard calling upon her in the bitterness of death—to avenge the deed that had laid him low—to take life for life.

"Rest assured the guilty will be brought to account," Mr. Monckton said, fearing for this girl, with her wild sense of justice. "I must beg you to call all the calmness you can command to your aid. You will need to keep your feelings well under control just at present. We have to think of Lady Errol. What must be her feelings at this time? Sir Felix was her husband."

"You forget," Rosalie cried, her eyes still ablaze, "my mother—his wife—died many years ago."

"Quite true; but there was a second marriage. A short time ago, Sir Felix chose another wife—Lady Errol."

"Did that title belong to my mother?"

"It would have been hers had she lived long enough to bear it. At the time of her death, Sir Felix had not succeeded to the baronetcy, nor could he command the fortune that afterwards was his."

For some moments, Rosalie was silent; then, in a strangely quiet voice, she said:

"And what of the second wife, Lady Errol?"

"If you have not yet seen her, it is time an introduction took place. I will see her first, and explain what brought you under this roof."

He moved towards the door, indicating that she should remain where she was until he returned.

Polly got up as he passed her, and he became suddenly conscious of her presence.

"You have heard what has passed between us," he said. "The questions I put to you in London were not asked out of idle curiosity. I hold every proof that can confirm the statement I have made. The child Mrs. West adopted was the daughter of Sir Felix Errol and Bertha, his wife."

"If that's so," Polly replied, "I should like to know something more of the story. Why was Mrs. Errol living alone with her child, without a friend near her, and why did nobody reply when her death was announced? Sir Felix could not have married again if he hadn't been sure that his first wife was dead; and if he discovered so much he must have known his child was left destitute, waiting to be claimed."

"That shall be explained at some future time," Mr. Monckton answered. "I have it all in black and white. I will not say more than that the circumstances surrounding Bertha Errol's death need not long remain a mystery."

Rosalie hurried towards him, and laid her hand on his arm.

"Tell me everything," she exclaimed, a passion of pleading in her voice. "Think—think, it is of my mother you are speaking!"

He put her gently away from him.

"You shall know all in good time," he said, looking kindly down at her. "Just now I have much to do; but rest assured I am acting wholly on your behalf and for your future welfare."

He left the room as he finished speaking, closing the door softly after him.

Sinking into one of the great leather arm-chairs, Rosalie covered her face with her hands.

"It is so terrible!" she murmured, with a sob. "All these years I have hungered for this knowledge, and what has it brought me?—what, but sorrow and greater desolation? I have come into a house full of darkness and horror—a tomb in which my dearest hopes must die—and this, when happiness was so near!"

(To be continued.)

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-3c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Nov. 21.—London 1-8 to 3-8 higher. The bank statement today will not reflect, by a couple of million dollars at least, improved condition. Imports of gold will only partially appear. Professionals are mixed, they under estimate the buying of S. P., etc. The fact is that the powerful interests are accumulating stocks. The New York Times has a sensational, but unreliable, story today, to the effect that steel dividend is likely to be dropped on the common, and that on the preferred reduced. Buy U. S. O. on any further dip. There is excellent absorption of Wabash preferred, and with any general improvement this stock will become market leader specialties. Buy U. P. conservatively, average B. R. T. around 39.

New York, Nov. 21.—The reaction which we predicted in last night's letter came promptly on time, and amounted a one to one and half points in the general list. Reading, which we said would go in the neighborhood of 43, went to 44 7-8. Pennsylvania, which we said would go to 116, went to 115 1-2, and then reacted to 113 7-8, Steel preferred, which we said would go near 54, went to 53 5-8. L. N. also rallied above 102, and B. O. above 76. Missouri Pacific went 91 1-2, and St. Paul to 139 1-2. All had a fair reaction in the afternoon. This reaction may be carried a trifle further today, Saturday, but we hope you did not sell stocks today after they became weak, as we told you distinctly in last night's letter not to sell after they broke a point or so. We expect the market after some weakness during the first half hour or so will have another rally, and gradually get back to the high figures of today. We think it is safe around today's high figures whenever they are reached to put out a moderate line of Pennsylvania, Reading. Mr., Texas, St. P., L. N., Steels, Ti Texas, Atch., Ri. Can., etc. Dec. wheat advanced 1 1-2 points, making a total advance of nearly 5 points since we advised its purchase this week. It ought to have a reaction today, and if it closes weak it should be a buy near the close.

Kitchener's Social Success.

Contrary to what many Englishmen thought before he went to India, Lord Kitchener has been making himself a great reputation in Simla as a host. As soon as he arrived at his post in India, Lord Kitchener began improving the grounds and transforming the interior of "Snowden," the official residence of the commander-in-chief. As soon as he was able to receive, masculine Simla began writing their names in the general's visiting book. This is an immense brass-bound volume, which custom decrees shall be exposed, between twelve and two each day, on a table on the veranda of the commander-in-chief's residence, to receive the signatures of all who consider themselves entitled to have social relations with his military excellency. In due course, this customary courtesy completed, each caller or his wife, where such existed, received, by red-coated messenger, a large official invitation card, with "K" printed in gilt on the top, stating that the commander-in-chief requested the honor of their company at a ball. Those who were either personally known to Lord Kitchener, or whose official position justified the distinction, had meanwhile been entertained at dinner, and Simla had begun to talk of gold presentation plate, of changes for the better introduced into the arrangements of the house, of a pretty taste in flowers displayed by its occupant, and of a really excellent cuisine. The ball, which was attended by Lord and Lady Curzon and some seven hundred guests, confirmed Lord Kitchener's reputation for hospitality. It was noticed that special arrangements had been made to bring every possible room in the building into requisition, and to extend the accommodation by tents and shamianas, so that nobody should be left out of the occasion. The guests were not only entertained on a most generous scale, but they were struck by the carefully planned arrangements for their comfort, and by the infinity of personal pains taken to ensure their enjoying themselves. Lord Kitchener received everyone himself, and his pleasant hand shake of good-fellowship dispelled a host of lingering doubts as to the manner of the man.

Storing Root Crops.

Every farmer knows the difficulty of so storing roots as to facilitate the handling of them in winter. Some have no pits or cellars convenient in the barns, and consequently store the roots in pits outside. Of course, the outdoor method is not always the best, for the roots will sometimes keep in as sound condition when stored in that manner as by any other process, but when the season is well advanced and the ground is hard and frozen it becomes a very difficult matter to get at the crop when wanted for use. If a large crop is stored inside the barn, unless the location is so situated as to be under the influence of an even temperature, the handling of the roots endangers them when the weather is extremely cold, and causes them to sprout as the temperature becomes high. Here, then, are two difficulties to be avoided, which are heat and cold. What the farmer wishes is to store the roots in such manner as to keep them at an even temperature, preserve them in a good condition, and to be easily handled when he wishes to use them for feeding. Of course, it is well known that the time for storing the crops is in the fall, but it is never too late to repack them, which can be done when the weather is only moderately cold. The best plan for so doing is to get some dry dirt, coal ashes or dry sawdust. In a bin, barrel or box lay two inches of the packing material, and upon this make a layer of roots and do not let them quite touch one another. Fill the spaces with packing material, and so continue until the receptacle is full. By this method they can be taken out for use in any quantity desired, and they will keep much better than if stored in heaps, will not freeze nor heat, and will keep until the next crop comes in. Even potatoes, both sweet and white, may be thus preserved. Be careful that the packing material is dry. Moisture should be avoided as much as possible. At the present time the difficulty is to procure dry dirt, which is the best material to use, while wood ashes are not plentiful. Fine sawdust is the next best substance, but not equal to dry dirt. Plaster is excellent, but somewhat expensive. Wheat chaff is good, and so is straw when cut in half-inch lengths. It is best to do such work, however, at the time of harvesting the crop.—Philadelphia Record.

——OF THE——

BRET HARTE GOLD MINING COMPANY

THIS company was incorporated October 2nd, 1902, under the laws of Arizona, and at Phoenix Arizona, the home of every officer and director of the company. The capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of the par value of $1 per share. Stock is full paid and non-assessable the company having complied with every legal detail necessary to make it so. The president of the company is Louis C. Masten, auditor of the M. & P. & S. R. V. railroad company. The vice president is George. H. N. Luhrs, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel. The treasurer is Dr. J. M. Swetnam, a successful physician, the secretary is C. S. Scott, a newspaper man connected with the Arizona Republican, and the attorney for the company is A. J. Edwards, the district attorney of Maricopa County, Arizona. These five officers comprise the directorate. They modestly refer to any bank or business house in Phoenix for recommendations as to character, responsibility and business judgment.

THE PROPERTY

The property of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Company consists of six full mining claims, 1500x600 feet each, one crossing another, and a fraction of another claim 600x1000 feet. They are known under the names of Moore, Koons, Koons No. 2, Great Scott, Great Scott No. 2, Norman and Dewey. There are also three millsites, the Wainright, Koons and Moore. The group is situated in the Moore mining district, Maricopa County, Arizona, 48 miles north of Phoenix, near the old Black Canyon stage road from Phoenix to Prescott, on a mountain 500 feet above and three-quarters of a mile from Moore's gulch. It might be more generally and familiarly described by saying it lies ten miles east of Tip Top mine, one of Arizona's most famous producers in the early days of mining. The formation of the country is porphyry and shale, and a cream colored quartz impregnated with iron predominates in the ore. There is at all times an ample supply of water for camp purposes, in a good well, and a milling supply can be economically developed in Moore's gulch. An abundance of wood can be secured for $5 per cord, but oil has been recommended as a cheaper and better fuel for milling purposes. There is also a good camp house at the mine.

HISTORICAL

The claims were located about twenty years ago, when the railroad was fifty miles further away, freights correspondingly high, as were prices of all commodities both necessary and luxurious. Notwithstanding this fact money was made by those who first worked the mine, and for nearly a year the ore from the shaft on the Moore claim was worked with an arastra, the crudest and most wasteful method of reduction, yet $12 a ton was saved by the toilers.

PRINCIPAL WORKINGS

Though there are various prospect holes, open cuts, etc., the principal workings consist of a shaft 150 feet deep on the Moore claim, and a shaft 90 feet deep, 175 feet distant on the Koons claim, to the north, the two shafts being connected by a drift north from the 100-foot level of the Moore shaft. In this shaft, also, there is a 20-foot drift to the south on the 25-foot level, showing a good ore body, and another on the 100-foot level, 40 feet to the south, exposing the same vein. A rich vein has been followed in the 175-foot drift. For its dimensions and a detailed report of development work reference is made to the appended report, by Capt. T. G. Cree, who is familiar with the property, and whose conservative estimate is made after critical examination. It is his opinion, however, that the vein followed is a minor one, that the principal vein lies parallel and may be reached with a few feet of cross-cutting, and that these and other parallel veins cropping on the surface eventually come together with depth. That statement is not made because of its universal popularity in the writing of prospectuses, but after noting the indications carefully, and in the knowledge that it is a reasonable expectation frequently verified, where parallel veins dip toward each other. The reasons are apparent to all familiar with vein formations.

FAITH AND HOPE

The hope of the Bret Harte Gold Mining Co. is to make some money. "out of the ground," not out of the stockholders. That hope is found on a reasonable faith:

First: It has a patented property with unclouded title and not a dollar of indebtedness.

Second: The existence of an ore body sufficient to pay, when milled, all expenses of development is already proved. Unless all geological experience is violated, the ore body yet to be developed is vastly greater, a treasure-house whose doors may be unlocked by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, a big sum for a single individual, but a matter easily accomplished by the cooperation of a number who are willing to invest surplus funds and wait patiently a reasonable length of time for compound profits.

Third: No officer of the company will receive one cent of salary until such time as the operations of the enterprise demand his undivided attention and that time will not arrive till prediction, at least, can be made of a date when the treasury shall be replenished by an income from the mine. The officers will, of necessity, be called upon to do much work, temporarily for nothing. This they can afford to do, by reason of their interest in the success of the enterprise. Every dollar received from sale of stock will be devoted to the most economical development of the property. And now comes the

made to the reader of this paper: Of the 1,000,000 shares capital stock, 400,000 shares have been placed in the treasury for sale to the public for development purposes only. Of this treasury stock, 50,000 shares are offered at 15 cents per share. With the proceeds of that stock the shafts will be sunk at least 100 feet deeper, new ore bodies developed, hoisting works erected, and the mine placed in a condition necessitating a mill. When that stage of development is reached, the remainder of the treasury stock should be worth one dollar per share, but whatever price it may command it will be more than sufficient to erect reduction works. This enterprise is for those who are conservative, willing to wait a reasonable length of time for results, and who are invited to investigate fully before placing their money. If the enterprise is a failure, the promoters will be the heaviest losers for much money has already been spent in placing the property on its present basis, and, as noted above, the time and energy of the promoters is given without recompense. If we win, we all make the large profits that accrue from speculative investment in which some risk is always necessary. The amount required for operations is so small, comparatively, that it should be easily raised, and, if secured, no chance for failure can at this time be seen. Reference to the possibility of failure is made in candor, only, and not in fear, for no mining enterprise can be more flattering in prospect. There are other mines in Arizona, and good ones, to which the promoters might turn their attention did they not believe the Bret Harte property offers the best inducements for big profits on small investments. Will you join us?

A limited number of shares of this really first class proposition may be obtained on application to PETERBOROUGH BROKERAGE CO., Fiscal Agents, Peterborough, or J. J. BRANDON, Fenelon Falls; W. GALLON, Apsley; G. B. HILLIARD, Lakefield, or GEO. H. BROWN, Chemong

AF THIRTEEN YEARS

Mr. Geo. Warner, publisher of the Masonic Register Toronto was almost totally deaf in both ears for a number of years. He experimented with a thousand different remedies and only go relief by using Catarrhozone and it cured

Mr. Warner says: "For the past thirteen years my hearing has been badly affected. The streets were as as quiet to me as if I lived in the city of the dead. I could neither hear the noise of the street cars or sound of horses feet on the pavement. Before I had used Catarrhozone Inhaler three days I was able to notice a great change in my condition, which gradually improved until now I can hear a whisper across the room. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate Catarrhozone, or of the wonderful results I have derived from using it. Catarrhozone has my strongest endorsement and I am quite willing that you should use it."

Mr. Warner's unsolicited testimonial furnishes abundant proof that deafness can be cured, even in old age, if Catarrhozone is used. This remedy is scientific in its application and meets with the endorsement of prominent ministers and doctors all over Canada. Our best equipped health institutions always keep it on hand, and cases are recorded where it has been used with great success in the Government deaf and dumb institutions where other means proved futile.

DEATH OF JOHN FANNING

Passed Away At Nicholls Hospital After a Week's Illness

The death of Mr. John Fanning, which occurred about midnight on Saturday, will come with a great shock to his many friends in town and surrounding country. Mr Fanning was stricken with pneumonia last Sunday morning, which rapidly developed into an acute stage. He was removed to Nicholls Hospital, where every attention was given him, but the science of medical skill could not stay the hand of death, and he passed away as above.

Mr. Fanning was about 44 years of age, and was unmarried, having made his home with his sisters, who reside on Hunter street west. He was a trusted employee of Messrs. Robt. Fair & Co., by whom he was held in high regard. The funeral will take place on Tuesday, and will be under the auspices of the Oddfellows, of which Order the deceased was a prominent member.

A BIG BLAZE

The Norwood Woolen Mills Destroyed by Fire

On Friday night last the large woolen mills belonging to Mr. James Cummings, of Norwood, were totally consumed.

The flames broke out in the boiler room, and the main structure was a mass of flames in a few minutes. The efforts of the local fire brigade were of no avail.

The entire population turned out to witness and, if possible, to help to stay the vast destruction of property.

Mr. Cummings is a heavy loser, having only $2,000 insurance on the property, which is valued at $10,000, and it is not likely that he will again enter the woolen business.

This means a great deal to the village, as very many persons found convenient employment at remunerative wages, and for the sake of Norwood The Times hopes that Mr. Cummings may be induced to enter business again.

THE LATE MRS. LONG

Death of An Old and Highly Esteemed Lady

On Saturday morning the death of Mrs. Henry Long took place at the residence of her son, Mr. James Long, Sheridan terrace. The deceased, whose husband had predeceased her about forty years, was born in Brixton, Deverill, Wiltshire, England, and came to Canada four years and three months ago to reside with her sons in Peterborough. She was in her eightieth year, and her advanced age, together with an illness from bronchitis, brought on the end. She was a member of St. John's church, and attended service there only two weeks before her demise. Of eight children there are living: Mr. Charles Long, of Strathcona, Alberta; Mrs. W. Hinchcliffe, of town; Mr. James and Mr. Harry Long, and Mrs. J. D. Tully, of town.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place this morning at 11 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. James Long, 23 Sheridan street, to Little Lake cemetery.

THE CANADIAN GIRL

"Bystander, writing in The Weekly Sun, says: The unity of the Empire was not more seriously threatened by the Alaska decision than it is by the pert pen of some Englishwoman who has been traducing our Canadian women and their dress. The prize of beauty between the English and the Canadian girl it must be left to Venus to award. That the arbitress of beauty would award the prize to the English girl is not so certain as the Englishwoman fancies. It is certain that she would hesitate long, and that her deliverance would not be rude. The Englishwoman is bold enough to say that she would send her lover to Canada without any fear of his being captured by the attractions of Canadian girls. She had better not risk the experiment in summer, when the Canadian girl is in her simple and natural dress, with a bodice and skirt of different colors and a round straw hat. She might do it more safely when the Canadian girl is arrayed in one of the divine costumes so rapturously described in our society papers. If this censorious Englishwoman can lead our beauties to have more of an eye to nature in their attire and dress for Canada, not for London or Paris, she will have done us a service, though not in the most courteous way. We want Meg Dous, who in "St. Ronan's Well" threatens if any of the ladies at the Well traduce her, to see "whether her cockney is made of her ain hair or ither folks."

COULDN'T FOOL HIM

Doctor Was Firm and Was Right

Many doctors forbid their patients to drink coffee, but the patients still drink it on the sly, and thus spoil the doctor's efforts and keep themselves sick. Sometimes the doctor makes sure that that patient is not drinking coffee, and there was a case of that kind in St. Paul, where a business man said:

"After a very severe illness last winter, which almost caused my death, the doctor said Postum Food Coffee was the only thing that I could drink and he just made me quit coffee and drink Postum. My illness was caused by indigestion from the use of tea and coffee.

"The state of my stomach was so bad that it became terribly inflamed and finally resulted in a rupture. I had not drank Postum very long before my lost blood was restored and my stomach was well and strong, and I have now been using Postum for almost a year. When I got up from bed after my illness I weighed 98 pounds, and now my weight is 130.

"There is no doubt that Postum was the reason for this wonderful improvement, and I shall never go back to tea or coffee, but shall always stick to the food drink that brought me back to health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

St. Catharines Well

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines Well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative powers are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous Saline Well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odorless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgia, liver troubles, skin diseases, and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the waters is the chief remedial agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. All treatment in charge of house Physician. The baths are in a separate building connected with main building by a glass covered corridor.

"Here's my watch; can you fix it?"

"'What's the matter? Did you break the spring?'

"'No; the spring broke the watch.'

HE PUBLIC MEETING ENDORSES MUNICIPAL UNION

ake no Mistake, Every Elector Has a Vote on This Important Question.

The public meeting called by the ayor for last night to discuss the oposed Union of Peterborough and hburnham was not very largely tended, but those who were pre nt were representative men. The estion was very fully discussed, d not one dissenting voice to the ame was raised.

There appears to be some misconception in the minds of the people as to who are qualified to vote next Thursday, and in answer to Mr. Martin, His Worship, the Mayor, explained that in Peterborough every citizen qualified to vote at municipal elections can vote on this question of Union. The matter was optional with the council and they have so decided. In the village, however, the vote is governed by law, and only property owners are qualified to cast their ballots.

The Mayor called the meeting to der at 8.15, and explained its obt, together with a brief history of question of "Union," which was fore both municipalities nine years o, when a vote was taken, which ulted in a majority of three to in favor of the scheme. At that me, however, both Councils failed to mmate the wishes of the people, account of differences which arose reason of the system of sewerage ich was then being adopted by the wn—a question of assessment on part of Ashburnham, and of wer privileges on the side of Peterborough's Council. Late last year d early this year the matter again me up before the two municipal uncils, and committees were appointed, both of which agreed to port in favor of the Union of municipalities, to take effect on uary 1st, 1904, the united municipalities to take over the assets and ume the liabilities of the present wn and Village, and the Village form one ward for all such purposes as wards now serve in the wn or may hereafter serve in the ited municipalities, and in the ent of a vote being taken upon the estion in the Town it shall be ken upon a date to be agreed up between the Town and Village uncils, so as to have the vote taken upon the question in the municipalities on the same day, this to be thout prejudice to any public rks undertaken by either municipality in the meantime.

The question of sewerage then rose once more, and both committees took the position that it would better for Ashburnham to go ead and plan and put before their ratepayers a system of their own, that we should know exactly what are committed to. This has been arranged and a vote on that question will be taken in the village on ursday next. Should they vote wn the present outfall sewer heme, the town is still committed the matter of sewerage for Ashburnham. Should a consummation union of the municipalities take ace, as will be shown in the following extract from a report of the Committee of the Whole Council, adopted October 20th, 1903.

"5.—Your committee recommends the adoption of the report of the sub-committee of this committee, which was appointed to confer with the Council of the Village of Ashburnham in regard to municipal union and which report is attached to this one, and also that a vote of all the electors qualified to vote at municipal elections be taken on the question on a date to be fixed by the Mayor."

The following is the report of the sub-committee referred to in the above extract:—

To the Committee of the Whole Council.

Gentlemen, — Your sub-committee appointed to confer with the Council of the Village of Ashburnham in regard to the union of the two municipalities beg leave to report that on October 8th inst., they had another conference with the Council of the Village at which it was decided to recommend as follows:—

That failing the settling of the question of a sewerage system for Ashburnham before the taking of a public vote on union, that it be made one of the terms of union that an outfall sewer be constructed in Ashburnham, from Elizabeth street southward to a septic tank and outfall on the shore of the Little Lake to be completed within two years from the date of union, at an estimated cost of $10,000, and that the vote on the question of union shall be held on the 28th of October, or such other date as maybe agreed on by the mayor and reeve.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) G. M. ROGER Chairman.

The Mayor here gave the following figures for the guidance of voters:

Population of Peterborough, 11,807.
Population of Ashburnham, 1,181.
Assessment of Peterborough, $5,088,315.
Assessment of Ashburnham, $700,778.
Ashburnham's Debenture Debt, $19,500.
Peterborough's Debenture Debt, $590,009.

MR. WM. LANGFORD

Read an exhaustive treatise of his own preparation some six years ago in favor of union with the village, the benefits of which, he claimed, would be far-reaching to both municipalities. The tendency in all big cities today is to take in adjacent municipalities, on the principle that, as in business, consolidation under one head is economical and advantageous to all concerned. Then the tendency of trade is to gravity in the large centres, and that a big industrial and commercial centre will shortly be established in this district is an acknowledged fact. The question here arises where will that centre be? Is Peterborough to retain its present standing and still further develop into that centre, or are we going to allow some other town to outrank us. Union with Ashburnham will aid us in accomplishing this desirable object, and will also increase our prestige financially and industrialy. Then as a city our expenditure would only be increased by $200 for the Police Magistrate, our relationship with the county would not be affected, and we would have the same control over our assessment as now. In conclusion, he did not endorse the argument that it is better to be the leading town than a small city, for we should rank second in the list of smaller cities.

MR. E. J. TOKER

Said there seems to be a feeling outside that we are not a big place, and don't do justice to ourselves; this is not conducive to the locating of industries The question of "Union" is advocated in business and manufacturing all over the world, and we are now talking in the Empire of Imperial Union. Peterborough and Ashburnham are bound to be united some time; why not take that step now, which he was satisfied would be for the good of both municipalities. As to being incorporated as a city, if we take in Ashburnham, we shall come very near being a city automatically by virtue of population, whether we like it or not.

ALD. MORRISON

Thought it would be a mistake at this time for the two municipalities to vote down the scheme, and it should be made plain that in Peterborough this is a referendum vote—all electors qualified to vote at the municipal elections being eligible to vote. Ashburnham's rate of assessment is one mill lower than that of Peterborough, and if they build an outfall sewer it will increase two mills. Last year they paid 17 mills, this year their assessment is 16 mills, and they expect to fall back to 17 mills next year, which with an additional two mills for sewerage will bring their rate up to 19 mills, the same as Peterborough. This, together with the fact that they are also badly in need of concrete sidewalks, which will have to be paid for, gives them some advantage in union with the town. They are now advocating and will probably adopt a plan of general taxation for permanent improvements, whereas Peterborough has adopted a frontage rate, and this will create considerable difficulty in framing a satisfactory system of assessment should the union be put off to a later date. They have a debenture debt of $19,520, which we will have to assume jointly, and $1,000 a year county rate, which will come into the town. They have municipal assets, which will be one for the both municipalities. One advantage to Peterborough in union will be an increase of our borrowing capacity, which will shortly have reached its 10 per cent. limit. Today we rank A1 in the financial world, and no town can borrow as cheap as we can. I would not like to see us forced to apply to the Legislature for an increase in our borrowing powers, but would rather we remain for all time to come at 10 per cent., which union with the village will facilitate. Again, we have to go into North Monaghan if we wish to purchase 25 or 30 acres of land for industrial purposes; manufacturers like to locate between two railways, and this we cannot now provide for within our present limits. Should we unite with Ashburnham, we will have more available sites for manufacturing purposes. Then if we build up Ashburnham, so much the better for Peterboro; if we locate 10,000 people across the water, business people this side will be benefited. Ashburnham would be benefited in the matter of street lighting, they pay now $60 a year per lamp for a 12 o'clock service, and if united with us, they would have, under the terms of the present contract, an all-night service at the same price. As to Peterborough assuming the county's share of maintenance of the Hunter street bridge, not much outlay will be required on that structure for five or six years to come.

ALD. McWILLIAMS

Thought it important to take the position of, and let the people outside understand that we are the chief town in Ontario. We cannot emphasize this too much to manufacturers and railway corporations. We should impress on the C.P.R. Co. at this juncture that Peterborough is worth more to them than all the small places along the front to which there is some considerable agitation for extending their lines. He did not agree with assessing people 60 per cent. the cost of permanent improvements along their premises. He thought Ashburnham's proposition a fairer one; there it is proposed to charge citizens directly benefited a minimum cost of the sewers, any extraordinary expenditure by which others will be benefited to be taken out of a general tax. As to union he did not think either municipality had much the advantage of the other.

MR. R. R. WOOD

Said the only objection he could raise was that amalgamation of Peterborough and Ashburnham will reduce the income of the Clerk of the Peace, who is paid according to the municipalities under his jurisdiction. (laughter). He thought the lack of attendance at the meeting a guarantee that there are not many obstructionists to the proposition under consideration. The increase of salaries through Union would be but small and borne by both municipalities. If incorporated as a city we should rank next to Brantford, and today, in the eyes of the traveling public, Peterborough is considered a better business centre than Kingston.

MR. D. HUGHES-CHARLES

Said there is considerable prestige to be gained in being a city, and at present outsiders do not recognize the importance of Peterborough. When he came here first he was astonished to find this town so big as it is, and he had heard it stated by hundreds of strangers that they had no idea of the commercial importance of Peterborough. He thought it would be a great improvement and advantage for the two municipalities to be joined. The villagers need have no fear that their outlying streets will be neglected, if they can be kept in good condition by a village corporation, surely a city can do as much. He hoped that in the near future we shall all be citizens of the City of Peterborough.

Ald. Shortly—"I would like to hear the other side."

Mr. Hughes-Charles—"There is no other side to it."

Ald. Shortly—"If there is no other side then there is not much use my saying anything on the question. I hope there will be a strong vote for "Union." A good deal has been said here tonight in favor of it, and considerable more might be added."

THE MAYOR

In closing the meeting, said he was unable to see any substantial objection to Union, but many substantial reasons for its consummation. We have four wards, each larger than Ashburnham, united advantageously in one corporation, and why it should it not be beneficial to take in another ward. He has heard no tangible objection yet from either municipality. Of course, we will always find men having individual interests at stake who will oppose any scheme of progress. If the outlying districts of Ashburnham find they are not dealt fairly with under the Union, which I don't think will be the case, let them drop off. Today the town has outlying districts, such as in the vicinity of Smith, applying for incorporation with Peterborough for their own advantage. Ashburnham cannot be assessed unduly; no injustice can be done in this respect, for all assessment is fixed by law. The villagers have reached a point today of being assessed but one mill less than Peterborough, and they have not one foot of granolithic sidewalk or sewerage built yet, and they will find if they want permanent improvements they will haev to pay for them. They have been assessed higher even than Peterborough, for when the question of Union was discussed before, their rate was 19 1-4 mills, against an assessment of 17 mills in town. If they are going to construct permanent improvements to any extent now their rate will grow considerably. He would be sorry to give Ashburnham any reason this time to complain that Peterborough blocked "Municipal Union." and it behooves us to be careful to see that we record our opinion decisively on the 26th. In 1894 both Councils were opposed to the scheme; this time, however, they are unanimous in its favor. If the electors vote in favor of "Union" the Council will carry out their wishes, and if against it, they will respect their vote.

IRELAND BEING DEPOPULATED

Mr. Charles F. Byrne of Belfast Speaks of Conditions

TO PREVENT IMMIGRATION

Delegates of Agricultural Society to Advocate "Stay-at-Home" Policy

Montreal, Nov. 25—Among the visitors to the city yesterday was Mr. Charles F. Byrne, of Belfast.

In conversation with a newspaper representative, Mr. Byrne discussed the conditions that existed in his native land more particularly in regard to the steady depopulation of Ireland. Mr. Byrne said that in order to find ways and means to keep the Irish people from emigrating, the Irish Agricultural Society was formed a few years ago, having for its object an all-round improvement of conditions that would induce the Irishman to stay at home. The matter has been taken up in the United States and the Irish Industrial League of America had been formed with a similar object.

So urgent had the matter become, according to Mr. Byrne, that three delegates from the Irish Agricultural Society were at the present time in the United States for the purpose of putting forward the claims and work of the association before the people of the country. The delegates were Rev. T. A. Finlay, vice-president of the society, Rev J. Donovan of the Presbytery Loughrea, and Mr. R. A. Anderson, secretary of the Agricultural Society.

It was felt by all true lovers of Ireland that at the present rate of emigration, her future was none too bright, and that something must be done, and done immediately, to keep the agricultural classes in their native country.

Mr. Byrne sails from New York today for his home. He is much impressed with the opportunities that Canada offers for settlers. "As far as Ireland is concerned," he said, "we want to keep our people at home. The fate of the Irish people depends upon it."

MUNICIPAL UNION

Discussed at a Meeting Held in Ashburnham Last Night

There was a fair attendance at the public meeting held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, for the discussion of Municipal Union and Sewerage System.

Reeve Adams took the chair and called the meeting to order, when he made a few pointed remarks about the subject under discussion. He was very much in favor of union for the benefit that would be derived from it in the way of increased manufactories and industries and also in the building up of the village by local enterprise.

Mr. J. W. Garvin said he was of the opinion that Municipal Union would be a great advantage to Ashburnham, more so than to Peterborough. He had only met one man lately who had opposed the union, and the peace and harmony of the country today is due to unionism, and there was no reason why Peterborough and Ashburnham should not be one. There is no fear of them becoming a one-horse city, as Peterborough surpasses many Canadian cities at the present time in respect to population and industries. Outsiders are amazed at the progressiveness of Peterborough at the present time and it is still a town. It is nonsense for some to think that it is better for Peterborough to be a progressive and large town than a city. The expense would be nearly the same. Union is strength, and it would be useless for Ashburnham to remain an unprogressive village, as the taxes must go up and the village might as well share them with Peterborough.

Mr. Adams explained that it was no greater expense to run a city than a town, and thus it was no obstacle to the two municipalities uniting as the only increase in salaries would be $200 yearly for the Police Magistrate. He explained that the only item of expense on Ashburnham is charity and streets and bridges, and these would have to be paid at any rate. The amount paid by Ashburnham for the Administration of Justice is $1,076 yearly, while in Peterborough it only costs $2,250, which is only double the amount. The village spends in proportion the same amount on the streets, bridges, etc., as Peterborough. The town rate of taxation is just 1 per cent. higher than in Ashburnham, while Peterborough has 12 miles at a cost of $55,300, and their granolithic walks have amounted to $45,104. Peterborough has also facilities for doing municipal work that Ashburnham does not possess, which lessens the cost considerably, and has also the services of the engineer and other officials to look after the municipal work, none of which Ashburnham possesses. In the event of union the town would take over the water works, while a much better and cheaper service would be given, and the cost of maintaining the service would fall only on the consumers. A house that is charged $3.00 for water in Peterborough would pay $6.00 in Ashburnham, and others accordingly.

Mr. E. A. Peck expressed himself as being opposed to the proposed union, and would vote against it on Thursday. He claims the only difference between a town and a city is that the management of the police force is in the hands of a committee, the rest of the officers being as they are. In case of union the taxes are bound to increase, no matter for what they are used; the town council being able to use them for any purpose they see fit, and rut down the people of Ashburnham. The future management of the internal affairs of Ashburnham will need protection, which might not be forthcoming. The village has no physical disadvantages in the way of hills, etc., and is in most ways capable of managing its own affairs. Other villages of 1,000 population are doing so, and so should Ashburnham.

Reeve Adams replied that the village was still capable of managing its affairs, but that in the event of union there would be a corresponding number of representatives from Ashburnham as from other wards, and the interests of the citizens would be well looked after.

Mr. Garvin said he thought that in case of union the increase of taxation for the controlling of the police force or other minor expenses would be very slight, and the citizens of Ashburnham would be just as well represented as would be consistent to their interests. No manufactories would locate in Ashburnham, as it now is, while in case of union many concerns would locate here, and if Ashburnham is ever going to increase in population and industry, now is the time.

Mr. McCarthy contended that those who opposed the union were doing it on a selfish basis, being afraid of a slight increase in taxation to defray the extra expenses, and were not considering the benefits to be derived from it.

The meeting was unanimous in favor of an outfall sewerage system.

The Imperial Duty

"Above all" said Mr. Chamberlain, amid great cheering at the great meeting at Cardiff, "let us draw closer the ties without whose aid and assistance we would be in straits indeed. To those who have made us offers of an advantage that no other country can give us, it is for us to meet their requests in the spirit which dictated them, not in a poddling or huckstering spirit, which would be as discreditable to us as their action was creditable to them. They were not animated merely by a selfish interest. They see as we ought to see, that our future heritage depends on the extent to which we can weld the different parts of the Empire together. Commercial intercourse is always a necessary complement of closer political relations. What the United States has done, making itself a country of eighty million souls; what Bismarck did for Germany; is our duty to do for the British Empire. We can begin with an Empire of sixty millions and hundreds of millions of the native races. To bring them together is our task." (Loud applause.)

INFERNAL MACHINE PLACED IN MINE

Superintendent of Colorado Mine and One Man Killed

WAS LIKE AN EARTHQUAKE

Explosion in a Pennsylvania Mine Results in Loss of Two Lives

Cripple Creek, Col., November 23 — Charles McCormack, superintendent and Melvine H. Beck, a miner, were killed on Saturday by an explosion in the Vindicator mine. Officers of the Vindicator Mining Company assert that the explosion was caused by an infernal machine, and four hundred militia men have been placed on guard around the company's property.

Superintendent McCormack and Miner Beck were descending into the mine in the cage. They were the only passengers. When the cage reached the sixth level the explosion occurred, wrecking the cage and shaft and instantly killing both men.

The explosion, which was terrific, was heard at the surface and at once was believed to be an earthquake. The engineer hastily reversed the hoist, but could not pull up the cage. The bodies were removed only after several hours' work, being brought to the surface through the second compartment of the shaft.

After a thorough examination of the shaft it is positively asserted by officers of the mining company that the explosion was caused by an infernal machine.

They assert that the infernal machine, containing many pounds of dynamite, had been placed in the sixth level, which is part of the abandoned workings of the mine within a few inches of the shaft. Then a loaded revolver was fixed in the shaft pointed directly towards the infernal machine. To the trigger of the revolver was attached a string, which was thrown across the shaft in such a manner that the revolver would explode, the bullet striking the infernal machine.

Pieces of the revolver have been recovered from the bottom of the shaft, but not a vestige of the machine can be found.

A detail of fifty soldiers was despatched from Camp Goldfield to the mine and took charge of the property. No one was allowed to approach the mine and no one is permitted to leave.

THE GREAT POWERS ARE ASTOUNDED OVER THE PANAMA REVOLT.

Uncle Sam is Now Busy Trying to Prevent War With Colombia.

COLUMBIA WILL BATTLE TO THE BITTER END

A War for Uncle Sam That May Be a Long and Bloody One.

Washington, Nov. 25—Latest advices from Panama state that Colombia is preparing for a struggle with the United States. Her entire military force is being mobolized, and will be put on a war footing. Military fever runs high. The war may be of long duration, as the country offers splendid lines of defence.

Washington, Nov. 25—An extraordinary phase of the Panama affair that has not yet been made public relates to the efforts of the department of state to secure from Germany, France and Great Britain promises that they would not interfere in the affairs of the Isthmus of Panama should revolt against Colombia.

These overtures, according to reliable authority, were made before there was any public intimation that a revolt was likely. Our ambassadors were instructed to ascertain from the foreign ministers of the powers to whom they were accredited what would be their attitude if Panama threw off the yoke of Colombia and set up as an independent republic. Obviously the reports were satisfactory. The revolution occurred with what success has been demonstrated in Washington during the last two weeks.

Facts Allowed to Leak Out.

Nothing in the correspondence relating to the Panama revolution which Secretary Hay has sent to congress contained even a remote suggestion that the secretary had been in correspondence with European powers concerning the revolution before it occurred. An admission that such correspondence existed would have been tantamount to a confession that the administration was a party to the plans of the conspirators and adventurers in New York and on the isthmus, and such a confession is not expected. Nevertheless it is known to be a fact.

Secretary Hay was compelled for the purpose of maintaining harmony and to silence the fears of certain influential senators who saw in the isthmian affair danger of possible foreign complications to tell the truth. The information is now given upon the authority of on of these senators. The administration will probably not be keen to deny its authenticity because it is becoming rather proud of its conduct, and feels that it has received the endorsement of the people.

Moreover, it is beginning to be apparent that complications with Colombia are forthcoming, which will cause the public to lose sight of the events of the past two weeks and contemplate only the necessity of maintaining our national dignity against a declaration of war. That such a declaration is likely to emanate from Bogota is now admitted. The people of Colombia, according to all reports, have been aroused to a condition of warlike ardor that will be satisfied with nothing short of a conflict with this government.

The administration does not want a war. It will be too costly. An invasion of Colombia might be attended by consequences so grave that the president and his advisers do not like to contemplate them. They do not want a war, especially over the Panama canal enterprise, for that is already loaded to its fullest capacity with matters that are threatening to sink it.

Money Will Not Go to France.

About a year ago a correspondent for an eastern newspaper made an investigation for the purpose of determining what would be the result upon the finances of the United States of the removal of so vast a sum as $40,000,000 from the treasury to Paris, which is the head quarters of the French Panama Company. He presumed that the $40,000,000 would be paid to the French company direct. Among others he interviewed a very capable and experienced official, who usually possesses accurate knowledge of matters of this sort, and the official remarked dryly: "I don't think that very much of that money will ever leave the United States."

That is also the opinion of a great many others who have no especial information on the subject.

Not Likely to Detain Beaupre.

The possibility of the Colombians making Minister Beaupre a prisoner and holding him as a hostage is considered very remote. That sort of warfare is no longer countenanced, and to attempt it would be simply to invite an invasion that would only end at Bogota.

Minister Beaupre, it is believed, will be permitted to depart when he is ready. He had a letter granting him a leave of absence for several weeks, and in remaining in Bogota he is simply following the bent of his own inclinations.

CAR RIOTS IN CHICAGO

Many Serious Disturbances Took Place Yesterday

Chicago, Nov 23.—While preparations were being completed to-day for the opening of the State street cable linne, rioters were engaged in trying to put out of commission the four lines which the company has been operating on a limited scale. Trolley wires were cut in a half-dozen places on Halstead street and the cars on the line were delayed over an hour while repairs were being made under police protection. An effort was also made to blockade Archer avenue. Quantities of rocks were found to have been hauled in wagons and dumped on the tracks.

Five trains were started on the State street line.

A serious riot occurred at 41st and State streets when the trains arrived at that point. Many shots were fired by the police, and one man is believed to have been hit by a bullett while several were knocked down by the officers. The cars encountered obstacles all along the line. While the crews were removing obstructions from the tracks at 41st street a volley of stones were thrown from behind fences. The police charged the rioters with their revolvers. A running figh tensued, in which the police fired upon the mob.

By this time a crowd had collected about the cars and another charge by the police was made upon them before the obstruction could be removed.

At 29th street another mob blocked the cars and threw rocks. The police charged, beating many persons severely with their clubs.

TWENTY-SEVEN LABORERS AND TEN MINERS KILLED

By Fire and Explosion--Italian Navies Overwhelmed by Fire While They Slept

Johnstown, Penn., Nov. 24.—While 105 Italian railroad laborers were asleep in a shanty near Lily, on the Pennsylvania railroad, early to-day, the building caught fire, and before the foreigners could escape twenty-seven were burned to death and a score or more were seriously injured. The fire is supposed to have started from an overheated stove in the eastern end. The building burned like tinder and the flames were on the men before any of them were aroused. Then began a struggle for the outside and life. The men fought and scrambled for the doors and the weaker were crushed down and trampled under foot. Among those who escaped many bear marks of the fierce battle for life. A few got out of the small windows minus clothes and with their bodies cut by broken glass. Many of those who did get out left their savings of years in their trunks, which were in the building. Remembering this, as soon as they got outside they fought just as fiercely to get back. A few succeeded, and for the sake of their boardings gave their lives.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 24.—"Hill Farm Mine," the ill-fated, tonight added ten more victims to its black record. Just as the day shift had about completed its labors and were about to leave the mine at 6 o'clock, a terrific explosion of mine gas rent the interior of the mine, and nineteen miners, who were working in the vicinity, were thrown in all directions the roof came tumbling down and the close air of the [illegible] became stupefying. The men rushed in every direction, seeking means of escape, but only nine succeeded in reaching the pit mouth alive. These were picked up by the rescuing party in different stages of exhaustion after an hour of frantic search. The other ten, perhaps, never regained consciousness after the disaster. Their bodies were found lying in all shapes horribly burned when the rescuing party reached them shortly after ten o'clock.

Leamington, Nov. 24. — Thomas Whitehead, a hunter from Ohio, met death near Leamington on Friday night, as the result of a careless use of firearms. Whitehead, in company with Leslie Gow, of Leamington, was on his way home, when both barrels of Gow's gun was discharged into Whitehead's thigh, making a large wound. He bled to death before a physician could be secured.

A Detroit specialist who has 14 certificates and diplomas from medical colleges and boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes; so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has

He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interests of every man who suffers in this way to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. THE PANAMA REVOLT—A BRITISH VIEW

Herepath's Railway Journal says:—South American revolutions are so numerous, as a rule, they excite not quite so much attention as an English election turning on the fiscal question, but the Panama revolt against the State of Columbia is in a different category altogether, because of the hidden influences beneath the surface and the far-reaching importance of the interests at stake. The Panama Canal is the vital question involved, and the matter, therefore, becomes European, despite all the vague thunders of Munroeism. It was easy enough for the United States to buy up the interests of the old Panama Canal Company for a mere song. The price was something like 16 millions sterling for works that cost 50, and lives that could be numbered by the ten thousand. It was more difficult, however, to square Colombia regarding the concession. The fact is, the Colombian Government did not want the heavy fatherly, pushing and rather grasping hand of the United States on its territory. The United States Government would police the district, but the petition between armed occupation, no matter for what purpose, and real annexation is too thin for practical appreciation. The Colombians accordingly imposed more stringent concessions for the transfer of the old concession and the granting of an extended one. Finally, after a bargain was struck, the treaty was rejected by the Colombian Legislature, thus bringing the United States to a deadlock. In vain the rival Nicaraguan project was trotted out. That bogey was good enough for frightening the French shareholders, but the Colombian patriots did not care if Nicaragua were swept clean into the Atlantic so long as the Yankees kept clear of their territory. At a suspiciously opportune time the independence of the State of Panama has been proclaimed, and three United States men-of-war are hastening to Colon to preserve order, and probably to prevent the Colombian troops from invading the territory of the Panama State, thus virtually establishing nominal independence under United States protection. One pretext is that the Colombian warship, in bombarding Colon, did not wait for the expiration of the three hours' armistice, and a more solid one is the protection of the lives of the United States citizens, and of the Panama railroad, which is a United States concern. We thus see a chapter of history—by no means a very creditable one—made in the twinkling of an eye. Our interests are not immediately concerned. The control of the Canal in time of war was settled recently in a treaty which virtually gave the United States the upper hand for all practical purposes, and this present revolution will tear to tatters the thin veil of international guarantees, which the United States granted before the assets of the old Panama Canal Company were bought up—we might say confiscated. We cannot reproach the United States for putting into force the good old rule that "They should seize who have the power," but what may be demurred at is the hypocritical attitude adopted by Americans, not only in this, but in other matters, when their international policy, in Panama at any rate, cannot easily be distinguished from pure brigandage.

PLEDGING THE CANDIDATE

The Manufacturers Association proposes to make its influence felt in the next election. It is in favor of the raising of the tariff to a very considerable extent. They want a tariff, which, in the language of Mr. McNaught, a prominent member, will protect as effectively as the American tariff."
